Dean, stating that the A. T. P. "Doone" will shortly be seen in America, adds: "I take it as a great compliment to my choice that Mr. Goldwyn deems it worth while to make another film of the same subject. I can only wish him a similar box-office success."

Plans of the Home Office to issue new regulations governing the exhibition of films on non-flam base have received a serious check.

Magistrates in Jarrow recently refused to convict the proprietors of a miners' hall for an unlicensed exhibition, holding that the use of the non-flam took the show out of the act.

The official attitude is that non-flam is strictly inflammable in the meaning of the Cinematograph Act, but this contention is upset by the Jarrow decision.

The police have now decided not to appeal the case and it seems that new legislation will be necessary before the non-flam Soviet and other "subversive" films aimed at by the Government can be controlled.

The new schedule is divided into only eight "brackets." The previous tax scale, which brought a revenue to the province in 1934 of close to $1,000,000, was divided into no less than 16 "denominations" with all tickets up to 25 cents being exempt.

The new five-cent tax on tickets from 19 to 45 cents inclusive is considered a direct smash at the neighborhood theatres. The new assessment amounts to more than 26 per cent on the 19-cent admission ticket, while it works out to 20 per cent on the 25-cent ticket which formerly escaped any government charge.

Throttle Pushing

By H.E.N.

SOUTH CAROLINA — When a man bites a dog, it is still considered real news. But when a theatre, situated in a town with a population of 2,300, pulls plenty of customers from two cities, each with a population of 28,000 and 14 miles on both sides, that is something else again. This small town theatre, the Grand, at Greer, S. C., operated by Kramer and Bill Drace, has this distinction. The exploitation campaigns and beautiful fronts to merchandise their pictures would put many a metropolitan house to shame. Think of a theatre, seating 375 and obtaining a great bulk of its business from cities like Spartanburg and Greenville, S. C. These patrons do not drive 14 miles just because they like the Drace Bros. The secret of their success lies in the perfect appointment of their tiny theatre with its wonderful acoustical properties and the very latest in projection and sound. A mailing list of 1,000 is used on all pictures, together with large ads in both the local and surrounding town papers. In fact, we saw a copy of a Spartanburg paper with the Grand at Greer carrying the largest space. We forgot to tell you there is another theatre in Greer, the Rialto, operated by C. A. Hurlong.

GREENVILLE, S. C.—The Carroll is closed for three days a week while undergoing extensive alterations. Ed Carroll is busy and we suspicion that this is the first time he has ever been caught doing manual labor. They are enlarging the stage, putting in a washed air system, carpets and lighting fixtures. This house will use unit shows. Capt. W. E. Field, one of the real pioneers of the business down here, has leased the Branwood at W. Greenville.

INMAN, S. C.—We met, at this point, J. R. Wofford, local Ford dealer and operator of the Amuzu, who sits in the center of some 500,000 peach trees, as this is the home of the famous Piedmont peach. The outlook for a bumper crop is so good that J. R. will entirely remodel his theatre this summer.

GAFFNEY, S. C.—This town boasts of a real modern theatre, the Hamrick, owned by Lyman Hamrick, General Superintendent of the Hamrick chain cotton mills. Bryan M. Humphries is the local manager and told us that if he could only have a few more pictures like "Devil Dogs of the Air," "Bright Eyes," "County Chairman," "Little Minister," "Imitation of Life," the lot of an exhibitor would be a happy one. Why not?

SENECA, S. C.—A trip into the Piedmont hills would not be complete without calling on that charming couple, the Richardsons. Kenneth and the missus took us through their new theatre, the culmination of a dream that has been some 13 years in the making. Their new house will open May 1 and has been entirely built by local labor and contractors. This theatre will be known as the Richardson and will seat 500.

LIBERTY, S. C.—The Woodside Mills have curtailed operation here so the Liberty is not running its usual morning show. Harold H. Johnson, manager and owner, plans to remodel this house some time during the summer.

Mexicans Cooperate On Folklore Films

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, May 12.—Two folklore sound pictures, featuring regional costumes, music, singing and dancing, and intended to stimulate tourist interest, are being made by this country's first cooperative production society, Producciones Mexicanas Argos. It is made up of actors and actresses, technicians, newspaper men and others.

One picture is titled "Puebla, the Colonial Shrine of America," and the other, "Patzcuaro, the Lake of Dreams." The Puebla picture is being made in Puebla City, a historic town near here, and the other is being produced at Lake Patzcuaro, a picturesque waterway of Michoacan state.

Some Mexican scenics are being exported to Palestine and other Near Eastern countries. The government is sending only those pictures it deems top productions of the kind. Good response is reported.

Ohio Banks Showing Big Gains for Year

COLUMBUS, May 12.—Despite lamentations of state executives as to the depleted condition of the official exchequer, Ohio generally appears to be in good financial shape.

Report of Samuel H. Squires, state superintendent of banks, just released, shows an increase of $11,318,303 in resources and an increase of $8,595,153 in deposits in 483 licensed state-supervised banks for the first two months of this year.

Total resources increased $97,285,929 from March 31, 1934, while the increase in deposits for the same period amounted to $89,930,242.

Film men in the major keys throughout the state report business good at first run houses, although many of the subsequents complain that it is not keeping pace with last season.

Fulton Charges Denied

KANSAS CITY, May 12.—Charges of Mrs. Juliette E. Fulton, who petitioned the circuit court to appoint a receiver for five suburban theatres operated by her husband, William D. Fulton, are declared untrue and "totally without foundation" in an answer filed by Fulton.

Majors Block Kansas City Dual Choices

dualled. United Artists' position was that since it sells each feature individually, the playing arrangement is a matter for individual determination between the exhibitor and the company. Means wrote to the sales heads himself when they delayed their replies to local exchange managers, who had submitted the plan to their home offices at the exhibitors' request.

Prior to submission to the distributors, the plan was agreed upon as a compromise between independents and Fox Midwest. The I. T. O. originally demanded the privilege to double all product without limitation, but with a clearance setback of 28 days. This was rejected by Fox Midwest, which countered with a proposal for a release committee to select dual bills. The independents agreed and a five-man committee was formed representative of independents and Fox Midwest, with distributor membership hinging on acceptance by the companies. The idea was the committee would meet periodically with individual exchange heads and pick the features for twin bills, product so chosen to be played 28 days after singles' spot. The independents agreed that none of the big pictures were to be dualled.

While the distributors were pondering the plan, W. D. Fulton, operating five suburban theatres, served them a written notice attacking the proposal as collusion and stating he intended to defend his theatres' rights under their contracts and "the laws of our government."

Though some independent subsequents may encounter a dearth of double bill product as a result of the distributors' action, it is said that some 250 features are available from local exchanges, including independents, for the purpose. Columbia and Universal place no restrictions and Warners permit dualling of features played with a stage show at first runs. With these exceptions, all major product that receives a first run must be played singly at the subsequents. Several companies allow doubling of last year's product, but some exclude 10-cent theatres.

Kansas House Uses Radio

KANSAS CITY, May 12.—The radio amateur hour vogue has been adopted by the Granada, Lawrence, Kan., which is staging the programs broadcast by WREN in that city Saturday nights at 9 o'clock. This is the first radio program to be broadcast regularly from a theatre stage in this territory. The Granada is a Commonwealth circuit house.

Barham to Hamilton

HAMILTON, O., May 12.—Tracy Barham, general manager Southio Theatres, Inc., has appointed Nat Turberg as manager of the local Paramount. He succeeds George Fetick, who has been made booker for the circuit, which controls the Paramount, Palace and Rialto here, the Paramount and Strand, Middletown, O., and the Palace and Marion, at Marion, O.

Similar earphones have been installed in a portion of the balcony at the Hickory Theatre, St. Joseph, Mo.

NEW ORLEANS, May 12.—Midnight revivals are being tried hereabouts. Harry S. McLeod brought "It Happened One Night" back to the St. Charles, using only ordinary newspaper lineage for the announcement and did excellent business.

"Fury" Pulls $19,000, Top In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, May 12.—After an excellent Easter holiday business, there wasn't a lot left here last week and takings were under expectations. Even "Black Fury," which had a lot of local interest and came in on the heels of an outstanding publicity campaign, didn't develop, winding up at the Stanley with $19,000.

While it got off to a slow start, "Naughty Marietta" at the Penn kept on building as the week progressed and finished with $18,500.

Everywhere else they were singing the blues. At the Alvin, "All the King's Horses" hit a new low, getting about $3,700. The house intended to yank it after four days, bringing in "The Bride of Frankenstein" two days ahead of schedule and had already advertised to that effect when it was learned a print couldn't be had in time. Although it received great notices, "Thunder in the East" never got started at the Fulton and got only $2,500, while "Mary Jane's Pa" and "Hold 'Em Yale" at the Warner did around $4,250.

Key City Takes Skyrocket, But Take Quick Drop Later

Immediately following Easter key city grosses skyrocketed beyond the highs reached last September and came within a few hundred thousand dollars of the peak attained New Year's week. Since then they have fallen back to the pre-Lenten level.

For the week ending April 25-26, 142 theatres in 22 key cities grossed $1,421,800. The following week, ending May 2-3, 140 houses reported $1,250,132. The decline was uniform except in seven spots—Denver, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, Portland, Providence and Washington—where slight increases were registered.

Favor Pettengill Bill

BOSTON, May 12.—Following instigation by Allied leaders, the Motion Picture Council of the Boston Federation of Women's Club has gone on record in favor of the Pettengill bill and is so advising congressmen.

Short Subjects

"Okay Toots"

(Roach-M-G-M)

This is by far the funniest comedy turned out by Charley Chase in some time. It has everything; a good story, grand comedy and is packed with humorous sequences. The yarn has Chase discontented with the way his wife runs their home when he finds himself suddenly living her part of their life and she his. The complications that arise are hilarious, particularly when the characters' voices speak for Chase has his wife. Recommended. Production Code Seal, No. 726. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Old Sawbones"

(Columbia)

This short has the always reliably funny Andy Clyde going through his paces as a small town doctor. The situations are amusing. Clyde is out for the position of county physician and the town board, unable to agree on an appointment, decide that the doctor with the most patients in a week gets the post. An epidemic of measles in a school helps him and he wins by attending the rival's wife when she gives birth to quintuplets. Recommended. No production code seal. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"Laughing with Medbury In the Old Days"

(Columbia)

John P. Medbury again delivers his dependable gags in this latest effort. These shorts are always an amusing part of any program, although the gags are not always so keen. From Washington of 25 years ago and the old styles rampant at the time he gags his way through to an early Pickford picture. Recommended. No production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Little New York"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

New York City, as it is today, with the camera searching out odd spots that may still be found in and about its highways and byways is here presented. The reel opens with a typical shot of the skyline and then travels to all sections of the town. The Ghetto, Harlem, Sutton Place, Wall Street and Park Ave., are also covered thoroughly.

As the town appears on the screen in pictorial review a very amusing and explanatory dialogue is carried on by the Easy Aces who are presumably sitting in the theatre.

Recommended. No production code seal. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Peace Conference"

(Columbia)

This cartoon contains little that is humorous or novel. Krazy Kat appears as a sort of peace angel when he attempts to pacify a stormy conference. Not succeeding very well, he brings a special musical gun into action and shoots some cheer into the gathering. Mars then comes down to stir up things. He is foiled by Krazy Kat and done away with by the same gun. Production Code Seal No. 160. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Loew Talking Partnerships For Chicago

rangement with Jones. Loew's is also considering taking over a number of houses competitive to Essaness and Schoenstadt. Several deals are in work, but far from the consummation point.

While the Loew plan is to blanket all subsequent run situations, it is variously reported that the circuit will have 22 theatres. Officially, circuit heads declare there is no definite number of theatres to be built and acquired agreed upon.

Unconfirmed reports have it that eight exhibitor holdouts are on the verge of accepting M-G-M's new flexible policy. The distributor's sales policy, according to insiders, will have from four to 12 pictures on percentage and to be divided into three different groups for exhibitors to choose. One of the groups, it is said, will call for four specials at 35 per cent with the playing time to be worked out between the exchange manager and exhibitor. The second plan presumably would call for eight features on percentage to be divided into two groups of four, one group at 35 per cent and the second at 30 per cent with playing arrangements to be worked out. The third plan is reported to call for 12 percentage pictures to be divided into two groups of six, with 35 per cent for the first half dozen and 30 per cent for the last six, playing time to be negotiated.

For the 1934-35 season, Essaness could not buy from M-G-M unless the circuit agreed to 14 pictures on percentage. This, Edwin Levinson, president of Essaness, refused to accept. Whether Essaness will get together on 1935-36 is questionable because of the circuit's refusal to do business with Felix Feist during the current season. When Levinson was in New York recently, he talked to Feist, but got nowhere on a deal.

Plan a Nationwide School Film Study

Nationwide use of current pictures in teaching history, English, social science and other subjects in high schools is contemplated by the Department of Secondary Education of the National Education Ass'n., according to Ernest D. Lewis, head of this department.

Planned study guides of selected films have been made and are being sent to heads of 18,000 high schools and to private and parochial schools.

Guides have been issued for two years by the N. E. A., and the success of these has led to the extension of the movement. Previewing and advisory committees appointed by Lewis are expanding these. The first of the new guides covers "Les Miserables." "Call of the Wild," "Midsummer Night's Dreams," and "The Crusades" is to be included soon.

Lewis has expressed his appreciation to Will H. Hays for his cooperation.

The previewing and advisory committee includes Mary Allan Abbott, Walter Barnes, William F. Bauer, Philip W. L. Cox, Ellis Haworth, Max J. Berzberg, Rita Hochheimer, Frederick H. Law, Ernest D. Lewis, Paul B. Mann, Chester Mathewson, J. H. Morgart, Grace Fisher Ramsey, Marion C. Sheridan, James G. Sigman, Trentwell Mason White, George C. Wood and William Lewin.

Looking 'Em Over

"Our Little Girl"

(Fox)

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Shirley Temple's amazing talents seem to develop with each new picture. She is something more than cute in this one; she has scenes that some emotional actresses of mature years could envy. Whether she is a freak or a genius makes no difference; she has undoubtedly given another performance that means money to exhibitors.

The story concerns the wedded life of a young doctor whose interest in his medical experiments cause him to neglect a sensitive wife. Joel McCrea is the doctor and Rose Mary Ames is the wife. McCrea encourages her to develop recreation of her own and she takes up riding with Lyle Talbot. McCrea's nurse (Erin O'Brien-Moore) is in love with him, but he fails to reciprocate, although there is a tinge of jealousy in his wife's behavior.

They drift apart until the time arrives when she announces she is going away to get a divorce. McCrea is hurt. Shirley senses the break, but doesn't understand it. The emotional angles reach an acute stage when she tries to run away and is eventually found at a picnic spot where her father and mother had been in the habit of taking her. McCrea and Miss Ames are reunited when they find her there.

It's a commonplace story, but it works out so logically, with the child so dominating the scenes that it becomes gripping. The appeal is complete for both adults and children. It can be chalked up as another box-office natural.

Production Code Seal No. 834. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Convention Girl"

(First Division)

Filmed against the background of Atlantic City and hinting at the naughty doings of conventioneers in that seaside resort, this picture goes wide of the entertainment mark at the hands of Director Luther Reed and misses with plenty to spare.

Rose Hobart, Herbert Rawlinson and Weldon Heyburn are convincing in their parts but more than their efforts were needed to make the film click. The photography by Nicholas Rogalli is only fair.

The yarn, adapted from a novel by George Boyle, has Miss Hobart the chief "supplier" of girls for conventionites. Heyburn is in love with her, but she resents his being a gambler. Rawlinson enters the picture when he enlists Miss Hobart's aid in reclaiming his sales manager, who is drinking himself under because of her lack of affection. Rawlinson then gives Miss Hobart a check to pay his manager's bills but it falls into the hands of her weak nephew, Toni Reed, who tries to blackmail Rawlinson. The complications thus arising are numerous but all ends well when Rawlinson gives Heyburn a job and thus paving the way for his wedding to Miss Hobart.

Others in the cast are the Ned Wayburn Dancing Girls, Isham Jones and his orchestra, Sally O'Neill, Shemp Howard and Nancy Kelly.

As the minor half of dual bills this film might be acceptable.

Production Code Seal No. 098. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Circuits Get Call to Talk On Giveaways

Screeno, Bank Night and Other Violations Up

All major and independent circuits in Greater New York will be represented today at a hearing before the local grievance board to clean up Screeno, Bank Nights, two-for-ones and various other forms of reduced admissions.

The local board decided to call the meeting last week when Loew's brought up the Majestic and Bridge on charges of holding Lucky and bank night. Both defendants retaliated by declaring "Loew's hands were not clean" and that the major circuit should stop giving away pies and inviting children free into its theatres after joining a "David Copperfield" parade.

Chairman George F. Thompson also wants to attempt to eliminate amateur talent night. It was felt that although Loew's was involved in the complaint at hand, all circuits should be called in and warned about continuing code violations.

connections with major British producers which will assure wide use of Technicolor facilities in England. Sir Adrian, with whom Kalmus conferred in Hollywood, is on board ship nearing England with details of the arrangement.

Technicolor will retain control of the foreign resources, Kalmus said, "to the extent of assuring world wide consistency of all factors considered fundamental, such as patents, quality and prices." His departure for Europe may be delayed beyond May 29.

English film companies have been desirous of making use of natural color, Kalmus continued, and are now ready for the Technicolor process after experimenting with other methods which, he said, were found not up to the standard set by perfected Technicolor. He asserted that while some progress in color films has been made in England, France and Germany, none of the processes developed abroad measure up to the proven process as exemplified in a number of films produced in America with Technicolor in the last year.

Kalmus anticipates that in the forthcoming season tints will extensively supplant black-and-white, following the trail blazing of Pioneer's "Becky Sharp," to be released through Radio.

"All studios are waiting to see that picture, the first feature-length film to be made with the three-compound color process," said Kalmus. "The process is now perfected, and the producers can go ahead with color with the assurance they are obtaining the best yet developed. Heretofore they have been averse to color because they have not been quite sure of its practicability in features.

"When a producer sinks a half million dollars into a film," he continued, "he wants to be sure first that he will get a print worth the investment.

"Everyone in Hollywood is seeking new production values, and color is an answer to their problem."

and in America. In addition, the company will have the output of Reunion Films, Ltd., a British producing organization headed by Victor Creer, who becomes managing director of Anglo-American. For American release on the new season's schedule Anglo-American plans to deliver 12 pictures from its producing sources, the first to be a successful French comedy which will be remade in England in about two weeks under an American director, it was said.

The productions will be budgeted at from $150,000 to $250,000 each, Dixey said. A principal aim in pictures sent here and in those selected for distribution by Anglo-American abroad will be their propaganda value in increasing international good will, particularly between America and Britain, Dixie, who has been a member of Parliament for the past 15 years, said. He stated, however, that there was no governmental financing of Anglo-American which, he said, had ample capital mostly from business and banking sources outside the film industry. He added that the company would have identified with it prominent British business men. Dixey was one of the joint founders, with Alexander Korda, of London Films. He said that the company would avoid circuit expansion and would have only one show window, to be located in the West End of London.

Dixey denied that C. M. Woolf, who recently resigned as joint managing director of Gaumont British, would be associated with the new company, although he added that their relations with Woolf were "of the friendliest."

With him on the current trip are Peter Witt, foreign manager of the new company, and Gulio Nicholas, financial associate and acting chairman of Independent Producing Studios, Ltd., an associated company which finances independent producers in England. The latter company, Nicholas said, stands ready to finance independent American producers who are willing to produce in England.

Hess Wins $5,200; Harrison to Appeal

Harrison's Reports, by a jury on the conclusion of trial yesterday of the former's libel suit against the publisher. An appeal will be taken today, according to Jacob Schechter, counsel for Harrison.

The jury was instructed by state Supreme Court Judge Phillip McCook. The verdict represented $5,000 punitive damages and $200 financial damages, although no financial damages had been asked by the plaintiff.

In summing up for the jury, Louis Nizer, counsel for Hess, asked for punitive damages as a jury expression of its attitude toward what Nizer described as "irresponsible journalism." He contended that Harrison's erroneous publication of Hess's name as one of those indicted in a Canadian investigation of film trade practices, the basis of the libel action, was "malicious because 124 names were mentioned in the indictment and Harrison selected for publication the names of Hess, Will H. Hays, C. C. Pettijohn and Adolph Zukor, although they were not indicted. Harrison, Nizer recounted, then testified that all four were regarded by the publisher, personally, as "men of the highest standing and reputation."

Schechter told the jury that Harrison had committed an "innocent mistake" after having been misled by a story printed in a Canadian newspaper, and added that a complete retraction had been published by Harrison when the mistake was brought to his attention.

Judge McCook gave Harrison 24 hours in which to post bond and file an appeal. This will be done today, Schechter said, adding that he regarded the verdict as "too severe."

Fox Going to Bat in Campi-Leonia Action

Fox Film intends to fight injunction proceedings instituted by Peter and Adam Adams of the Park Lane, Palisades Park, N. J., against the company for servicing Leonia, Leonia, in accordance with a recent Campi clearance decision. Papers signed by Vice Chancellor Campbell of Paterson are returnable May 20.

The Fox legal department intends to engage a New Jersey attorney to represent the company. Julius Charnow has already engaged David T. Wilentz to represent the Leonia.

Last Monday, H. A. Toner, representing the Adams Brothers, withdrew his clearance and zoning complaint against the Leonia. At the time he indicated he would take court action because the local board could not give him relief within 48 hours. The Campi decision gave the Leonia the right to play seven days after Englewood and seven days ahead of Palisades Park, which previously had a week's protection over Charnow.

Some distributors hold that they will not abide by the code order and serve Park Lane according to contracted clearance. However, Fox, which is the first company to serve Charnow, maintains that the code supersedes contracts and that the Leonia is entitled to the company's pictures a week after Englewood.

Incidentally, Fox was threatened with a suit if it did not serve the Leonia in accordance with the code decision, so no matter which way the company decided to turn it had a suit on its hands.

Erpi Head Testifies In Anti-Trust Suit

WILMINGTON, May 13.—John E. Otterson, Erpi head, testified today in the trust suit brought by General Talking Pictures and Duovac Radio against his company, Western Electric and A. T. & T. Telling of the resistance of exhibitors in switching to sound for fear their business might be harmed, he said he completed negotiations on behalf of Western Electric with Walter J. Rich and Warners to develop the talkers.

Otterson said Harry Warner talked with Adolph Zukor regarding the purchase of Vitaphone by Paramount in an effort to develop talking films and get the whole industry behind the new development.

Another witness was George C. Cullinan, vice-president of the Graybar Electric Co., who said he was the first to interest the industry in Western Electric equipment for the commercial production of films. He was general sales manager of Western Electric in 1921-26.

The venture will not conflict with Ross's new contract with Universal. The company will have private financing.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Public Hero Number One"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, May 13.—Another blazing yarn of "G Men" ripped from the front pages and offering a fresh slant and taut romance is Leo's roar for the Federal "dicks."

With unerring suspense it follows Chester Morris in a jail break, paralleling San Quentin's spectacular release, and thus gaining the confidence of Joseph Calleia, Purple Gang chief. Dillinger's face lifting, and his last stand in a Chicago theatre alley are tightly woven into the film, which sweeps along with sinister and melodramatic bounce.

Lionel Barrymore, outcast doctor of the gang; Paul Kelly, Federal chief; Jean Arthur, Calleia's sister, for whom Morris falls in tracking down her brother; Lewis Stone, prison warden and Morris carry the brunt of the story skillfully and convincingly. Calleia's first screen role as the merciless killer shines. Miss Arthur, in a romantic vise, gives warmth to a human performance. Both should be in demand.

J. Walter Ruben's direction has virility with a fine balance of action, comedy, plot and romance. Wells Root's screen play from Ruben's and his own story stresses entertainment. Lucien Hubbard produced distinctively.

As a highly effective gang yarn with dramatic twists, M-G-M's contribution to the "G Men" cycle looks like a clean hit.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

HOLLYWOOD, May 13.—"I certainly do want to buy Pathe," E. B. Derr, former production head of the company, said today in answer to a report that he had submitted a bid to Frank F. Kolbe, new president of Pathe.

"Assuming that Pathe would liquidate," Derr said, "I submitted my proposal to Kolbe, who refused it, asserting that Pathe was not liquidating."

Derr added that he believes Pathe has the background to enable it to be built into one of the biggest producing companies in the business.

Officials of Pathe here declined to comment yesterday on the E. B. Derr offer for the company other than to say the bid was being given no consideration.

PITTSBURGH, May 13.—Although 20th Century is insisting upon higher scales for "Les Miserables" everywhere, the Penn is playing the picture at regular prices. They range from 25 cents at opening to 40 cents at night.

The producers acceded to the Penn's plea when the management insisted it would be bad business to raise the tariff just a week after a managerial agreement had been reached ending the four-months price war here.

Reade Urges Rental Shift To End Gifts

Says Indies Need Plan Used for Circuits

Advocating a national allocation of film rentals for independents along the same lines major circuits buy, Walter Reade, local operator, yesterday told the New York grievance board that the only way exhibitors could make money without resorting to giveaways was by the adoption of such a sales policy by distributors.

Reade's suggestion was that independents pay a certain percentage of the gross, plus overages after a certain figure is reached, which would enable them to make a profit after paying expenses of the theatres. He added that exhibitors today are oversold because of their contractual obligations and cannot survive unless the

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

MERRILY does the wrangle go forward. RKO's decision, based on its disapproval of the type of advertising which, by this time, has become identified with the Music Hall, to plug "The Informer" along lines which cling more closely to the accepted type of theatre copy, has launched dissertations and some argument in wholesale lots around the town. Did the $8,000 (approximate) spent help or hurt the picture? Would adherence to the Music Hall idea of white space, type and illustration refinements, have turned the trick? . . .

The answer, to this manner of thinking, is supplied by another query which, for lack of anything better might just as well be "Who knows?" A fact in the situation, not disputable, is that "The Informer" will finish tonight with an unsatisfactory gross on its seven-day run. Any effort, however, to fasten the lack of results on RKO's bold, black and noisy ad campaign seem to us to be stretching it a bit far. Milling around on the inside is the report the theatre did not want to play the picture, holding it ran afoul of the family type attraction which the Music Hall has been running on its screen; that RKO, reasons unknown, was in a position to force acceptance and playdate as well. . . .

The career of the film over at Rockefeller Center is strangely disappointing. Heralded by unanimous reviews such as too few pictures are accorded, the public response, which is another way of talking about the dollars-and-cents response has fallen considerably below that which the attraction, on its own merits, rates. For, while there may be those who agree or not with the mood and tempo of the advertising behind it, there can be no disagreement on the inherent values in the picture itself. . . .

"The Informer," dealing with an episode in the Black and Tan Rebellion in harassed Ireland back in '22, is one of the most powerful dramas ever to emerge from the Hollywood picture factories. It tells the story of a slow-witted, lumbering Irishman who turns Judas and by informing the authorities of the whereabouts of his friend collects £20 as a reward. His distintegration in the twelve hours that elapse between his fight with his conscience and his death at the hands of a member of the revolutionary party is a magnificent piece of acting and directing. . . .

Victor McLaglen plays the part of the informer. John Ford, the man who made the memorable "Lost Patrol" in which McLaglen sank a memorable claim stake in the art of histrionics, directed. All the orchids collectible by Winchell are his for the job he turned in. There are other performances of high merit, restraint, and humor by Una O'Connor, Heather Angel, Wallace Ford, J. M. Kerrigan and Donald Meek to furnish their bit in making of the whole a picture of which Radio and the industry may well be proud. . . .

Britishers to Aid Show

Consolidated Keeps Manager Bonus Plan

Following success of the system during a six-week drive, Laurence Bolognino, head of Consolidated Amusements, has permanently adopted a bonus plan for managers of 17 theatres in the circuit.

According to the plan, now in effect, managers get a percentage of their salaries against increased grosses. The normal gross of each house is established by figuring overhead, interest on profits and other charges. The percentage in the bonus plan is approximately two.

As a result of the plan, managers drawing $50 a week in a theatre whose normal income is $3,000 a week get $8 if the house hits $3,400.

In addition to the routine advertising budget, a floating budget is allowed to the extent of $50, which managers can spend as they see fit after campaigns are submitted and passed upon by the home office. Immediate decisions are given. A monthly $10 prize is also awarded for the manager who spends the advertising allowance to the best advantage, and at the same time shows a saving in the budget.

Normal grosses are revised with the seasons. A summer gross schedule is now being set up. In addition to the bonus plan, a point drive for savings in operation during the warm months is being put into effect. For each $1 saved, the manager is given a point at the end of the week. For each point he gets a percentage of the savings.

Strictly Business, Gallup's Ampa Aim

Bruce Gallup intends to set himself up as a "czar" of the Ampa, devoting his time to the development of talent within the organization and industry.

Gallup is not interested in open meetings for the purpose of putting on a show. He wants the members to get down to business and do something constructive both for the men in the association and the industry in general.

The Columbia advertising head doesn't want cliques, "soft soapers" and "yes men" around him. He wants hard workers who will put the Ampa over on a constructive basis next year. Ballyhooing stars for the benefit of outsiders and providing members with entertainment is out. It's to be a business organization and Gallup will hand out the orders, he says.

Van Beuren to Hold Four of Its Series

Van Beuren Corp. is definitely set to include "Dumb Bell Letters," "Vagabond Adventures," "Ace High Pictures" and the "Rainbow Parade Color Cartoon" series in the 1935-36 program. Other series are under consideration.

WITH LOVE AND KISSES!

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Public Hero Number One"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, May 13.—Another blazing yarn of "G Men" ripped from the front pages and offering a fresh slant and taut romance is Leo's roar for the Federal "dicks."

With unerring suspense it follows Chester Morris in a jail break, paralleling San Quentin's spectacular release, and thus gaining the confidence of Joseph Calleia, Purple Gang chief. Dillinger's face lifting, and his last stand in a Chicago theatre alley are tightly woven into the film, which sweeps along with sinister and melodramatic bounce.

Lionel Barrymore, outcast doctor of the gang; Paul Kelly, Federal chief; Jean Arthur, Calleia's sister, for whom Morris falls in tracking down her brother; Lewis Stone, prison warden and Morris carry the brunt of the story skillfully and convincingly. Calleia's first screen role as the merciless killer shines. Miss Arthur, in a romantic vise, gives warmth to a human performance. Both should be in demand.

J. Walter Ruben's direction has virility with a fine balance of action, comedy, plot and romance. Wells Root's screen play from Ruben's and his own story stresses entertainment. Lucien Hubbard produced distinctively.

As a highly effective gang yarn with dramatic twists, M-G-M's contribution to the "G Men" cycle looks like a clean hit.

Dent Here with 12 For American Sale

"The Conqueror," with Mathewson Lang; "April Blossoms," with Richard Tauber; "Red Wagon," with Charles Bickford, Greta Nissen and Raquel Torres; "Dance Band," with Buddy Rogers.

Dent plans to rent a Broadway house for invitation showings of the pictures. He will take a theatre on a week's lease and exhibit a different picture every night of the week. The company's sales policy will be decided by the reception the pictures are given, he asserted.

B.I.P. will make 25 films a year, 15 of which should be suitable for the American market, Dent stated. As a result of the recent merger between B.I.P. and Associated British Cinemas, the company now has 240 theatres. Ten of the houses were acquired three months ago. Influenced by this big circuit, one of the largest in England, Dent said the company has decided to drop $100,000 productions for films which will cost from $250,000 to $400,000. On March 31 last, he said, the company paid a four per cent interim dividend. This dividend is a first dividend before the annual six per cent is paid.

John Maxwell, chairman of the board, plans to leave for New York in 10 days. Dent would not explain the purpose of Maxwell's trip other than that the top line executive wanted to visit this country.

Reisman Reports Improvement

Phil Reisman, foreign sales head for RKO Radio, declared business in England, France, Belgium, Italy and Spain was very good. He said he made no changes while abroad and that the two-month tour was "routine." He expects to have from six to eight foreign representatives attend the company's annual sales meeting in Chicago June 17-19. Reisman added there were no plans for RKO production abroad.

Robert Schless, continental general manager for Warners, arrived on his first trip in seven and a half years. He brought his family along for a vacation before he goes to the coast to attend the company's sales conclave on the coast June 9-13. He did not care to discuss conditions abroad, holding that he was on a vacation and wanted to forget business for a while.

Benn W. Levy, playwright and author, was a passenger on the same boat. He is en route to the Paramount studios to work on an adaptation for Ernst Lubitsch. Levy said he closed the one-picture deal by cable and did not know the title of the film. He is working on a play, untitled and unfinished, which he plans to complete on his return to England after he finishes his Paramount contract. He leaves for the coast in a few days.

Ruht Chatterton said she will make "Feather in Her Hat" and "Modern Lady" for Columbia on a two-picture deal. She said there is no option in the pact and her plans after the duo are uncertain.

the early trial, Federal Judge John C. Knox declared that "whatever the degree of importance of the action, the fact is that the issues involved concern hundreds, if not thousands, of theatres, restaurants, hotels, broadcasting stations and others. Hence, from this standpoint the government's view of the importance of the suit is not without merit."

Judge Knox denied Ascap's motion for leave to take the depositions of defense witnesses in various parts of the country, holding that if Ascap is unable to procure witnesses who can appear at the trial it has other recourses under the law.

The government's suit attacks Ascap as a monopoly and seeks to have its rate fixing methods declared illegal.

of a settlement with Lee H. Hamlin, an objecting creditor, for the full-face value of his two claims plus interest, totaling approximately $1,700.

This action followed the dismissal by the court yesterday of a petition by Hamlin asking for a review of the sale. Today's development is the final step in the reorganization of Fox West Coast, and practically all that remains is the formal discharge from bankruptcy, which is expected by June 1.

Hamlin and others objecting to the sale have been allowed 10 days to file an amended petition in their suit seeking to impress a lien on the theatre companies' assets on behalf of General Theatres Equipment bondholders.

The trustees' final report will be filed in about two weeks.

B. F. Shipment, attorney representing reorganization interests, returned to New York tonight after several weeks here.

Fox Midwest Goes Amateur In a Big Way

KANSAS CITY, May 14.—As one of a series of business promotions, Fox Midwest is going in for amateur nights on a large scale. Would-be radio artists will vie at 35 Fox theatres in this immediate territory, and beginning May 18 the finalists will perform over Radio Station WDAF from the stage of the first run Uptown. The contest will last six weeks.

Winners of the six final broadcasts are to be awarded an expense-paid trip to New York and a possible chance for an audition at one of the large chain stations in the east. Broadcasts from the Uptown will be from 11:30 to 12 midnight on Saturday night, in the nature of a special show. All tryouts will be before an audience.

The Katz Drug Co., dominant retail drug chain in this area, is tied into the stunt and will devote large space in its regular newspaper ads. Entry blanks are distributed through the stores.

Otterson in Denial Of Trust Violation

WILMINGTON, May 14.—Denial of the charges made by General Talking Pictures and Duovac Radio in their anti-trust suit against Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T. was voiced from the stand today in U. S. District Court here by John E. Otterson, Erpi head. Sidney R. Kent, Fox Film president, was another witness of the day.

Otterson denied he ever told Max A. Schlesinger, head of General Talking Pictures, he would have to take the equipment of the defendants exclusively before the product of any of Erpi's recording licensees could be obtained. He said he never asked Schlesinger to desist from making deals for DeForest equipment, denying he caused William Fox to drop negotiations with DeForest after $100,000 had been deposited. Otterson said he had not been behind a plot to force DeForest out of business.

Otterson said he failed to recall a single instance where the defendants tried to prevent the distribution of film to houses not equipped with Erpi sound. He denied the defendants were parties to any agreements regarding the distribution of the product of Erpi licensees. It was admitted by him that he refused to install Erpi equipment in South African theatres for Schlesinger because the order in his estimation was not big enough to send men that far.

The Erpi head asserted he had had talks with officials of a number of producing companies in an effort to interest them in talking pictures with the idea of forming a cooperatively owned corporation to buy out Vitaphone.

Kent testified that when the Vitaphone deal fell through a producers' committee was organized to secure an equipment company to manufacture talking picture apparatus, one with big enough resources to take care of any patent litigation that might arise. The committee, he said, tried to make a deal with Erpi but nothing developed.

Reade Urges Rental Shift To End Gifts

"poison gas" is administered. He asserted that in many instances rentals run from 50 to 100 per cent of the grosses and that some of his New Jersey houses have not shown a profit in five years.

The meeting was called by the local board in an effort to eliminate various games, allegedly in violation of the code, and wares distributed free in theatres.

Reade blamed protection by major circuits as one of the reasons for giveaways. He related that in one of his New Jersey houses costing $125,000 he has to wait from 30 to 90 days after first run. His subsequent run admissions are the same as first run.

"Can you imagine the impudence of a distributor insisting on 35 per cent of the gross on a picture which plays third and fourth run?

"You wouldn't expect to buy last week's newspaper tomorrow and pay the same price. In fact you wouldn't go to General Motors and buy a new car and accept a second hand Chevrolet," he said.

"Neither would you buy Munsey's of last September for the full price unless you got something with it," he declared. "Some artificial stimulus is needed," Reade asserted. "Dishes are only a 60-day tonic. After two months, crockery is given away instead. Then radios and after that something new. If you stop this practice you will throttle the subsequent run exhibitor.

Says Would End Giveaways

"Every exhibitor will agree to cut out these gags if he can buy product on a national allocation of the gross receipts system as major circuits do," he contended.

Reade pointed out that "the Roxy offers the biggest bag of gumdrops to children for 15 cents." The theatre "is in receivership and doesn't pay Federal taxes or interest," he said. He added that the Waldorf, Arena and Ziegfeld cannot meet the Roxy price.

"I don't believe 50 theatres will be built in the next 10 years," he asserted. "There is no reason why independents cannot buy on a national allocation. If the same privilege is afforded independents, there is no doubt they will get out of the furniture and crockery business."

Reade said he had been at Nicholas M. Schenck's home several times when the M-G-M and Loew's head intimated that M-G-M had no desire to oversell.

David Loew, representing Loew's, stated that unless independents stop giving away articles the Loew circuit would go for the idea on a wholesale scale. He said there was no desire on the part of the circuit to adopt such a policy, but it would be forced to do so unless subsequent run exhibitors stopped. In regard to complaints made against the circuit, Loew said that if any exhibitor has a grievance he could bring it to his attention and he would see that the practice was halted.

Loew said the giveaways were brought about by double features, and because exhibitors play duals distributors must resort to cheaper pictures.

At this point, Reade interrupted and said: "I'll give a benefit for distributors at the Madison Square Garden on Labor Day and Loew's would get the cup."

Loew answered: "Fortunately, we don't need a benefit."

Tom Murray of the Century Circuit was then asked for a suggestion. He said that distribution of premiums usually starts by agreement between competitors and then spreads like a disease. He added there is no police department for the industry, but Century was willing to go along on whatever plan was adopted. He referred to the Los Angeles situation where admissions have been increased from 15 to 40 cents in anticipation of a clearance schedule, adding that because of this Paramount has increased its revenue 33 per cent in that branch.

John O'Connor of RKO was the next speaker. He said the circuit was ready to cooperate. "If anyone has a grievance against us, let him call it to our attention and the practice will be stopped," he said.

Laurence Bolognino of Consolidated Amusements stated that distribution of premiums is just as bad as cutting admissions in any other form. He said his circuit was forced into the practice in an effort to offset his competitors.

"We charge the same admissions as first runs and pay as high in rentals. If we don't do something to save our skins, we don't know where we'll land," he said.

Harry Brandt, president of the I. T. O. A., suggested a round robin of all independent and major circuit representatives in a move for a general agreement to eliminate premiums and games and increase admissions.

Harry Brandt Offers a Plan

He blamed the giveaway condition on the protection for major circuits and low admissions. "Subsequent run exhibitors have such low admissions that they cannot be further reduced and have to resort to premiums to compete with the big fellow."

Melvin Albert said that the solution was in giving the independents a better break on product. He said the sponsors of Screeno and Lucky would not stand for interference by the board. He also thought nothing would come out of the meeting. He accused RKO and Loew of calling the session to protect their own interests, but was instantly corrected by George Thompson, impartial man and chairman, who said that the conclave was sponsored by the board as a whole in an effort to clear up the whole local practice.

Stewart MacDonald of Warners said the circuit was fully in accord with elimination of chance games. Larry Kent of Skouras Theatres asserted that low admissions have brought about the practices complained of and the solution is in boosting admissions.

Sidney Justin stated that the Paramount does not resort to any of the practices outlined.

Louis Geller, a member of the board, asked Reade if a realignment of clearance would help. Reade said it wouldn't.

Casey struck a final note, declaring that the only way to eradicate the various practices is to wipe out the causes of reduced admissions.

Irving Greenfield, attorney for Loew's, defended an attack by Albert on Campi's action in giving Loew's preference on an appeal where the circuit was involved in a "pay envelope" complaint against Brandt's Audubon. He vindicated John C. Flinn, declaring he sent a letter to Campi asking for preference as is customary in any court of law.

About 50 attended, including Flinn, Louis Frisch, Leon Rosenblatt, Leon Netter, Frank Damis, John Benas, Leo Justin, Al Suchman, Charles McDonald, Louis Goldberg, John Manheimer and Eugene Picker.

Action by the board was deferred until tomorrow morning when the board will reconvene.

Southern California Bank Nights Spread

day, according to Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., owners of bank nights. Over 20 theatres have started bank operations within the last two weeks, according to these figures. Several exhibitors who formerly lodged bank night complaints with the local board are now operating banks in opposition.

Every house in Pasadena except three first runs are now holding bank nights and seven houses in the San Gabriel-Alhambra district are doing the same. In Santa Barbara the condition prevails in the F.W.C. and Warner theatres.

The local board has until May 25 to file an answer, but the understanding here is the action begins following this week's inspection of the answer by Attorney Pierson Hall.

Bank Night Cases Gain

KANSAS CITY, May 14.—Complaints against bank night are piling up again at the local code office. The latest has been brought by Lester Robinson, Noll, Bethany, Mo., against I. W. Maple's Roxy, same town.

booth costs to be figured at 12 cents per point per hour, and houses with all subsequent runs to be known as Class B with booth costs to be figured at 10 cents per point per hour.

All houses of less than 600 seating capacity comprise one group, larger houses being classified in jumps of 200, as, for instance, 600 to 800, 800 to 1,000, while admission classification ranges from 15 to 50 cents in jumps of five cents.

Houses of less than 600 seating capacity, playing fifth or later run, with admission of 15 cents, under the proposal, would have a booth cost of $1 per hour, while the same house, playing first to fourth run, would have a cost of $1.20. At the other end of the scale, a 4,000-seat house, first to fourth run, 50 cents admission, would have a booth cost of $7.20 per hour.

Where stage shows are given, seven points are to be added, which would make the booth cost of the 4,000-seat house, first run, 50 cents admission, $8.04 per hour.

On the whole, it was said, the total booth cost in New York will be somewhat less than the present amount. Many of the large houses will have a heavier cost, such as the Capitol, where the weekly booth cost under the new proposal would be $705.60 against a present scale of $688.50. Under the three former proposals, the house would have a cost of $504 under the Brandt plan, $588 under the O'Reilly plan and the present scale under the Local 306 plan. RKO's Albee would have an even greater increase, $576.72 against a present scale of $357, while the British proposal would have been $400.50; O'Reilly plan, $457.71, and Local 306, as at present.

The Music Hall would have a cost of $626.40 against a present scale of $795.60, which also was proposed under the Local 306 plan, while the Brandt and O'Reilly plans would have cost $522.

The new proposal provides for the 30-hour week. In determining run, the run of the majority of pictures exhibited shall control, while in determining admissions the highest price regularly charged for the orchestra section shall apply.

Baltimore Passes Banned

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Indiscriminate distribution of passes bearing a five-cent charge was again declared a code violation today by the grievance board. Robert Marhenke and others, operating the Majestic, Baltimore, were ordered to stop the practice. The complaint was filed by Sol Shecter, Roy Theatre.

The clearance and zoning board reduced clearance held by the first run Petersburg, Va., theatres over Hopewell from 14 to 10 days. Decision in the case, which was brought by George Stath, Beacon, Hopewell, carried the proviso that Petersburg must date and play within 45 days after Richmond first runs.

"Richelieu" High in Twin Cities' Boom

MINNEAPOLIS, May 14.—Remarkably strong bills and good theatre weather sent grosses upward. "Cardinal Richelieu" was strong on both sides of the river. It was $2,000 up on a $6,000 take at the Century here and was $2,500 over the line, also at $6,000, at the St. Paul Riviera.

"G-Men" ran up to $7,000 at the Orpheum. This is above par by $1,500. "Naughty Marietta" was outstanding in the face of this competition, getting $6,500, about $1,000 over the line, at the State here and $6,500, up by $1,000, at the St. Paul Paramount. "Go Into Your Dance" and "My Heart Is Calling" were both well on the profit side of the line, and "The Scarlet Pimpernel" took $2,500 in its third week at the World.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $33,700. Average is $28,500. Total St. Paul business was $21,500. Average is $16,000.

"Knew," Show Get $13,000, Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The two stage show houses topped their averages slightly to lead the way in a generally bad week. Poor weather hit most of the grosses.

The Fox, with "Man Who Knew Too Much" on the screen and the Timbergs and Rooneys on the stage took in $13,000, topping average by $1,000, while the Earle did just the same with "Vagabond Lady" and Benny Meroff on the stage. "G-Men" just crossed the deadline with $12,500 at the Boyd, generally disappointing, but it was moved into the Stanton. "Cardinal Richelieu" again topped average by doing $7,500 in its third and last week, a completely successful engagement.

Flop of the week was "Stolen Harmony" which could get only four days at the Stanley to a weak $4,000.

Total first run business was $63,600. Average is $66,900.

"Your Dance" Best Draw in Montreal

MONTREAL, May 14.—More than usual interest was attached to the presentation of British features in various Montreal houses because of their tie-up with the King's Jubilee celebration. "Royal Cavalcade" was presented at the Capitol under the personal patronage of their Excellencies, the Governor-General and Viscountess Bessborough, the picture being shown for six days for a $10,000 take. Heading the week, however, was "Go Into Your Dance" which brought $12,000 to the Palace. British films were screened at four leading theatres because of the occasion.

Total first run business was $48,000. Average is $48,000.

Made in U. S. A.

Kansas City, May 14.—To dispel any impression that "Cardinal Richelieu" might be an English production, because of "The Iron Duke," Loew's Midland here emphasized that the current George Arliss vehicle was "made in America." Advertising copy conveyed that information prominently.

"G-Men" and Downey Loop Top, $43,000

CHICAGO, May 14. — The Loop showed signs of pulling out of its slump last week. "G-Men," with Morton Downey on the stage, ran up to $43,000, passing the par mark by $8,400.

"Harmony" on Dual Leads Providence

PROVIDENCE, May 14.—Grosses hovered around par for the week at most houses with the Strand coming through for $1,000 extra on "Stolen Harmony" and "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," catching $7,500. The Majestic picked up an average $7,000 with "Traveling Saleslady" and "The Florentine Dagger." The same was true for Fay's which booked "Ladies Love Danger" and Buster Foy's "Bughouse Fables" revue.

Despite a nicely balanced bill, "One New York Night" and "Unwelcome Stranger" did only $8,500 at Loew's and the RKO Albee was down $500 from its usual $7,000 take with "Mr. Dynamite" and Polly Moran on the stage.

"G-Men" with Show Big Hit In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, May 14.—The combination of "G-Men" and the "Folies Bergere" revue, "Hello, Paris," on the stage proved to be the biggest double-barreled attraction the Stanley has had in four years and gave that house a sensational $35,000. As a result, the entire bill has been held over, the first time in the Stanley's history that this has happened.

"Bride of Frankenstein" at the Alvin gave that house a new high at $15,500 and it likewise was held, but without the stage support it had during its first week. "Imitation of Life," playing a return engagement downtown at the Fulton, did average business at $4,500 and was held three days.

At the Penn, "Cardinal Richelieu," with Myrt 'n' Marge, the radio stars, in person dipped that house to $15,000, while the Warner wound up weakly at $3,800 with "The Florentine Dagger" and "Chasing Yesterday."

Total first run grosses were $73,800. Average is $60,500.

"Bride of Frankenstein" and "Princess O'Hara" at the Orpheum went $500 over normal for a total of $8,000. "Les Miserables" was strong at $6,200.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—"The Informer" was in the money at the Golden Gate. It topped average by $2,000 on a take of $15,000.

Business was somewhat better along the line, but the only other house to go over average was the Warfield, which had "Reckless" on the screen and a stage band to help. The $21,000 take was up by $1,000. "Eight Bells" took a par $9,000 at the Orpheum and "Let 'Em Have It" was normal at 8,000 in the United Artists, but elsewhere grosses were weak.

Pennsylvania Has New Open Sunday Plan

a vote is in the negative Sunday shows will be outlawed for at least five years, as another referendum cannot be held during that time.

To initiate a subsequent referendum signatures must be obtained from at least five per cent of the highest vote cast for any office in the municipality at the last previous election.

The bill was read for the first time and is expected to come up this week on second reading.

A half dozen plans have been compromised in the measure. The others will probably die in committee. It is certain that the bill will be opposed by the Sabbath Observance League, the Lord's Day Alliance and other similar organizations.

Florida Film Bills Die

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 14.—After several unsuccessful attempts to levy an amusement tax, a tax on billboards and a tax on advertising used for display purposes, it looks as though the legislators have decided to let the film industry alone, for in this, the sixth week of the session, but one bill has been introduced that affects the industry.

Senator Sikes of St. Petersburg filed a bill which is aimed at Ascap, for under the terms of his bill all representatives whose business it is to collect royalties on musical compositions and radio programs would have to take out a state license at a fee of $2,000 annually and counties would have the right to assess a like amount.

E. J. S. Donovan, who was the Governor's representative in touch with the producers in their recent tour of the state looking over what Florida had to offer them, in case they should decide to remove from California, received a wire from Fred Pelton, one of the members of that party, suggesting that Florida could make "a fine gesture towards the motion picture industry" by repeal of the state censorship law. A bill to repeal the state review board law was entered last week.

Revive Mass. Sales Tax

BOSTON, May 14.—This year's Legislature has shown a tendency to raise bills from the dead. After killing three bills proposed for the imposition of a two per cent sales tax in Massachusetts, the House reconsidered the action and recommitted the bills to the Committee on Taxation in the event that future action is desired later in the year. State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long, Mayor Mansfield of Boston, and Representative J. Walter Tuttle of Framingham sponsored the measures.

Reconsider License Bill

BOSTON, May 14.—The Senate by roll call today reconsidered its rejection last week of a bill for licensing theatrical booking agents, private entertainment bureaus' agents and personal managers. The bill has been ordered to a third reading.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Nitwits"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, May 14.—Wheeler and Woolsey, involved in the murder of Music Publisher Hale Hamilton, go on a rampage in Tin Pan Alley, slapsticking their way through a costume rental shop pursued by Fred Keating a private detective dressed as a skeleton who turns out to be a black spider shakedown artist.

As a melange of hokum, broad comedy and burlesque souffled over with Mack Sennett gags, it runs the gamut of music, mockery and madness. Starting slowly and somewhat sappily, it winds up better.

"Nitwit" Wheeler, a cigar clerk, loves Betty Grable. "Nitwit" Woolsey, his partner, is the inventor of a truth machine. Evelyn Brent is the publisher's wife, Erik Rhodes is a song writer dissatisfied with his royalties, and Charles Wilson is a detective who tries to solve the mystery. Everybody suspects everybody. Being all in fun, logic plays a trifling role with two song numbers skimming through crazy skeins. Woolsey contributes some funny individual bits with wild situations, crockery-busting episodes, crap-shooting porters, plus slap-chasing responsible for most of the ribaldry.

George Stevens directed for belly laughs from Stuart Palmer's story and Fred Guiol's and Al Boasberg's screen play which Lee Marcus produced.

Where they're not too particular and Wheeler-Woolsey wangle them in, this should wow 'em, so we think.

Looking 'Em Over

"Let 'Em Have It"

(Reliance-U. A.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The Department of Justice has heaped upon it further glorification in "Let 'Em Have It," a fast-moving, punch-laden melodrama depicting the activities of "soldiers of peace" against the ravages of crime. It's a swell show.

The story revolves around Bruce Cabot and his rise in gangland from a job as chauffeur to Virginia Bruce. After easy money, his first taste of it whets his appetite to a point where he becomes Public Enemy No. 1, making his way to first place through a series of rapidly-engineered and daring bank robberies interspersed with plenty of killings.

Richard Arlen, as the D. J. hero, is the Federal agent principally responsible for tracking Cabot to his lair and ending his nefarious career with a well-planted blow that sends the criminal crashing through a bannister and so to his death.

There are impressive and dramatic scenes. Touching is the sequence of the ceremony when Miss Bruce's brother, played by Eric Linden, is added to the roster of D. J. men who have lost their lives in the line of duty. A genuine kick comes when Cabot, having forced a plastic surgeon to alter his appearance, discovers the medical man has carved the gangster's own initial on each cheek, branding him to the world forever after.

Performances are topnotch clear down the line and, including among others not hitherto mentioned, Alice Brady. Sam Wood's direction is swiftly paced.

Production Code Seal No. 804. Running time, 95 minutes. "G."

"The Girl from 10th Avenue"

(Warners)

Presented with all the necessary ingredients for good entertainment, Director Alfred E. Green made the most of his opportunity here and has turned out a stirring, a gripping and a finished product.

Undoubtedly, the film's entertainment values are greatly enhanced by the character portrayals of the cast, particularly on the part of Bette Davis and Ian Hunter.

The yarn, handled with a delicate touch, has as its base the familiar theme of the girl of the lower stratum of society who marries far above her station to suffer before obtaining final marital bliss.

Miss Davis, as a girl from New York's 10th Ave., meets Hunter as he has been jilted by Katherine Alexander. She saves him from drinking himself to death and the two marry. They both find a modicum of

Want Ohio's 10% Ticket Tax Back

COLUMBUS, May 14.—The House Taxation Committee today voted nine to three for the restoration of the 10 per cent admission tax. Thirteen votes are necessary to recommend the measure. These are expected at a later meeting. The present three per cent gross levy would remain. The 10 per cent would be in the nature of a surtax.

The suggested schedule follows: three cents on admissions from 26 to 31 cents, four cents from 31 to 41, five cents from 41 to 51, with a straight 10 per cent on all admissions over 51 cents.

After deducting the 10 per cent Federal admission impost, the estimated yield under the new admission tax is estimated at $1,000,000 annually.

Tax Passes Neb. House

LINCOLN, Neb., May 14.—The chain store tax bill, expanded to include theatre circuits, has passed the House in its amended form by a vote of 61 to 25.

It now goes back to the Senate for additional debate on the amendments.

The bill now seeks to place a $3 per single unit to $175 per unit over 20 on chain operations in the state.

Drop Mass. Signboard Bill

BOSTON, May 14.—A bill designed to require the assent of municipalities for erection of billboards, signs and other advertising devices has been turned down by the Legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs. Leave to withdraw has been given.

The joint Ways and Means Committee has also given leave to withdraw on the bill designed to create a state lottery.

Osterberg Wounded Once More by Guns

CHICAGO, May 14.—Scarred, bruised and beaten, but unscared, Clyde Osterberg last night took four more slugs from unidentified guns as he stood with his wife and alleged bodyguard, George Hall, in front of the residence to which he had moved following an exactly similar attack 10 days ago. When taken to a hospital and informed his wounds may prove fatal, Osterberg again refused to talk.

Mrs. Osterberg ditto.

Hall scrammed.

Osterberg's warlike relations with the late Tom Maloy and his cabinet, resulting in varied knuckle and gunplay, are being sifted by the police in connection with reports that the victim had renewed efforts to establish an insurgent operator organization.

Senate O. K.'s Move To Hold NRA a Year

1, next, as Senator Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the Finance Committee and staunch Administration supporter, served notice that he would oppose any effort on the part of the House to increase the extension to two years, as sought by President Roosevelt.

The resolution was adopted without any amendments, under a more or less general agreement that this be done to expedite the legislation. As reported by the Finance Committee, it exempts from code requirements all persons whose business is purely intrastate in character.

Explaining the legislation, Senator Harrison declared that amendment of the present law would require lengthy consideration and that by continuing the NRA until next April time would be given for the drafting of a new bill when Congress convenes in January.

"In the next session of Congress we can more clearly write a law that will be sustained by the courts," he said.

The committee chairman criticized "certain gentlemen of the NRA" who sought to have the House write new legislation and declared that should this be done he would bring the bill back to the floor of the Senate for consideration as new legislation.

Objections to the resolution were voiced by Senators Shipstead of Minnesota, who discussed price-fixing provisions; Borah of Idaho, who sought a change in the provision exempting intrastate activities from codes, and LaFollette of Wisconsin, who criticized the Senate as not having done a real job and asserted that the resolution did not leave the NRA "with enough to wad a shotgun."

Both Sides Lose in Buffalo

BUFFALO, May 14.—While the roles of the same parties in two cases before the clearance and zoning board were reversed, the outcome was the same in each instance. The protestant lost.

The request of Menno B. Dykstra, proprietor of the Glen, Williamsville, for day and date boking with Schine's Granada in Buffalo was dismissed as unreasonable. On the same grounds, the request of the Schine Theatrical Co., as operator of the Granada, for 60 days clearance over the Glen also was dismissed. The maximum clearance between the two theatres was established as not to exceed 14 days.

Qualify K. C. Decision

KANSAS CITY, May 14.—In upholding the local grievance board's cease and desist order against Jack Johnston, Ritz, McPherson, Kan., Campi ruled he may receive a stay in execution of the order if he can show that the complainant, C. W. Helstrom, Helstrom, same town, is not abiding by his compliance certificate, which Johnston alleged he has violated.

Toohey Heads Hub Board

BOSTON, May 14.—Martin R. Toohey, operator of the LeRoy at Pawtucket, R. I., has been named permanent chairman of the grievance board.

Reverse Detroit Ruling

DETROIT, May 14.—E. S. Kinney, secretary of the code boards, has received word from Campi that that body has decreed the Ramona is not entitled to protection over the Roseville, Roseville, a suburb of Detroit and more than three miles apart.

The Campi decision was the result of an appeal by Jeff Williams of the Roseville from a ruling by the local board that the Ramona must date pictures within 14 days of availability.

Stop Ohio Bargains

CLEVELAND, May 14.—An order to discontinue six-cent and 10-cent Wednesday night bargain prices in violation of contract minimums has been ordered by the grievance board. The complaint was made by Carl Duncan of Killbuck, O., against Edna B. and Roy L. Russell, Opera House, Millersburg.

The clearance and zoning board has established the Millersburg Opera House as competitive to the Duncan, Killbuck, and has given the Opera House 14 days clearance over the Duncan. Either theatre can buy clearance over the other on new contracts after April 30.

Albert E. Ptak has won rezoning of the area which includes his Lyceum. A plea of Intercity Amusement Co., operating the Utopia, Painesville, to have Cleveland protection over Painesville reduced from 14 to seven days, was dismissed.

Protests Hub Clearance

BOSTON, May 14. — Greater Boston clearance has been protested again. Max Levenson, circuit owner, is seeking a change in the setup for the Strand, Alhambra and Quincy Theatres in Quincy. He protests the four weeks' clearance over Quincy of the M. and P.-Publix Wollaston in Wollaston which in turn is four weeks behind first run Boston.

Stop Cleveland School Film

CLEVELAND, May 14.—A precedent on non-theatrical competition has been set here. The grievance board has ordered RKO to stop serving the Roosevelt Junior High School at Cleveland Heights with features for exhibition outside of school hours.

It was charged by the Windamere that "Anne of Green Gables" and "Little Women" were shown after school hours at a general admission of five cents.

happiness in an arrangement whereby Miss Davis is Hunter's wife in name only, until he begins to see his old social register friends again. In the meantime Miss Alexander, who had married Colin Clive, fails to make a go of married life and tries to regain Hunter. In a smashing climax the entangled threads of the various complications are straightened out, Hunter and Miss Davis realize their mutual love and all ends well.

Besides Miss Davis and Hunter, Clive, Miss Alexander, Alison Skipworth and Phillip Reed handle their roles perfectly. The camera work of James Van Trees is excellent.

Women everywhere should go for this picture and its appeal should be almost as great to men. Exhibitors should have no trouble with this one.

"Men of the Hour"

(Columbia)

With the newsreel field the source of its material, "Men of the Hour" offers a fair measure of entertainment. It is pleasantly acted and provides a number of laughs.

The story is built around a romance between Richard Cromwell and Billie Seward. Cromwell is assistant to Wallace Ford, ace news cameraman. He meets Miss Seward, a nurse, while on an assignment "shooting" a ship fire. The friendship between the two men is endangered when Cromwell misunderstands Wallace's intentions towards the girl.

There follows a rapprochement between the lovers, and the two are about to wed when Cromwell, advanced to a first cameraman, is fired when he ruins a police gang raid in an attempt to get a "scoop" without the knowledge of his employers.

After a tough time trying to get a job, Cromwell makes his peace with Ford, who fights to have him reinstated. The wedding ceremony winds up the film.

There are a number of exciting sequences in the film.

Other players include Jack La Rue, Wesley Barry and Charles Wilson. Lambert Hillyer directed.

by "progressive" factions within the organization.

The insurgent faction asks for the immediate launching of a campaign against all theatres not employing Local 306 members, and declares the Holmden policy of fighting one house at a time to be a failure, according to the reports. Also said to be asked is a complete accounting of the local's funds since it was taken over by the parent organization; restoration of a 15 per cent salary cut made a year ago, ostensibly on a temporary basis; an immediate election of officers of the local and resumption of membership meetings, said to have been discontinued under the Holmden regime. The faction is also said to be opposed to the return to the local of various officers prominently identified with the Sam Kaplan and Sherman regimes and asks that no new working agreements be placed in effect until ratified by the local's membership.

Holmden could not be reached yesterday for comment on the reports.

Hays Signs New 5-Year Contract as MPPDA Head

Stays As Association Chief Until 1941— Extension of Pact Kills Off Rumors a Replacement Was Sought

By RED KANN

(Copyright, 1935, by Motion Picture Daily)

Will H. Hays has signed a new five-year contract to continue as president of the M. P. Producers' and Distributors' Ass'n of America, Inc.

The barrage of rumors of replacement, apparently a favorite topic of political correspondents in Washington, thus becomes a complete dud.

The new deal swings into effect with the expiration of Hays' current pact which runs out in the spring of 1936. Until 1941, then, and unless the M.P.P.D.A. head himself should seek to withdraw from the high place he has held for many years, Hays is slated to continue to act as the spokesman for the organized industry.

WILL H. HAYS

On tap for weeks, the arrangement was terminated and officially sealed earlier this week when the heads, or the ranking executives of all the major producing and distributing companies affixed their signatures. No formal announcement, however, has yet been issued.

The flood of reports regarding Hays and his official post reached its zenith a few months ago when, alternately, the names of Postmaster General Farley and ex-Governor of New York Alfred Smith found their way into newspaper headlines. With the expiration of Hays' original contract approaching came intensified rumors of replacement.

So frequent and so wild have the reports been that their continued publication long since has become a subject of annoyance to industry leaders, not to overlook Hays attaches.

It was suggested several months ago that the neatest manner of disposing of gossip stories would be a renewal of the agreement and its immediate publication thereafter. M.P.P.D.A. headquarters have found themselves embarrassed in the past by the persistence with which that perennial blossom—"Hays Is Out"—has cropped up and long since had abandoned any concentrated effort to deny each

Theatres in India Prospering—Armour

"Every one of the 600 theatres in India is in operation and business is very good," Reginald Armour, in charge of RKO Radio sales in India, Burma, Ceylon, Straits Settlements, Siam and Java, stated yesterday. He is here to confer with Phil Reisman and attend the company's sales convention in Chicago next month.

"There are 150 'A' theatres in India which exclusively play American product, 150 'B' houses which play both American and Indian made talkers and 175 'C' units which play all-Indian sound films. The balance of the theatres have not yet been equipped for sound and are playing silent versions," he said.

"Approximately 250 pictures are produced in India a year. There are about 50 producers. The native-made productions serve a total of 350,000,000 people," he asserted. "Super pictures made by local producers cost in the neighborhood of $40,000 and gross from two to three times as much as imported English pictures."

Armour, in addition to his RKO Radio duties, is supervisor of RCA activities in the Far East. He said there are about 250 sound machines installed by the company and most of the Indian producers are licensees of RCA. He plans to sail for India, his headquarters, around July 1.

With the exception of the 750-seat house M-G-M is building in Calcutta, new theatre activity is at a standstill. RKO has the Elphinstone in Calcutta and reports are current M-G-M will build in Bombay, where the company is said to have acquired a site.

The wreckers didn't stop the celebration, however, and it wasn't until the small hours of this morning that the festivities concluded.

British Take Critical View Of Code Talks

"Nell Gwyn" and, in some spots, "The Scarlet Pimpernel."

Some editors made it plain that if Queen Victoria wore low-necked evening gowns—and she did—that made them all right for films, and if King Charles wanted Nell Gwyn taken care of after his death—well, what about it?—it was history.

A few editors and persons connected with the industry expressed the view that the conferences would be helpful, and that if the British industry desired to make expensive pictures it would have to cater to the idiosyncrasies of the American market.

Industry leaders regarded the conferences as the most important industry happenings since British producers decided to seek outlets in the American market.

Cites His Experience Here

The Daily Mail quoted from its film correspondent, Seton Margrave, who in turn quoted Capt. Richard Norton of B. & D., saying:

"My experience in New York in getting certificates for 'Nell Gwyn' and 'Brewster's Millions' taught me that there is a real difference in outlook as between British and American censorship. Therefore, I welcome any such discussion.

"It is impossible for British producers to make expensive pictures without having access to the American market, so that a discussion of the problem of American censorship may be said to be essential to the future of the British film industry."

Jympson Harman, in the London Evening News, was not quite so friendly. Among other things he wrote:

"Two wise men from the west will arrive in London to tell us exactly what is wrong with the morals of our films. They will explain why the good folk of Oshkosh may not be allowed to know the truth about Nell Gwyn and what was wrong with the frocks worn by the ladies when the Prince Regent made merry.

Quotes Michael Balcon

"Michael Balcon, the Gaumont British production chief, who has just returned from a triumphant visit to Hollywood, tells me that these gentlemen have done a great thing for the cinema. Films were getting so near the knuckle that there seemed to be no limit to what they might do. Moral opinion against Hollywood became so strong that the whole business was in danger of being wrecked.

"This situation has been met and counteracted by the producers' own efforts, forced out of them at great financial cost by their self-appointed censors. Our coming visitors are two of the chief moral advisors.

"Their chief trouble is that they take films too seriously; they want to uplift them too much."

In the Evening News an article was headed "Clothes and the Man."

After mentioning objections to "historical" films produced in England the article went on: "In the matter of morals we have taken it for granted that, both in regard to things seen and things said, British and American films are much of a muchness. Possibly some of the American films produced here are bowdlerized for American consumption. As to that we are quite willing that the League of Purity should wave its big stick at the Hollywood producers.

"We do not suggest that British films do not occasionally err on the side of vulgarity and bad taste. On the other hand, we have a decent respect for historical accuracy, and we shall never blush at our grandmothers' evening gowns or feel it necessary to suppress the fact that the lamentable Nell Gwyn did not come to a bad end."

The People, a Sunday paper, was strong in its criticism. It said: "One would almost think that the Americans, our breezy trans-Atlantic cousins, have no sense of humor when one reads of their film purity campaign. But this is not so. They have merely learned to keep expressionless poker faces when they are putting up their most audacious bluffs.

Calls Attitude Inconsistent

"Two ambassadors from Hollywood are coming over here to tell us how to keep our films clean. Think of some of the American talkies you have seen and heard and try to laugh that off!"

In the Daily Express the heading was "Purity Men from U. S. to Talk Over Our Film Morals." Among other things the Express film correspondent, Paul Holt, wrote: "The visit is an outcome of the recent protests through the British ambassador in Washington against the banning of British pictures throughout America on moral grounds.

"The visit is intended to clear up the vexed question of what is—and what is not—moral on the screen."

The Glasgow Daily Record was more sympathetic in its attitude.

"Film censorship in America," the paper stated, "undoubtedly presents many anomalies—and incidentally a good many hypocrisies; the necessary moral twist given to immoral situations not infrequently leaves a nastier taste than an honest treatment of the same situation would do. However, that is primarily America's affair. British producers will undoubtedly benefit from the visit of Mr. Hays' representatives, and as a quid pro quo they might tell their visitors what's wrong with many of the films that come here from Hollywood. But perhaps that would take too long."

Visit Called "Good News"

In the Liverpool Post the visit was described as "good news."

"Ever since British films became exportable," the comment read, "there have been undefined but real difficulties in the way of their full exploitation in the United States. The fault has not rested wholly on the other side of the Atlantic. Lack of full knowledge at this end of American box-office appeal, and of the rules and regulations governing the cinema industry have also played their part. It is therefore good news that two leading American authorities chosen by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Ass'n., at the invitation of British industrialists, are arriving here for discussion with our own producers."

The Era indulged in satirical references to the conferences by saying: "Government of Hollywood, by Hollywood, for Hollywood, and the rest may perish from the earth."

John Bull asked: "Is it merely a coincidence that Mr. Will H. Hays has acquired doubts regarding the good taste of British films just when American film-goers have discovered their entertainment value?"

Northern Whig of Belfast suggested "There has been more than a suspicion of vindictiveness about some of the decisions against British pictures in the past year, when one takes into consideration the type of film which is still arriving here from America. In short, Elstree thinks that America's New Deal smacks of a raw one from their point of view."

Film Weekly suggested that Milliken and Quigley were "going to 'explain' to British producers the peculiar standards of screen morality demanded by the United States film code."

proval of each subject will be asked of Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe on May 24.

The approved changes in the company's by-laws call for the reduction of directors from 20 in number to "not less than 16 and not more than 18" and the classification of the board into three groups of not more than six directors each. The groups will serve one, two and three-year terms each until 1938, when annual elections of directors will be held.

Motions by the Chase National Bank for leave to file new claims aggregating $5,000 against Paramount Publix for services as trustees under the Famous Players Lasky 1927 indenture and the Paramount Publix indenture of 1930 and to liquidate claims already filed by the bank were referred to Federal Judge Alfred C. high as 12 or 14, provided sufficient strong attractions develop to rate listing in such a category. Under the same plan, star attractions may be swelled later in the season from 22, as announced, to 27. The "Marquee Group" will include special features. Will Rogers in "Ah Wilderness" may be listed in this group, but this has not been decided yet. The picture was planned last year, but until it is made no decision on a sales policy for it will be reached.

Due to exhibitor demands, "Smilin' Thru" with Norma Shearer is to be revived, hiking the announced releases to 50. If plans go through for an exploitation feature on amateur talent with nationwide radio hookups tying in with the talent contests, the total number of releases will be tipped to 51.

According to reports from Chicago, three different policies will be offered exhibitors in the east. One provides for a minimum of four pictures at 35 per cent of the gross with the playing time on the balance of the product to be worked out. The second plan calls for eight percentage features, to be divided into groups of four with one group at 35 per cent and the second four at 30 per cent. The third plan is said to call for a minimum of 12 features on percentage, six at 35 per cent and the other half dozen at 30 per cent.

M-G-M is said to be adhering to its 10-point system on playing time, details to be worked out with individual circuits and exhibitors. Unconfirmed reports have it that the company will insist on at least five points for most of its films. According to this system, the week's gross is divided into 10. Sundays are counted as three points, Saturdays, two; week-days, one for each day.

Special Shorts on Tap

The M-G-M short subject lineup for the new season is expected to include specials, probably in two-reels, with "Chic" Sale in the type of characterization usually associated with him and typified in "Little Friend," a current Metro release.

One of the proposed specials may deal with Abraham Lincoln.

Metro-Goldwyn Acts On Stock Retirement

stock at par was approved yesterday by the company's board.

Stockholders will receive the par value of $27 per share plus the regular seven per cent dividend of 47¼ cents, due June 15. Retirement of the issue involves an outlay of $4,030,335. A new security issue is expected to be announced by Metro-Goldwyn in the near future.

Loew's Declares Dividend

Directors of Loew's, Inc., yesterday voted the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, payable July 1 to holders of record June 14.

House Stand On NRA May Block Action

extending for two years, Speaker Byrnes indicated that the House would ignore the threat made yesterday by Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, that the House amendment of the Clark resolution would be vigorously fought.

The House Ways and Means Committee, meanwhile, made plans for immediate consideration of the measure. In the hope of reporting it next week, with Chairman Doughton predicting that a two-year extension would be inserted, although he denied any intention of starting a controversy in the Senate.

It was also indicated that the committee would amend the provision exempting from codes all persons "wholly engaged" in intrastate business, probably along the line suggested by Donald R. Richberg, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, to retain under codes all industries engaged in or directly affecting interstate commerce.

K. C. Dual Choice Proposal Dropped

ments with the announcement of new season sales policies.

Jay Means, I. T. O. head, is authority for the statement that "nothing further will be done" in view of the distributors' flat rejection of the plan whereby a "release board" was to be set up to designate product for dual bills. Exhibitors, including independents and Fox Midwest, agreed on the plan as a solution to the demand for indiscriminate double billing, but with one exception all major distributors queried turned it down on the ground they saw no reason why they should relinquish the right to determine which of their features shall be played on a twin bill.

That statement of policy does not, however, apply to Warners, Columbia or Universal. All except percentage pictures are being released locally by Warners for dualing in the regular single feature spot, this being a new development. The two other companies permit doubling of all features, but with a 28-day setback in clearance. Other major companies restrict duals to features not receiving a first run.

FWC Duals Start Today

Los Angeles, May 15.—Despite the opposition of producers and distributors, Fox West Coast starts duals tomorrow, the initial twin bill consisting of "Our Little Girl," Shirley Temple's latest, and "Baby Face Harrington." Duals are announced as the new summer policy of the circuit.

Geldert Funeral Today

Hollywood, May 15.—Funeral services for Clarence Geldert, pioneer actor and director, who died Monday of a heart attack on location, will be held tomorrow.

Loew's May Start Giveaways in N.Y.

the official nod from Nicholas M. Schenck, president, to proceed to adopt giveaways and chance games at Loew theatres in the metropolitan area where competing exhibitors refuse to stop the practice.

One of the first Loew houses to go for the new plan will most likely be the Rio, which on several occasions recently has filed protests with the local grievance board against the Audubon on "pay envelopes" and "Lucky." Every time one practice is terminated another is started. Loew's 175th Street may be the second house.

At the general meeting of local independent and major circuit heads before the New York grievance board on Tuesday, Loew stated that the circuit did not want to distribute premiums and hold chance games, but unless exhibitors stop the practice Loew's would be forced to adopt the same policies on a wholesale plan.

Loew yesterday said he did not know where he would start first and still held hopes that the circuit would not be forced to go through with the move.

RKO is not considering a similar Loew move, but within the next few days will file about 20 complaints against exhibitors for code violations.

The local board meets again to act on the discussions on Tuesday.

Gov't Will Speed St. Louis Trials

the bringing of similar suits in other jurisdictions, it was indicated.

However, it was said, the Government is not preparing for a campaign against the film industry. All cases which are under consideration are the result of complaints filed with the department.

Officials of the department refused to say when they expected the St. Louis case to come to trial, pointing out that there are always a number of steps which must be taken as a preliminary to the actual hearing of a case. However, in view of the short time remaining to the current court term, unless the Government moves with speed the hearing may not be reached until next Fall.

Caffey has signed an order instructing Howard S. Cullman, trustee, to apply to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for a first mortgage loan on the theatre.

This is the first official move to reorganize the theatre and if the R.F.C. should approve the plan, reorganization proceedings based on such financing will be started.

The petition states that the R.F.C. will not give its approval unless the application is made by the trustee. It is not intended by the application to bind anybody to the making of a loan or to acceptance of such a loan if made, unless a plan for reorganization is consummated which has the approval of the bondholders and the court.

Four Protests Hit Schedule in L.A.

Los Angeles, May 15.—With the new clearance and zoning schedule going into effect today, four protests have been filed. They are slated for hearing May 28 with John Flinn sitting in.

Harry H. Hicks, operating the Arlington and Gem in Zone 2, has asked the six houses in that zone be declared non-competitive. Warners have filed a protest in the same zone. They want it split into two zones, as formerly.

Mike Rosenberg of Principal Theatres protests the downtown price classifications specifying matinees. He wants matinee scales to remain at 35 cents, claiming that high film rentals make it impossible to classify matinees at 25 cents. Jules Wolfe of the Lincoln wants Zones 20 and 21 combined. He says houses in both zones are competitive and are patronized solely by negroes.

Due to new protests on the zoning schedule, the clearance and grievance boards will call a protest meeting May 22 and 23 instead of waiting for the arrival of Campi Secretary John C. Flinn on May 28.

Superserial Row Back to L. A.

Washington, May 15.—Difficulties between Superserial Prod. and its studio labor were today remanded by Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth to the Studio Labor Board for such action as it deems necessary, following a conference with Chairman W. J. Davis.

A number of the cases, it developed, had been filed after Davis left the coast. The producer made a request to be heard by the board. Upon a statement by Davis that he personally would move for a rehearing, the matter was referred back to the coast instead of being heard here as had been requested. It was explained that if the board rehears the cases no action will be taken in Washington unless a new request is filed. If, however, the board refuses to review the matter, it is probable that interested parties will be called east for a hearing.

Refuse Price Clearance

Boston, May 15.—No clearances can be based on admissions only, according to a ruling of the clearance and zoning board in a case brought by Charles A. Caballero in behalf of his Art Theatre, Springfield.

Caballero contended that the Art, recently renovated, was entitled to films as soon as any house charging 25 cents, and that all houses charging less than this price should be set back behind the Art. The complaint was directed against the Paramount, Poli, Bijou, Broadway, Capitol, Garden, Arcade, Franklin, Jefferson, Liberty, Strand and Phillips.

An appeal is expected.

Delay Century-RKO Appeal

The appeal hearing of the Century-RKO clearance dispute on Long Island, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until next Tuesday at the request of Campi.

Both Century and RKO appealed the decision of the local clearance and zoning board which recently ruled that the respondent's Alden in Jamaica was competitive to Century's Fantasy, Rockville Center, while the Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway, were not in competition to the complainant's house.

MPPDA Signs Hays to New 5-Year Pact

new alleged candidate as his name appeared in the lists.

It can be stated with complete certainty that in the latter day stages of the Hays regime, his principals never seriously contemplated a successor. Weeks ago when the preliminary discussions of a new contract were first aired, the heads of the major companies expressed themselves for a renewal. The outcome was entirely up to Hays, the sole question, if there were any, being whether or not Hays himself wanted to continue his motion picture activities.

Apparently, he has.

New NRA Confab on Extra List Impends

Los Angeles, May 15.—Attorney Eugene H. Marcus is awaiting word from Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt to fly to Washington for a new conference on the extras' registration list. He is expected to proceed to Washington either Saturday or Monday.

The conference will concern the official publication of the names of all registered extras. A regulatory measure for extras selected for work outside the list which would force employers to state definite talents desired when hiring these people to avoid politics and nepotism will also be discussed. The meeting will also cover evasion of code provisions, such as studios entering into private contracts with extras.

Discover Pickets' Aims

Rochester, May 15.—"Mystery" of the picketing of the newly opened Hollywood, neighborhood house, was solved here when owners haled the pickets into court and found they were kicking about the alleged failure to employ union labor on renovating the building and not about employment in operation of the theatre.

Kinsler in Variety Job

Cincinnati, May 15.—Ralph Kinsler city salesman for RKO pictures, has been made treasurer of the local Variety Club, succeeding Abe Lipp, who has held the office since the club was formed. Kinsler also is a charter member.

Vandals Damage Astor

Vandals who wrecked the interior of the Astor over the week-end caused damages estimated by police in the neighborhood of $50,000. Walter Reade closed the house Saturday night after an unsuccessful attempt to operate under a revival policy.

Reservations Gain For Allied's Meet

ATLANTA, May 15.—Last minute reservations are pouring in on Allied headquarters at the Piedmont, the committee says, and as a result a second registration headquarters has been opened. Registration will be started as early as noon on Sunday. The convention gets under way the following day.

Newsreel men are to photograph part of the proceedings and National Screen is to make trailers. The reels will concentrate on Governor Eugene Talmadge's talk Wednesday evening. A special stunt has been arranged in this connection by Sidney E. Samuelson, national president.

Last minute figures indicate an attendance of about 500, it is said.

Cost of badges has been lowered and the possessors will be entitled to seven entertainments, according to the local committee headed by Mrs. Fay Ellis and N. H. Waters. Two events are for women—the tea at the Governor's Mansion, at which Mrs. Talmadge will be hostess, and the other a bridge at the Piedmont Driving Club. Sam H. Borisky of Chattanooga is general chairman of the convention.

Among the exhibitors already on hand are: RCA, National Screen, National Theatre Supply Co., Conger Printing Co., Southern Fan Co., Claude Neon Sign Co., Triangle Poster Co., Amity Film Exchange, Theatre Service Co., N. Emile Savini, Visugraphic Film Co., Wil-Kin Theatre Supply Co., American Seating Co., The Selig Co. and National Film Carriers.

Delivery Men to Atlanta

Seven members of the National Film Carriers' Ass'n will attend the Allied convention in Atlanta May 20-23. The film delivery service is setting up a booth at convention headquarters.

James P. Clarke, president, will talk on film delivery problems. Accompanied by Clint Weyer, secretary of the organization, Clarke will leave for the south on Saturday. Other National members who will attend are: Harold Robinson of Detroit, E. E. Jameson of Kansas City, John Vickers of Charlotte, George Blackman of Syracuse and L. M. Miller of New Orleans.

N. Y. Allied Opposes Code

ALBANY, May 15.—Filing of the film code under the new state act calling for hearings before the Secretary of State can act is officially opposed by Allied Theatre Owners of New York in a letter written by A. Stone, president. A hearing is to be held June 1.

Stone cites all the well known Allied objections: That the code was drafted or submitted to the NRA without being submitted to a "representative group of exhibitors"; that it is "oppressive, promotes monopolies and restrains intrastate trade"; that it confers on producers "complete dominion and power"; that it denies to independents the right to choose representatives on code agencies; that it enables major producers to regulate trade practices.

Stone also requests that the hearing be postponed on the ground that national Allied officers will be in Atlanta until the end of the month. The convention starts there May 20 and lasts through May 23.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Glass Key"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—Moving with measured dramatic tread, this murder mystery, by virtue of its direction, acting and writing, achieves a rare quality of suspense and power.

The story is spotted on the fringe of politics prior to an election, with the local boss (Edward Arnold) accused of murdering Ray Milland, the son of Senator Charles Richman. George Raft, Arnold's stooge, is an active agency in blasting Gambler Robert Gleckler's undercover opposition, clearing things for his boss and daughter (Rosalind Keith).

Raft, given an opportunity second only to "Scarface," turns in a brooding, sinister performance in a role fitting like wallpaper. Gleckler makes a menacing heavy, with Guinn Williams, his strong arm, vividly brutal. Miss Keith gives a genuine portrayal in her first screen appearance. Arnold, always good, repeats. Tammany Young supplies some nifty comedy. Claire Dodd, Emma Dunn and Mack Gray are among the support.

The film, while not in the tempo of "The Thin Man," nevertheless has Dashiell Hammett's ironic twists, with fire beneath the surface. The romance between Raft and Miss Keith, while slight, is effective.

The direction of Frank Tuttle achieves tenseness through simplicity and strength through convincing action. The Kathryn Scola-Kubec Glasmon screen play is shrewdly contrived and smartly embroidered with Harry Ruskin's additional dialogue. Harry Sharp photographed well.

Raft's performance in a well-acted and well-produced Hammett vehicle predicates good box-office reception.

Production Code Seal No. 696. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"The Healer"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—Ralph Bellamy, as a doctor, devotes his life to curing children in the backwoods assisted by Nurse Karen Morley, who loves him. Spoiled daughter of wealth, Judith Allen, falls from her horse. He operates and saves her life. She determines to make him a fashionable doctor and marry him.

During an effective forest fire a tree falls on Miss Morley. Crippled Mickey Rooney regains the use of his legs and does the impossible by riding a bicycle through the fire area for aid. True love triumphs in a quiet way. Good performances are turned in by Miss Morley, Bellamy, Rooney, Miss Allen, Robert McWade as a dyspeptic millionaire, J. Farrell MacDonald as a tough backwoodsman and Vessie Varrell under Reginald Barker's direction.

The cast's excellence is somewhat retarded by the story. A timely exploitation angle is the national interest in cures for crippled children.

Production Code Seal No. 886. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Last Wilderness"

(DuWorld)

As a pictorial record of the last stands of American big game, this picture is to be commended. Using the wilds of Wyoming as a background, cameraman Ned Frost has caught elk, antelope, bear and various species of birds in their natural surroundings in such a manner that his work becomes doubly effective by his simple presentation.

Howard R. Hill, renowned archer, accompanies the expedition on the trip and his skill with a bow is well presented.

The film opens with a wildcat hunt. Hill kills two with his arrows. From this point on the picture takes the audience on the trail of bison, bear, mountain sheep and even moose. Most of the animals are merely photographed and only the dangerous ones are killed, all in full view of the camera.

Where nature or adventure films are liked, this picture should do very well.

Hill accompanies the action with explanatory dialogue. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

Toronto Gathering Protests Tax Jump

all theatres within the province for a period of three months, June, July and August, as a protest against the drastic tax increases imposed by Premier M. F. Hepburn, effective June 1.

Word was forthcoming from the Independent Theatre Owners of Canada that forms were in circulation for a gigantic petition of theatre-goers.

Circuit theatre interests joined with independents in sending a deputation to wait upon the Provincial cabinet ministers to seek relief. It was stated, however, that the government had already put through an order-in-council and new tax tickets were already being printed. The exhibitors were told flatly and firmly by Hepburn he would not modify the tax.

N. L. Nathanson, president of Famous Players Canadian, declared: "It is a question whether the industry in Ontario can survive under the new taxes. We pay the present amusement tax, another tax based on the number of seats, a license fee while every film shown is taxed as well. In addition, there are the usual municipal levies. Last year, on an investment of $9,000,000 in Ontario, Famous Players paid twice as much in taxes as it earned in profits."

Oscar Hanson scored the new taxation as direct discrimination against workingmen.

"Closing down the theatres may seem drastic," said Hanson, "but it is really quite sensible when one considers that the theatres would be losing money every week they were open during the next three months."

J. O. Scott, representing neighborhood exhibitors of Toronto, said it was expected that signatures of from 600,000 to 1,000,000 theatre patrons would be secured for the petition against the increase.

Mass. Senate for Betting

BOSTON, May 15.—The Massachusetts Senate today voted in favor of the measure already passed by the House to allow the operation of parimutuel dog tracks in the state this and next summer with the provision that the whole question be submitted to the voters in the 1936 elections. This is a compromise act backed by the M.P.T.O.A. and is considered a victory inasmuch as the public referendum last fall was overwhelmingly in favor of the tracks and as the Governor wants the attendant revenue. The amendment for investigation for immediate repeal pending the resubmission of the measure to the voters and for postponement of the action was defeated without a roll call.

Pass Coast Marathon Ban

SACRAMENTO, May 15.—The Assembly has passed Assemblyman Hunt's bill preventing endurance contests. The Assembly Labor and Capitol Committee has taken out of the child labor bill the provision which would have prevented players under eight, such as Shirley Temple, from working after 6 P. M.

"Werewolf" at $12,000

Kent Denies Orders Withholding Product

WILMINGTON, May 15. — Under cross-examination Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox Film, a witness for the defendants — Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T. — in the General Talking Pictures and Duovac anti-trust trial here today, denied he gave orders refusing to supply film to any theatres at any time.

He said his company had a censorship list of theatres which were refused films because their equipment was bad and very damaging to the reputation of the product of his firm but not because of non-Erpi equipment. He said his company supplied films to theatres with 28 different kinds of equipment.

George C. Pratt, vice-president of Erpi, followed Kent on the stand. Pratt's testimony was mostly confined to the equality clause in agreements between Erpi producer licensees and exhibitors.

Allan McLean, Erpi electrical engineer; John Hamrick, operator of 11 theatres in Washington and Oregon, and Harold M. Steel, Erpi service engineer, also testified.

"G-Men" Fight Dormant

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Warners is taking no action on the demand of exhibitors that "G-Men" be classified as a second run because of the price slash downtown. It is understood no move will be made unless the matter is pressed. The exchange says it has had no additional demands since the original blast last Saturday.

Campi to Golf

Having battled on many other points, Campi members will now fight it out between themselves on the greensward.

The program for the day is:

Yates to Go West on Liberty Production

about 10 days to sign contracts with M. H. Hoffman, head of Liberty, whereby the latter company will produce for Republic.

When Yates was here about two weeks ago, he and Hoffman agreed on the deal "in principle."

According to Hoffman, "Liberty will not produce eight features for Republic." He says that his company "will not abandon its own identity as an individual producer," nor become a part of Republic.

"However," he adds, "if satisfactory distributing terms are negotiated, Liberty may distribute its program through Republic exchanges."

Cleveland to Give Lump Sum for NVA

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Instead of contributing 10 per cent of the gross of one performance on May 20 to the N.V.A. fund. Cleveland exhibitors have indicated they will donate an arbitrary sum to the fund. Reason attributed for this is reluctance to disclose the amount of their gross receipts for any one performance.

Detroit Club to Aid Fund

DETROIT, May 15.—Variety Club is sponsoring a big midnight show at the Fox Saturday night, the proceeds of which will be divided between the NVA fund and the club's milk fund.

At the business meeting held in the club rooms, Edward Ashkins, salesman for Universal,, and I. H. Pollard, assistant manager for Columbia, were elected to active membership. Plans for a golf tournament and dinner-dance were discussed but action was deferred until after the midnight show has been put over.

Christie Meeting May 21

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—A dividend meeting will be held by creditors of Christie Film Co. before Referee in Bankruptcy Rupert B. Turnbull here on May 21. The trustee's third report will be heard at the meeting, as well as a petition to pay the expense of the bankruptcy administration.

"Caliente" to Capitol

Warners' "In Caliente," starring Dolores Del Rio, opens here at the Capitol May 24.

Allied Is Told of New W. E. Servicing

NEWARK, May 15.—Bert Sanford of Erpi yesterday advised members of Allied of New Jersey meeting at the Douglas Hotel that new service arrangements at lower costs are now available to users of Western Electric sound apparatus.

The reductions do not apply to exhibitors who have not yet paid up for their equipment, he said. He also gave a short lecture on the engineering facilities of the company. Sanford told of surveys made at the Schine and Poli houses whereby Erpi has effected considerable savings in electric bills.

Erpi is not interested in selling equipment other than Western Electric sound, he said. Sanford invited exhibitors with any sound problems to visit the company's headquarters. He also stated that Erpi today is servicing 5,200 machines throughout the country and after a result of a checkup has adopted the new servicing plan. Sanford stated that it is optional with the exhibitor.

Under the plan 12 visits a year for servicing will be made at theatres operating less than a full week, 17 annual visits for the average type theatre and 52 visits for de luxe houses.

Phila. Variety Lunch Draws Crowd of 200

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The semi-monthly luncheon of the local Variety Club at the Bellevue Stratford today drew a gathering of 200. Hal Horne of United Artists was guest master of ceremonies. Among the speakers were Charles L. O'Reilly, T.O.C.C. head; John C. Flinn, Code Authority secretary; Tommy Loughran, the boxer, and Congressman Percy L. Gassaway of Oklahoma, who was the big hit of the occasion, his speech being broadcast over WCAU.

Other guests included Former State Attorney General Schander, Former Mayor Mackey and other notables.

Kings for the day were Jack Beresin and Walter Woodward.

M. P. Club Assesses Members $100 Each

In a move to strengthen its financial position, the M. P. Club yesterday sent out notices to 270 members assessing each $100. Payments do not have to be made in a lump sum. Sums can be sent monthly or quarterly, according to the method deemed best for the members.

Felix F. Feist, president, planned to call a general session of all members at which time the assessment idea was to be placed before them. With the sending out of the notices, the meeting has been called off.

'PUBLIC HERO' A CINCH

Ruben's Direction, Story Stand Out; Swell Acting Cast

"PUBLIC HERO NO. 1"
(MGM)

Producer .....Lucien Hubbard
Direction.....J. Walter Ruben
Original Screen Play: J. Walter Ruben and Wells Root.
Photography .....Gregg Toland
Cast: Chester Morris, Joseph Calleia, Jean Arthur, Paul Kelly, Andy Lawlor, Ed Brady, Selmer Jackson, Stanley Price, George E. Stone, Bert Roach, Lewis Stone, Lionel Barrymore, Helene Costello, Billy Sullivan, Greta Meyer, Zeffie Tilbury, Frank Darien, Lillian Harmer.

Excellent entertainment of the action-plus school of drama that is made for the pleasure and enjoyment of large audiences, due to the fact that it has an A1 screen play enlivened by swell humor for the adults; A1 acting by Chester Morris, Joseph Calleia, Jean Arthur and Lionel Barrymore, and A1 direction by J. Walter Ruben that holds the picture up from start to finish with lively interest. You can't get better movie material, better done for any type of audience.

MGM's contribution to the string of stories about the Federal Government's Department of Investigation considers the case of the "Purple Gang" and the front page methods used to round them up, put them away and make the country safe to live in. It offers a most interesting characterization in Sonny Black—whose prototype was undoubtedly Dillinger, a grand fighting hero in the person of Jeff Crane, a G-man—giving the kiddies something they can really admire and emulate in the way of thrills that can benefit a community; an intriguing heroine in Maria Theresa O'Reilly, and an elegant old reprobate in the Doctor. All the characters are rolled together and mixed up into a fine assortment of exciting interludes, realistically told. And the fun is all genuine.

From this may be gathered the fact that J. Walter Ruben had a good idea for an original and Wells Root has fashioned a screen play that takes full advantage of the picture possibilities and injects that very elegant brand of humor that was started by "The Thin Man." Ruben, directing his own story, gives himself a good break by keeping the action moving right along and getting the best in the way of performances.

Chester Morris as the hero, Jeff Crane, has the best role that he's had in months and months, and he is once more the boy who sprang to fame in "Alibi." Joseph Calleia, making his screen debut, repeats the quality performance he gave in the stage play, "Small Miracle." He's an actor who should go very far in pictures. His face is interesting and his restraint lends much power to his characterization. He'll arouse the fans' interest plenty.

And then there's that complete revelation, Jean Arthur. A fresh, attractive young Miss, with a grand sense of comedy and a charming personality. She makes the heroine an important person to the enjoyment of the film. Lionel Barrymore is the drunken doctor, beyond the law, and it's the best thing he's done in an age. You'll love him. Paul Kelly, Lewis Stone, Paul Hurst are stand-outs in their roles and the others quite perfect as to type.

The photography is a bit ragged and rough in spots, as though hurried, but on the whole, okay.

A picture that's fun to see and should be a boon to the box-office.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Public Hero Number One"
(M-G-M)

Hollywood, May 13—Another blazing yarn of "G Men" ripped from the front pages and offering a fresh slant and taut romance is Leo's roar for the Federal "dicks."

With unerring suspense it follows Chester Morris in a jail break, paralleling San Quentin's spectacular release, and thus gaining the confidence of Joseph Calleia, Purple Gang chief. Dillinger's last lifting and his last stand in a Chicago theatre alley are tightly woven into the film, which sweeps along with sinister and melodramatic bounce.

Lionel Barrymore, outcast doctor of the gang, Paul Kelly, Federal chief, Jean Arthur, Calleia's sister, for whom Morris falls in tracking down her brother, Lewis Stone, prison warden and Morris carry the brunt of the story skillfully and convincingly. Calleia's first screen role as the merciless killer shines. Miss Arthur, in a romantic vein, gives warmth to a human performance. Both should be in demand.

J. Walter Ruben's direction has virility with a fine balance of action, comedy, plot and romance. Wells Root's screen play from Ruben's and his own story stresses entertainment. Lucien Hubbard produced discreetly.

As a highly effective gang yarn with dramatic twists, M-G-M's contribution to the "G Men" cycle looks like a clean hit.

Neb. Chain Stores Bill Under Attack

LINCOLN, Neb., May 16.—Pushed into a Senate conference committee today, the chain tax bill, originally designed for stores only, but which now carries a theatre circuit and oil station string amendment, is being the target for a concerted lobby.

Opponents of the bill have added these extra chain organizations, it is understood, desiring such a preponderance that the whole measure may be lost. It will be out for consideration the first of next week.

No Tax Compromise, Is Hepburn Warning

TORONTO, May 16.—There isn't a chance in the world for theatre men of Ontario to secure any revision of the new amusement tax scale which becomes effective June 1, according to Premier M. F. Hepburn. Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE Warners, right now, are burning. It's all about that sweetheart attraction of theirs called "G-Men," a competitive attraction cast in the same mould and how two Middle Western theatre companies are advertising "Let 'Em Have It." How the Palace in South Bend is doing it, to this column, tells its own story. Added verbiage would be merely gilding a dubious lily. . . . Or a stink weed. . . .

The issue is now before the courts in Chicago where Warners have filed suits, one against Indiana Amusement Enterprises, Inc., operator of the South Bend Palace and another against Publix-Great States Theatres, Inc., operator of a theatre by the same name but in Peoria. And, while it is the function of the court to determine whether the charge of alleged unfair competition in advertising is to be sustained by the evidence, this column retains the right to voice its own views which are that the Warners are burning with justification and righteousness. . . .

The effort to cash in on the "G-Men" title appears to be an obvious one, made all the more unnecessary because "Let 'Em Have It" is a fine show on its own. United Artists knows nothing about the incident, certainly would not have countenanced it had it known and, we, mind you, presume to say for the company it cannot find itself in accord with the untoward action of the theatre interests involved. . . .

The Warners feel—and they have—a valuable property in "G-Men." Editorial endorsement in many newspapers is one of the unusual receptions accorded its exhibition, not to overlook the grosses the picture is hitting in key runs. It is not often that editorialists take pen in hand to urge whole-hearted support for any film or to urge members of Congress to see it. In the light of the darts let loose on the industry in other days, this note of commendation is refreshing, encouraging and heartening. . . .

Hollywood—Walt Disney is recovering from an emotional earthquake. For a couple of days it looked as though the animal world would have to be reformed by his animators and evening clothes for Mickey Mouse for all showings after 6 o'clock ordered. Word came through that Pennsylvania censors were holding up "Robber Kitten" on the ground that it would have an "unwholesome influence on children because it showed kittens as robbers, stickups and gangsters." Then good news. All the animators went back to work and Disney took an aspirin. . . .

Harrisburg — Cogitation has ceased here for the time being. After "considering objections raised" the Pennsylvania censors have approved "Robber Kitten" without alterations. Objections were raised on the ground the film would have an "unwholesome influence on children," and then were overruled. Popeye, the Sailor, may buy a safety razor with impunity any day now. But once he stops urging children to eat spinach, then what? . . .

L. J. Hite Rites Set

PLEASANTVILLE, O., May 16.—Funeral services for Lemuel J. Hite, father of Mrs. W. Ray Johnston, will be held here Saturday. Hite died yesterday. legislation originally introduced, including the prevention of practices tending to monopoly and the destruction of small enterprises.

Charging Donald R. Richberg, with "ambition to be a Mussolini," Senator Clark of Missouri, author of the resolution adopted Tuesday by the Senate, in a speech from the floor called the NIRB chairman's recent talk to the NRA staff in which he called the 10-month extension "complete folly" as "the most brazen exhibition of impudence on the part of a bureaucrat" he had ever seen.

Claims of Administration leaders that they had 55 votes in the Senate for approval of the President's plan, if adopted by the House, were ridiculed by members of the anti-NRA group, who declared that if the Administration sought to force acceptance of the plan the bill would be delayed indefinitely and the NRA allowed to expire.

Hearings on the legislation will be started by the House Ways and Means Committee Monday, it was announced, with NRA officials expected to be the first witnesses.

tion on the floor should the bill be brought up in the House for a vote were seen in the protest of Representative Celler of New York that the measure would handicap theatres and picture producers. Celler declared that many films and plays would have been ruined by imperfect casting if the legislation had been effective in recent years, citing "Cavalcade," "What Price Glory" and "Journey's End" as among the productions which were made great by the alien actors who appeared in them.

Little difficulty would be experienced in deciding whether foreign actors deserved admission if the bill was adopted, it was declared by Deputy Commissioner of Immigration Edward J. Shaugnessy. The bill would not impose any hardship on high grade talent but would prevent the entry of the "ordinary actor," he said.

Opposition to the bill was voiced by Brock Pemberton, representing the League of N. Y. Theatres, but appeared to make no headway.

Film Previews

Lucien Hubbard production for Metro. Directed by J. Walter Ruben. Screen play by Wells Root. Story by J. Walter Ruben and Wells Root. Photographed by Gregg Toland. Assistant director, Hugh Boswell. Musical score by Edward Ward. Cast: Lionel Barrymore, Jean Arthur, Chester Morris, Joseph Calleia, Paul Kelly, Lewis Stone, Paul Hurst, George E. Stone, Sam Baker. Previewed at the Alexander, Glendale, May 11. Running time, 80 mins.

Another of the department of justice crook-smashing hero pictures to come off the production ways for preview, but bound to have its share of first showings, Metro's 'Public Hero No. 1' stands up sturdily as exciting b.o. entertainment. It has distinction in direction, superb performances, melodramatic sweep, and in competition with other entries in the new cycle and the inevitable comparisons audiences will make, may be depended upon to remain among the leaders.

'Public Hero' starts off with swift, sinister suspense. It picks up arresting character conflict in a penitentiary food riot and uses as its major news-inspired scenes the recent convict kidnaping of prison board members in the San Quentin break; the wipe out of the Purple Gang; the Dillinger face-lifting incident, with an accomplice surgeon devoting his genius to mending outlaw killers, and the final battle with Dillinger when he stalked out of a Chicago theatre to get his requiem of lead.

Main dramatic action shuttles amongst four characters, strikingly portrayed. Lionel Barrymore is the renegade surgeon. Chester Morris is the Department of Justice operative. Joseph Calleia plays the number one mobster, and Jean Arthur is his sis-[illegible]ng by him with fanatic loyalty when she discovers, shockingly, that he is the object of the government hunt.

These four roles are wholly distinctive, each a superb portrait in itself. Lionel Barrymore comes close to his top characterization in a tragic kind of clowning as the sodden wreck still capable of pathetic professionalism in saving the lives of the hunted.

Jean Arthur shows her capacity as a resourceful and skillful actress in the strangely frank, alternately cajoling and hard girl whose confessed love for Morris develops while he is tracking her convict brother.

Joseph Calleia creates a role which for sinister power and unrelenting ruthlessness will stand beside the classic portraits of screen outlaws. His deadly menace is built with but a few spoken lines and the most meagre gesture—a piece of consummate skill.

Chester Morris capably fulfils the requirements of the effacing, duty driven hero who helps the crook leader escape prison in order to discover the gang's cover and identity. He plays with conviction and handles the romantic requirements nicely. Paul Kelly ably represents the Department of justice chief. Lewis Stone as the prison warden, Paul Hurst and George E. Stone as gangsters are effective, and Sam Baker gives importance to a bit as the victim of Calleia's suspicions.

J. Walter Ruben has directed soundly and with shrewd appreciation of the entertainment values, progressing the action with drive and balance between the romantic, the comic and the plot elements, and scoring most decisively in guiding the characterizations usually sloughed in this type picture. Story, on which Ruben shares credit with Wells Root, is well contrived knits romance with melodramatic drive for both male and femme appeal. Camera job by Gregg Toland is excellent, and the production values impressive.

Campi Group Has Mystery; Witness Gone

Six from Florida There, But No Complainant

Campi's appeals committee found itself with a mystery on its hands yesterday. A complainant from Florida was missing and six defendants were on hand, and nobody could explain where the missing man was—not even his lawyer.

John A. Cunningham, president of Dade Enterprises, Inc., arrived in town last Monday, but his lawyer, Jacob Schechter, hasn't been able to get in touch with him since Wednesday. Schechter wanted a postponement. Willard C. McKay, chairman;

Clearance Row Set For Coast Hearing

Los Angeles, May 17.—Four exhibitor protests and maybe five have been set for hearing before the local board for May 23. Among these is the new protest of Harry Vinnicoff, demanding the Circle and Princess be taken out of Zone No. 12 and placed in Zone No. 9 similar to his Strand. He bases his demand on the former joint ownership of the three houses with Simon Lazarus, at which time

Mexico Producers Want Taxes Ended

By JAMES LOCKHART

Mexico City, D. F., May 17.—Mexico's infant film industry is not as robust as was at first indicated, it develops. Since 1931 only two or three profitable pictures, have been made, it is stated in a report to the Ministry of Finance, and producers want exemption from all taxes except the income tax.

The petitioners assert that Japan, Spain and the Argentine have exempted their film industries from all taxes for five years and that Mussolini has signed a bill awarding the

'G-Men,' 'Frankenstein' Only Broadway Grossers

With the Astor closed and demolition of the Rialto started, the number of Broadway first runs is reduced to eight, including the Palace, which occasionally dates a picture before it is shown in other Broadway houses.

With the exception of the Strand and Roxy, business was rather dull last week. Both the Music Hall and the Paramount which anticipated unusual grosses ended the period with weak tallies.

The second week of "G-Men" at the Strand netted approximately $36,000, while "Bride of Frankenstein" wound up the first stanza at the Roxy in the neighborhood of $38,000. Mae West's opening week at the Paramount garnered about $37,000, while "The Informer" at the Music Hall grossed $62,000.

"Go Into Your Dance" and Abe Lyman and his band at the Capitol for a second week drew $18,000 less than the first seven days. For the second week, the combination got $20,000. The Palace with "Mississippi" corralled only $7,500.

RKO Expected To Make Para. Product Deal

Franchise Here Up, but Agreement Looked For

RKO, in all probability, will get together with Paramount next season on a new product deal locally, despite the fact that the circuit cancelled its franchise effective Aug. 1.

Circuit executives assert there is no desire to drop the distributor's product, but they are anxious to abrogate the six-year franchise which is now four years old and negotiate new terms from season to season. RKO heads contend they do not have franchises with any other company and do not want to be tied down to Paramount.

Under the terms of the six-year deal signed July 31, 1931, RKO had

Illinois Light Strike Shuts Many Theatres

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 17.—Scores of theatres in 49 central and southern Illinois towns have been forced to cease exhibition of pictures as a result of the disruption of electrical service due to a strike of union employes of the Illinois Power and Light Co. Some towns are entirely without power, others having only a limited supply.

Some theatre owners who sought to install private power plants were informed the strikers would not permit such a step. Other houses are turning to stage shows, with oil lamps furnishing the illumination.

Gov. Horner today continued his efforts to bring about a peaceful settlement. Until the strike is settled theatres that are unable to operate will be compelled to refuse film shipments and set back playdates. It is understood local exchanges will cooperate with exhibitors in the emergency.

Prominent among the speakers was Will H. Hays, president of the M. P. P. D. A., who said in part: "The motion picture is the most potent factor in the development of national appreciation of good music."

Harry Cohn, president of Columbia, accompanied by Mrs. Cohn, was also present at the dinner and reception, having flown in from the coast for the occasion.

Harry Buxbaum and Nathan Vinegrad, the appeal committee, protested. So did Fred H. Kent, attorney for E. J. Sparks, against whose houses, the Rex, Roxy, Rosetta, Coral Gables and Flagler at Miami, the complaint was directed.

There was much conversation and all hands adjourned to another room to talk it over. When they returned it was agreed that the case would be heard June 14.

Schechter told the board he had called the Lincoln Hotel for several days as well as a number of hospitals in an effort to find his client, but to no avail. He said he believed Cunningham had been at the hotel Wednesday, since opened mail was found in the room on that day. However, the committee ruled that unless Sparks was willing to put the hearing over it had to go on. After a lengthy discussion in Tyree Dillard's office, the postponement was worked out.

Sidney Meyer of Wolfson & Meyer, operating six Miami houses; Dr. Nat Perry of the State, Miami, and a partner of Cunningham's; Charles Walder, Tivoli and 7th Ave., Miami; Frank Rogers, vice-president and general buyer for Sparks; Ernest Morrison, Miami division manager for Sparks, and Kent, were among those who journeyed here for the case.

their policy was playing the Circle and Princess against the Strand.

Five additional cases have been set for hearing before the board on May 28 and two more 10 days later.

No Stay on Bank Night

DES MOINES, May 17.—The grievance board was upheld in U. S. District Court here today when Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey refused to grant an injunction to Midwest Film Distributors of Kansas City so that film might be supplied to Don Thornburg, adjudged guilty of running bank nights at the Strand, Marshalltown. The court declared it could not grant an injunction because bank night was considered a lottery.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—NRA officials today characterized the Thornburg decision the "most sweeping" yet rendered on the point.

The decision was reported to Washington by wire a few hours after receipt of a decision of May 10 in the same court in the case of the Central States Theatre Corp. holding bank night to be a lottery despite the fact that a registration book was kept in the lobby and it was not required that an admission be paid in order to participate in the drawing.

Bank Night Row Ended

HAVELOCK, Neb., May 17.—Roy Hedrick, manager of the Lyric and C. Frasier, manager of the Joyo, have gotten together on their fight over operation of bank night. Charges brought by Frasier against Hedrick, charging him with operation of bank night, have been dropped. Both run bank nights.

Postpone K. C. Hearings

KANSAS CITY, May 17.—The bank night and reduced admission case of Sam Yoffee, Uptown, Trenton, Mo., against the Plaza of C. A. Schultz has been postponed by the grievance board until May 22, because of the illness of the complainant. The case of L. M. Robinson, Noll, Bethany, Mo., against I. W. Maple, Roxy, on a bank night date, has been postponed till the same date.

At the request of Mrs. Abe Baier, Lindbergh, the board also has postponed to June 5 hearing of her complaint against the Bijou, owned by J. W. Cotter, on a charge of operating bank night.

Behind the move lay Mrs. Baier's decision to withdraw the complaint if Campi upholds the decision of the local board on her complaints against the Prospect and Belmont. The local board held in the Belmont and Prospect cases that there was no competition.

Amateur Reel Extended

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—In addition to the two-reeler planned with amateur talent which Hal Roach will produce in the east, the producer plans a similar subject with Los Angeles radio stations tied into the talent hunt.

Roach feels the search for new comedy talent can best be conducted by newspaper-radio tieups. The plan is to use non-professionals so selected in casts headed by established comedy names with Charlie Chase in one and perhaps Laurel and Hardy in the other.

Extension of the idea to other key points is not at all improbable.

Add to Television Group

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—The Academy Research Council's sub-committee on television has added Wesley C. Miller of M-G-M and William Mueller of Warners to the body.

The committee, decided its first step would be the preparation of a summary of all published material on television in technical and scientific journals. After study the material the plan is to investigate the actual status of television transmission and reception equipment.

Ban Chicago Contests

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—At the Hays office publicity directors' meeting, the committee decided not to sanction the Chicago Amusement Publicists Ass'n. proposal whereby the Chicago publicists would stage a series of beauty contests, dispatching the winners here for screen tests.

The local committee also ruled that all film concessions connected with the San Diego Exposition would clear through the local office.

Mandel Files Plans

Henry Mandel has filed plans for construction of a theatre at the southeast corner of Madison Ave. and 79th St. in spite of the fact that License Commissioner Moss has denied an application for a license for the house. Mexico Producers Want Taxes Ended

Italian industry 10,000,000 lira as a subsidy.

Putting money into pictures made in Mexico by Mexican interests is not an investment, but an experiment, a speculation that may be repented under present conditions, the report states. Most producers have quit after making one picture, it goes on.

The industry is saddled with the following taxes: Production, varying from six per cent to 10 per cent; 13 per cent of theatre grosses in the Federal District which includes Mexico City; gross receipts levies in the provinces, which in some towns run up to 25 per cent; fees for censorship in the Federal District; State Department imposts for viewing pictures intended for export; stamp tax on receipts and documents issued in connection with the business; import duties on items which must be obtained abroad, and the "absentee's tax," an impost of two per cent to four per cent on all money sent abroad, excepting that for purchase of goods to be retailed in Mexico.

The income tax is the lightest of all, because practically nobody in the industry is making any money.

Cease Dual Ban Efforts

MILWAUKEE, May 17.—Lacking the support of Fox, members of the Independent Theatres' Protective Ass'n in Milwaukee County today decided to temporarily abandon attempts to ban duals. A. C. Gutenberg and F. J. McWilliams were named delegates to the Allied convention in Atlanta, to which they will be accompanied by five or six other exhibitors.

fares, newspaper circulation and virtually all articles sold in the ordinary five and 10-cent stores. It is estimated the bill will net the state upwards of $11,000,000 annually. Theatre admissions and advertising in pictures, programs, magazines, etc., would be affected.

Senator Clark and other senators who joined him in the preparation of the compromise measure are hopeful that it will terminate the deadlock that has frozen legislation in the General Assembly since April 15.

Senator Casey immediately made his opposition known when the bill was presented on May 14 by raising a point of order against it and it is believed he will attempt to conduct a filibuster against its passage.

The bill will apply to the sale of tangible personal property, or on any service specified in the amendment involving 14 cents or more and is to be passed along to the consumer. Merchants would be prevented from advertising they would absorb the tax.

Kill Mass. License Bill

BOSTON, May 17.—The Senate has killed a bill calling for licenses for booking agents. Some theatre men had favored it in the hope that it would eliminate a number of the so-called sidewalk agents.

The House has passed under suspension of the rules a bill to permit two years of dog racing with parimutuel betting before putting the question up to the voters in the 1936 election.

Urges Pettengill Fight

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. head, addressing the Better Films Council of Greater St. Louis today, urged opposition to the Pettengill anti-block booking bill and support of a measure pending in Congress which calls for more reasonable music fees. "The Pettengill bill," he said, "won't do anybody any good, but will do a lot of harm to theatre owners and the industry as a whole."

Kuykendall asserted the clean film drive had improved the quality of the product. He attacked duals, saying they tend to cheapen the quality of pictures and are an "injustice" to high-grade producers.

Following the annual Paramount sales meet at the Waldorf June 13-16, the circuit is expected to start talks on new product. Distributor officials are talking about selling away from RKO, but no decision has been reached. No definite action is expected until after the sales caucus next month.

Both sides hope to get together, but from appearances it looks as if each side is waiting to see who moves first. RKO locally splits the Paramount output with Loew's.

of $470,110 in Paramount's bankruptcy proceedings, but the claimants contended recently that the claim had been increased to $503,827 by interest accrued since. The agreement, for which court approval is sought, proposes to settle the claim for $371,389 and interest of $10,000.

The royalty contracts between Paramount and Lynch were made in 1919 with the purchase of Southern Enterprises from the latter, and revised in 1922. Lynch sold the royalty contracts to Commercial Investment Trust and U. S. & Foreign Securities in 1927. The payments called for in the royalty contracts were discontinued after Paramount's bankruptcy.

Additional claims held by the two financial houses against Publix Enterprises were sold to Paramount for $130,000 in 1933.

Allied Case Again Delayed

Hearing on an application to accept the plan of reorganization of Allied Owners' Corp. was postponed for a second time yesterday by U. S. District Judge Robert A. Inch. The new date is May 31.

Monroe Goldwater of Goldwater & Flynn, attorneys for the trustees, told the court that more than the necessary two-thirds consents had been obtained from creditors, but that the trustees wanted to await settlement of a claim of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. which has been held up by an income tax claim.

In reply to a question of the court Goldwater said that he knew of no obstacle that could jeopardize confirmation of the plan by the court.

The appeal is not expected to be heard before fall, as the appellant has 60 days in which to serve papers, following which the case will be placed on the regular court calendar to await a hearing.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hooray for Love"

(Radio)

Hollywood, May 17.—Dance routines by Sammy Lee, clever tunes by Dorothy Lee and Jimmy McHugh, an unusually smart Harlem number by Bill Robinson, "Fats" Waller and Jeni Legon, give vivacity to this otherwise routine backstage story.

Gene Raymond, through the efforts of Thurston Hall, the bungling father of Ann Sothern, mortgages his home and invests the proceeds in a show being produced by Sam Hardy. With cash in hand, Hardy skips out on the eve of the opening, leaving Raymond and the rest of the cast to get the show on despite the scenery and costume creditors. Although the plot has served often for this type of musical, many novel touches are introduced here.

Director Walter Lang handles the straight romance between Raymond and Miss Sothern, also the comedy romances of Hall and Georgia Caine and Etienne Girardot and Pert Kelton skillfully, getting many laughs. The screenplay by Laurence Hazard and Ray Harris takes in much territory, introducing Raymond as a college student and showing him as a Radio City guide when the story really gets started. In the supporting cast, Lionel Stander as the stage manager and Maria Gambarelli as a dancer are outstanding. The production by Felix Young shows thought and a nice sense of values. The picture should please and rates as better than average entertainment.

The move to resign from Gulf States may embarrass that organization, since it has been tottering and very nearly collapsed in February when a one-day convention in association with the M. P. T. O. A. resulted in the attendance of about 15.

Calling of the special membership meeting, the first to be held since I.A.T.S.E. took over the local's affairs and placed Harland Holmden in charge more than a year ago, is regarded as a definite indication that the parent organization is preparing to return full autonomy to 306, and to withdraw from the local's affairs itself. These moves have been urged by a liberal group within the local for some time past.

Jessel Settles Suit

Georgie Jessel yesterday settled the $240 suit filed against him by Paramount for $125. Says School Films Should Be Selected

Boston, May 17.—"Motion pictures should not be introduced into schools just because they are interesting and new, but only because they provide a technique which, if used widely, by educators, would facilitate teaching tremendously," Prof. Kirtley Mather of Harvard University said today in an address in observance of "Parents and Their Children" conference week here.

"Motion pictures are not a substitute for something else which is already meeting requirements," he said, "but there are certain things that can be done better with pictures."

Make Huey Long Film

New Orleans, May 17.—It is reported here that the Grace Film Co. of New York is producing a one-reel short for the Huey Long publicity campaign. The picture consists of shots of Governor Allen, the state capitol building in Baton Rouge, Senator Long addressing a meeting in Philadelphia and of him leading a girl band in his campaign theme song, "Every Man a King."

Criterion Film Co., New York, is the distributor. The picture has already been shipped to Louisiana, but to date no bookings have been secured.

At the New York office of the Criterion Film Co. it was said that the picture is not sponsored by Senator Long; it is an independent effort called "The Kingfish," and will be distributed throughout the country.

Paris Facing Big Shutdown In Tax Fight

May 31 Set as Date for Government Battle

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, May 8.—This gay capital is facing the possibility of a complete shutdown of all forms of entertainment on May 31. Organized branches of amusement—legitimate and film theatres, music halls, vaudeville spots, night clubs, sports exhibitions, dancing, skating, restaurants, cafes and orchestras—have informed the Government they will close unless cuts are made in taxes.

The move is a climax to agitation dating back to the March session of Parliament. At that time the Government promised action in Parliament, but nothing happened. Parliament resumes on May 27.

At present film houses pay 35 per

Paramount Pictures New Name Approved

The name of reorganized Paramount will be changed to Paramount Pictures, Inc., under a proposal for a change of the company's name which was approved by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe on Saturday. The proposal must still be approved by stockholders at the special meeting, June 3, and by the secretary of state.

The decision to abandon the name Paramount Publix Corp., adopted about 1927, is in line with changes in name of subsidiary companies which resulted in the dropping of the Publix name from them as well.

Members Gathering from Many Spots for Start At Atlanta Today

By RED KANN

ATLANTA, May 19.—The code, compulsory block booking, distributor "aggression" in exhibition and the Pettengill bill, with only the last of these slated to receive a kind word, will command most of the attention of delegates at the business sessions of the Allied States Ass'n. convention, which opens at the Hotel Piedmont here Monday for a four-day run.

Tied in with discussions of compulsory block booking will be commendation of the Pettengill anti-block booking bill and a probable convention resolution endorsing the measure and urging its passage by Congress. Allied, both nationally and locally, has been active in marshaling support for the measure for several months past.

The code, already punch-drunk and bewildered from rough handling at earlier Allied sessions, has another mauling in store for it at this one. Allied's traditional code position would indicate the registration of convention sentiment calling for complete nullification of the code as it affects theatres, on the theory that the sale of admission tickets is an intrastate and not interstate means of livelihood. Either that or a thorough re-drafting of the code to reapportion independent representation on Campi and the local boards and to liberalize the code's theatre provisions.

With the opening of Allied's meeting only 24 hours away, no champion of the code in its present form by tonight had registered, invited or uninvited, for the sessions.

Spirited condemnation of distributor "aggression" may be a feature of some of the business sessions with designated playing time and percentage policies probably bearing the brunt of

To make the closing threat more realistic, all employes have been given notices.

Government officials claim more money than ever is needed. Amusement backers counter that they want a 50 per cent cut in all taxes, due to bad business. Film houses have recently cut scales to an average of about three francs (20 cents) for double features. Scales generally are down about 30 per cent.

The Government is maintaining an aloof attitude. In some circles the closing threat has been called "blackmail."

Tie Vote Kills Lottery

BOSTON, May 19.—A tie vote of 110 to 110 in the House blocked the fight for a bill to legalize a state lottery. The legislators were put on record when a roll call was demanded by Representative W. Capitol to Do Series

HOLLYWOOD, May 19.—Capitol Pictures is making ready eight highway patrol action pictures. The same principals will be featured in all. Reed Howes has been signed to star. Fred Neumeyer will direct. The first feature, "Double Spots," from the story by William Bruner, is being adapted now by Tom Gibson and will start shooting soon. Bob Doran has been signed for camera work.

Rex Chicago Office Makes Total Eight

With the opening of a Chicago branch in charge of Herman Saperstein, Rex Premiums now has eight offices. Two others will be opened shortly, one in Boston and the other in Omaha. Harry Egert, president, returned late last week from the Windy City after setting up the latest branch.

Cities where the company is now represented are: Philadelphia, with Ben Smallberg in charge; Albany, headed by Harry Rabinowitz; New Haven, Joe Leighton; New Orleans, Lester Tobias; Washington, Roy Dial; St. Louis, John Lane; New York, Louis Weinzimmer.

Jack Goldstein, general sales manager, is now on a trip to Omaha and Los Angeles. The company recently closed a deal with Skouras Theatres for nine Jersey City theatres.

ahead of the Park Lane, Palisades Park.

David T. Wilentz, attorney general for the state of New Jersey, will represent Charnow at the hearing. Fox has retained a Jersey attorney to handle its side of the case and H. A. Toner will represent the Adams family.

Meanwhile, the Leonia, Leonia, will play Will Rogers in "Life Begins at 40" for three days starting May 23. Two other Fox films have already played Charnow's house.

Campi recently handed down a clearance decision granting the Leonia the right to play seven days after Leonia. The order did not mention Palisades Park theatre, which has contracts providing for seven days' protection over Leonia.

coupons with each 20-cent admission and five-cent coupons with 15-cent tickets. The coupons are distributed at the Liberty and Regent and are redeemable at face value for any merchandise at the Katz stores in Greater Kansas City.

Exhibitors protest that this is a plain case of reduced admission contrary to the code, but whether the first run Publix Newman, adjacent to the Liberty, or other downtown first runs will do anything about it has not been determined.

Dietz Is Featured In Forbes Magazine

Howard Dietz is the subject of the fifth of a series of articles on "America's Most Successful Salesmen" in the current issue of Forbes business magazine.

According to C. D. Frazer, the author, Dietz has "lured more people through the turnstiles than any other man in his branch of the industry."

In answering the question "How"? Frazer says:

"He believes that advertising should be entertaining in itself, should tell a human-interest story. It must be the miniature sideshow which brings people into the tent."

Await Changes in Seattle

SEATTLE, May 19.—Rumblings that forebode changes in the first run setup in Seattle are being heard. Involved are the John Hamrick and Evergreen circuits.

Rumor has it that vaudeville will be "out" at both Hamrick's Orpheum and Evergreen's Paramount within three weeks. Further reports indicate that Evergreen may close the Paramount, despite a lease which says that the Paramount film product can be booked only by the operators of the theatre.

It is understood that if Evergreen closes the Paramount and thus loses the Paramount product, that Hamrick will not bid for the films. There are no other local first runs that maintain above a 25-cent admission.

All Paramount theatre employes are understood to have received dismissal notices this week.

Buy Terre Haute House

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 19.—The Little Virginia has been acquired by Ross Garver and M. D. Reinking, owners of the Orpheum and Swan.

The new owners have closed the house for remodeling. A new screen will be installed as well as new sound and interior decorations.

Plan Cleveland Drive-In

CLEVELAND, May 19. — Plans are afoot for Cleveland's first Drive-In theatre to be established on the Telling Farm property on the east shore not far from Willoughby. It is anticipated that affected theatres will fight it.

Takes Two at Tiffin, O.

TIFFIN, O., May 19.—David W. Britton, Berea, O., head of Seneca Theatres, Inc., has taken a lease on the Grand and Ritz, the only two houses here. His plans have not been announced.

Reopen Frisco Rialto

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Fox West Coast has reopened its New Rialto after spending several thousand dollars remodeling. The house, a second run, is managed by Ward Morris.

the attack. M-G-M, because of its proposed invasion of the Chicago theatre field, through Loew's, Inc., as a result of an exhibitor rebellion there against Metro sales policies, appears to have little chance of escaping a scolding in the forms of resolutions from the conventioneers. Allied orators, with the Chicago situation in mind, arrived here several days ago and since have been brushing up on polished vituperation, according to reports about convention headquarters.

Early registration at the Piedmont has led convention officials to estimate that attendance will reach a minimum of 500 and may go as high as 800, including the registration of other than exhibitors and, also, the wives and guests of delegates. In addition, registration may be swelled by the decision to welcome all exhibitors, whether members of Allied or not. Mounting exhibitor interest in Allied in the South has been evidenced during the past few months and may result in an unusually large attendance from adjacent southern states. This, of course, would account for the bulk of the attendance which, as is the case with all national exhibitor conventions, has been drawn from the territory in or adjacent to the convention city.

Representative groups, however, will be on hand from numerous Allied strongholds in the East, North and Middlewest, present reservations at the Piedmont would indicate.

Many Social Events Scheduled

A full program of social events for both conventioneers and their wives has been prepared under the direction of Mrs. Charles B. Ellis, Mrs. A. Jules Benedic and N. H. Waters. Included will be a tea at the Governor's mansion, at which Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, wife of the governor, will be hostess; a golf tournament at East Lake Country Club, at which Bobby Jones, former international champion, will be present, and various luncheons, dinners and sight-seeing tours. The convention banquet and dinner dance will be held Thursday evening at East Lake Country Club.

Gov. Talmadge is scheduled to address a special convention program on Wednesday evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club, at which "Heaven Bound," a play featuring the Big Bethel Negro Choir, will be presented. Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta is scheduled to extend the city's welcome at the opening session and the invocation will be delivered Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Father William M. Hanlon of Sacred Heart Church, who is a brother of the late Jimmy Hanlon, M-G-M executive, who died here recently. This event will comprise a tribute to the departed film man.

Talking pictures of the delegates will be made by National Screen Service and prints will be available for home town showings later. Exhibit space has been opened on the mezzanine of the convention hotel and 20 concessionaires are expected to exhibit film and theatre supplies.

Eastern States and Middle West Send Big Delegations

Upper New York, New England and Pennsylvania among the eastern states and Illinois and Michigan in the Middle Western tier will top representation at the Allied convention which opens in Atlanta today. The tally, point-by-point across the country, yesterday stacked up as follows:

Fifteen from Albany Zone

ALBANY, May 19.—Abe Stone, president of Allied of New York, heads a group of about 15 members of the local organization attending the annual convention in Atlanta.

Blum from Maryland

BALTIMORE, May 19.—Herman A. Blum, owner of the Little and treasurer of the Allied, will attend the convention as the representative of the M. P. T. O. of Maryland, Inc., which is affiliated with the Allied. He is the only member of the Maryland body that will attend. Blum said: "I have the welfare of the independent theatre men at heart and I will work for anything that will improve conditions in the industry generally."

Two from Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 19.—Frank Merritt of Acme Theatres, Inc., and N. H. Waters of Suburban Theatres will represent Birmingham at the Allied convention. They have no particular problems to be aired, but are going "to listen in."

Strong Down East Group

BOSTON, May 19.—Delegates to Atlanta are on their way via boat to Norfolk and then over the road to the scene of the convention. Representing Independent Exhibitors, Inc., territorial Allied unit, are: Walter Littlefield, vice-president, Boston; Richard B. Rubin, State, Saugus; Nathan Yamins, Fall River; Frank Lydon, Hamilton, Dorchester; Ernest Horstmann, Wakefield, Wakefield; Les Bendslev, Wellesley, Wellesley; Eddie Ansin, Interstate Theatres, Boston, and Arthur Howard, Business Manager.

Others are expected to join these men at Boston from other Allied units in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island.

Nobody from Bridgeport

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 19.—This city will have no representation at Atlanta. The territory is M. P. T. O. A.

Carolinas Not Allied

CHARLOTTE, May 19.—Allied has no organization in either of the Carolinas. So far as can be learned, no exhibitors from this area, therefore, will be present when the gavel falls in Atlanta. There is a possibility that some of the small independents, however, may attend in view of the accessibility of the convention city.

Loew Bothers Chicago

CHICAGO, May 19.—Aaron Saperstein, president of Allied Theatres of Illinois, leads a contingent of 25 or more Chicago and downstate exhibitors to Atlanta.

In view of the hot spot in which Chicago exhibitors find themselves as a result of the threatened Loew invasion, it is expected that Saperstein and other members will fortify Sidney Samuelson, national president, with further facts on Allied policy regarding this move. Saperstein has indicated that he will not personally take the floor to amplify the local Loew situation, but will turn the task over to Samuelson, who, at a recent meeting of Allied Theatre Owners of the Northwest at Minneapolis, put through a resolution in which Allied stated that as a national proposition they would call a boycott on M-G-M if Loew persists in pursuing plans for competitive building in Chicago and several other cities.

This city is the hub of Loew theatre building activities and the local situation is generally conceded to be the basis on which Allied nationally will set its future policies. In fact, Allied's attitude generally is expected to develop from the local outline painted by Saperstein for Samuelson as the basis of a national issue.

Cleveland Sending Five

CLEVELAND, May 19.—M. B. Horwitz, Meyer Fine, Henry Greenberger, Maurice Kaplan, Harry Horwitz, all Cleveland independents, and Ray Wallace of Alliance, plan to attend Atlanta from the northern section of Ohio.

Smith Heads Ohio Group

COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—The I. T. O. Ohio, an Allied affiliate, is sending a representative delegation to the Atlanta convention. Those who have so far signified their intention of attending include: Martin G. Smith, Toledo, president; P. J. Wood, Columbus, secretary and business manager; W. C. Chesbrough and Frank Ferguson, Columbus; Moe Horwitz and Meyer Fine, Cleveland, and Ray Wallace, Alliance. Several other members are considering making the trip, but have not definitely decided.

Draws Blank in Iowa

DES MOINES, May 19.—Allied Theatre Owners of Iowa will not be represented at Atlanta convention, so far as Harry Hiersteiner, local member and former director, is informed. Leo F. Wolcott of Eldora, president and acting secretary, was in Des Moines late last week and had received no reports at that time that the organization would be represented.

Michigan Goes Over Road

DETROIT, May 19.—The following already have signed up to join Allied of Michigan's motor cavalcade to the Allied convention in Atlanta.

Glenn A. and Mrs. Cross, Battle Creek; Ray and Mrs. Branch, Hastings; P. C. and Mrs. Scram, Kalamazoo; James C. and Mrs. Ritter, Detroit; H. M. and Mrs. Richey, Detroit; Fred and Mrs. DeLodder, Detroit; Roy and Mrs. Taylor, Grand Rapids; F. A. and Mrs. Wetsman, Detroit; William Schuttenhelm, Detroit; Fred Schneider, Detroit; I. J. London, Detroit; William Guensche, Detroit; Barney Kilbride, Detroit; Allan and Mrs. Johnson, Grand Rapids; James M. Minter, Flint. W. A. and Mrs. Cassidy of Alma and William A. London of Detroit, who are now in Florida, will go from there to Atlanta.

The local unit's chief fight at the convention will be made against preferred playdates and percentage pictures and for revision of the code to give independent exhibitors and distributors greater representation on the various local boards and the Code Authority.

Too Far for Hartford

HARTFORD, May 19.—Plans to form a local group to attend the Allied convention which have been hanging fire for weeks have collapsed due to the distance. Show business has been poor since the advent of daylight saving and Allied exhibitors do not feel like going away at this time. E. M. Loew of Boston will represent Loew's theatre here. Maurice Shulman of the Rivoli, Harrison Harries of the Crown and Leonard O'Neil of the Cameo would have liked to have gone along.

Horwitz Won't Be There

HOUSTON, May 19.—Will Horwitz, fiery independent, will not attend the Allied convention and says that, so far as he knows, no one from this immediate area will.

K. C. Area Not Going

KANSAS CITY, May 19.—As far as can be determined, this territory will not be represented at the Allied convention.

Neither the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Ass'n. nor the I. T. O. of Greater Kansas City is affiliated nationally, although Jay Means, I. T. O. head, has long been friendly with Allied and receives its bulletins.

Three exhibitors from this territory attended the M. P. T. O. A. conclave at New Orleans in February in an unofficial capacity.

ITO of Calif. Not Going

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—The ITO, although in harmony with Allied, is not affiliated with either of the two national exhibitor associations. Representing approximately two-thirds of the independents in this area, the organization, nevertheless is sending no one to Atlanta.

About 6 from Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, May 19.—A. C. Gutenberg, president of the Independent Theatres' Protective Ass'n. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, will attend the Atlanta meetings accompanied by Ross Baldwin, George Fischer and perhaps three others.

Berger from Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, May 19.—Benny Berger will carry the banner of Northwest Allied at Atlanta. Al Steffes, scheduled for appearance on the program, may be prevented by ill health from making the trip.

Fishman May Attend

NEW HAVEN, May 19.—Although there is no Allied unit in the territory, Abe Fishman of Fishman Theatres may attend the convention as a visitor.

Want 20% Cancellations

NEW ORLEANS, May 19.—On the theory that the National Industrial Recovery Act will be extended, Allied is going to make a demand for at least 20 per cent cancellation privileges, according to Henry Lazarus, one of the delegates from this territory who left for Atlanta yesterday morning.

Revamping of the code mechanism to give independents more representation on Code Authority is also being sought.

Lazarus was accompanied by Mrs. Lazarus, Harry Schulman, J. C. Keller and others. Many from this territory are expected to make the trip by bus and automobile.

Percentages are also going to be a hot convention topic, Lazarus indicated.

Few from New York

Both the I. T. O. A. and T. O. C. C., New York local independent organizations, will not be represented at the four-day Allied convention in Atlanta, starting today. Some members of each organization have discussed going to Atlanta, but definitely called it off at the last minute.

James P. Clark, president of National Film Carriers Ass'n., and Clint Weyer, secretary, left last night. Clark is listed as one of the speakers.

M. Grossman of Hudson, N. Y., and Abe Lichtman, Washington exhibitor, also departed last night.

Herman Robbins, George Dembow, Ben Rosenberg and Morton Van Praag, all National Screen executives, took a rattler last night.

Sidney Samuelson, accompanied by his wife and also his secretary, Sally Fisher, arrived in Atlanta Friday morning.

Two from Oklahoma—Maybe

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 19.—L. C. Griffith is contemplating joining Wallace Walthall of Dallas, who is affiliated with National Screen Service, for the Allied convention. No one else from this State is going, since this is an MPTOA territory.

Omaha Not Interested

OMAHA, May 19.—Allied will have to do without representatives from this territory when it convenes for its convention at Atlanta. Allied has never been any too strong in this section, getting most of its impetus from the Iowa side of the Omaha territory. Its staunchest member and former secretary, Lester Martin, resigned some months ago. With Martin's departure, Allied was left without any local representation, although, strictly speaking, Martin was some distance from Omaha, operating a small house in Iowa.

Philadelphia Turning Out

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—IEPA, which recently joined Allied, expects to send between 20 and 25 members to Atlanta. The organization may charter a private car for the jaunt.

Those who have so far signified their intention of attending are Morris Wax, president of the group; David Barrist, Harry Fried, Bill Butler, Roy Schwartz, Dave Milgram, Jack Bagley, Leo Posel, Herb Elliott, Columbus Stamper, Jeanette Willensky and Mo Wax.

The group carries no specific local problem to the meeting, but plans to join in the discussions on code revision and block booking, both of which have engaged the attention of the IEPA for some time.

Twenty-two from Western Penna.

PITTSBURGH, May 19.—A special car left here tonight over the Pennsylvania railroad for Atlanta with 22 independent exhibitors aboard, as well as Fred J. Herrington of the M. P. T. O. of Western Pennsylvania, an Allied affiliate.

The party included Morris Roth, Plaza theatre, Duquesne; M. A. Rosenberg, Rialto; I. W. Shearer, Highland; Norman Huhm, Grandview; Bob Higgins, Guthrie, Grove City, Pa.; Ike Browarsky, Bellevue; Pete Antonoplos, East Pittsburgh; Mike Marx, Oil City, Pa.; Nick Anas, Weirton, W. Va.; Pete Nikas, Regal, Wilkinsburg; Al Weiland, of the Weiland, Wilkinsburg; Art Ttola, New Kensington; Eli Goldstein, Paramount; Bill Lipsie, Blairville, Pa.; Frank Panapolis, State, Clairton; Eddie Beedle, Canonsburg; Bill Brown, Palace, Tarentum; Bill Walker, Crafton; All Glazer, West Park; Dave Leff, Metropolitan; Bill Wheat, Sewickley, and Benny Amdur, of the Garden, Northside.

The delegation will be behind the Pettengill anti-block-booking bill solidly, but otherwise has considered no legislation to bring before the convention.

No Providence Men

PROVIDENCE, May 19.—This city will not be represented at Atlanta, a check-up reveals. Martin Tuohey is president of Allied Theatre Owners of Rhode Island. He operates the LeRoy at Pawtucket.

None from Eastern Missouri

ST. LOUIS, May 19.—Dr. J. L. Price, one-time president of the local Allied unit, informed MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday it will send no delegates to Atlanta. The local Allied affiliate was never active and disbanded a couple of years ago. In exhibitor association activities here the noise, as big as it is, is confined to the M. P. T. O. of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

Frisco Disinterested

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—There will be no delegates from this territory to the Allied convention. This region is almost entirely M. P. T. O. A. or Northern California Independent Theatre Owners' Ass'n.

Three from the District

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The delegation from Washington to attend the Allied convention will be composed of Charles H. Olive, A. E. Lichtman and J. H. Hiser. The group will make the southward trip in company of Martin Van Praag and Ben Rosenberg, of the National Screen Service of New York.

The Allied Theatre Owners of the District of Columbia will take no particular grievances to the convention, nor will it bring up any matters of particular import to this district. Rather, the local group will be represented further to augment the force of the national organization in its battle for the independent exhibitor.

Of particular interest, however, to the local group will be the analysis of the new code proposed by the Senate finance committee, the debates on the continuing of double featuring where "local option" has approved the practice and questions arising out of the growing tendency on the part of distributors to add restricting clauses to contracts allegedly without the knowledge and consent of the exhibitor.

The delegation will carry with it a resolution of the group it represents supporting the measure—H. R. 6472—introduced by Rep. Samuel B. Pettengill (Democrat, Indiana) for the prevention of compulsory block booking.

Latin Consuls Will Be M. P. Club Guests

The Latin American Consuls of New York will be guests of honor at the M. P. Club forum tomorrow with former Ambassador James W. Gerard heading the list of speakers under the chairmanship of Louis Nizer.

The following consuls will attend: Pablo Suarez, Cuba; Eduardo Villasenor, Mexico; F. Pardo De Zela, Peru; M. Jiminez, Costa Rica; and Jose Cambrubi, publisher of the La Prensa; James Carson, chairman of the Council of Inter-American Relations; Conrado Traverso, Argentine; Louizo De Faso, Brazil; Santiago Rivas Corta, and Jaime Yankelevich, president of Nacional Radio Corp. of Argentine.

Reports have it that the Strand, with its 15-cent admission until 6 P.M. and free paddle pops to the kids on Saturdays and Sundays, has cut into the business of the three 15-cent houses. Now the Garden, formerly playing continued first runs, has also gone into the 15-25-cent class with revivals.

Comerford Taken Home

SCRANTON, May 19.—M. E. Comerford has been brought to his home here from the Emergency Hospital, Washington, D. C. Comerford was stricken in Washington on Feb. 22 while on his way to the M. P. T. O. A. convention in New Orleans. Dr. J. F. Comerford, a nephew and the attending physician, reports that Comerford is continuing to show improvement.

Federal Judge Julian W. Mack today. The court has given its tentative approval to the plan, subject to the inclusion of the modifications. With these now embodied, formal court approval may be given the plan at once.

The Fox Met bondholders' committee was authorized on Saturday by Judge Mack to begin its solicitation of creditors' assents to the plan, and the committee's deposit certificates, binding those bondholders whom it represents, were approved. This is regarded as assuring the necessary two-thirds creditor acceptance of the Schenck plan as the committee represents 86 per cent of the Fox Met bondholders and approves the plan.

Rosenblatt Says He Will Quit His NRA Post Within a Month

Washington, May 20.—Reports that he would quit the government service within a month were today confirmed by Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, negotiator of the film and other amusement codes.

"I expect to quit after the new act is passed, but by June 16 at the latest," he admitted. "I expect to go back to my law practice in New York."

Rosenblatt, who came to the NRA in the summer of 1933 as a deputy administrator, to undertake the negotiation of a code for the picture industry, rapidly achieved a position as one of the strong men of the administration, both under General Hugh S. Johnson, who made him a division administrator and assigned to him a number of codes difficult of negotiation, and under the board which succeeded Johnson, which appointed him director of compliance.

Fight to Keep NRA 2 Years Gets Started

Richberg Appears Before Committee of House

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Declaring himself in full sympathy with the ideas of the Senate to limit codes, Donald R. Richberg, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, today opened his fight for a two-year extension of the act before the House Ways and Means Committee.

A two-year extension is absolutely necessary to carry out the plans of the NRA, he declared, foreseeing chaos if it is not granted. He also attacked the Senate exemption from code requirements of businesses wholly intrastate, declaring it unworkable.

While the House committee was hearing Richberg, Senator Nye of North Dakota, at the other end of the Capitol, unleashed an attack upon the "caravan" coming to Washington

Chicago Invasion Gains In Attention as Code Interest Recedes

By RED KANN

ATLANTA, May 20.—Confident its organized compaign to end block booking through the Pettengill Bill is forging steadily ahead and that widespread dissatisfaction with the code will result in a new NRA ruling exhibition out because of its intrastate nature, Allied, on a basis of indications tonight, will make most of its noise and concentrate its principal fire on M-G-M and its invasion of Chicago.

Allied leaders regard the issue as not merely one typified by M-G-M, but which may extend to other national producers whenever their sales departments cannot get together with their customers. There is some talk of a boycott. Several leaders do not like the sound of the word but one high in their councils has been known to remark "murder is illegal, too, except in self defense."

Whatever attitude is struck and whatever decision is reached will result from a thorough exploration of facts. This much today was prom-

Local 306 is now back on a local autonomy basis. Harland Holmden of the I.A.T.S.E. has been guiding the activities of the union for the past year. In a recent move to spread employment, all working card members were put on a four-day week schedule.

Elections will be held next Monday.

Allied Meet Aims Attack Upon M-G-M

ised by Allied's president, Sidney E. Samuelson of Newton, N. J.

Aaron Saperstein, president of Allied Theatres of Illinois and pivotal figure in the Chicago situation, is here. He has with him copies of a bill introduced a few days ago in the Illinois legislature by Representative Granata seeking to make it unlawful for any distributor to threaten to build or lease directly or indirectly any competing theatre for the purpose of coercing or intimidating any exhibitor.

The measure is aimed at M-G-M and the Chicago situation. Just as obvious is its sponsorship. Saperstein also has brought south with him a word picture of the trouble spot. Here is the canvas he painted today:

Won't Be Dictated To

"We maintain no distributor has a right to tell us what to play on Sunday. We have no argument with M-G-M on its sales policy, although we do not agree with it.

"That's no reason why M-G-M should threaten to build. No other distributor in Chicago gets his product played on preferred time and percentages. Why should M-G-M? The issue goes beyond.

"If we accept M-G-M's terms, what would prevent other major companies from following the same selling plan and how could we turn them down? By the same token, we are compelled to fight M-G-M on the so-called theatre invasion for the identical reason.

"Wouldn't it be a fine state of affairs if every major decided to build in Chicago merely because he couldn't get together with his customers on terms? We don't say M-G-M is wrong, but we certainly are not saying we are wrong either.

"M-G-M is entitled to try to sell its product any way it likes. We reserve the right to buy or not to buy, but we can't see how failure to close a deal gives M-G-M the right to walk into Chicago with a lot of plans or maybe it's just talk about theatres."

Aside from B. & K. houses, Saperstein added, M-G-M product is not playing a single Windy City house. "And I don't see that anyone has missed them either," he concluded.

M-G-M Loses Reported

Pre-convention talk which is centering largely around the Chicago impasse credits M-G-M with having been compelled to remain out of 200 theatres this season at a loss of revenue variously estimated at from $3,000 to $5,000 weekly.

Unconfirmed, but persistent, is the rumor M-G-M's flexible selling policy for next season was induced by a desire to have sufficient leeway territorially to meet strained situations such as now prevails in the Windy City.

Also unconfirmed is the report that M-G-M has offered Saperstein's members, as well as Essanness Theatres, which are grouped with the former in this fight, a deal by which percentages would be agreed to "in principle" but arranged so that film rentals would cost the insurgents no more than they do at present.

At any rate, M-G-M and Chicago rapidly are becoming headline material here. This is not to indicate the convention will ignore its well-defined stand on block booking. Allied leaders have been lining up signatures favoring the Pettengill measure.

Samuelson is confident that block booking, which is described by various Allied men as the one chronic and basic disease of the industry eventually will be stamped out legislatively.

"You know major reforms take from 10 to 15 years to clear through Congress. We have been at this only since 1928 when first the Brookhart Bill was introduced. This campaign is gaining in momentum and impetus and inevitably it will be enacted into the law," Samuelson told Motion Picture Daily.

Insofar as Allied's third major war cry, the code, is concerned, organization spokesmen are going naive by inquiring: "Is there a code?" Privately, and not so privately, they are expressing their pride in Abram F. Myers by pointing out that like a voice in the wilderness it was Allied's general counsel alone in the industry who voiced his opinion months ago that the code did not apply to intrastate industry. They compare this early opinion with widespread current Washington legislative opinion including Donald R. Richberg's that the NRA in its new form may be expected to embrace only the industries which definitely are interstate.

Registration by late afternoon tallied 150 with more anticipated. Arrivals had time on their hands all day, the only scheduled event being the president's reception at the Piedmont tonight.

The day was given over to rump conventions in the lobby where delegates from far removed points swapped notes, complaints and theatre experience.

Directors met early this evening and appointed working committees for the convention. Policy is in the hands of Walter B. Littlefield, Massachusetts; Aaron Saperstein, Illinois; Morris Wax, Eastern Pennsylvania, and Sam Borisky, Tennessee. To advise the president there was named a convention committee on committees composed of Martin Smith, Ohio; H. M. Richey, Michigan; Fred Herrington, Western Pennsylvania; Abe Stone, Upper New York; Ike Katz, Georgia.

Hinting at what is believed to be a cooperative insurance plan submitted to Allied and to be discussed here was a third committee comprising Smith, Henry Lazarus, Louisiana; C. H. Olive, Washington, D. C.

The committee on policy also set this program for Tuesday's business session:

Code to be discussed by Abram F. Myers; distributor practices, David Barrist; affiliated theatre practices, H. A. Cole; film carriers, James Clark; block booking, Littlefield; Ascap, Myers.

Additional committees also will be named and Wednesday's agenda set up. The second session will be marked by continuation of the opening day, while Thursday, which is the final day, will see Allied's presentation of its solution of various problems. At least this is what is promised.

Legal Ban on Loew Move To Enter Chicago Sought

described as "an act relating to the suppression of unfair competition and monopolistic practices in the motion picture business in this state." The bill would make it unlawful for any distributor to build or lease theatres when the purpose of the move is demonstrated to be coercion or intimidation of any existing exhibitor, and provides a series of fines from $200 to $2,500.

Conceivably construable as applicable to other distributors who may elect to build or acquire theatres in any city in Illinois, the measure, nevertheless, appears to be aimed at and to have been inspired by the indicated M-G-M sales difficulties and theatre plans in Chicago. The text of the measure follows:

"Section I—As used in this act, distributor shall mean (A) any natural person, partnership, unincorporated association, or corporation, which engages or contracts to engage in the distribution of motion pictures and (B) any natural person, partnership, unincorporated association, or corporation, in which or with which any of the parties named in clause (A) above have any interest whatsoever, whether direct or indirect, and (C) any natural personal partnership, unincorporated association, or corporation, which has any interest whatsoever, whether direct or indirect, in or with any of the parties named in clause (A), and (D) any officer, director, agent, employe, partner or associate of any of the parties named in clauses (A) or (B) or (C) above.

"As used in this act exhibitor shall mean any natural person, partnership, unincorporated association, or corporation, engaged in the ownership or operation of theatres for the exhibition of motion pictures.

"Section 2—It shall be unlawful for any distributor to threaten to or to commit any overt act evidencing an intention to, or to build, lease or otherwise acquire directly or indirectly any competing motion picture theatre, or to exhibit any motion pictures in any competing motion picture theatre in which it has any interest for the purpose of coercing or intimidating any exhibitor into entering into any proposed contract for the exhibition of motion pictures.

"Section 3—Any corporation or foreign association exercising any of the powers, franchises or functions of a corporation in this state, upon conviction of a violation of this act, shall be thereafter prohibited from continuing in business in this state. The secretary of state shall upon notice of such conviction revoke the certificate of authority of a foreign corporation so convicted to transact business in this state. The attorney-general, on notice that a domestic corporation has been convicted of a violation of this act, shall begin proceedings for the dissolution of such corporation.

"Section 4—Any exhibitor may enjoin any distributor from continuing such threats to, or from continuing to commit any overt act evidencing an intention to, or from proceeding to build, lease or otherwise acquire directly or indirectly any competing motion picture theatre, or from exhibiting or continuing to exhibit any motion picture in any competing motion picture theatre in which such distributor has any interest whatsoever when any of the above unlawful acts are done for the purpose of coercing or intimidating such exhibitor into entering into any proposed contract for the exhibition of motion pictures.

"Section 5—Any distributor who violates any provision of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than $200, nor more than $1,000 for the first offense and shall be fined not less than $500 dollars nor more than $2,500 for each separate and subsequent offense, and in addition to the fines provided above he shall also be imprisoned in the county jail not less than 60 days nor more than one year for each offense. Each day upon which the acts herein prohibited are done or continued shall be deemed a separate and distinct offense."

Photophone Has Big Exhibit at Atlanta

Atlanta, May 20.—RCA Photophone, virtually blocked out of theatres controlled by major companies and admittedly, therefore, concentrating on independents has sent eight sales executives and seven engineers plus a lavish equipment display to the Allied convention here.

E. M. Hartley, sales manager; Lawrence B. Morris, vice-president and general counsel; J. D. Cook, treasurer; and Ed Auger, assistant to Hartley, are all here from New York representing RCA Manufacturing Co.

Neil Blount, New Orleans district sales manager, and J. W. Sims, occupying a similar post in Charlotte, are others concentrated here to augment Jack Dumestre, Atlanta district sales manager, and Harry Leighlery, Atlanta district service manager.

The engineering crew out of New York includes Mike Yahr, Charles Herbst, Charles Swinney, Jack Faulstick, David Gould, P. Reed and Al Ramsey.

Photophone is displaying PG32 High Fidelity equipment as well as a public address system for small houses and a Sonotone hard of hearing device which it sells but does not manufacture and also a portable 16-mm projector.

Fox Met Plan Gets Tentative Approval

approval by the Federal court were submitted to Federal Judge Julian W. Mack in chambers yesterday and an order to show cause why the plan as modified should not be found "fair and equitable" by the court was asked.

If the order is signed by Judge Mack a date for a final hearing on the fairness of the Schenck plan will be set.

Under the amendments in the plan Fox Theatres' representation on the board of the new Fox Met company will be reduced to two members, instead of the original three, and Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corp., which is given a 10 per cent participation in the Schenck plan, will be entitled to fill the vacancy thus created. It is believed that either Herbert B. Swope, KAO chairman, or Leslie E. Thompson, president, will be named to the board, replacing Samuel S. Allan, attorney.

Pennsylvania declared today. Their opposition is based on the belief that the additional operating day might prove more costly than profitable and film may not be available.

They realize they have a fight on their hands, because large segments of the public favor Sunday shows, although a substantial church element is reported to be opposed.

Both of these Allied groups will be represented at a public hearing on the measure in Harrisburg Tuesday when objections will be registered.

Hand on the Stand In Electrics' Suit

WILMINGTON, May 20. — Stanley Hand of Chicago, general manager of Erpi's Central division, testified for Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T. in the General Talking Pictures anti-trust trial here today. He elaborated on previous testimony by E. M. Loew, New England exhibitor, and Edward G. Levy, associated with the M.P.T.O.A. of Connecticut.

Hand denied telling Loew that he would be foolish to take DeForest equipment when the company was going to get out of the business and he as a result would be unable to secure parts. He also denied making a statement to Loew that Western and Bell Laboratories were in a position to change recording in studios whereby film would not be able to be used on any equipment except Erpi; and that Western and Bell made, or contemplated changing, recording so that film produced with Erpi sound could be shown on Erpi equipment only.

He said he never told Loew that DeForest exhibitor licensees were not "going to get along," because DeForest equipment was using "bootleg patents," which belonged to Erpi and Western and that exhibitors would be liable for infringement.

Hand denied knowing or having met Levy who testified he had visited Hand with New England exhibitors to have Erpi service charges canceled or reduced.

The half dozen plans which have been filed in the Bronx include a theatre at Mount Eden Ave., east of Walton Ave., which is reported leased to Consolidated. Eli Maran plans to construct a new house at 167th St. and Sheridan Ave. Brennan & McCarthy have filed blue prints for a structure at 183rd St. and the Grand Concourse. An unnamed sponsor is behind a project at 182nd St. and Grand Concourse. Springer & Cocalis have plans filed for a theatre at Boston Road and Fish Ave. and the last theatre will be built at Fordham Road and Grand Concourse by an unnamed backer.

RKO is reported to have taken a lease on one of the Grand Concourse projects. The circuit has the Fordham on Fordham Road, east of the Concourse. Loew's has the Paradise and the Grand in the same neighborhood.

Harry Mandel is fighting in court to secure a license for a house at Madison Ave. and 79th St. License Commissioner Moss refused a license after hearing protests of surrounding property owners. Argument on Mandel's petition for a writ of mandamus to compel issuance of the license was postponed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew until next monday.

NVA Fund Gets Aid Of 2,500 Theatres

Approximately 2,500 theatres, with practically every major circuit in the country included, joined yesterday in donating 10 per cent of their gross receipts for the day to the N.V.A. Fund.

The money raised will be used to maintain the organization's sanitarium in upper New York State and the various hospital beds located in practically all the large cities in the country. It was estimated yesterday that over $200,000 will be received and in several quarters the figure was raised to $500,000.

At the monster benefit staged at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, the likes of which this jaded town has never seen before, it was estimated that $10,000 was taken in at the box-office. The figure is not final, since the money for most of the seats is coming in by mail and has not yet reached N.V.A. headquarters. The Madison Square Garden affair was staged in conjunction with the Associated Masonic Clubs of New York, which organization will also share in the proceeds.

Particularly high praise has been heaped upon the broad shoulders of Boris Morros, managing director of the Paramount Theatre, for the manner in which he staged the show. He and his entire production staff worked for days and far into the night Saturday to stage the production. The entire show went off without so much as one small hitch. Peculiarly enough, Morros served on the committees and as production director as a Mason, and not as a member of the N.V.A., as might have been expected, since he is directly connected with the theatre.

Final returns of the complete amount raised by the drive are expected at N.V.A. headquarters in about a week or 10 days.

ad calling attention to competitive theatres and attractions.

Appended to the Tower's opening day insertion of 500 lines in the Kansas City Star was a three-column box announcing "outstanding entertainment downtown this week," with "downtown" stressed. Then followed: "Unusually good attractions at all first run downtown theatres. Enjoy them all!" Below were listed the theatres and attractions: Newman, "Goin' to Town"; Midland, "Les Miserables"; Mainstreet, "G Men"; Tower, "Mr. Dynamite."

S. Bernard Joffee, the Tower's manager, explained it is an infrequent occasion when superior entertainment is present simultaneously at all downtown first runs, and since the opportunity presented itself he thought the public should be made aware of the fact.

The consensus of comment of the other managers was: "A splendid idea and a fine gesture."

$4,000 for "Night at Ritz"

"A Night at the Ritz" wound up with about $4,000 for the week at the Mayfair last night. "A Shot in the Dark," a Chesterfield picture, is now current.

Ontario Exhibitors Stymied in Tax Row

TORONTO, May 20.—The 275-odd exhibitors and theatre managers of Ontario appear to be stymied, following the blunt declaration by Premier M. F. Hepburn that the breath-taking amusement tax increases would be collected, regardless of what theatres said or did, in order to raise a further $1,500,000 during the next 12 months as compared with $9,500,000 which was the total revenue from this source in 1934. The deputation which waited upon the Provincial premier got absolutely nowhere in its arguments or suggestions.

"We didn't conceive of any government, two weeks after the close of Parliament, attempting to raise $1,500,000 through one industry, without giving that industry the courtesy of an interview," declared Oscar Hanson of Toronto, general manager of Allied Exhibitors of Ontario.

A committee of exhibitors has been appointed to deal with the situation, but what can be done is a moot question. This committee comprises Mayor P. J. Nolan of Ottawa; Mayor H. E. Wilton of Hamilton; Simon Meretsky of Windsor; Gordon Filman of London, president of Allied exhibitors of Ontario; Harry Alexander of Toronto; R. O. Hanson; J. O. Scott of Weston, secretary of the Independent Theatre Owners of Canada; E. S. Meeghan of Lindsay; Tom Ross of Bowmanville, past president of Ontario Allied; Gordon Miller of Peterboro, and J. L. Murray of Renfrew. These men represent practically the whole province.

Several suggestions have been made. It is proposed that the theatres open a second box-office in their lobbies for the sale of amusement tax tickets separately from the regular admission tickets in order to compel all patrons to realize that they are paying a heavy tax to the Government. One suggestion has been made in this connection that the sign "Hepburn's Nuisance Tax" should be placed over the second wicket.

Fla. Tax Bills Reappear

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 20.—Amusement taxes bobbed up again last week in the Florida legislature. Representative Hill of Lafayette County presented an amusement tax bill, designed to finance an old age pension. Under the terms of his bill, the state would levy a tax of one cent on each 20 cents or fraction of that amount, on each admission. Charges of five cents or less would be exempt.

Representative Buchholz of Alachua County presented a bill to raise funds for schools by a general sales tax of two per cent on all retail sales. Under the terms of his bill professional services would be exempt, but he included the tax on theatre tickets and restaurant meals.

Seeks Ticket Tax Repeal

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Taking advantage of the presence in Washington of the circus, Representative Truax of Ohio today introduced his bill into Congress to repeal the admission tax.

Revive Lottery Bill

BOSTON, May 20.—The lottery bill has been revived by the House, 108-101. A modified bill is to be presented tomorrow. It is figured it would raise about $12,000,000 for the state.

A special commission has been named to investigate marathons and exhibitors hope restrictions will be drastic.

N. H. May Have Lottery

CONCORD, N. H., May 20.—The idea of a legalized lottery is gaining force here, due to the state's budget problems. Gov. H. Styles Bridges is strongly opposed to the plan, however.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Air Hawks"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Packed full of dramatic action and thrills, this is a new kind of air picture, depicting the war for the leadership of the commercial air lines.

The unusual story concerns the attempt of Consolidated Air Lines to put a smaller company out of competition to cinch the Government mail contract. Ralph Bellamy is cast as the head of the Independent Air Line and is teamed with Tira Birell. The latter is used by Douglas Dumbrille, night club owner and Consolidated agent, to bring Bellamy to the club to talk over the sale of his company. Bellamy refuses to sell and Consolidated then hires Dumbrille and his unscrupulous scientist to build a death ray machine which will shatter planes in the air. Three Independent planes are brought down in flames by the ray with the papers headlining the crashes, hinting at inferior equipment. As the Government grounds the Independent planes pending an investigation, Bellamy, to offset the unfavorable publicity, announces his plans for a cross-country flight to break the record.

Just before the takeoff Bellamy links Dumbrille with the death ray plot and tricks him into flying over the route where the death dealing machine is located. Fearing for his life, Dumbrille confesses and Bellamy blows the death ray apparatus to pieces. Meanwhile, at the airport, one of Bellamy's pilots disobeys orders and persuades Wiley Post to make the record breaking flight and all ends well with Independent winning the mail contract as the conspirators are exposed.

This is sure-fire box-office if exhibitors exploit the melodramatic action of planes exploding in mid-air with the unusual story and news headline tieup with Post.

The cast also includes Robert Allen, Billie Seward, Geneva Mitchell, Ed Van Sloan, Victor Kilian, Robert Middlemass, Joseph Sauers and Wyrley Birch.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Under the Pampas Moon"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—Warner Baxter, a gaucho, and Ketti Gellian, a singer, here unite in a romance of a South American cowboy and a French songbird.

An airplane grounded on the prairie brings Miss Gellian, John Miljan and Ann Codee, the former's companion, to gaucho land. Baxter, planted as a lady's man and the gaucho leader, wins a pampas horse race even though Jack La Rue cuts his saddle to make him fall.

Baxter forgets the other pampas queens for Miss Gellian while Miljan pays La Rue to steal his horse. Seeking his steed, Baxter tracks down Miljan in Buenos Aires, wins money at the races, renews his romance with Ketti and brings his mother, Soledad Jiminez, to town, giving rise to romantic and comic situations. Outwitting Miljan, Baxter re-steals his horse and rides back to the pampas with Miss Gellian and his mother.

James Tinling directed from an original by Gordon Morris and Ernest Pascal's and Bradley King's screenplay with additional dialogue by Henry Johnson. Buddy De Sylva produced.

Baxter gives a dashing, romantic and humorous portrayal while Miss Jiminez adds much to the comedy element. Rita Cansino, in a bit dance, suggests possibilities.

The production is enjoyable and the backgrounds interesting. The gaucho song and a solo by Miss Gellian intersperse the action with a tango by Veloz and Yolanda, a show stopper. It's good, clean entertainment, although mild.

Production Code Seal, No. 848. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Appeal Erpi-Para. Order

An appeal from Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe's order approving the terms of Erpi's $1,200,000 claim settlement with Paramount Publix is being taken by William Yoost, Paramount bondholder, and is scheduled for hearing in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here June 3. Yoost is opposed to the new recording agreements between Paramount and Erpi provided for in the settlement.

Wider School Use of Film Here Is Urged

Recognition of the sound film as a mechanical aid to learning as important as the telescope and the microscope is urged by James Marshall, a member of the Board of Education, in a report to the board made public yesterday.

He recommended the experimental use of educational sound pictures in schools of all grades to test the value of audio-visual instruction in technical, classical, academic, fine arts and scientific courses.

"The school system must use the most modern facilities to enrich the experience of its pupils," Marshall said, "and if children are to comprehend the complexities of a highly technical industrial age, the school system must utilize modern techniques. Just as the illustrated textbook amplified the printed word after the invention of photography, so now the sound film must be used to make the symbolism of words more graphic."

Bavetta to Brazil; Harley to Paris Job

Carlos Bavetta, former managing director for Fox in France and recently appointed head of the South American office, leaves for his new post on June 15 after attending the company's annual sales convention in Chicago the latter part of the month. Bavetta is now in New York on a vacation. He is being succeeded in France by F. L. Harley of the Brazil branch.

Horan, managing director for Spain; P. M. Brinch, managing director for Germany, are on the liner to attend the yearly sales conclave. They will remain her for about two weeks.

Cleveland Session Called on Doubles

CLEVELAND, May 20.—A general meeting of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Assn. has been called for June 4. It is anticipated that the local committee on double features will offer the association a plan to take the place of the single feature plan which expires July 8. A modified plan, allowing a limited number of dual changes per week, instead of total abstinence from duals, is expected to be discussed. The threatened influx of premiums, giveawavs and business builders and methods of control will also come up for discussion.

Defy Threatened For Giveaway Ban

complaint filed by Loew's 175th St., which was up for the second time.

"No matter what this board or the local board rules, New York independents will continue giveaways," Albert told the committee, consisting of E. C. Grainger and William Yoost. John C. Flinn attended the meeting.

"Independents must continue the practice," he said, "because of the poor run of product. Exhibitors playing third, fourth, fifth and sixth run are paying nearly as much as the circuits for film and must give patrons something in addition to the pictures to get them in," he stated.

Albert started a debate on the giveaway section of the code with Irving Greenfield, attorney for Loew's. He asserted that exhibitors giving premiums to "Lucky" winners were not violating the code. He added that previously the Audubon had been giving away money as prizes, but discontinued the practice and is now handing out gifts.

Greenfield declared that giving prizes to 45 winners of a "Lucky" contest was discriminatory and that it was a code violation unless certain classes were given articles, such as dishes to all women, or special articles to all men.

He added that the tendency to distribute articles to a select few was discriminatory.

Albert, in rebuttal, stated that the giving away of prizes did not reduce admissions, but as a matter of fact increased the value of the ticket.

"Despite Loew's threat to start a premium war, I do not believe the circuit will go through with it," the I.T.O.A. counsel concluded.

The local grievance board today reconvenes to act on the discussions held last Tuesday on giveaways and chance games. At that meeting 50 representatives of independent and major circuits attended.

Albert yesterday told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that if Code Authority or the local board tries to stop distribution of premiums, he will file injunction papers which he said he has already prepared.

giveaway clause in the code. Speaking for the I.E.P.A., David Barrist said today Flinn would discuss this situation with Campi and the NRA in Washington.

If partial regulation of premiums is held within the code, the independent organization will then conduct a vote for 75 per cent approval, which is necessary under the code.

John C. Flinn stated yesterday that he had just received the communication from the I.E.P.A. and would place the matter before Campi's legal committee on Thursday. The committee consists of Nathan Yamins, Austin C. Keough and John Robert Rubin.

Flinn would not venture an opinion on the regulation of giveaways, stating it was a matter for the legal committee of the code to decide.

Fight to Keep NRA 2 Years Gets Started

Wednesday to demand a two-year extension.

Nye declared that the address, telephone number and officers of the "Industry and Business Committee for NRA Extension" which is sponsoring the movement are the same as those of the code authority of the Silk Textile industry.

The North Dakota senator showed the Senate some 300 cards he had received from retailers in his state, distributed by some unknown body, on which the business men were asked to note whether they favored extension of the law and send them to their Congressional delegation. Out of this number, he said, only six favored continuation of the NRA. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan also showed similar cards, only four favoring and 360 opposing, while Senator Dickinson of Iowa showed 494 cards, only 12 of which favored the NRA.

RKO-Century Appeal Up

A Campi appeal committee today will devote the entire afternoon to a hearing of additional testimony and a review of the Century clearance and zoning complaint against RKO on Long Island. Mitchell Klupt will represent Century and Louis Nizer the major circuit.

The local clearance and zoning board devoted more than 30 hours to the case some time ago. It handed down a split decision, declaring that the RKO theatres in Far Rockaway were not competitive to the Fantasy, Rockville Center, while the RKO Alden in Jamaica was in competition. Both sides appealed.

Tonight another Code Authority committee will hear an appeal on the clearance and zoning complaint of the Regent against Springer & Cocalis' Apollo. Both houses are in Brooklyn. Benjamin Rich will represent S. & C., while Melvin Albert will appear on behalf of the Regent. The hearing is slated to begin at 8 P. M.

E. L. Alperson and E. J. Peskay did not return with Skouras, remaining on the coast for additional conferences.

Television Is SMPE Topic As Meet Opens

the society, in a paper read by Homer G. Tasker, S.M.P.E. president.

Goldsmith said that producers and theatre managers must seek constant improvements, using whatever ideas may spring from television. A superior or indifferent attitude toward the art and its improvement might prove its ultimate oblivion, he added. Goldsmith held that with natural advantages, a forward-looking attitude and initiative theatres should be able to hold the public confidence and maintain their prosperity.

Television came in for further discussion in a paper presented by H. R. Lubcke of the Don Lee Broadcasting System of Hollywood.

Lubcke asserted the theatrical possibilities of television lie in the future. He said "the possibility of television engulfing and destroying the film industry is remote."

"Television through the agency of broadcasting," he said, "is adapted to reproduce a few events for many individuals in small groups to reach the public in the home, but the motion pictures and theatres are adapted to reproduce a few events to many individuals in a few large groups or to entertain the public in a theatre. We shall look to television as a source of news and timely presentations and to the theatre for highly artistic productions of the classics. The great need of television is to bring sight to radio just as sound was brought to the films."

Says Projector Perfected

It was declared by Lubcke that "the television projector for transmitting motion picture film has been brought to the highest state of perfection of any transmission device and positive prints can be sent countrywide for simultaneous release." He added that successful tests of costuming, makeup and lighting have been made, and that radio, the screen and stage will contribute to and be drawn upon by television.

"Television," Lubcke said, "will become a new entertainment industry and as such cannot be considered a destroyer of existing entertainment enterprises."

Color photography, which promises to be another important subject of discussion at the convention, was touched upon today in a paper by L. Mannes and L. Godowsky of Eastman Kodak entitled "The Kodachrome Process of Amateur Cinematography in Natural Color."

The importance of a closer tie between the S.M.P.E. and the I.A.T.S.E. and "a common understanding of the aims of each other" was stressed by George E. Browne, head of the latter group, in an address read at luncheon by Thad C. Barrows, president of Local 182, I.A.T.S.E., Boston.

Browne said the problem regarding "the place occupied and the rights enjoyed by each" had been solved by "the pressing need for results, good results, in both studios and theatres."

"I can conceive of no good reason for either group endeavoring to exert undue influence within the domain of the other," Browne added. "The responsibility in either instance must not be divided by any hazy line but must be clearcut and decisive, for only in this way shall we ever realize maximum efficiency by either group."

Other speakers at the luncheon were Howard Green, Paramount writer; Kenneth MacGowan, Radio associate producer. The delegates were welcomed at the luncheon by Major N. Levinson, chairman of the research council of the Academy, and Emery Huse, executive vice-president of the S.M.P.E., with President Tasker responding.

Reports of various committees were presented during the day.

In the evening the conventioneers visited the Walt Disney studio.

Studies Dropping of Publix Unit Trustee

Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy. Allowance of the application will mark the formal close of the bankruptcy of the former Paramount theatre holding company.

A final dividend of 30 per cent on the allowable claims against the company, which aggregate $5,061,894, is available, according to the trustee, and will be paid to the creditors if the court approves. The bulk of the dividend will be paid to Famous Theatres Corp., Paramount's new theatre company, which acquired the Publix Enterprises' assets late in 1933. The assets included numerous theatre properties in all sections of the country.

Complete dissolution of Publix Enterprises is expected to follow the discharge of the trustee in bankruptcy. Its operations have already been transferred to Famous along with the assets. Publix Enterprises went into bankruptcy in Jan., 1933, at the same time that Paramount consented to an equity receivership.

Revive Rumors Over F-P Canada Control

Canadian Corp., the rumor has been revived in Toronto financial circles of the possibility of control of Famous Players' chain coming to Canada at the instigation of N. L. Nathanson, president. Linked with this is the gossip that the Canadian company may yet be linked with British film interests.

Back in 1929, Famous Players shareholders had an offer of $75 per share from Gaumont British Pictures Corp., but instead they exchanged their holdings for Paramount Publix stock despite the protests of Nathanson, who was then general manager. Nathanson withdrew from the company as a result, but has since become president. The new issue is being sold to stockholders at $10 per share. Incidentally, Nathanson has said he would like to see the company under Canadian control.

Paramount officials who were asked to comment on the Toronto report yesterday described it as "ridiculous," pointing out that control of Famous Players Canadian could only pass from Paramount through a sale of the stock held by the latter and that if Paramount had any intention of disposing of the stock it would not now be subscribing to an additional 18,256 shares.

Code Mauled as Allied Speakers Get Underway

Cole Charges Texas Move Is Leveled at Independents

ATLANTA, May 21.—A preconceived movement, using Texas as a demonstration ground either to force independent theatres out of business or make them pay tribute to a national booking combine, was charged today in an address before the opening Allied session by Harry A. Cole, Allied standby and head of its Texas affiliate.

Tracing circuit development, which he asserted had its genesis in Atlanta with S. A. Lynch and Paramount as partners and then spread rapidly into Texas, Cole hurdled a span of many

Augments "Aggressions," They Say—3-Point Program Offered

By RED KANN

ATLANTA, May 21.—Because it was declared to have failed to give independents the break they sought, because it presumably added to the advantages of major companies, because it did nothing about ending alleged evils of compulsory block booking, the code was pilloried, castigated, mauled and blamed for augmenting "aggressions" of distributors throughout the United States as Allied's first business session came to a close at the Piedmont late today.

Abram F. Myers, Allied's general counsel, delivered a 35-minute history of the past, present and future of the NRA pact, again striking the organization's well known stand that independents had been "sold down the river."

Higher and higher rentals, despite lower negative costs, as well as the distributor practice of failing to protect old accounts over new ones and a three-point program, including a buyers' strike for bringing to independents a better break were expounded by David Barrist, representing the

Irving Trust Co. as trustee of RKO in reorganization.

The appointment of the trustee had been contested by Edward L. Garvin, attorney for RKO debenture holders, as an irregular procedure because RKO's petition for reorganization under Section 77-B of the new bankruptcy law had been certified one day prior to the enactment of 77-B. Garvin also contended that the RKO board, which filed the petition, was without authority to direct officers of the company to sign his petition.

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe dismissed the Garvin action after a district court hearing and the dismissal was affirmed by the Circuit court.

3 Plants in Europe Planned by Kalmus

Three foreign laboratories are planned by Technicolor, one in London, another in Paris and a third in Berlin, Herbert T. Kalmus, president, stated yesterday. He sails May 29 on the Bremen for Europe where he will spend a month negotiating the deals. Mrs. Kalmus will accompany him.

Kalmus asserted Technicolor's aim is to establish plants abroad where distributors can have color prints made at the same cost as in America.

One of the deals pending in England is with Sir Adrian Baillie, Bombay producer representing British capital, Kalmus said. He added the nature of the deals was indefinite at this time. Technicolor may form its own subsidiaries and build its own plants with company finances and local interests operating or make deals with outside companies for financing and building of the laboratories.

The Technicolor head declared he has already closed contracts with M-G-M for three-color process work in approximately 40 per cent of the shorts to be released during 1935-36. In this group are 10 FitzPatrick Travelogues and six two-reel subjects. Other deals include 13 Leon Schlesinger cartoons, 13 Harmon-Ising cartoons, 13 cartoons for Columbia and 13 animated subjects for Paramount.

A deal is in process of negotiation with RKO Radio for 13 color cartoons. Fox and Universal are expected to close for color in shorts shortly, he said.

Due to the success of Kodachrome, a color process combining Technicolor and Kodak patents for 16mm use, Kalmus said that eventually all 35mm films will be made along the same lines. He added this is some time off. Kalmus explained that Kodachrome eliminates the three-layer process in 16mm work, but as yet has not been developed sufficiently for 35mm films.

Limited Stays for Aliens Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Continuation of the free entry of alien actors, but with a requirement that they leave the country as soon as their engagements are terminated, will be offered by Representative Kramer of California as a substitute for the bill placing foreign talent under the contract labor provisions of the Immigration Law.

Under the amendment to be offered by Kramer the stay in this country of alien actors would be strictly limited to the period of their engagement and they could not come in on a six months' permit renewable an indefinite number of times as at present. At the same time no difficulties would be placed in the way of actors American producers desired to use.

Color Films Chief Topic Of S.M.P.E.

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Color photography was the chief attraction at the convention of the Society of M. P. Engineers here today. A session devoted exclusively to this subject was held tonight under the sponsorship of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences at the Carthay Circle, where Technicolor shorts were screened and the new three-color process was demonstrated.

Papers discussing the latest developments in color photography and its prospects for the immediate future were presented by Technicolor engineers at the session, at which Major Nathan Levinson, chairman of the technicians' branch of the Academy presided.

Natalie Kalmus, who with her husband, Herbert T. Kalmus, head of Technicolor, has been a leader in the development of color photography, discussed the psychology of color, while J. A. Ball, a member of her staff, explained the new process. Problems confronting the director of pictures in natural tints were the subject of a talk by Rouben Mamoulian, who directed "Becky Sharp," the first feature to be made in the new three-process Technicolor.

It was voted to hold the annual convention in Hollywood every other year.

"PUBLIC HERO NUMBER 1 is the TOPS!"

Code Mauled As Allied's Meet Starts

I.E.P.A. of Eastern Pennsylvania, which is Allied's latest affiliate.

H. A. Cole, vice-president from Texas, narrated at some length the alleged aggressions of circuits in his territory and intimated what was going on there was part of an organized movement either to wipe independents out of business or make them bend the knee in tribute to a potential national booking combine.

Walter B. Littlefield, regional vice-president representing New England, deplored the evils of compulsory block booking and blind buying and sounded a war cry for the Pettengill Bill, which he declared would eliminate both practices and pave the way toward a better day for independent theatre operation.

Myers, braving the dangers of a repeat performance on the same bill, attacked both Ascap and the Copyright Protection Bureau as "racketeers." The chair was occupied by Sidney E. Samuelson, president of the national organization, who provided the piece de resistance by announcing from the rostrum that Wednesday will see and hear the Chicago situation and M-G-M's theatre plans for that city paraded before the assembled conventioneers.

Lauds Allied Cooperation

Exactly how all of these various Allied issues might be traced to the code might not have been apparent to those in attendance, but it was Samuelson who did the blaming, and there it was. In his address, Myers described Allied and its leaders as apostles of cooperation. The organization always has been for it, he said. He cited as evidence the 5-5-5 deliberations which ran over a period of many months and how Allied had been misguided in the belief that the men it had been talking to had the authority to act until "their principals ran out." He said further: "I am denying in advance the inevitable charge which will be made that Allied is not cooperative, but destructive and radical."

Without benefit of label, but unmistakably clear nevertheless, Myers declared he had been temporarily dissuaded from his original legal opinion that Congress had no right to regulate an intrastate industry such as exhibition by Sol A. Rosenblatt, who, according to Myers, led independents into the belief major industry ills would be solved through the code whether interests mostly affected wanted them or not. He charged Calvin Bard of Nebraska and Judge Roy Walker of Texas with damaging independents' chances for a better code break when both split ranks and signed a copy of the draft which ultimately went to the White House in face of a decision of independents as of that time to withdraw from the code deliberations.

A lesson from the past, Myers concluded, was that "lions could not lie down with lambs" and that in the future in any negotiations in which he may take part, independent exhibitors must be represented by independent exhibitors alone and should not negotiate with other branches of the industry unless appointed delegates were men who could be relied upon. Myers was accorded substantial applause at this point. Delving into the present NRA status, he said he views as entirely feasible the possibility the NRA may pass out entirely with June 16, the expiration date of the original law, pointing out the Senate and the House had locked horns on the new form recovery legislation might take.

Even if the new law rules out businesses such as exhibition on the ground Congress cannot regulate intrastate enterprises, Myers charged bureaucratic lobbying in Washington will seek to have the film code continue to apply to exhibition as it now does. The biggest lobby agitation for NRA continuance, he stated, was the 2,500 employes now on the NRA payroll in the Capital. As he assumed charge of the session, Samuelson told the delegates this was to be an action convention and the millenniums will not be dropped into their laps, but must be made by the organization itself.

Declaring he realized a "sacred obligation" had been handed to him by those "who bled for Allied" an early gesture took the form of recognition from the chair of former organization presidents, including Myers, W. A. Steffes, Minnesota, and James C. Ritter, Michigan.

Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta left a sick bed to deliver a few words of welcome, his remarks being preceded by Sam Borisky, who opened the session, and then by Ike Katz, president of the G.F.T.A.; N. H. Walters, regional vice-president, of Birmingham, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, secretary of the local Board of Review, who predicted the brightest days for the industry were dawning.

Rev. William Hanlon, brother of the late James Hanlon, M-G-M exchange manager here, delivered an invocation.

Cal. ITO Approves of Allied

The I.T.O. of Southern California, by mail, expressed sympathy for Allied aims and pledged formal association with the national organization when its own financial condition allows. A message in similar vein was received by wire from J. B. Fishman, president of the M.P.T.O. of Connecticut, which, despite the name, is not affiliated with the national M.P.T.O.A.

It is obviously a case of independents vs. affiliated interests insofar as Allied is concerned, Samuelson said.

"Affiliated exhibitors and distributors are all the same to us; we can't see how the vest can be separated from the pants," was the way he put it.

If any doubt prevailed about the sponsorship of the Pettengill Bill, Littlefield cleared up the point when he stated the measure had its inception as a result of collaboration between the M. P. Research Council, Columbia University and Myers. In addition to the signed approval of national organizations, including the National Ass'n. of Parents and Teachers and the Knights of Columbus, the measure has the personal approbation of the President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, he stated.

Wednesday, aside from the barrage to be laid down on M-G-M, will be devoted to preliminary reports of committees and discussion from the floor of issues sounded today. Thursday has been announced as the day on which Allied's method of meeting the issues confronting it will be divulged.

Tonight's social activities were concentrated on a barn dance at the Peachtree Gardens and fraternizing, as usual around the hotel.

Salutes Papers

Atlanta, May 21.—Sidney Samuelson, Allied head, handed the trade papers a compliment of a sort at the opening business session of the convention today saying: "I urge you to read the trade papers. It would be well in return for such courtesy of such a large trade paper delegation to show courtesy by reading what they have to say, although I presume some of it will not be complimentary."

Sees Booking Crux Of All Complaints

vention at the opening session today. Coupled with block booking, he linked as handmaiden blind booking.

Littlefield hit compulsory buying blocks on three counts. Firstly, he said it was economically unsound. It eliminates from the exhibitor the right to be able to run product best suited for his theatre, he said. It hurts theatre business, robs customers and injures producers of better pictures because the exhibitors' playing time is booked, he continued. Denying it was uneconomic, Littlefield pointed out playdates would remain a constant figure with only the resulting issue from elimination of compulsory block booking a question of what producers would get available dates.

Secondly, he said, the practice strikes at the exhibitor right of local autonomy by compelling him to run product which he knows is not suited for his clientele. One direct result of the current system, he maintained, was the continued public resentment and encouragement of movements for reform like the legion of decency. The third argument revolved around his belief that compulsory block booking placed the greatest of all monopoly weapons in the hands of the majors.

"What would you do with a picture if you made one? You would have to sell it to one of the large companies at their price. If you did not, but decided to market it yourself you know very well you would not find a single affiliated theatre willing to give you playing time. If, then, you came to us independents you would find us without playing time because we are compelled to book all our available dates at the outset of each season."

Littlefield also stated all troubles were traceable to insufficient product supply. If 350 more pictures were thrown into the market, his thought was, there could be no problem about forcing short sales with features or about preferred playing time or protection, because the exhibitor on this basis would not have to depend upon a handful of producers from which to draw his supply.

Blind buying was described as a "pig in a poke." Littlefield maintained salesmen were refusing to furnish data on product and that they were strictly adhering to numbers sans details as to stars, directors and synopses. With this as background, Littlefield cited the Pettengill Bill as the answer, concluding with a flat denial a statement charged to women's clubs' representatives allegedly in the employ of the Hays organization that the proposed measure would mean national censorship.

Buying Strike Urged As One Of Allied Aims

Atlanta, May 21.—A buyers' strike, the marshaling of public opinion, and legislative activity today were offered Allied conventioneers as a three-point program to combat what were described as aggressions of distributors.

David Barrist, representing the I.E.P.A. of Eastern Pennsylvania, was advocate as one of the speakers at the opening business session this afternoon. He deplored absence of elaborate product announcement books on the ground that whereas their use at least once outlined stars, directors, synopses of stories in each succeeding year's program, distributors today furnish no background information, thus making it impossible for exhibitors to know what product offered is suitable for their theatres.

Rentals are higher, yet negative costs are lower and producers are piling up unheard of surpluses and are demanding even higher prices, he averred, adding the exhibitor who protests is immediately stamped as 'a Bolshevik or radical. He added that distributors make no efforts to protect old customers, citing Philadelphia, where, he said, garages and bowling alleys are being renovated at slight cost and are being serviced with film by distributors without question.

Cites Philadelphia Example

In expounding the three-point program, Barrist said a buyers' strike to be expedient need not be national. He stated 18 months ago in Philadelphia exhibitors tried it and won. He claimed in hundreds of spots competitive exhibitors today are forgetting their competition in order to band against a common enemy and prevent themselves from being driven out of business.

Amplifying his second platform, which he labeled public opinion, Barrist said the natural advantages rested with independents since they were a home industry and "rooted deeply in the soil of public affection," further declaring "18 months ago in Philadelphia we had a situation. We used trailers on screens. Word came in less than 24 hours that if we pulled the trailers we could get together. We did and we won."

Legislatively independents had it all their way, he went on, pointing out major companies could not face the battle of such calibre on 20 or 30 fronts at the same time. Barrist made his best impression in conclusion when he expressed himself as for a resolution to end all resolutions.

Clearance Protests In L. A. Up to Nine

Los Angeles, May 21.—Exhibitor protests on the local clearance and zoning schedule now total nine with hearing on all complaints set for May 27. John C. Flinn is expected here over the week-end to sit in at the hearing.

John C. Flinn has not decided when he will leave for the coast. He is anxious to attend the coast hearing on schedule protests and will probably fly out Saturday.

MPTOA Head Urges Allied To Cooperate

Restating M.P.T.O.A.'s position on leading exhibitor and trade problems of the moment, Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, calls upon Allied States in the monthly bulletin of his organization released yesterday "to really do something for the theatre owners by indorsing these sane and sensible proposals."

The M.P.T.O.A. bulletin apparently is timed to make its appearance concurrently with the convention of Allied in session at Atlanta this week. Outspoken criticism of the Allied organization and its aims is peppered throughout the message, side-by-side with liberal commendation of M.P.T.O.A. and its activities.

The more important principles and reforms advocated by M.P.T.O.A. which the bulletin cites include organized self-regulation for the industry under an NRA code; a fair and uniform exhibition contract; local arbitration of trade disputes; local clearance and zoning plans; abolition of the music tax and score charge; local option and majority rule on double feature and giveaway policies; reasonable cancellation and abolition of designated play dates.

Sees Chance to Aid Exhibitors

By indorsing these same policies, Kuykendall writes, Allied "has an opportunity to forget its jealousies and blind prejudices and really do something for the theatre owners. Will they (Allied) bend their efforts towards accomplishing these worthwhile things, or spend their time on indiscriminate denunciations, passing lurid resolutions, chasing rainbows and trying to run the other fellow's business for him? Their announced (convention) program gives no serious consideration to the business of managing a motion picture theatre. Perhaps that is unimportant."

Kuykendall reviews M.P.T.O.A.'s position on the code and states that while the organization is prepared to work with the rest of the industry in the drafting of "a much better code, based on over a year's experience with the present one," it is "useless" to make proposals until Congress has settled NRA's future. He observes that the main line of attack being employed by NRA opponents is to have codes applying only to businesses engaged in interstate commerce and concludes that, if this were to be done, production and exhibition would not have codes.

"Distribution," Kuykendall writes, "could have a code of its own, written entirely by distributors. What good do you think such a code will do an exhibitor?" he asks. "In our opinion, the death of NRA would mean the loss of our greatest opportunity to remove abuses in this business."

Maxwell May Not Come

LONDON, May 21.—John Maxwell, chairman of the B.I.P. board, may not go to New York after all. He has to be on hand May 25 when the company puts out a $3,000,000 stock issue, which is all underwritten. The next boat sails May 29 and he is undecided whether he will leave at that time.

years and brought the picture to date as he saw it by declaring circuits now are operating in Texas towns with populations as low as 2,500.

They control all towns of 10,000 and over and there are only 10 towns of 5,000 population and less where independents now remain, he added. Where circuits are not in they exact booking fees from those who are, he charged. Cole alleged the circuit method was to call Dallas exchanges and demand product for towns in which independents operate, regardless of the fact circuits themselves have no operation there.

Independents have no way out, he asserted, and so find themselves compelled to turn over four per cent of their gross for booking service which does nothing for them. There are 20 spots to date which have been forced into such situations and already three directors and 25 or 30 members of his association have been lost to it in the last 90 days, Cole continued.

"I see no reason why the circuits cannot continue this indefinitely," he added. Without mentioning Interstate by name, other than to describe it as a Paramount affiliate, Cole charged Hoblitzelle interests with either attempting to stifle independents or compel them to close through exaction of film contracts which prevent any neighborhood theatre from running any picture under 25 cents which first plays Interstate houses at 40 cents top at night.

"Many of these neighborhood houses get only 15 or 20 cents and some less, yet under this arrangement they must raise prices to a quarter or lose 200 pictures, representing the cream of product. If it is 25 cents today, what is there to prevent it from jumping to 35 or 50 cents tomorrow? Yet some of the pictures denied neighborhoods play downtown at 15 cents matinee.

"The theory that competitors can set your prices places your business in their hands. The power is never used leniently, at least in this business. This may mean a price hike beyond attainment of independents."

Cole admitted he did not know the answer and that he himself was threatened with extinction as an exhibitor. Recognizing his statement as serious, he also made a flat charge the Government had "deliberately traded us off." General Johnson, he continued, had stated in his memoirs the day of the small business was over. "I am compelled to believe it. The Deputy Administrator who sold us out is still in Washington in a bigger job and at a bigger salary."

Myers Calls Ascap Group "Racketeers"

general counsel of Allied, in explaining what Allied has been endeavoring to do to curtail collections from exhibitors by both of those groups.

It developed Allied was favorably inclined toward Senate Bill No. 2465, introduced by Senator Duffy of Wisconsin, which seeks to revise the existing copyright laws. While not representative of all Allied wanted, Myers said, the measure represented great improvement over anything now available. He added that a perfect status would be a law eliminating any mention of penalties for violations.

He took an emphatic poke at the Copyright Protection Bureau, which he described as "an extorter" of money from theatre men and charged efforts to collect unauthorized holdovers were unjust in that such activity made no attempt to ascertain if the exhibitor so charged had committed a violation in innocence of what he had done. At the same time Myers declared the Duffy bill had little chance of consideration at this session in view of the heavy program of legislation which confronts Congress.

property sold at retail amusements, recreations, entertainments, various services, advertising and ticket sales, etc., and will prevail until Dec. 31, 1937. The bill is expected to raise $10,000,000 annually.

The Senate also passed a bill permitting horse racing in Missouri and legalizing dog racing at St. Louis. The bill now goes to the governor for signature.

Big Crowd Argues on Penn. Sunday Shows

HARRISBURG, May 21.—In the most stirring hearing on any measure before the present session of the Pennsylvania legislature friends and foes of the Schwartz-Melchiorre-Barber Bill, the compromise local option Sunday film measure, argued for four hours this afternoon before the House Ways and Means Committee in the presence of 1,500 persons.

While five clergymen fought the bill, eight others were for it.

The bill would require every municipal subdivision to vote at the general election next November on the question of whether to permit film shows after 2 P.M. Sundays and the sentiment expressed at the hearing was so greatly in favor of the measure that its friends expressed confidence at the end of the long session that it not only will be reported favorably by the committee, but that it will pass both branches of the Legislature.

The bill has already been reported favorably by the committee, but, by vote of the House, was referred back to the committee to permit the hearing held today.

Film men failed to maintain a solid front. Miss Jeannette Willensky, Philadelphia, representing the I.E.P.A., declared she represented 110 rural and neighborhood exhibitors. She said she was opposed to the bill because it was backed by 250 circuit theatres who sent their money to New York and did not spend it in Pennsylvania.

Among the advocates of the bill, although he did not address the committee was Mort Blumenstock, head of publicity and advertising for Warner theatres.

Mexican Suggests Production There

Mexico put in its bid as a new production locale and successor to Hollywood with the extolling of the country's advantages for producers by Eduardo Villasenor, consul general of Mexico, in an address at the M. P. Club luncheon forum yesterday.

"Pictures can be produced in Mexico for one-third their production cost in America," the official said. "In addition, weather conditions are ideal and a wide variety of scenery is available within short distances. Mexico already is the leading film producer of the Spanish speaking countries and has as many as two premieres a week of Mexican-made films," he said.

Consuls general of eight Latin-American nations were guests at the luncheon, at which Harry M. Warner presided as chairman, and Louis Nizer as toastmaster. Former Ambassador James W. Gerard was guest of honor.

Pleas were made by the South and Central American representatives for improved casting, typical Spanish dialogue and more judicious story selection in films sent to their nations.

"National pride is affronted by unwise casting and story selection and leads to the restrictions placed on American films by foreign countries," said Jose Camprubi, publisher of La Prensa and other South American newspapers.

The "tremendous power" politically of films and of the newsreel in particular was cited by Gerard, who suggested that it could be used at the present time against inflation propaganda and Communism and for the stabilization of currency. He advised against the publicizing of "enormous" salaries of film stars and advised that, in casting, all "villains shouldn't be natives of friendly countries."

Joan Lowell, authoress, recommended to producers the Latin-American countries and their native stories and legends as fresh sources of material for films.

C. C. Pettijohn, M.P.P.D.A. aide, observed that after the admonitions of the foreign visitors, "Americans will be the only ones machine-gunned in films from now on."

Electrics Defended In Wilmington Suit

WILMINGTON, May 21.—Two of Erpi's vice-presidents, a Fox Film executive, several former employes of Duovac Radio and exhibitors took the stand for the defendants, Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T., in the General Talking Picture anti-trust action before the trial recessed late today until next Monday morning.

William J. Kupper of Jackson Heights, New York, who is western sales manager for Fox, testified that his company had made every effort to distribute to every theatre irrespective of the type or make of equipment.

Herbert M. Wilcox and Harry G. Knox, Erpi vice-presidents, testified briefly.

Exhibitors to testify were A. Joseph DeFiore, Wilmington, president of the Independent M.P.T.O. of Delaware and Eastern Maryland; Benjamin Shindler, manager of theatres in Wilmington and West Grove, Pa.; Daniel Katlen, Philadelphia; Richard Griffith, Oklahoma City, and George F. Weilland, Germantown, Pa., operating theatres in Atlantic City.

of whom about 30 appeared to be alone in favoring a return to 306 of its local autonomy. At the meeting were George E. Browne, I. A. T. S. E. president; Harland Holmden, vice-president of the International, who has been in charge of Local 306 since the resignation of Harry Sherman 10 months ago, and Lou Krouse of International headquarters. It is understood that the parent organization was prepared to turn back management of the local to the membership if the meeting had requested it. No meetings have been held during the Holmden regime and Monday's session was called in response to criticism of this and as a result of what was believed to be strong sentiment in favor of a return to local autonomy.

Holmden submitted a 10 months' report showing a balance of more than $100,000 in the local's treasury which, it was said, was empty when the organization was taken over by the I. A. T. S. E.

Holmden criticized the tendency of the members to rush into court with their grievances, declaring that $171,000 had been expended in legal fees during the Sherman regime and $32,000 during the past 10 months.

"There is a big fight ahead to organize New York and we need to keep our organization together," Holmden said.

Independents Fight New Scale

Local independents plan to protest the new operators' wage scale as proposed by Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt at the public hearing in Washington on June 4. Exhibitors claim the new plan is much higher than they can afford.

Century and Springer & Cocalis circuits have contracts with Empire State Union which have three years to run. Under these pacts, the scales are lower than the terms provided in Rosenblatt's plan.

Reports were current last night Rosenblatt has been retained by the I. A. T. S. E., starting June 16 when he leaves the NRA.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt today denied reports he had been retained by the I.A.T.S.E.

It was voted to hold the next convention in Columbus in April, 1936, and Omaha and Des Moines were granted charters, running the total number of tents to 16.

Canvasmen for 1935-36 will be Allan Moritz, Cincinnati; Earl Sweigert, Philadelphia; Eddie Rubin, Minneapolis; J. E. Kirschner, Detroit; Louis Rome, Washington, and Mark Wolf, Indianapolis.

the first annual international sales meet with Fred W. Lange, Continental European general manager. The three-day session was held in Paris with about 125 in attendance. George Weltner, assistant to Hicks, also returned on the Majestic.

Hicks announced at the convention that 62 English features would be released abroad in addition to eight to 12 French-made films. Eight of the French films have been completed, having been made by outside producers at the Joinville studios. The 62 figure does not necessarily mean that this number will be released in America next season, since some of the films announced are lapovers from the current season. Shorts were not taken up.

No changes in personnel were made, Hicks added, and no new theatres are contemplated, he said. He will make a report on the foreign meet at the company's annual sales meet at the Waldorf June 13-16. While abroad, Hicks and Weltner visited London, Paris, Berlin, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Austria.

Another meeting will be held this afternoon to listen to additional testimony and arguments in the Century appeal on the Jamaica portion of the decision. Louis Nizer and John O'Connor represented RKO yesterday while Mitchell Klupt and Tom Murray represented Century.

The session this afternoon will not interfere with the golf game being sponsored by Campi at the Lakeville Country Club, Great Neck, L. I.

Para. Election Going Over to Late in June

Conferences Required on Makeup of New Board

Election of officers of reorganized Paramount may not take place until mid-June or later, it was indicated yesterday following a meeting of the present Paramount board and creditor representatives.

The election of officers, it was pointed out, would be preceded by conferences on the subject by the new board, which will be formally installed on June 3. The election, according to present plans, would be held at the first meeting of the board thereafter, and because of the necessity for the intervening conferences and present uncertainty concerning their duration, no date has yet been set for the meeting next following the June 3 installation. It is regarded as unlikely, however, that it would be held prior to June 12.

British Agree to Comply With Production Code Here

An agreement to aim for full compliance with the American Production Code on British pictures intended for distribution here was reached in London as a result of conversations carried on between Martin Quigley and Carl E. Milliken and representatives of the film section of the Federation of British Industries.

British producers hail the exchange of views as a means of developing trade relations between the two countries.

One concrete proposal resulting from the talks is a suggestion from Charles Tennyson, chairman of the F.B.I. film group, to Will H. Hays that a New York branch of the Production Code Administration be set up to facilitate the handling of British scripts and pictures submitted to it for criticisms and suggestions. This would eliminate delays that would be caused by shipment to the coast.

For some time American scripts have been submitted in advance of production to the British Board of Film Censors in London.

The conferences were held as a result of a request from F.B.I. representatives to Will H. Hays, so that British producers could obtain a clear understanding of production standards required in this country. Hays was unable to make the trip and so asked Quigley to represent him. Milliken was assigned to attend the conferences as secretary of the M.P.P.D.A. Both returned to New York Tuesday afternoon on the Majestic.

Results of the proceedings are summarized in a letter from Tennyson to Hays.

After expressing appreciation for the way in which the Production Code Administration had been "carefully and meticulously" explained to his group, Tennyson says that "the principles animating both systems (English and American) are identical, and that both are founded upon the necessity of avoiding in motion pictures any element calculated to debase public morals, but the methods of achieving these ends differ slightly in the two countries."

He points out that American producers have found it desirable and useful to present their scripts to British

ATLANTA, May 22.—Allied today unanimously voted to send a committee to New York to demand from Will Hays and the "powers that be" that distributor "aggressions" in the theatre field end and justice be meted out to injured exhibitors. If such effort comes a cropper it was determined to dump the issue in the lap of the Department of Justice for possible prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

It was Al Steffes, second president of Allied and for years its fire eater, who stepped from almost complete retirement in Allied affairs long enough to whoop it up as of yore and swing the convention to this decision. Once he got going his pyrotechnics stirred other delegates from their lethargy and paved the way toward unfoldment of stories from other exhibitors who charged distributor tactics were crowding them out of business.

Steffes built his fireworks around the address made Tuesday by Col. H. A. Cole of Texas, who had charged affiliated circuits with an organized attempt to either force independents out of business or compel them to pay tribute to what he envisioned as a potential national booking combine.

"This is a lousy convention," was Steffes' opening bon mot. "I've been here two days and what has been accomplished? This is no reflection on the national officers. They are here to

Wing Quits Hospital Today; Wallace Out

KANSAS CITY, May 22.—Paul Wing, Paramount studio executive injured in the plane crash May 6 in Macon County, Mo., plans to leave Thursday for Hollywood accompanied by Toby Wing, actress, who is his daughter, and Mrs. Wing. He was among the most seriously injured.

C. G. (Pat) Drew, electrician with the original "Annapolis Farewell" unit, while improved, will remain in Samaritan Hospital at Macon for some time, according to physicians, but may be transported to the coast shortly if his condition continues to show progress. Drew suffered a badly mangled leg and it was believed amputation would be necessary, but staff doctors have been able to save it.

Richard Wallace, director, and Henry Sharpe, cameraman, have left the hospital for Hollywood by rail. Mrs. Wallace, John Miljan and a nurse were in the party.

Arthur H. Cole of the Paramount exchange in Kansas City, who has been in Macon looking after the interests of the injured since the wreck, has returned here.

Jubilee Film Gets New Title in U. S.

Following criticism on the point of fair practice of the British International picture, "Royal Cavalcade," this subject has been renamed "Jubilee Cavalcade" for the American market, according to Arthur Dent who is now in New York seeking releasing arrangements for a group of six B.I.P. pictures.

The picture, a collection of newsreel shots, when released in England under the title "Royal Cavalcade" was confused with the Noel Coward play, "Cavalcade," a reissue of which has been announced in the British market. The B.I.P. picture continues to be shown in England under the title of "Royal Cavalcade."

William Elson, operating the President and 7th St. in Minneapolis, yesterday left for home after conferring with E. A. Reoch, head of the RKO real estate department. Elson operates the two Minneapolis houses under a percentage of profits arrangement with RKO and is understood to be angling for additional theatres. He would not comment yesterday on future acquisitions, stating that business is only fair. Elson arrived Monday.

Allied to Ask Hays to Stop "Aggressions"

follow your wishes. Yesterday Mayor Key spoke about weak-kneed politicians. Today I am positive he meant weak-kneed exhibitors. Your committee will pass a lot of resolutions and they won't mean a thing.

"We spent lots of money to come here and all you've heard is how big the national organization is. Why waste time running around after more members? We have enough. Yesterday you heard the pitiful statement made by Colonel Cole. Are you going to stand for that kind of treatment handed out to one of your pioneer organizers and a man who has worked for exhibitor interests for the past 20 years? May be we're getting too old. I know this, however, if Allied is not ready to go places today and not one or two years from now, there won't be any Allied.

"Trying to Pull Us Apart"

"Hays or someone—I don't know who— is trying to pull us apart. Where I come from it's an honor and a pleasure to be known as a Bolshevik and a Red. The day of conservatism, in this industry at least, is over. When exhibitors call a cop they are destructionists, but producers and distributors aren't afraid to. I guess you have noticed that.

"I declare now that unless this organization can do something for Cole I'll never pay another dime in dues because it won't be worth it. Let's yell our way clear into New York and demand Cole be allowed to stay in business. Let's get the hell out of Atlanta and demand a real break for him.

"The big companies think they are out of bankruptcy now and are beginning to try their ruthless methods all over again. Let's see if we have any strength. Let's call on Hays. I haven't spoken more than one or two words to the colonel, and I don't know whether he is lying or telling the truth. I don't care about that. It's enough for me that an Allied director is in trouble."

Steffes Starts Something

Steffes fired the convention into action. In quick order Fred Herrington, representing the M.P.T.O. of Western Pennsylvania; Cole himself; Abe Kramer, Cleveland exhibitor; Henry G. Sparks, Cooper, Tex., theatre owner; Rubin Frels. who operates houses in Victoria, Tex.; Mrs. F. L. Liggett, theatre owner in McRae, Ga.; W. Stopplemann and Morris Wax of the I.E.P.A. of Eastern Pennsylvania, advanced to the microphone which boomed the proceedings across the convention hall.

Herrington, long an Allied supporter, declared Steffes hadn't gone far enough. He endorsed Steffes' stand, made a plea for financial support of Allied "not because you have to but because you want to" and finished off with the statement Uncle Sam and Will Hays had merged in an effort to put independents out of the running.

Cole spoke briefly, confining his remarks to the history of a case before the Dallas grievance board, which, despite the presence on it of a member who was a partner of Publix, had voted him a supply of pictures, only for him to discover later that Campi in New York reversed the decision.

Kramer sounded off on a keynote of legislation in every state as well as in Washington for a tax on chains in what he thought would be a means of halting their expansion. Frels narrated briefly his tussle with the Jefferson Amusement Co. at Victoria, telling how the circuit built two theatres in opposition as part of his charge that Jefferson was seeking to drive him out of business. Jefferson built in four other towns in which he operated, added Frels, and this year had again brought 330 pictures, thereby making his own operation impossible.

Hinting at a development which he promised to divulge Thursday, this exhibitor charged the story of the Tuesday convention in the Atlanta Constitution made it apparent Allied had to develop its own method of getting word of its activities to the public. Whether or not he was referring indirectly to talk, closely held, that the organization planned a revival of Allied Exhibitor, its own defunct house organ, was not apparent.

Tells of Her Troubles

Mrs. Liggett told of her difficulties in small Georgia towns. Referring to "persecution" and "intimidation," she charged a "Fox salesman" had undermined her small circuit and in 1931 had succeeded in leasing her Community Theatre, Hawkinsville, followed two years later by the lease of her Eastman Theatre at Eastman by the same individual.

Distributors knew of this activity, she asserted. On threat he would not play Metro in his theatres, this individual was responsible for her losing that line of product, she continued. A way out was offered when she took the case to the grievance board which determined she might have 34 pictures sought by this man, if she met the terms and conditions under which he had originally contracted for them.

As a result of this "campaign," Mrs. Liggett charged, she could not get pictures younger than eight months, while many are as old as 18 months.

Last year, she averred, the same operator entered McRae with opposition to her National.

"I am not asking for anything, but merely hoping conditions will improve," she concluded.

Later, upon request, she named the Fox salesman as J. H. Thompson, who, she said, now was operating the Princess circuit under the corporate entity of All Amusements, Inc., with headquarters in Hawkinsville.

Proves a Comedian

Stopplemann proved more of a comedian than he counted. In a Texas drawl this Silbee Theatre owner took a flying jump at the Copyright Protection "Burdoo," as he called it, and excoriated it for attempting to collect on a holdover which he said was his by virtue of a verbal agreement with an exchange which he did not name.

In his serious moments Stopplemann inquired what would happen if a committee to wait on Hays failed to get results. While he may not have realized it, he sounded a note which later influenced Samuelson to instruct the committee first to confer with Abram F. Myers on procedure, if conciliation should fail.

Stopplemann's anecdotes and his manner of speech provided the day's chief amusement. He made a hit. By this time Steffes' stand called for action.

Herrington offered the motion for appointment of a committee which John Pillar, South Dakota, immediately seconded. The motion was passed without a dissenting vote, whereupon Samuelson named Steffes as chairman, with these three running mates—James C. Ritter, Michigan; Herrington; Aaron Saperstein, Illinois; N. H. Waters, Alabama; Henry Frieder, Hudson, N. Y.

Tonight the Allied president said he might add to the committee, with a definite decision on this point left hanging. Earlier, and as a contributing factor to Steffes' subsequent invectives, Saperstein told of the M-G-M Chicago situation, details of which he glossed over. He cited the Granata bill and drew the attention of the conventioneers to the fact its text had been published in Tuesday's MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Wants Action Nationwide

"I hope the decision will be made to introduce a similar bill in every state and in Washington before the convention closes," he said in conclusion.

Other speakers included W. A. Sirmon, associate state director of FHA, who outlined the function of this Federal act and explained that a number of Georgia exhibitors already had taken advantage of it.

RCA Photophone staged a lengthy exhibit of its latest sound equipment under the direction of Charles Herbst, who was preceded and introduced by L. B. Morris, vice-president and general counsel of the RCA Manufacturing Co. Morris threw plenty of bouquets at Allied and all along the line thanked it for its cooperation.

Late tonight, and following a Negro show staged at the Bethel Church, various committees named by Samuelson during the session were meeting and framing resolutions for presentation to the convention at the final Thursday session. These committees and their personnel follow:

Code and the NRA—Col. H. A. Cole, Texas; M. B. Horwitz, Cleveland; L. Neuberry, New Jersey; C. Wilson, Troy; Bob Higgins, Grove City, Pa.; I. A. Roth, Morristown, N. J.; Frank Roach, Tennessee, and Fletcher Thornton.

Loew Chicago Situation—H. M. Ritchey, Detroit; Morris Wax, Philadelphia; Harry Hecht, Passaic; Benny Berger, Minneapolis; L. Bach, Atlanta; M. M. Osman, Covington, Ga., and Nate Ginsberg, Alabama.

Committee on Political Activities—S. S. Stevenson and Frank Lydon.

Anti-Compulsory Block Booking—Walter B. Littlefield, Boston; Roy Branch, Michigan; Nate Wolf, Illinois; Ike Katz, Atlanta; John Pillar, North Dakota; H. Fried, Pennsylvania; H. C. Sales, Florida; M. Batterson, Pittsburgh, and C. W. Neth, North Carolina.

Distributors' Sales Policies—Aaron Saperstein, Chicago; Sam Borisky, Tennessee; Fred McWilliams, Wisconsin; Glen Dickinson, Kansas City; Al. Yeomans, Mississippi; Henry Lazarus, New Orleans; W. G. Browning, Georgia; Charles Olive, Washington, D. C.; Henry Greenberger, Ohio, and David Barrist, Philadelphia.

Non-Theatricals—H. M. Ritchey, Detroit; C. E. Herman, Pennsylvania; F. Weiss, Savannah; Columbus Stamper, Pennsylvania; A. Kramer, Ohio; Richard Rubin, Saugus, Mass.; J. Gardner, New York, and C. L. Strozier, North Carolina.

Individual Grievances—Burt McWilliams, Wisconsin; R. Wilkins, New Jersey; Fred Harrington, Pennsylvania; F. Snyder, Michigan; Hascom Block, New Jersey; Rubin Frels, Texas, and Paul Scott.

Miscellaneous Resolutions—Martin Smith, Ohio; Herman Blum, Baltimore; C. W. Moss, Pennsylvania; Arthur Howard, Boston; W. J. Ray, Florida; Oscar Neufeld, Philadelphia; C. Walter, Florida, and James Ritter, Detroit.

Gaumont British gave a preview of "Loves of a Dictator" at the Rialto, after which the usual round of what might be termed "private conferencing" was resumed with vigor.

30 States There

Atlanta, May 22.—Conventioneers today greeted with applause the statement by President Sidney Samuelson that 30 states are represented here by delegates, not by proxy. Declaring this to be the greatest convention Allied has held in its history, he listed these affiliated states:

Alabama, Arkansas, California, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont and Wisconsin.

"It's quite a parade," remarked Samuelson, with obvious pride.

Wax Asserts M-G-M Wants Compromise

ATLANTA, May 22.—M-G-M realizes it cannot have its own way in Chicago but does not dare to admit defeat in its efforts to sell Windy City independents preferred playing time and percentage and therefore is willing to compromise, Morris Wax of the I.E.P.A., Allied affiliate in eastern Pennsylvania, told the Allied convention today. He said that Robert Lynch, M-G-M's Philadelphia manager, made these statements to him conversationally. Lynch has been handling negotiations for new theatres which his company has declared it will build in Chicago. Wax further declared Lynch told him M-G-M, while willing to compromise, was fearful of such a procedure because of the effect this might have on its sales policies in other territories.

Declaring that if M-G-M proceeds with its theatre invasion of Chicago the issue then would become national, Wax admonished the convention to pass resolutions urging all its units to condemn M-G-M for its stand.

Robert Lynch was en route from Chicago to Philadelphia last night and could not be reached for comment.

Ohio to Close Session with Tax Uncertain

COLUMBUS, May 22.—The General Assembly, which officially recessed for one week late Friday, has considered more bills affecting the picture industry than any previous session on record. The solons will reconvene for one day, or possibly two, Thursday, and then adjourn sine die.

The recently enacted bill increasing censorship fees from $1 to $3 per reel, which becomes effective July 16, will include newsreels, according to B. O. Skinner, censor board head. Newsreels have been exempt from censorship for the past 18 months.

Governor Davey, however, has indicated that he expects to call a special session in the fall to formulate additional tax programs to finance the $7,000,000 required for old-age pensions for the last half of this year, unless, by some miracle, a solution is found when the legislators get back on the job this week.

During the current session, a bill prohibiting designated playdates was passed, and, although declared unconstitutional by Attorney General John W. Bricker, it becomes a law July 6. Another bill passed raises censorship fees from $1 to $3 per 1,000-foot reel or fraction thereof. A bill banning endurance contests lasting longer than 12 hours was passed.

A bill to tax billboards and a state income tax bill still are on the legislative calendar awaiting action.

Bills defeated include restoration of the 10 per cent admission tax, legalizing of pari-mutuel betting on dog races and a proposed constitutional amendment legalizing state lotteries.

Just what is ahead of exhibitors in the way of taxation is anybody's guess.

Neb. Chain Levy Is Cut

LINCOLN, May 22.—The chain store bill being fought in the Conference Committee of the Nebraska Legislature today had some of its proposed levying power removed when the $3 for one up to $175 for more than 20 units was cut to $3 for one to $100 for five or more. The bill, one of the most bitterly fought in this session, takes in theatres.

Mass. to Have Race Vote

BOSTON, May 22.—Governor Curley has signed a bill providing for a statewide referendum in 1936 on pari-mutuel dog racing in Massachusetts. The bill calls for local option and is a compromise victory for the M.P.T.O.A. Dog tracks will operate this year and next in accordance with a referendum passed last year, although court action continues to block several projects.

Cal. Lottery Bill Defeated

SACRAMENTO, May 22.—The studio-backed lottery bill has been defeated by the Assembly.

Open Columbia House

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 22.—Commonwealth circuit's Uptown opened with film and theatre men from Kansas City and St. Louis in attendance. C. A. Schultz, circuit head, was host at a midnight party at the Tiger Hotel following the show.

Addenda from Atlanta

ATLANTA, May 22.—Everyone has troubles and it matters not what the exhibitors' affiliation—M. P. T. O. A. or Allied—may be.

There is, for instance, Moe Horwitz, always a stormy petrel among Cleveland's independents. He's mystified and not unworried because his Saturday business is off. On the accepted week's unit of 10 points—three for Sunday, two for Saturday and one each for the remaining five days—Moe says he's doing only 80 per cent of the anticipated Saturday gross. With matinees for kids included.

Interesting is the attitude of 400 Pennsylvania independents, as reflected principally by Dave Barrist of Philadelphia, on the Sunday local option law which had its public hearing in Harrisburg on Tuesday.

Barrist, speaking for members of the I. E. P. A. (Eastern Pennsylvania) and the M. P. T. O. (Western Pennsylvania) says these men are satisfied without a seven-day operation because they're fearful they won't do as well as with six. Film supply is given by him as another consideration. Yet, Barrist adds, the public is for Sunday shows. Which might make pertinent the service element which presumably figures in each theatreman's operating scheme and why these 400 want to be different.

Sid Samuelson, accompanied by his wife and his secretary, Sally Fisher, drove from Washington, and saw nothing playing theatres on the way but westerns and action films.

Harry G. Ballance, Southern district manager for Fox, and Paul Wilson, Atlanta manager, braved the dining room at the Piedmont for lunch, bedecked with Allied badges to boot.

Reg Wilson, assistant to Gaumont British George Weeks, is here shaking hands and spreading his company's gospel.

Abram F. Myers, Allied's general counsel, was out of his traveling clothes and into very fancy sports wear in a handful of minutes following his arrival.

Pete Wood is in, but may have to hop back to Columbus on Ohio tax matters any minute. He drove with his wife, who has been ill and is now in Florida recuperating.

Mo Wax of the I. E. P. A. has a German camera with a hair-trigger shutter. Between it and Wax's photographic urge, he is snapping everyone within and without range.

Harry Fried's plaid suit is something. Normally, Harry operates the Wayne at Wayne and the Seville at Bryn Mawr. Both Pennsylvania, of course.

Exhibitor Stamper has what might be described as an explorative first monicker. It is Columbus and this is no gag. He also has three houses in Philadelphia which are the Great Northern, Tioga and Windsor.

Nate Yamins will not be here. Which is a cause for disappointment among the conventioneers. Yamins' wife is passing through a critical operation at Fall River, Mass.

National Screen's delegation rivals and, in many instances, outdistances exhibitor representation for many areas. Herman Robbins, George Dembow, M. Van Praag and Ben Rosenberg pulled in late Monday afternoon. Dispatched earlier were Abe Brin, manager of the Ideal Sound Studio at Hudson Heights, N. J., where NSS does much of its trailer production; Frank Zucker, cameraman; Joe Clemons, his assistant; Edward Johnston, sound engineer, and John Holbrook, the NSS reporter. They have set up a sound studio in Parlor H, where trailers of all who show up will be made as a compliment. It was ditto with the M. P. T. O. A. crowd in New Orleans some weeks back.

"Snake" Richardson, district manager for First Division, turned out on deck early and cheerful for the handshaking business. Harry Thomas is due in. Almost any minute now.

Sartorial sights: Oscar Neufeld in blue jacket and white flannels; Sid Samuelson in natty gray; Aaron Saperstein, in blue complete from tie to socks; Pete Wood in something defying quick description, but leaning heavily to the sports side and snappy, too.

Following "Heaven Bound," play given at the Big Bethel Church, tonight, Gaumont British previewed "Loves of a Dictator" at the Rialto a dozen steps away from the hotel. Wilson and Jim Butner, the latter local manager for G. B., made the arrangement.

A. Jules Benedic is reporting the lighter side of the sessions via mimeographed bulletin which he calls "Allied Arrows."

Perpetual Motion

Atlanta, May 22.—When the paying public calls the shots and those shots mean dough at the till, that's something.

Herman A. Blum, Allied delegate from Maryland who operates the Little Theatre, Baltimore, is the lucky exhibitor passing through this experience. "Unfinished Symphony" was slated to be pulled after seven weeks. Only the public thought otherwise. And so the run was extended to nine which round out the end of this week.

Blum says he will play to 50,000 admissions by the termination of the engagement. The house seats 285.

Shaw to Be Honored

NEW HAVEN, May 22.—An informal dinner-dance will be tendered Harry F. Shaw, May 27, his first anniversary as division manager here for Loew's Poli New England Theatres. Erle Wright, Abe Mattes and Matt Saunders head the committee on arrangements. One hundred fifty reservations have been received.

"Manhattan," Bernie Smash Denver Hits

DENVER, May 22.—"Romance in Manhattan," with Ben Bernie and his band on the Orpheum stage for four days, just about exhausted the staff. Ropes were up most of the time and the take went to $16,000. Average is $5,500.

"Les Miserables" doubled the normal take at the Aladdin by getting $5,000. There were three holdovers. One of them, "Richelieu," took $2,500 at the Aladdin in three days. This is $1,000 over par for a week. "Bride of Frankenstein" took $3,000 in a four-day holdover at the Paramount, and "Naughty Marietta" had $1,200 in four days.

In spite of all this big business, "G-Men" ran up to $9,000 at the Denver. This tops average by $3,000.

Dual Bill Is Only Grosser in Omaha

OMAHA, May 22.—Even the three remaining first runs failed to get enough business to stir any enthusiasm here last week. "People Will Talk" and "One New York Night," a dual, reached $7,600 at the Orpheum, but this was only $100 over par.

"Cardinal Richelieu" was weak at the Omaha.

Total first run business was $15,600. Average is $16,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending May 16:

"PEOPLE WILL TALK" (Para.)
"ONE NEW YORK NIGHT" (M-G-M)

censors for a number of years, even though this does not insure that a completed picture will be accepted in whole or in part.

The British, he says, want to comply with the American code under a similar arrangement. To avoid delay and expense in doing this, because distribution is centered in New York and production on the coast, he suggests the establishment of a New York branch of the Production Code Administration. This should facilitate the distribution of British pictures in the American market, he says.

"Although it is true that the American code goes into considerably more detailed explanation than do the regulations of the British Board of Censors," Tennyson writes, "it is clear that such detailed explanation cannot in any circumstances be exhaustive and that a very great deal must always depend upon the treatment of individual incidents. Incidents which are not specifically mentioned either in your code or the B.B.F.C. regulations as being objectionable might easily become objectionable if unsuitably treated, while on the other hand incidents which are not mentioned as to be avoided might be unobjectionable if treated in a proper manner. There are also differences in national taste in different countries, an understanding of which it is almost impossible for a foreigner to ascertain except by special reference in each case."

Tennyson expresses the opinion that this would eliminate difficulties which British distributors have recently encountered in this country and "fear they may encounter in the future."

Old Selznick Staff Can Collect Checks

Eight former employes of the old Selznick Distributing Corp. may collect their 1924 salary checks now by applying to the office of Tobias A. Keppler, attorney.

Those whose checks await them are Josephine Gallo, Harry Germanio, Mary Goldberg, Miss G. Hutchins, Bertha H. Magid, Harold J. Sexter, Joseph J. Walters and E. W. Truog.

The Selznick company went into bankruptcy in 1924, yet its affairs only recently reached a stage at which it became evident that while creditors would receive nothing for their claims, former employes of the company would be able to collect something for salaries due them prior to the bankruptcy. Keppler was counsel for a group of about 50 of the former employes who had salary claims at the time of the bankruptcy. He has been able to locate and deliver checks to all but the above named eight.

Administration of the Selznick bankruptcy has outlived two court referees who supervised its affairs. They are the late John J. Little and the late Henry K. Davis. Irwin Kurtz is now referee for the estate.

Dent Deal for Astor Called Off, He Says

Previews is off and that the first six of the 12 pictures he brought over will be shown to specially invited audiences at the Waldorf-Astoria ballroom. "Abdul the Damned" with Nils Asther and Adrienne Ames will be the first picture on the schedule.

After the showings, Dent will negotiate a national distribution deal, following which he is planning to go to the coast for a vacation and to meet old friends.

Rivoli Nine Wins Again

The Rivoli Theatre's baseball team chalked up its fourth consecutive victory by trimming the Orpheum Theatre nine to the tune of 9 to 0. Today they play the Brooklyn Paramount ball team. Among the teams defeated by the Rivoli crew were: Orpheum, Capitol, and Coliseum.

Mexican Producers Hit by Tax Demand post ranging from six to 13 per cent of gross receipts for last year.

The opposition of the industry has precipitated a situation similar to that which recently brought threats of the withdrawal of American distributors, who agree to liquidate last year's income tax, thereby bringing about a truce pending the government's checking of their books under an agreement with the Minister of Finance.

It is believed that the government has taken its present step against the native producers and distributors to force them to follow the example of American distributors in settling their 1934 income taxes.

It is said along film row that it is expected President Cardenas will legislate in a favorable manner toward all phases of the industry, native as well as American, concerning the July and August collections of taxes, which the government insists upon. These taxes, which will amount to approximately $30,000, have been the cause of latest dispute in film circles.

company's by-laws and arrived at virtual agreement on the classification of the 16 directors as to the terms each shall serve, whether for one, two or three years. Settlement of final phases of this classification is being undertaken by a sub-committee which may complete the work within a few days.

Assurances that the subject of a new contract for Ernst Lubitsch to replace his present one, expiring June 15, would be among the first business to be taken up by the new board following its installation on June 3 were given following yesterday's board meeting. It was stated that both the trustees of Paramount and the outgoing board felt that Lubitsch's new contract was properly a subject that warranted action by the new board. The assurances were given, it is understood, as a result of inquiries made by Lubitsch concerning his new contract.

General sentiment among the leading Paramount creditor groups favoring a continuation of the present management headed by Adolph Zukor, which was reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of May 3, appears to be gaining strength daily. From present indications no change of great importance will result in the ranks of Paramount officers at the June election. With Zukor continued as president, the possibility arises that he may also be elected chairman of the board. According to reports there is also the possibility that the chairmanship may be left vacant for a time. The present sentiment within the creditor groups is to minimize the authority of a board chairman, in any event.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The Securities and Exchange Commission is studying Paramount's reorganization plan, along with reorganization plans of other large companies, a spokesman for the S. E. C. said here today.

Operating contracts which expire June 27 and which will be extended to Sept. 27 include those of George Trendle, Detroit; Karl Hoblitzelle, Dallas; A. H. Blank, Des Moines, and Lucas & Jenkins. Although the extension agreements have not yet been signed by the partners, it is understood they have been informally approved.

Loew-Momand Delay Sought

A hearing on exceptions to the $10,000,000 anti-trust claims filed by E. M. Loew of Boston and A. B. Momand of Oklahoma against Paramount Publix was asked for June 5 before Federal Judge Coxe by the Paramount trustees yesterday. The request is being given consideration by the court.

Loew and Momand filed claims of approximately $5,000,000 each against Paramount, representing triple damages for anti-trust suits which are pending against the company. Special Master John E. Joyce, after a hearing on the claims several months ago, ruled that claims for triple damages could not be made against a bankrupt but that claims for actual damages might be allowed if provable. Both Paramount and the claimants, Loew and Momand, filed exceptions to the report and the hearing now being sought is to obtain a court ruling on these.

Looking 'Em Over

"Unknown Woman"

(Columbia)

Director Albert Rogell has here combined a mildly interesting story and several good character portrayals into an entertaining picture. The film has no outstanding qualities, but it should prove more than satisfactory on dual bills and in small towns.

The publicity now being given Federal investigators will probably help exhibitors in exploiting it, for it deals with a female government operator.

The yarn has Richard Cromwell, a young lawyer, entangled with Douglas Dumbrille and his gang and being used by the crooks as a means of hiding some stolen bonds. He meets Marian Marsh in a raid on Dumbrille gambling house and romance between the two blossoms. She tells him she is after some stock certificates Dumbrille had swindled from her father and thus enlists the unsuspecting youth's aid. In the end it is revealed Miss Marsh is a secret Federal agent, and in a smashing and comical finish all ends well.

Besides the three principals, Henry Armetta shines in a brief role. Arthur Hohl, George McKay, Robert Middlemass and Nana Bryant complete the cast.

Cal. ITO in Meeting

LOS ANGELES, May 22.—Approximately 125 exhibitors, or 90 per cent of the I.T.O. of Southern California members, today lauded the board of directors for its accomplishments in behalf of the organization at a meeting called by a special committee of members.

Besides complimenting the board the members requested the monthly dues be raised from $2 to $5. The group also discussed the local zoning and clearance schedule.

Arvid E. Gillstrom Dies

operating the house as trustee. He was formerly receiver.

The bondholders' committee recently made an application to the RFC for a loan of $750,000 to reorganize Roxy Theatres Corp. Assessed valuation of the theatre is $4,000,000, of which $2,000,000 is allocated against the ground. Under reorganization plans no change in management is contemplated.

The local RFC bureau has approved the loan and has sent the request to Washington. The loan would amount to about 20 per cent of the assessed valuation of the entire property and less than 40 per cent of the ground value.

If, and when, the loan is granted, the $250,000 receiver's certificates would be liquidated as the first move in the reorganization plan. Cullman is expected to continue as operating head under the new setup, it is understood.

Century Appeal Delayed

Century circuit's appeal on the Jamaica angle in the Century-RKO clearance and zoning decision was postponed yesterday until next Monday. The Far Rockaway hearing was held Tuesday, but because Louis Nizer, representing RKO, was in court on another case yesterday, the second hearing was put off.

operates bank night concessions, according to J. W. Ehrlich, local attorney for the concessionaire.

The defendants, Ehrlich said, will include the Golden State circuit, T. & D. Junior Theatre Circuit and various independents. The plaintiff will allege in its suit that the defendants use copyrighted methods in conducting bank night, even though calling it by various names.

Announcement of the contemplated action followed a conference here today between Ehrlich, Emmett Thurman of Denver, who is also counsel for the plaintiff, and Claude Ezell of Los Angeles, general manager of Affiliated Enterprises. The suit, it was said, will demand a general accounting which Ehrlich estimates should indicate damages of $25,000. The suit will be filed in Federal district court here.

Seek Court Aid on Nights

DALLAS, May 22.—Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., a Colorado corporation, has filed an application for injunction in Federal Court here to prevent the grievance board from interfering with theatres operating a bank night.

Plaintiff owns the copyright on "bank night." The petition sets out that the grievance board has issued cease and desist orders against a number of Texas theatres. The petition also sets out that the grievance board can prevent theatres from obtaining films necessary to their business. Power of the board under NRA is attacked as being an unauthorized attempt to delegate legislative authority.

Listed in the petition are the names of several hundred Texas theatres that have contracted for "bank night."

Loew Delays Giveaway Action

Loew's has deferred action on its plan to adopt giveaways locally on a wholesale scale until tomorrow when the New York grievance board will meet to formulate a plan on the issue as a result of the general meeting held last week.

The circuit's attitude is that it is being forced into the move unless independent exhibitors cease and desist. The local board is trying to figure out a way to stop the practice and will meet again tomorrow to merge the opinions of various members into one uniform plan.

Allied Drops Hays Talk Idea; To Try Litigation

Allied Agrees on Aug. 5 for 25% Donation to a War Chest

Atlanta, May 23.—By unanimous vote at the Allied convention today Aug. 5 was set aside as "National Independent Allied Theatre Day," when 25 per cent of each Allied house's receipts will be forwarded to the national organization headquarters to fortify the exchequer with sufficient funds to wage court fights against major companies on perhaps as many as "100 fronts."

W. Stoepplemann, exhibitor of Silbee, Tex., who made the individual hit of the convention with his drawling humor, was the author of the suggestion, which went through wrangles and suggestion stages until a decision finally was reached. The executive committee will handle all details, including preparation of banners, which Allied members will be expected to string across the fronts of their houses that day. Trailers explaining the purpose of the drive are in contemplation and are planned, provided the cost does not work out at an excessive figure.

Practical to the end, it was James Minter, Flint, Mich., exhibitor, who asked Sidney Samuelson what about percentage bookings. "Don't play percentage on that day," shot back Samuelson.

Votes for Court Moves On "100 Fronts"; Session Ends

By RED KANN

ATLANTA, May 23.—Anticipating failure in any discussion with Will H. Hays and "powers that be" in obtaining relief from so-called distributor and affiliated theatre "aggressions" on independents, Allied in its closing session today voted to trust its future to court actions on perhaps as many as "100 fronts" and voted a war chest to aid its members to pursue their self determined objective.

Aug. 5 was named as national independent Allied theatre day on which those theatres enrolled in the organization, claimed to total approximately 5,000, will set aside 25 per cent of their receipts on behalf of the national treasury.

Plan Revived For Theatres Combine Here

New Proposal Is for Two Circuits—N. Y., N. J.

Plans for the formation of two large independent circuits, one in New Jersey and the other in New York, whereby exhibitors will pool their interests into one corporation for an exchange of stock, but retaining management, have been revived after being dormant several months. Full details have not been worked out.

Theatres Cut from Nebraska Chain Tax

LINCOLN, Neb., May 23.—Theatres were clipped from the proposed chain store tax measure here today and the bill was sent back to a conference committee for a third time. As reported, the bill proposed a graduated tax of from $1 to $100 per unit.

It is understood that the measure will be piled high with strings that will hold up its consideration until adjournment Saturday, or insure its defeat as soon as it comes out.

Republic Switches Meeting to Frisco

Republic has changed its convention plans. Instead of three regionals, it will hold two. The Salt Lake City meeting has been called off and all eastern sales forces will meet in Cincinnati on June 7-8, while the western selling groups will gather in San Francisco. The latter date will be set today by W. Ray Johnston, president.

The Salt Lake session is being dropped because of objections by franchise holders.

Say Operator Raise Would Shutter 200

More than 200 theatres in the local area will be forced to close their doors if the operators' scale promulgated by Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt is adopted after the public hearing in Washington on June 4, leaders of the I.T.O.A. and the T.O.C.C. declared yesterday.

Both independent units are preparing to send large delegations to the Capital hearing to protest the plan.

Openings and Building Gain In Many Spots

Theatre openings and new building, as well as incorporations in various parts of the country, are gaining momentum. Even Hollywood, where the theatre business has been hard hit, is about to have a new house, an 899-seater, to be built by Howard Sheehan and Joe Sinks.

A number of building projects are under way in Texas. In Milwaukee and Richmond new houses are under way. New York has eight under construction and another planned. Reports of plans for the construction of

Louisianans Refuse To Pay Ascap's Fees

NEW ORLEANS, May 23.—Some exhibitors here, believed to be led by Alex Dumestre, lawyer exhibitor, say they will refuse to pay their music tax licenses until Ascap representatives show they have paid for the licenses called for under a new state law. This tax is $5,000 a year in each parish where collections are made.

Ascap has replied by canceling Dumestre's license.

Tri-States Is Called Racket By Saperstein

ATLANTA, May 23.—A presumable second phase of implied efforts on the part of affiliated circuits to formulate a national booking combine was charged at the final session of the Allied convention today when Aaron Saperstein described Tri-States Theatres, Inc., as an "up to date modern racket" compelling exhibitors in the southeast to pay tribute in the form of booking fees starting at $15 weekly and up for "the privilege of buying their pictures of them."

The Allied leader asserted it was

Say Hays Ready to Talk to Committee

"Any delegation with constructive objectives will always be received by Mr. Hays," a spokesman for the M.P.P.D.A. head said yesterday in response to inquiries as to whether or not the Allied States' exhibitor committee delegated by the organization's Atlanta convention to protest "aggressions" against independents would be given a hearing by Hays.

"At least," the spokesman added, "that has always been Mr. Hays' policy."

Efforts to communicate with Hays directly for his comment were unsuccessful.

New Telephone Cable Interests Film Men

Film men are viewing with interest the proposed installation of the new co-axial cable between here and Philadelphia, over which, it is claimed, 200 telephonic conversations and one television set of images may be carried simultaneously.

If the experiment is successful, it may be the forerunner to the establishment of a nationwide television system.

Already competition between television and pictures has developed in Europe with a cable similar to the new co-axial one. At Nice, France, last month, a conference was held to work out plans for the presentation on theatre screens of a "visual radio newsreel." No definite decision was reached, however, and no public demonstrations of the invention were given.

A spokesman for the newsreel companies here yesterday told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that the local companies were "sitting back and looking at various television experiments since it didn't cost them anything to look." The proposed sending of newsreel over television systems, in the manner recently tested in France, had been discussed, he admitted, but it was decided to do nothing at present.

About 150 RKO Men Mar Fenimore Links

Approximately 150 entrants slipped divots and blasted sand traps in RKO's golf tourney, held yesterday and far into the night at Fenimore Country Club, White Plains.

The event turned out to be one occasion when the boss didn't rank first. Prize for low net went to T. E. Derber and for low gross to Lou Miller. Mitchell May was runnerup, with other low scorers finishing in the following order: Ed McEvoy, Sol Dasanatie, Cresson Smith, H. J. Yates, Al Mertz and I. E. Lambert. The best the bosses could do was take some of the honors for their own foursomes. Sharing in the foursome prizes were Ned E. Depinet, L. E. Thompson, Smith, Bob Wolff, Lou Goodrow and James Cron. A booby prize went to Henry Holmes' 178, and the second booby prize to Richard Gavin. W. G. Van Schmus was given the guest prize. He didn't play.

Warners to Extend Meet for 13 Days

Warners have decided to extend the time allotted for the annual sales convention from three days to 13, from June 13 to June 23. Instead of rushing the company's sales executives and theatre men through a three-day meet devoted to sales talks and the screening of a few pictures, key men will be given an opportunity to study production problems from beginning to end. At the same time production executives will be able to familiarize themselves with sales and exhibition problems.

"We intend to take advantage of the presence in Los Angeles of the largest gathering of distributing and exhibiting forces in the history of the company," says Albert Warner, "to enable them to familiarize themselves with the entire process of production from selection of a story to editing and cutting. The presence of H. M. Warner also will afford an opportunity for a series of conferences with key men at which far-reaching policies will be debated and outlined."

The eastern delegation will get away June 5 and connect with a special train at St. Louis. Over 300 men from both the distribution and theatre departments will make the trip.

Delay Warner Board Meet

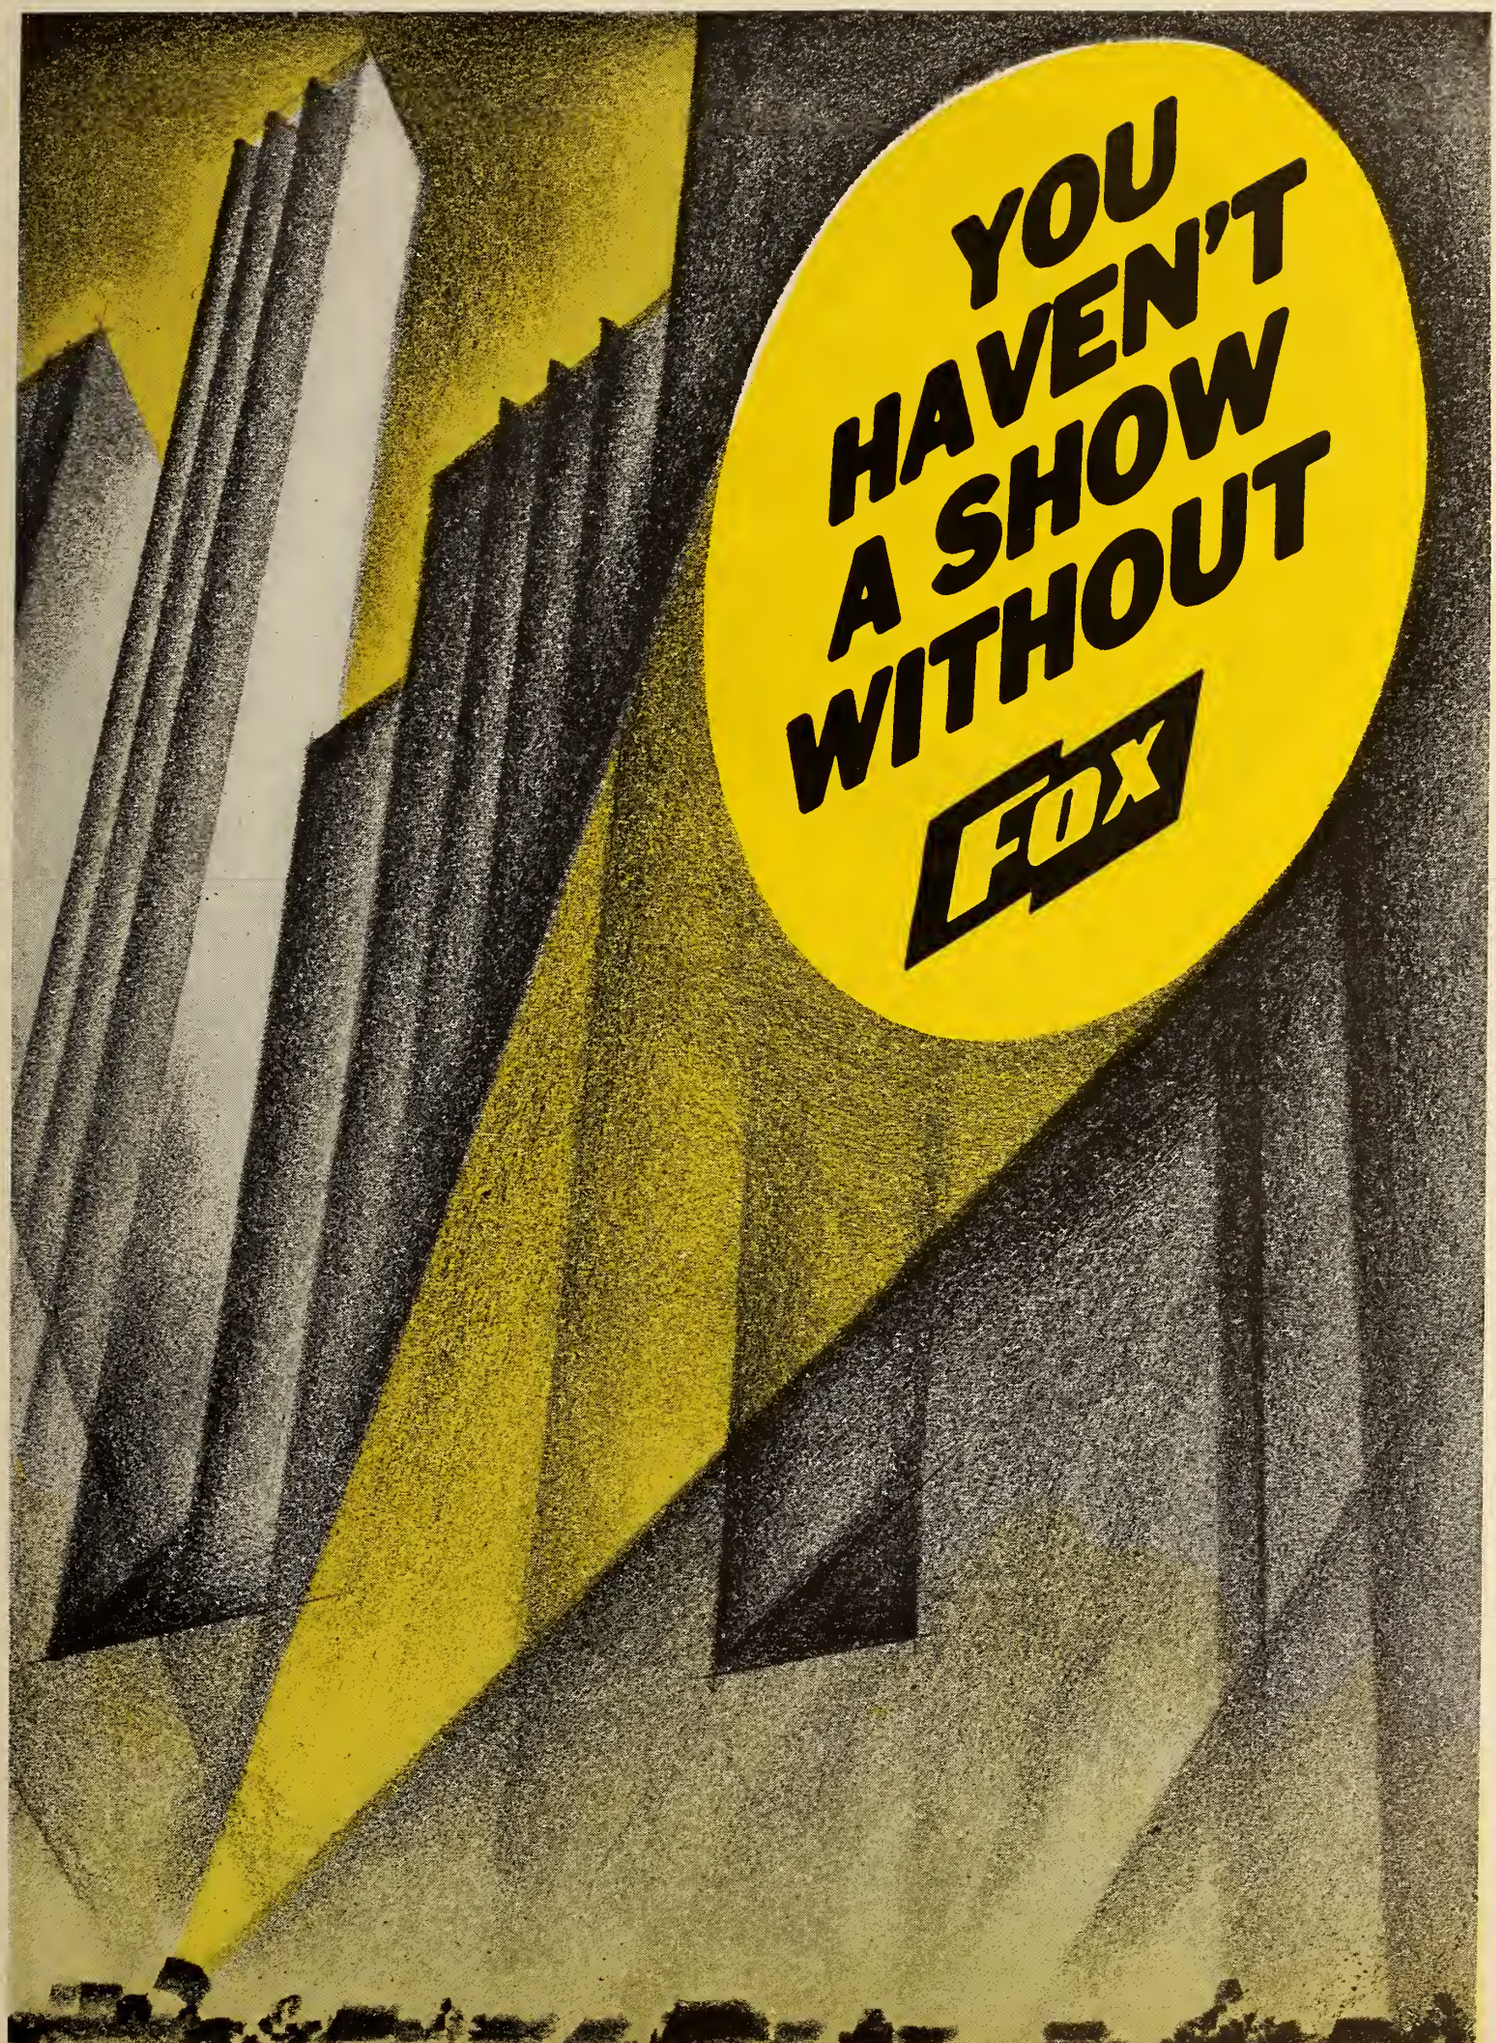
No meeting of the Warners' board of directors will be held on June 11, the session having been called off because of the company's annual sales convention which will be held in Los Angeles. At the May 14 session routine business was discussed. The annual stockholders meeting will be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in December.

Study Plan to Ask U. S. Theatre Help

Proposals for asking Federal funds to aid in the development of three production centers, putting companies on the road and getting actors back to work will be considered Saturday by the Legitimate Theatre Code Authority.

Under the plan theatre owners and lessees, labor representatives and players would be grouped in branches of a central organization.

F. D. Board Meet Delayed



A meeting of the board of First Division scheduled for yesterday. was postponed to early next week. A definite date is to be set by Frank F. Kolbe, chairman, on his return to the city from a business trip. Kolbe's absence, together with that of Harry Thomas, F. D. president, who is attending the Allied States' convention at Atlanta, was given as the reason for the postponement.

Hecht, Louis Gold, Irving Dollinger, Jack Unger and Joseph Sicardi.

A secret session was held about two weeks ago by the New Jersey group in Newark at which time tentative plans were discussed. About 25 exhibitors already have agreed to the idea, it is said, and more than 75 more are expected to sign at the next session, which is slated to be held in 10 days. The committee is studying all legal phases of the plans before filing incorporation papers.

Only non-competitive and last run theatres are eligible to admittance in the New Jersey circuit, according to the outline. The limitation to certain houses in the to-be-formed group is said to be for two reasons. One is that where non-competitive houses are corralled into one unit distributors who do not compromise on selling terms will be out of those situations. The second is that all last run houses bunched together can demand certain terms from exchanges. It is figured that these types of houses are so much velvet to distributors, and if they are not sold, a corresponding decrease in revenue will be shown on the exchange's books.

Aroused by Product Forcing

Particularly nettling the sponsors of the two new circuit plans are the forcing of shorts, trailers and newsreels by salesmen. It is figured by the committee that if exhibitors have to continue buying the shorts when there is no room for them all, the theatre owner will be compelled to close.

Heading the New York contingent is John Benas, who last night met at the M. P. Club with Milton C. Weisman, Harry Brandt, Maurice Fleischman, Bernard Barr and Louis Shiffman.

During the past year members of both the I.T.O.A. and Allied of New Jersey have been sounded on the plan several times, but with no response. At one time the sponsors tried to get 150 exhibitors from both New York and New Jersey to pool their theatres into one company which would operate in both states. While the plan was along the same lines as outlined for the latest for New Jersey, no reservations were made as to competition and run. The proposal received a cold shoulder and had been dormant until it was revived in limited form a fortnight ago.

As a result of the meeting last night, it was decided to hold a general meeting of I.T.O.A. and non-affiliated exhibitors Monday afternoon, starting at 3 P. M., at the Astor. At that time the local plan is scheduled to be placed before those interested.

Abe Leff and Louis Meyers of the Leff-Meyers circuit in the Bronx also attended the M. P. Club session.

in some instances are lifting restrictions imposed at the start of the current season.

With the exception of Columbia and Universal, the large distributors adopted an ironclad rule here this year that no feature playing a first run would be released for subsequent dualing. While that will apply to percentage pictures the balance of this year, some features sold on flat rental and considered too weak without support will be given a double bill classification by Warners and Paramount. For the present, Paramount is limiting the privilege to product turning in an unsatisfactory first run performance.

None of the bigger pictures will be cut loose for dualing by Warners, Paramount, Fox, M-G-M, Radio and United Artists. Quality considerations, percentage deals and first run obligations prevent the move. However, the Fox exchange is ready to meet subsequents' demands for more double bills provided exhibitors agree to run them behind single bill playdates in the same price category. Other companies still holding fast to original policies may follow suit later.

Hecht-MacArthur in Dicker with M-G-M

Paramount has not exercised its option with Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur for a fourth picture. The independent producers made three pictures at the Astoria studios in accordance with the Paramount pact, which carried an option for an additional film. It is understood Hecht and MacArthur will make a series of six for M-G-M, negotiations now being made.

The three produced by the duo are: "Crime Without Passion," "Once in a Blue Moon" and "The Scoundrel." Jimmy Savo appeared in "Once in a Blue Moon" and is under contract to Hecht and MacArthur for 11 more films. The Savo film has been nationally released, but has yet to be shown in a New York house.

starting June 1. Reade is personally handling the negotiations for the Broadway & 47th St. Corp., which owns the theatre property on ground leased from an estate being handled by Chase National Bank, while Nicholas M. Schenck and Charles C. Moskowitz are negotiating for Loew's.

Both parties are drawing up contracts for the lease which will be merged into one agreement. Loew's steps out of the New York on June 2 and will continue the same policy it has at this house when it assumes operation of the Mayfair. The policy at the New York is duals with three changes a week. The Mayfair seats 1,778.

Reade has been booking the Mayfair on a picture-to-picture basis in anticipation of the deal. It is also possible that Loew's later may take over the City and Savoy which are operated by Reade. No deal has been talked of as yet.

Allied Drops Idea of Call On Will Hays

vention followed a groove set for them by leaders and in a flood of resolutions passed today reflected an effective organization steam roller, which alone flattened out the code, took a determined stand against non-theatricals, took another poke against M-G-M for its proposed theatre invasion in Chicago, but left open for future determination what Allied will do and how it will view the new season's selling policies of major companies.

Col. H. A. Cole had the code in hand and on behalf of his committee urged Allied members to withdraw from the code, cease payment of assessments and step out of code boards unless Campi was reshuffled to give the buyer and seller equal representation. By buyer Allied means independent exhibitors. By seller it means distributor and affiliated exhibitors, since in organization's lexicon the latter two are not divisible. Assuming it can land this objective, Allied, after its Campi reformation, would then sit down and revamp the NRA pact itself.

Stating, but not explaining to what he referred when he said the Chicago situation was "well in hand," H. M. Richey of Michigan reported his committee on M-G-M had attempted to work out a formula to assist Allied members in the Windy City. Called upon, Morris Wax of the I.E.P.A. of Eastern Pennsylvania, who condemned Leo's activities in that sector, read a resolution calling upon all Allied exhibitors to lay off M-G-M product if the company persisted in its present attitude as it affected Chicago.

M-G-M Is Denounced

Somewhere along the line it apparently was made to condemn M-G-M without specific use of the term boycott. The text of this resolution, which is considered one of the most important in the Allied agenda, follows:

"Whereas, it has become generally known that M-G-M has adopted an unfair and unethical policy of intimidation, coercion and threats to build theatres in Chicago in opposition to existing theatres operated by exhibitors who have refused to accede to the unreasonable terms demanded by M-G-M in the sale of their pictures, now, therefore, be it resolved that such action by M-G-M, either implied or executed, will be condemned by every delegate present at this convention, and that each and every delegate is hereby pledging himself to submit to his respective organization for adoption a resolution expressing such condemnation of M-G-M's policy as will in no uncertain terms declare the wholehearted sympathy of such organization with the stand of the Chicago exhibitors and its intention to take a similar stand if Metro persists in its aggressive policy.

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of such resolution when adopted be sent by each organization to M-G-M executives and to the trade press;

"And, be it further resolved, that the committee appointed at this national convention of Allied States Ass'n. be authorized to draft a copy for a trailer to be used on the screens of all Allied members throughout the nation to acquaint the public with the unfair and aggressive tactics employed by Metro, and the manner in which the public will eventually be affected."

While it determined on a "lawsuit till it hurts campaign," Allied, according to Samuelson, will go through with its announced decision to wait on Hays and demand satisfaction for allegedly injured members. He stated, however, the organization saw nothing by way of results, but was satisfied to place all of its shots on what stacks up as a campaign of "trust busting."

On expounding methods of legal redress, Myers sounded a "sue the devil out of them" program. He declared it seemed curious how chain "depredations" had been so little challenged in the last few years. A Hays representative in Washington, who went unnamed, according to Myers, the other day offered an explanation of the new five-year contract Hays had signed.

"Due to his activities troublesome and expensive litigation had been reduced to a minimum," this individual was quoted by Myers as having stated. Allied's general counsel further expressed surprise so few suits had been filed in the United States and chided Allied territorial leaders for overlooking and for not getting his advice prior to filing of whatever actions had been instituted.

"This," he continued, "had resulted in precedents embarrassing to other leaders." He continued that some suits had been filed in the wrong courts and urged the delegates to make certain they picked the strongest cases in their territories, then have the groundwork prepared locally, but submit the suits to him in Washington prior to the actual filing.

Says M-G-M Being Probed

"I wonder what the situation would be if 100 suits were pending against producers and distributors at the same time. I wonder then if you would have any trouble in buying product," he added. He informed the convention the Federal Trade Commission had launched a probe of M-G-M's theatre activities in Chicago and added the investigators had requested from Allied members any instances of threats or intimidation.

"You can go back years on this. Those instances do not have to be recent, but remember you must be accurate," he warned.

Sam H. Borisky, Tenn., reporting for the committee on political activity, advised that the sense of his group was that Allied's final solution rested with the support of legislative bodies throughout the land. He proposed a resolution, which was adopted, admonishing members to censor newsreels for elimination of clips depicting activities of Allied's "enemies." It was urged that Allied members should exercise rigorous care of what they flash on their screens and hinted broadly that Allied will give screen support to those legislators who are friendly toward its aims, although occasions when this course will be followed must, of necessity, be rare.

Borisky suggested, and the convention approved the suggestion, that a record of the newsreel deletions that are made be sent to Allied's national headquarters for reference.

His recommendations also included the appointment of constantly traveling representatives to contact units and to cooperate with and advise locals on their rights and privileges.

H. M. Richey, Michigan, reporting for the non-theatrical committee, said this type of "entertainment" was showing an alarming increase and constantly adding to the competitive problems of the regularly constituted theatre. Allied favored showings for shut-ins, hospitals and army posts, but nothing beyond that. The rule should be, Richey said, "not how many should be served, but none should be served except those noted above."

The convention also approved Richey's suggestion that each unit appoint a committee composed of two exhibitors and two exchangemen to determine what non-theatricals should be served. The delegates also voiced complete approval of the stand that free shows should not be permitted and, by indorsement of the committee's report, voiced their approval of a suggestion that lists of free shows should be furnished national headquarters which then will confer with distributors in an effort to eradicate them entirely.

Martin G. Smith, Ohio, handled the miscellaneous resolutions which included a decision not to grant advice to sympathetic but unaffiliated units unless they formally joined Allied. RCA was commended for its equipment display and discussion, and all delegates were urged to participate in the advertising reel deal closed by national Allied with Alexander Film Co. The use of such films, however, was declared to be optional with each Allied theatre.

Equipment Men Praised

Equipment dealers who displayed their wares here were commended and Allied men were urged to patronize them where possible. National Screen Service was praised for "adding enjoyment" to the convention. Atlanta newspapers and trade papers were patted on the back for their coverage and National Film Carriers, Inc., was mentioned as filling an "indispensable" place in the industry.

Lower insurance rates will be sought by a committee to be named. Allied feels the ratio of premiums is out of proportion to the ratio of insurance losses. Other rousing resolutions voted included an endorsement to Abram F. Myers for his brief before the Senate Finance Committee on the NRA, to Sameulson for his conduct of the meetings, to Nathan Yamins for his Campi record.

The Pettengill Bill, as anticipated, was completely endorsed in a resolution offered by Walter B. Littlefield of Massachusetts. Another resolution was passed hitting at the Hays' office arguments against the proposed measure which had been given "great support by trade papers supported by producer and distributor advertising." Allied closed its sessions with no stand determined as to sales policies.

Charles H. Olive of Washington, D. C., reported that sales managers who had been asked to meet with Allied prior to the convention had expressed a willingness to discuss their companies' plans, but could not do so because of pending sales conventions. Allied, therefore, is willing to wait, and a committee composed of Morris Wax, Eastern Pennsylvania; William Davis, western Pennsylvania; L. D. Joel, Florida; Frank Hornig, Maryland; Julius Charnow, New Jersey; William Smalley, New York; Littlefield, Massachusetts; A. E. Lichtman and Olive, Washington, was named to delve into this situation at a later date. At the same time Olive said his committee saw zoning based on admissions as the answer to that problem, and urged the units to gird themselves to win this type of zoning to the end that independents get "not just a fair deal, but to accomplish fair competition for independent operators affiliated with Allied."

Asserting Allied was now operating in 30 states, and producing a shaded map to prove it, Samuelson repeated the lineup divulged earlier in the week and cited California, Colorado, Connecticut, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Wyoming as states which are cooperating, although not affiliated.

In Mississippi, as in Oklahoma and the two Carolinas, Allied units are forming, he asserted, Kentucky, Virginia, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, New Mexico and Arizona are states which, admittedly, are not now in the Allied fold.

"Going Somewhere," He Says

"We're going somewhere," he said. "A lot of work has been done quietly. Allied now has national strength. When your national officials can pick up a telephone and say to a gentleman on the other side of the fence: 'We'll discuss certain problems in our office,' then we have an organization. That has happened once and it will happen again. For one one-thousandth of what it costs to operate the Havs organization, Allied can do a job and upset the applecart, and that applecart is going to be upset."

Samuelson concluded amid applause.

Governor Talmadge addressed the final session and amused the delegates with a closeup picture of an average day in the life of a Georgia governor.

Red suspenders, the symbol of the Royal and Mystic Order of Red Galluses, were handed Myers and Samuelson, who, according to ritual, had to put them on before all eyes.

Talmadge was at home with the Allied men, for he took a running jump at the NRA, which he described as the power to create monopoly and trusts.

Anthony Beck, editor of The Michigan Catholic, was another speaker who outlined cooperative efforts between Michigan exhibitors and the state chapter of the Legion of Decency. He said he favored the Petengill bill as a further means of improving the quality of pictures shown the public by giving exhibitors complete right of selectivity.

Many delegates, particularly those from nothern and southwestern points, left tonight. A majority, however, attended the dinner-dance at the East Lake Country Club which brought the convention social activities to a close.

Golf Gets Into Code

The Campi golf tournament at the Lakeville Country Club in Great Neck, L. I., on Wednesday, was not without its tidbits of humor.

Tyree Dillard, Jr., legal head of Campi, said that he scored 82 against Nathan Yamins' 90. Yamins claims that Dillard took off 10 per cent for eliminations as provided in the code.

When Walter Vincent came through his round and saw the score tallied against him, he chirped:

"They added score charges."

a case of independent exhibitors hewing to the line or finding Tri-States building against them. His committee and its findings developed out of Al Steffes' rally around the standard of Col. H. A. Cole of Texas on Wednesday as a typical instance of an unaffiliated theatre man at the mercy of affiliated circuits.

Saperstein cited Savannah as a typical case. Lucas & Jenkins, who are reputed to be 50 per cent owners of Tri-States, control five houses. There are six in the city. While the allegedly oppressed exhibitor in this instance was not named, Saperstein clearly referred to Fred G. Weiss, operator of the Savannah, which is 130 years old and probably the oldest theatre building in the nation. It was claimed that Weiss is willing to buy pictures after all Lucas & Jenkins houses priced as low as 10 cents had finished with them, but distributors refuse to sell him.

The Liggett case at McRae, Ga., was cited as another, as were two unnamed independents operating in Miami, who, according to Saperstein, find it impossible to buy major product for any run as far down the line as sixteenth or seventeenth. Again no names were mentioned, but MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned Saperstein referred to John Cunningham, State, and Charles Walder, Tivoli.

Caused Allied to Waver

It was a recital of this and other alleged campaigning against independents which later today led Allied to waver on its decision to call upon Hays and "the powers that be" in New York for justice, and, instead, to embark on a widespread campaign in the courts of the land in an effort which organization leaders said hopefully would bring distributors to their knees. Details of this decision will be found elsewhere in this edition.

Saperstein reported his committee had heard many "pitiful cases similar to Cole's and some worse." Some independents, he reported, were unable to get pictures any run, any price. Further judgment of his committee was that the Federal courts should be resorted to for relief. By surface indications at least, Tri-States is described here as a cooperative exhibitor organization, many of the members of which individually belong to the Southeastern Theatre Owners' Ass'n., an M.P.T.O.A. affiliate.

Stock ownership in Tri-States is reported to be divided among Lucas & Jenkins, with 50 per cent, and Oscar Lam, Rome, Ga., and Nat Williams, Thomasville, Ga., each 25 per cent.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY tonight queried the latter two by wire for a statement refuting Saperstein's charges without results and made unsuccessful efforts to reach both Arthur Lucas and William Jenkins. The latter was busy with the opening of the new Cascade Theatre in Atlanta's West End, which ran into reported labor trouble during the night and had a substantial portion of its front blown out, although Jenkins' office said the house was opening on schedule.

Addenda from Atlanta

ATLANTA, May 23.—They had their battles in the past, but one of the nicest of gestures which has come to light here is the visit paid by Moe Horwitz, Pete Wood, Henry Greenberger and others of the Ohio crowd to Ed Schiller the other night at Loew's Grand. It was Schiller's first night downtown in almost five weeks.

The Loew executive is now spending his time in repose at his lovely and quiet home in Lullwater Road in the Druid Hill section of the city. He is devoting relatively little time to business, visits the Grand perhaps three times a week to clean up an accumulation of business and personal matters which are picayune by comparison with the mass of deals which cleared his desk in New York before his lengthy illness compelled a halt.

Currently, Schiller is getting a kick out of the weekly amateur night he instituted on the stage of the Grand Monday. As soon as the weather turns genuinely summery, which means considerable heat in Atlanta, he plans to go North for some fishing and a mild return to more active business.

Schiller was genuinely thrilled by messages brought to him here from Dave Bernstein, "Lep" Friedman, Charlie Moskowitz and Joe Vogel—all Loew confreres and associates. You could tell that by the brightness in his eyes and the glow on his cheeks.

Bob Savini, the old Southern gentlemen, is here with New Orleans, his birthplace, the next stop. Then Dallas, Oklahoma City, Kansas City, Cincinnati and the return to New York. He'll manage it complete by next Tuesday, traveling over the air lanes, of course. The Howard Hughes revivals—they're the cause of it all.

The National Screen crowd received a shipment of special cigars from Tampa today. They are very long, thick and wide.

By a deal, Abram F. Myers this morning was to light one as soon as he awakened and smoke it through with pencil and pad by his side. All this, for the sake of ascertaining exactly how long it takes to do the job. No confirmation on the results, but the reports are varied.

Atlanta's Film Men Refute Mrs. Liggett

ATLANTA, May 23.—The tale of "intimidation and persecution" at the hands of J. H. Thompson told by Mrs. F. L. Liggett of McRae, Ga., to the Allied convention Wednesday is old and familiar to Atlanta's film row, it developed today.

While exchangemen prefer not to be directly quoted, a cross section of opinion agrees that Mrs. Liggett's credit with distributors falls somewhat shy of the ideal. They maintain her persistent failure to adhere to the full letter of contracts explains why product she now plays is not as fresh as it might be.

Insofar as Thompson's circuit operations are concerned in Mrs. Liggett's town, opinion appears to be that it probably is true he is crowding her to the wall, but that this is a result of better management and better theatres and not coercion.

Cole Denies Having Product Contracts

ATLANTA, May 23.—"It's a lie," was Col. H. A. Cole's reply today to a question as to whether it was a fact that, despite the story of Texas circuit "aggression" in which he reported he was entrapped, he had signed contracts in his possession giving him all product required to run his houses.

"I have a contract already approved with Columbia and that is all. I have heard the story you ask about and I have an idea where it came from, but it is a lie," he added.

Cole also informed MOTION PICTURE DAILY his account of Texas conditions had interested district managers in Atlanta of three national distributors, who urged him to take the details to New York for presentation to their superiors. Cole, therefore, tonight was seriously considering New York instead of Dallas as his next stop.

Lynch Denies M-G-M Wavers in Chicago

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Robert Lynch, M-G-M branch manager, indignantly denied today having told Morris Wax that his company is willing to set aside its Chicago building plans for the purpose of compromise.

Wax's statements were made Wednesday at the Allied convention session in Atlanta.

"When M-G-M goes into anything it is after careful advance planning," Lynch asserted heatedly. "Wax's remarks are plain cuckoo. All we're trying to do in Chicago is sell and exhibit pictures on the same terms that we sell and show them in all other parts of the country."

Predicts Suit in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 23.—Important developments leading to court action are expected from Essaness against Loew's and Jones, Linick & Schaefer involving alleged efforts on the part of J. L. & S. to take the Sheridan away from Essaness with Loew backing.

So far no action has been filed, but Edwin Silverman of Essaness predicts "dynamite" within a week.

J. L. & S. is already defendant in a grievance case filed by Essaness.

Ruth Chatterton is scheduled to pilot her own plane to the coast, taking off from Roosevelt Field today, weather permitting. The trip will be made in easy stages and contemplates her arrival in Hollywood on Monday, to begin work on her new picture for Columbia.

Lighting Is SMPE Convention Topic

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—Projection and studio lighting were the principal topics of discussion at the morning session of the S. M. P. E. today. In the afternoon sound and standardization were taken up, and this was followed by a visit to the California Institute of Technology.

This evening's session was devoted to newsreel standardization, microphones and wide range reproduction in theatres.

Three sessions for the closing day of the convention tomorrow will be devoted to a variety of papers on sound and projection.

In discussing "Trends in 16 mm. Projection" today A. Shapiro, of the engineering department of Ampro Corp., Chicago, pointed out that in five years lighting intensity had increased so rapidly that 16 mm. film is now projected in large auditoriums. He pointed out that industries are turning to the use of this film and that it is spreading rapidly in the educational field. He predicted that in many small theatres 16 mm. projectors would spell the difference between profit and loss.

It was voted to hold the fall meeting at the Wardman Park Hotel, Washington, Oct. 21-24.

Roxy Details Claim Of $211,404 on RKO

Details of Samuel L. (Roxy) Rothafel's $211,404 claim against RKO for alleged breach of an employment contract are contained in a bill of particulars filed in Federal court here yesterday in support of the claim, and disclose a supplemental claim on 10,000 shares of RKO Class A stock, or its equivalent in value.

Roxy declares that his three-year contract with RKO as maestro of the Radio City theatres called for a salary of $2,000 per week, plus the 10,000 shares of stock. He asserts that he has not received the stock and that he was paid only $1,000 per week for the first year of his contract and nothing thereafter, resulting in an alleged salary deficit of $279,904.

Receipts outside of his RKO contract are listed in Roxy's papers and aggregate $68,500, which he deducts from the amount he claims is due him. The credit items listed include $15,000 from Paramount Publix for six weeks' work at $2,500 per week; $49,500 from Fletcher's Castoria for 33 weeks of Radio programs at $1,500 per week, and $4,000 from the Roxy Philadelphia Corp., for work at the Mastbaum.

The claim has been filed in the RKO reorganization proceedings and is being contested by Irving Trust Co., trustee for RKO.

NRA, Assured Of Extension, To Push Cases

Preparation of Appeals Now Being Hurried

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Fortified by assurances that the Recovery Act would be continued after June 16, the NRA is hastening preparation of appeals on all adverse court decisions involving the film code, it was learned today.

Following a conference of Senate and House leaders with President Roosevelt, it was said an agreement had been reached to extend the law until April 1, 1937, a period of 22½ months, although it was admitted the consent of Senators Borah, Nye, King and other opponents of the NRA had not been secured.

Acceptance of an additional year's

H. B. Swope to Replace Buckley in Lineup

Herbert B. Swope, chairman of the board of K-A-O, is that company's representative on the new Fox Met board. Swope replaces Harry D. Buckley, U. A. theatre head. The realignment leaves Schenck and William P. Philips as the United Artists' representatives on the board. Fox Theatres retains Samuel S. Allan and Milton C. Weisman, attorneys, as its representatives on the board. The sixth board member, William Rhinelander Stewart, is understood to be a U. A.

Allied Probe Of Charges to Be First Move

Will Then Ask Hays Help Before Court Attack

By RED KANN

ATLANTA, May 24.—Allied will thoroughly probe charges of "oppression" by affiliated theatres and distributors made during the convention sessions here by Col. H. A. Cole of Texas, Fred G. Weiss, John Cunningham, Charles Walder and Mrs. F. L. Liggett before proceeding with the mandate of the convention which provides that a committee shall wait upon Will H. En route to their various territories are the organization leaders who have been charged by President Sidney Samuelson first to get the facts and then submit them to Abram F. Loew's, Criterion Given 12 More Days

Loew's and John P. Goring, operators of the New York and Criterion, respectively yesterday were given an extension of 12 days by the City Bank Farmers Trust Co., owners of the property, before vacating the premises.

Under the new time limit, the two houses will not close until June 14. Loew's will most likely sign a 10-year leasing deal with Walter Reade for the Mayfair on Monday, taking possession on June 15.

The extension works out satisfactorily to both Loew's and Goring on booking arrangements. Goring has had a contract with Fox for "The Cowboy Millionaire" and has tried to date the George O'Brien western before this, but no print has been available. The picture is now set to open at the Criterion May 30.

SMPE Hears Tribute To the Technicians

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Tribute was paid to the technician today at the closing sessions here of the convention of the Society of M. P. Engineers.

Asserting that "it is incongruous and unjust to fail to give proper attention to the technical aspects of the motion picture" and that "the mastery of light and the control of sound are at the very core of this great industry," a paper by Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, past president of the society, stated that in the hands of the technician lies "the real future of the industry so far as it depends on the availability of those tools which will inspire and strengthen the artist and please and hold the audience."

"For its continued pre-eminence and public acceptance those charged with the responsibility for the direction of the motion picture field must encourage its technical aspects and learn ever more fully to utilize them," the paper continued. "They must respect and foster the engineering workers who are able to contribute to the art. And, above all, there must be no conflict, open or hidden, between artistry, craftsmanship and technology — for among these there is an essential underlying unity the realization and encouragement of which is a fundamentally necessary condition for the continued growth and success of the industry."

M. C. Batsel of the RCA Manufacturing Co., speaking on "Recording Music for Motion Pictures," said that in his opinion insufficient attention had thus far been paid to the creation of ideal recording acoustics in studio and theatre, adding that new developments were bringing sound pictures nearer perfection of realism and tone fidelity. He asserted that pioneers in the development of talking pictures had been actuated by fundamental ideals which many studio technicians now neglect because of their absorption with production problems.

The failure of American films to compete with British product in India was blamed on jazz, the underworld and slang, in a paper by G. D. Lal of Delhi.

Jersey Trust Suit Going to a Master

Orange, and Strand Theatre Operating Co., controlling a house of the same name in East Orange. Suits asking for trebled damages under the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts were filed and also equity suits asking dissolution of the alleged trust and an injunction.

The Strand and Palace are independent houses that named Warners, Paramount, Fox, United Artists, Columbia and RKO as a combination in restraint of trade by controlling bookings and releases. Merritt Lane, counsel for most of the defendants, contested jurisdiction of the suit on the ground the companies named had no specific interests in New Jersey and cannot be sued here without their consent.

Newman will hear testimony to determine what interests the producing, operating and distributing companies have in New Jersey and forward the record to Judge Clark. The court then will decide whether the suit will be heard.

Tri-States No Combine, Say Its Officers

lie. He described Tri-States as a sort of mutual protective association for its members, which, he added, total about 20. The purpose of the organization is principally legislative, and on this score Lam declared efforts to ward off inimical laws have been successful in this state. Dues paid by members constitute a revolving fund available to its constituents in the conduct of their local business, if and when they run afoul of financial difficulties. Specifically denying the claim that booking tribute from individual theatres begins at $15 weekly and then up, Lam stated his answer to that was he paid only $5.50 and he runs six houses.

Asked if it were a fact that he owned 25 per cent of Tri-States' stock, Lam replied by declaring he originally financed the organization at its outset in that percentage.

Lucas was in Savannah today, but Jenkins, his partner, had this to say: "We consider it a mark of distinction and badge of honor to be attacked by certain parties. The facts are so grossly misrepresented they require no denial. We, as an organization, are behind President Roosevelt in all of his policies and for the Administration.

Says No Force Used

"First, we realize the proper relationship between producer, distributor and exhibitor and always assume a stand for the best interests of the industry as a whole. I speak for my associate, Arthur Lucas, and myself when I say that we have never invited any exhibitor to join Tri-States. Those who have joined have done so by their own request. In some instances, these requests have been recognized, and in others they have not."

Nat Williams of Thomasville, who is reported to own stock in Tri-States in like amount with Lam, wired MOTION PICTURE DAILY a statement as president of that unit, but nowhere in his comment made specific answer to alleged booking activities. He said:

"If you consider the Allied charges newsworthy, I suggest that you secure a membership list from the Atlanta office and question members other than the four stockholders, as to the workings of Tri-States. No member has ever resigned, although any may do so at any time without penalty. No member has ever kicked on the amount of dues, or failed to pay them, without being billed. No theatre has ever paid $15 per week, and some have volunteered to raise their dues. but the offers have not been accepted.

"No officer or stockholder has ever received one cent in salary, stock dividend or traveling expense. Many membership applications have been rejected, even when accompanied by cash in advance, when the organization has not been positive it could render services commensurate with the applicants' obligations.

"If and when Allied can emulate these examples and tender as much service to an independent as does Tri-States, I will like them and join them whether they are racketeers or not."

hinges solely on the results of the fact gathering program. At the same time the understanding appears to be quite clear.

The probe will get underway immediately. Hays is to be given full opportunity to take action, if action is demonstrated to be necessary. If, after this has been done, nothing compatible with Allied's viewpoint develops, the cases of aggression, if any are unearthed, will be turned over to Federal authorities.

Allied takes the stand that trouble has been laid upon its doorstep by its members and the organization, in turn, proposes to drop it on the doorstep of the Hays association, through whose members it figures it began in the first place.

How rapidly this agenda will crystallize was difficult to foretell today, and about it Samuelson had no comment to make. Whether or not the fact Federal authorities will be turned to if the Hays organization takes no action means Allied will hold in check its fanfare about lawsuits on "100 fronts" was not a determinable point.

Samuelson, accompanied by his wife and secretary. Sally Fisher, left this afternoon for a motor trip through Tennessee and Ohio and will not reach New York until after Decoration Day. Myers left for Washington today. With the New York contingent, including Herman Robbins, Morton Van Praag, George Dembow, Ralph Rolan, Clinton Weyer, James Clark, Ben Rosenberg and others pulling up stakes, the only reminder at the Piedmont now is banners of welcome strewn about the hotel by local exchanges, independent as well as major.

Cole Decides to Go Home

ATLANTA, May 24.—Col. H. A. Cole has decided not to go to New York to tell distributors what he thinks of the Tri-States booking combine. Instead, he has left for Texas.

Cole charged before the Allied convention on Tuesday that Tri-States was forcing independents in all Texas towns of 10,000 or over to pay four per cent of their grosses in booking fees and were squeezing them to the wall. Later it was stated that exchange heads here had suggested to him that he tell his story to New York executives.

Yesterday he considered a New York trip before returning to Dallas, but last night decided against it.

Award Big Judgment In Trade Paper Sale

A judgment for $437,000 was awarded Leslie M. Heatherton, president of Plumbers Trade Journal, against James N. Heatherton, former owner of the publication, by Judge Witchien in state court at White Plains yesterday. The plaintiff sued for an accounting, claiming he was entitled to one-fifth of the sales price received for the trade journal when it was sold to Angus Publishing Co. in 1930. The Angus company was the former owner of Motion Picture News.

Samuel Spring, film attorney, represented the plaintiff in the action. The judgment is one of the largest of record in that court.

representative. It is pointed out that U. A. may acquire all of the stock in the new Fox Met held by Fox Theatres under an option contained in the plan which, it is expected, will be exercised shortly after reorganization. In this event, Weisman and Allan would be displaced and U. A. board members would be elected to succeed them.

Reports that Harold B. Franklin would become operator of Fox Met when the Schenck reorganization plan has been finally approved by the court were scouted in reliable quarters yesterday with the reminder that none of the amendments to the plan authorized by the court provide for a change of operators of Fox Met after reorganization. It was also pointed out that Federal Judge Julian Mack lauded the Skouras and Randforce operation of Fox Met and stressed the value of retaining them and their Fox Film franchise in giving his tentative approval to the Schenck plan early this month.

Disputes over the amount of unmortgaged cash of Fox Met which may be released to the proponents of the plan under the reorganization have led to the filing of an order to show cause why the amount of mortgaged and unmortgaged cash of the company should not be designated. The order has been set for hearing before Judge Mack on June 3.

ada for four feature musicals to be produced by Rowland.

Three of the four Rowland features will be made at Eastern Service Studios and the fourth will be made in London. All will be designed especially for the British and Continental market, according to Captain A. C. N. Dixey of Anglo-American, although each will be made by American technicians and will employ American casts. The first will be "Romance Unlimited," which will go into production July 8 at Astoria. The screen play and dialogue will be by Charles Beahan and John V. A. Weaver, with Robert Milton directing. The cast will include Sidney Fox, Abe Lyman and band, Jack Dempsey, Helen Lynd and others.

The production to be made at London will be produced in Anglo-American Renters' studios.

American distribution of the Rowland pictures will be set later. L. J. Schlaifer, recently made vice-president and general manager of the Rowland company, will be in charge of the distribution arrangements.

Anglo-American Renters has scheduled 12 productions for next season release, some of which may be produced here. Distribution arrangements for the 12 are expected to be completed by next Wednesday, Capt. Dixey said.

The Rowland deal was closed by Capt. Dixey, who is chairman of the board of Anglo-American; Giulio Niclas, director of the company's production unit, and Peter Witt, general and foreign manager of the company.

Board Delays Move On Giveaways Here

action on the matter until Tuesday. Some of the members wanted more time to go into the situation.

One of the discussions taken up yesterday was the general complaint of independent exhibitors at the May 14 session. The consensus of opinion among independents at the time was that the small theatre needed premiums and had to resort to chance games because of the product and run situations. It was felt by the board that this should be taken into consideration before definite action is taken.

While the board is agreed that giveaways should be banned to a certain extent, it does not want to impose restrictions on subsequent run exhibitors that would tend to work hardships on them. All independents at the general session held that unless some sort of artificial stimulant were injected into the programs smaller houses would be compelled to close.

Leon Rosenblatt's interference-of-lease complaint against M. G. Felder in connection with the Maplewood, Maplewood, N. J., was certified to Campi. No date for a hearing has been set.

Julius Charnow's complaint against Harry and Joseph Friedman and Joseph Poringer for interfering with possession of the Leonia, Leonia, has been dated on the Campi calendar for June 5.

Fight Looms on Film Order

KANSAS CITY, May 24.—Film service has been ordered stopped May 30 to Jack Johnston, Ritz, McPherson, Kan., on complaint of C. W. Helstrom, same town, that Johnston was not complying with the grievance board's order, sustained by Campi, to discontinue bank night.

Johnston, it is understood, has retained counsel and is planning to file an injunction suit in Federal court.

Two similar complaints await action of the grievance board. Walter Hohlfeld, Elite, Greenleaf, Kan., wants the board to enforce a desist order against Charles Swiercinsky, Majestic, Washington, Kan., who, according to the complainant, refuses to quit bank night. The Fox Lyric, Boonville, Mo., is cited in a complaint by J. M. Malone, Casino, same city, who charges the Fox Midwest house continues reduced admissions in the form of "trade-a-gift night." Both cases will be aired June 5.

The bank night and reduced admission case of Sam Yoffie, Uptown, Trenton, Mo., against Commonwealth circuit's Plaza has been withdrawn by agreement.

Illness of L. M. Robinson, Noll, Bethany, Mo., forced continuance of his bank night complaint against the Roxy, same town, to June 5.

Walkathons Killed By Michigan Solons

ATLANTA, May 24.—Walkathons have been killed in Michigan, H. M. Richey learned today prior to his departure for Detroit. He said that walkathons grossed $286,000 in Michigan last year. Of this total $100,000 was taken in Grand Rapids alone.

The next big exhibitor tussle in Michigan, against which the Allied convention passed resolutions Thursday, will be over the free show evil.

Richey says there are now 75 of them in the state, most of them running inferior product, bootlegged from second and third string Chicago exchanges, with occasional instances of major product being made available.

Looking 'Em Over

"Paradise Canyon"

(Monogram)

My, how the "G Men" do get around! For now, in the person of John Wayne, they clear up a gang of counterfeiters in this western, the latest of the Lone Star series, amid much action, hard riding, gunplay and romance.

Wayne, performing up to his usual standard, is backed up by good cast portrayals on the part of Marion Burns, Earle Hodgins, Yakima Canutt and Gino Corrado.

The yarn has Wayne assigned to investigate a gang of counterfeiters purported to operate through medicine shows. He joins the troupe of Hodgins and then mysterious events transpire to prevent the show from stopping at a border town near the reported source of the bogus money. When Wayne learns Canutt is behind the ring, Hodgins and his daughter, Miss Burns, are kidnapped by the crooks, so he enlists the aid of the Mexican Rurales and the entire gang is rounded up after a running gun fight. Wayne thus completes his assignment, solves the mystery and arrives at a romantic finale with Miss Burns.

Allied Moves To Fight RKO In Northwest

Orpheum Bargain Shows Start Buying Pool

MINNEAPOLIS, May 26.—Allied Theatres of the Northwest threw down the gauntlet in the fight against bargain shows at the local Orpheum when some 40 exhibitors of this city and St. Paul and surrounding towns voted at a closed meeting yesterday to permit the organization to handle their buying of RKO product for one year.

Great States Amusements, at a heated discussion Monday, passed a resolution placing the buying of RKO product in the hands of the association's board of governors, which consists of J. B. Clinton, president; S. G.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IT was an interesting convention, the Allied war council in Atlanta. Interesting, not because the organization let loose to the South's sultry breezes any new standards around which the cohorts might rally. Not at all. Always on that side of the fence where the major producers and distributors are not, Allied continues determined to play in its own back yard exactly as the affiliated groups disport in theirs. The interest which was in Atlanta was traceable to something entirely different. . . .

The Allied which foregathered was not the organization of a few years ago. It was an Allied obviously considerably sobered, more mature and so less impetuous and, by the same token, more determined and confident of ultimate accomplishment. For instance, a point in evidence was the traditional stand on compulsory block booking, focussing now in the support of, and campaign for, the Pettengill bill. In Allied eyes and minds, this measure, or one similar to it, eventually will be legislated into the law. . . .

A handful of years ago, which actually was the case when the Brookhart measure went down to defeat, the circumstance dulled enthusiasms and exploded optimisms. Today, and here enters the difference, Allied holds small hope for the Pettengill proposal this session and appears to be little disturbed by the prospect. Its leaders point out "major reforms" take from 10 to 15 years to get through Congress. This is their own expression. . . .

This is their expression, uttered calmly, mind you, with no untoward evidences of disappointment, but seemingly in recognition of a state of affairs which happens to be. The viewpoint reflects a realization that to reach the required objective so vital in Allied's program, work and more work must be done. The organization may be wrong and time only will kick in with the proof, but the reaction of this observer to its last week's deliberations is that all channels will be explored to the hilt before failure is recognized. . . .

The approach which Sidney Samuelson made on the convention as a whole supplied further demonstration of how the association is conducting itself today. He told the delegates not to expect millenniums; that they don't just happen and that Allied was setting forth to bring about its own. "I don't kid myself about conventions. They merely set up whatever we are trying to do. The work begins when we get home," was what he told the delegates, warning them at the same juncture that what they get will be what they earn by their own effort. . . .

Allied repeated its familiar platform on the kind of a business it views this to be. There are independent exhibitors and the other kind, the second ilk being allied with major producers and distributors. Like the pants-and-vest simile, to Allied there is no difference between the latter two because they go together; this is the argument. Thus, it is a case, certainly clear cut enough in so far as definition is concerned, of independent theatremen against all other theatremen, plus producers and distributors whether they like it or not. . . .

With this fundamental line of demarcation sharply drawn, Allied, as a consequence, regards affiliated theatres in the sellers division along with distributors and, by the same token, independent theatres only as the real buyers. With this theory, the organization again sounded its policy on the code: That Campi should be divided equally as to buyer and seller and that, unless this is done, Allied members will withdraw assents and assessments as well as participation in code board operation. On this score, Allied and the M. P. T. O. A. are not very far apart, for the Kuykendall organization resoluted in New Orleans for a "reorganiza-

U.S. Reports 9% of Houses Gross to 49%

Nearly Half of Total in 920 Large Theatres

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Nine per cent of the theatres surveyed by the Department of Commerce in its census of amusements for 1933 did 49 per cent of the business, it was disclosed last night by the U. S. The census covered 10,265 theatres with total receipts of $415,153,000, of which 920 houses, or 8.9 percent, did a business of $100,000 or more, with receipts of $205,209,000 or 49.4 per cent of the total; 1,218 houses, or 11.9 per cent, had receipts between $50,000 and $100,000, taking in $84,947,000,

John Snider Is Buried

NEWTON, Mass., May 26.—John Snider, manager of the M. & P. Paramount here, was buried yesterday. He died at Baker Memorial Hospital Friday at the age of 51 after having been in poor health for some years.

Snider was one of the first exhibitors, having opened the Idle Hour in Pittsburgh in the early days of the industry. He later joined the Miles theatre interests in Detroit, where he became general manager. He went to Paramount in 1924 and has been in New England for the past 11 years.

tion of the Code Authority to provide for more equitable representation of the various departments of the industry and the various sections of the country."

On the code and on compulsory block booking, Allied definitely knows where it wants to go. On the furore raised in Atlanta over alleged producer-distributor "aggressions," the unit is mixed up. Fanned into reactionary organizational ballyhoo by Al Steffes and his whoop over the plight claimed by H. A. Cole, the delegates one day voted to demand retribution from Will H. Hays. On the next, they wavered and determined to seek relief through the Department of Justice and the anti-trust laws. In the backwash of the convention, it was remembered a committee had been named to see Hays and so it was determined to return to the first mandate before trying the second. Little hope is held for results in so far as any conferences which may be held with Hays. The organization, forecasting conclusions, which is apt to be an unsatisfactory way of doing it, has placed itself in the rather untenable and unwise position of predicting the parley route will get nowhere. . . .

Between convention action looking toward potential talks with Hays and subsequent decision to place the odds on wholesale litigation, something happened. There was talk of a mysterious telephone call from New York and more talk, based on what may have been merely political propaganda, that perhaps the procedure might better hinge on an effort to clean up from within as a faster and a more immediately productive method than any recourse to the lumbering machinery of the Justice Department. . . .

To what degree the excitement centered around "aggressions" will prove the usual battle cry type of stump speeching for dear, old organizational purposes will be determined as weeks and months slide by. Allied leaders were astute enough to realize that the quickest passage to their delegates' emotions was to yell "octopus" and "oppression." Cole did it calmly enough and Steffes did it loudly enough. The extremities in the formula worked as the headlines of last week demonstrated. Yet Allied, wiser now, is determined not to be caught on the short end and, in order to prevent embarrassment, has ordered a strict investigation of the facts for submission to Abram F. Myers before embarking on official action. . . .

Whereas Allied in Detroit a few years ago started off wild-eyed and stuck to it in that convention, Atlanta found more caution, if not less revolution, in its management. The chronic "against" attitude continued there, but that is Allied's act. Adherence to it year after year must be recognized for the determination which it evidences. This is merely the fair thing to say, regardless of sympathy or not for the objectives which the organization is seeking. . . .

the plan. About 150 theatres are expected to endorse the idea.

Last Thursday night Harry Brandt, Milton C. Weissman, John Benas, Louis Shiffman, Louis Meyers, Bernard Barr, Abe Leff and Maurice Fleischman held a special meeting at the M. P. Club when it was decided to sound the call for an open discussion of the topic.

An identical plan has progressed in New Jersey to the extent where 25 signatures have already been obtained. Leon Rosenblatt is head of the committee working on the Jersey scheme, which is limited to non-competitive and last run situations. A meeting is planned in Newark within the next week, when it is anticipated about 75 additional signatures will be secured.

Both plans are being sponsored by independent exhibitor groups with the I.T.O.A. and the T.O.C.C. not interested.

Short subject activity gained slightly with Roach registering one in production, one in preparation and two in the cutting room. Columbia had one, zero and three; Warners, one, zero and zero; Radio, one, two and two; M-G-M, zero, two and seven; Universal, zero, one and one, with the independent group checking up with five, four and five.

Allied Moves To Fight RKO In Northwest

Lebedoff and C. L. Peasley. The actual buying is expected to be done by Lebedoff and a pledge of $250 is to be asked to guard against any walkout, it is understood.

Exhibitors for some time have been protesting against the Orpheum's policy of big pictures plus five acts of vaudeville at low prices and they have also pointed out that the protection accorded first runs aggravated the situation because of their inability to compete with the vaudeville at the downtown stand.

While the RKO manager, Nicholas Goldhammer, maintains the house is not operated by his company, but by Mort H. Singer, the Allied group is understood to feel his firm has sufficient interest in the ownership to force a change of policy.

A number of other companies are serving product to the Orpheum to be played with vaudeville at prices against which Allied complains.

Whether the Minnesota Amusement Co. will go along with Allied here is a subject of speculation, but the firm is known to oppose the combination policy which it is said to insist it was forced to adopt at the State in order to meet the Orpheum setup.

Neither John J. Friedl nor Clinton could be reached for a statement, but meanwhile Allied was meeting to map further future plans in the action against RKO.

Mae West Film Gets $29,000 2nd Week

Mae West's second week at the Paramount in "Goin' to Town" garnered in the neighborhood of $29,000. Expectation by the management is that the film will go at least two, if not three, more weeks. The orchestra was let out Thursday night for the summer and will be reinstated about Aug. 15.

"Age of Indiscretion" at the Capitol tallied about $26,000. Rudy Vallee headed the stage show. The second week of "Bride of Frankenstein" at the Roxy chalked up a profitable $25,000. About $20,000 was taken in at the Rivoli during the fifth week of "Les Miserables." The film is now in its sixth and last week.

"The Scoundrel in 49th Street" was off at the Palace where the take was approximately $7,000. "Becky Sharp" has been dated into the Music Hall starting June 13.

Gene Curtis Resigning

TORONTO, May 26.—Gene Curtis, Quigley Award winner and sales promotion director for Famous Players Canadian Corp., has resigned from that company effective June 1, for a two months vacation before joining any other company. No successor has been named as yet by Famous Players Canadian.

Kreiselman Joins Para.

Bernard Kreiselman, formerly representing the NRA in Los Angeles, has joined the Paramount Washington exchange as salesman. He flew in from the coast over the week-end.

ITED ARTISTS

Short Subjects

"Springtime Serenade"

(Universal)

In spite of old Professor Groundhog's warning, all the wood folk imagine spring has come to stay and start their spring cleaning. Oswald, the rabbit, opens his summer hotel; Mrs. Pig gives her little ones a bath, brother turtle and his girl friend abandon their shells and the squirrel family start out on a round of calls. Suddenly snow begins to fall and there is a wild scramble to regain their shelters on the part of the animals. Old Professor Groundhog just sits back and laughs as the reel runs.

Done in color, this is a very amusing reel and one highly recommended. Production Code Seal No. 755. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

'Canzoneri-Ambers Fight'

(Harry O. Voiler)

All the action of the recent Tony Canzoneri-Lew Ambers lightweight championship bout at Madison Square Garden is shown. The accompanying sound is undoubtedly not faked, but in most spots the synchronization is poor.

The photography is excellent and all the high spots, particularly the three knockdowns of Ambers scored by Canzoneri are caught clearly.

Particularly where the fight game is still alive, this short film should draw. No production code seal. Running time, 34 mins. "G."

"Elmer, the Great Dane"

(Universal)

Oswald, the rabbit, is awakened during the night by his dog, who is suffering from hiccoughs. He then proceeds to try all the common cures on the animal, such as making him dizzy, frightening him and by applying heat to his stomach. The last method creates much consternation because the dog had eaten some pop corn and it explodes inside him.

There are many very funny sequences in this reel and it should provoke howls from most audiences. Production Code Seal No. 705. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Candyland"

(Universal)

This color cartoon tells the tale of a little boy that wouldn't go to sleep at night. The Sand Man then takes care of the little fellow, who suddenly finds himself in Candyland. He has a grand time there, with all the candy he can eat or carry, until the king of that strange country presents him a dose of castor oil. Recovering from this shock, the little fellow awakes in his own bed to discover it was all a nightmare.

Highly recommended. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Would You Be Willing?"

(Universal)

Featuring Frankie Masters and his orchestra, this is a pleasing miniature musical comedy that should satisfy.

Masters and his crew are stranded in a town when they encounter Eole Galli, who gets them a job in her father's cafe. This gives Masters an opportunity to present several popular songs in a satisfactory manner.

Recommended. Production Code Seal No. 724. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Fighting Shadows"

(Columbia)

Although this Tim McCoy vehicle follows a temperate pace for the most part, it holds the interest closely because it creates a feeling there's something in the air. That something happens when McCoy and Ward Bond come to grips in as rousing an exhibition of fisticuffs as an action fan could hope to see. It's the only real exchange of blows in the whole film, but it's worth waiting for. Literally a climax with a punch.

The story has nothing new to it. It's that old wheeze about the mountie on the trail of a gang of fur thieves. The mountie in this instance is McCoy. Assigned to put an end to the terrorism of the gang, he finds himself handicapped by the actions of Bond, his sweetheart's (Geneva Mitchell's) brother, who harbors an old grudge against him.

Crossed at every turn by the efforts of Bond to embarrass him, McCoy finally calls for a showdown. The fight referred to is the result. It develops at the close of the film that Bond, who has been suspected all along of having been hand-in-glove with the gang, is innocent. He had merely tried to solve the case himself in his own way in order to get even with McCoy.

At the fadeout McCoy and Bond have buried the hatchet, and the former has won himself a promotion.

The film contains some fine outdoor scenery, photographed by George Meehan. Robert Allen, Si Jenks and Otto Hoffman are other players. David Selman directed. Production Code Seal No. 744. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

"Avec l'Assurance"

(Paramount)

This French farce comedy from Paramount's Joinville studio is run-of-the-mill stuff. It is somewhat tedious and more than a little silly. Its prospects in America are still further lessened by the fact that it is without benefit of English subtitles.

"Avec l'Assurance" (translated for American purposes as "Love Insurance") is the sort of thing that requires some understanding of the language if head or tail is to be made of it. American audiences will find the film not even scenically or photographically intriguing. Even the acting is no better than so-so.

The story has to do with a young fellow who gets a job selling policies through a childhood sweetheart, whose godfather is the head of a large insurance firm. To stir up interest in his business he steals a countess' jewelry with the intention of returning it later. Immediately he is flooded with demands for insurance. He insures against everything, putting the company in a pretty spot. However, all turns out for the best in the end.

Among the players are Saint-Granier, Madeleine Guitty, Jeanne Helbling, Armand Lurville and Simone Rouviere. Roger Capellani directed.

No production code seal. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

"Fighting Pioneers"

(Resolute Pictures)

The U. S. Cavalry rides into the first reel of this film and battles the Crow Indians to save a wagon train. The rest of the film concerns the warfare between the two groups. Rex Bell, as an army lieutenant, does much to keep the action moving along at a fast pace.

Harry Fraser's direction is aimed at maintaining audience interest and Robert Cline's photography is an asset.

Bell, as an army officer, rescues a wagon train from attacking Indians and discovers they possess retired army rifles. Since he was responsible for the storage of these obsolete guns he sets out to solve the mystery of their disappearance from his fort. In the meantime the chief of the red men is killed in a skirmish and his daughter, Ruth Mix, takes over the leadership of the savages. After much hard riding, lots of shooting and fast action, Bell discovers one of his own men to be the traitor who sold the guns, and in a final battle the warriors are subdued and Miss Mix rides off with the implication she loves Bell but can't marry him because of their racial differences.

Where westerns are liked this film should receive a particularly favorable reception.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

M. & P.-Publix Uses Giveaways for N. E.

BOSTON, May 26.—Giveaways have been adopted by M. and P.-Publix for some of its New England theatres. With the largest local circuit going in for such box-office stimulation, it seems that this territory is due for a flood of similar business bolsters as business steadily becomes duller because of warm weather and attendant outside competition.

Bank nights are being furthered here as the result of a consistent campaign. Another angle on the situation is that the bank night sponsors are said to be planning suits against those allegedly infringing their scheme. George Ryan, attorney for E. M. Loew in a number of his suits, has been retained, it is said, by bank night interests.

Publix's plan locally is known as "cash nights."

Stoddard Works Out Summer Drive Plan

BOSTON, May 26.—C. L. Stoddard, district manager for M. & P. Theatres' North Shore District, has just issued a 10-page campaign folder for a drive ending Aug. 2.

The idea is to battle summer resistance with no-cost merchandise tie-ups, realigned advertising, new budgets and contests between managers. A gag a week, a window display a week, with prizes, "Bombardment Weeks" and 53 merchandising ideas are included.

Those participating in the drive are Skip Dunn, Nat Silver, El Brodie, Jim Kincaide, Art Keenan, Art Murch, Phil Bloomberg, Jim Dempsey, Ralph Tully and Joe Ahern.

Short Costs Heavy With Sound—Roach

Short subject production costs have increased $5,150 since they were made silently, according to Hal Roach, who breaks down the additional expenditures as follows:

Code cost	$ 650
Erpi royalty	1,000
Music copyright	550
Recording	3,000
Total	$5,150 a picture

M-G-M Retitles Shorts

M-G-M has changed the titles of two short subject series. Smith's Sports Champions next season will be known as the Sports Parade and the M-G-M Oddities will in the future be M-G-M Miniatures. Each series will comprise 12 subjects with Pete Smith handling the monologue.

The report showed that one or more of the larger film or film-vaudeville theatres with receipts in excess of $100,000 were reported for all but nine states, but the seven states of California, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania reported nearly three-fourths of the theatres in this size group and their receipts represented 76 per cent of the total receipts of all theatres in this class.

Ascap May Request High Court Delay

as now scheduled, it was learned on Saturday.

That Ascap is vigorously opposed to trial at this time was made evident by the organization's attorneys during the recent hearing on the Government's motion for a preference on the trial calendar. At that time Ascap declared that it would consent to the extension of all expiring contracts with its licensees to the end of the current year if the case was not tried until fall. The Government ignored this concession and insisted upon a trial preference, which resulted in the case being placed on the calendar for trial beginning June 10.

The writ of prohibition which Ascap's attorney, Nathan Burkan, is now considering to forestall the Government's move is an emergency action and presumably a last resort to delay the trial. The application for the writ is made direct to the Supreme Court without recourse to the intervening Circuit Court of Appeals. If granted, it would result in an order by the high court declaring the lower district court here to be without authority to proceed with the trial of the case.

That an application for the writ is under consideration was admitted at Burkan's office, where it was said that no decision had been reached as yet. It was stated that while the application to the Supreme Court might be made at any time prior to June 10, it was expected that it would be decided within the next few days whether or not the application would be made at all.

BRIDGEPORT, May 26.—Matt Saunders has resumed his duties as manager of the Palace after having been confined to his home for several days as the result of injuries sustained in a fall.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Paris in Spring"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, May 26.—This one keeps amusing through good cast performances and the humorous flow of dialogue. However, the lethargic story continuity and listless staging of the musical numbers hurt the film's entertainment prestige.

Music and comedy flavored with a continental atmosphere keynote the picture's exploitation theme. The film will probably do the most business in key cities.

Mary Ellis is the toast of an aristocratic Paris night spot. When she turns down Tullio Carminati's marriage proposal he goes to the top of the Eiffel Tower to jump off and meets Ida Lupino about to do the same thing because of her disappointed romance with James Blakely. The duo decides to make their sweethearts jealous by faking a romance while the other couple gets together to retaliate. The balance of the story to the climax features embarrassing situations resulting from the plan with the untimely marriage celebration at the home of Jessie Ralph, Miss Lupino's grandmother, setting off the fireworks. The misunderstanding finally works out satisfactorily and the love birds find their proper roosts.

Director Lewis Milestone gets the most from the story with the brief performances of Lynne Overman and Miss Ralph standouts. Samuel Hoffenstein and Franz Schulz penned the screen play from Dwight Taylor's play with Keene Thompson adapting. Gordon and Revel did the music. Theodore Tetzlaff's photography is good.

Production Code Seal, No. 630. Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

"Ginger"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, May 26.—This is an orphan waif story made plausible and entertaining by the splendid performance of Jane Withers.

Miss Withers, living with her uncle, O. P. Heggie, who is an old Shakespearian actor, lands in the Children's Court when she steals junk to pay a fine to save Heggie from jail. In court Katherine Alexander secures the custody of Miss Withers and takes her to her lavish mansion. In the new home Miss Withers dislikes everything except Walter King, husband of Miss Alexander, who shares her dislike for the surroundings and the way his wife is raising their son, Jackie Searl. When Heggie is released from jail he believes Miss Withers to be better off in her new home and refuses to take her away. He disappears after a traffic accident. Eventually he is found by Miss Withers after she has changed Searl from a sissie to a regular guy and convinced Miss Alexander that her ideas on raising children are all wrong.

The picture gives Miss Withers many acting opportunities, definitely establishing her as a first rank entertainer. The writing and production are good with the direction giving the picture wide comedy and dramatic appeal.

Production Code Seal, No. 911. Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

Kuykendall Seeks Copyright Support

Exhibitor support of the copyright bill introduced by Senator Duffy of Wisconsin is urged by M.P.T.O.A. in a statement issued Saturday by Ed Kuykendall, president. The bill is now before the copyright and patents committee of the Senate.

"Theatre owners should insist," Kuykendall's statement says, "that this bill be passed intact and without amendments. Write your Senator immediately or contact him personally if possible."

A second statement from Kuykendall hits at Allied States' leaders for the Atlanta convention's resolution calling for industry lawsuits to be filed by Allied members on "100 fronts." The statement follows:

"It is not particularly surprising that Allied, led by Abe Myers, a lawyer, and Sidney Samuelson, whose brother and partner is also a lawyer, should be stampeded into starting 'lawsuits everywhere.' Years of expensive litigation by exhibitors have settled no industry problems, from the famous Binderup case on down. No progress has been made through litigation yet. What the exhibitor will actually gain through lawsuits, other than a big bill for legal services, is vague and uncertain, but what the lawyers will gain is not at all uncertain."

To Call MPTOA Board Meet

Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., is planning to call a meeting of the organization's board of directors within the next 30 days. The date and place have not been set, but he will communicate with Fred Wehrenberg, chairman, and map out the details within the next week or so.

The M.P.T.O.A. head left for Columbus, Miss., Saturday after a number of conferences at the Hays office and after he had disposed of a number of communications which had been on his desk here since he left on a tour of several states about a month ago.

Holding up the setting of the date and place is the uncertainty over the code after June 16. If the code is thrown out, the session will concern procedure of the organization without restrictions by the code. Provided the code is continued, the directors will discuss suggestions for revisions.

About 30 are expected to attend the conclave.

RKO Product Deals Nearly Finished Here

RKO is practically set on product buys next season. With 20 RKO Radio features already lined up, negotiations are nearing consummation for half of the Warner product in 40 local theatres.

The circuit during 1934-35 played half of Warners product on a year-to-year basis. Under a recent deal, the three-year Fox franchise which was signed last year was extended seven additional years.

With the three products, the circuit will have 140 pictures. One more company's output is needed, which would bring the total number of films to 175 or 180. Paramount has indirectly made overtures to the company, but so far no deal is in sight.

Paramount sales executives held a meeting all Friday night until 5 A.M. Saturday. Something surprising is expected to develop as a result of the session.

RKO denies it is interested in a new theatre about to be constructed at Fordham Road and Grand Concourse. The circuit's name has been linked with the project several times.

Columbia on Saturday announced it had closed a long-term franhise with the Music Hall, which becomes effective Oct. 1. The current contract with Columbia has not been completed by the Music Hall and efforts to reach W. G. Van Schmus for a statement were unavailing. "Under the Pampas Moon" is dated to follow "Escape Me Never."

Amendment Is Up On Zoning Rulings

nounced yesterday by Division Administrator William P. Farnsworth.

The amendment would be added as Section 10, Article 4, Part 1, and would provide that, regardless of the interest of an individual member of a board or of his company's interest in theatres, he would be permitted to serve on all matters involving a schedule or a protest of a number of theatres against a schedule, but could not participate or vote on individual protests involving his own or his company's houses.

A provision barring members of Code Authority from sitting on cases in which they are interested is carried in the code but it was felt originally that if this prohibition were extended to clearance and zoning boards every member thereof would be affected at one time or another.

It was explained that while officials of the NRA believe that all decisions have been sincere and honest, and no decision has ever been challenged on the ground of interest, it is felt that a better atmosphere will prevail if the amendment is incorporated in the code.

Hear Century Appeal Today

Century's clearance and zoning complaint against RKO in connection with the Jamaica situation is scheduled to be heard today by a Campi appeal body consisting of Paul Burger, William Jaffe and Nathan Vinegrad.

Last week the same committee heard the Far Rockaway angle of the local board's decision. Century's original complaint was that the RKO Alden, Jamaica, and Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway, are not in competition to the Fantasy, Rockville Center. The local board agreed with Century on the Far Rockaway angle, but voted Jamaica was competitive. Century appealed the Jamaica decision and RKO appealed the Far Rockaway order.

Oppose Conn. Bank Nights

NEW HAVEN, May 26.—Loew's Poli New England Theatres have filed the first two complaints in Connecticut against bank night, one naming Warners' State, Waterbury, and the other, Frederick J. Van Doren's Hamilton, Waterbury, as respondents. Both complaints have been scheduled for hearing by the grievance board Monday.

The complaints allege that the respondents intend to continue the practice, which they consider a violation of the Code and a criminal violation from the standpoint of the lottery law.

Bank night is said to be operating in about 40 theatres in the state, and screeno, tango, bonus night and other plans have also gained entree in several theatres.

Mrs. Winter Praises Film Cleanup Result

MINNEAPOLIS, May 26. — Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, director of publlic relations for studio members of the Hays organization, said here yesterday that "the producers were just three steps ahead of film cleanup crusaders in supplying clean pictures."

"Letters of commendation on the studio's forward strides in the clean picture drive testify to the public's appreciation of the effort the industry is making," she continued.

"The industry took four steps when only one was asked," Mrs. Winter said.

Waxing enthusiastic over the spirit of cooperation which pervades in the studios under "the new order of things," she paid tribute to Joseph I. Breen for his work in passing upon sequences which may prove objectionable and said audience standards were showing marked improvement as a result of the revolutionary changes which elevated entertainment and artistic as well as moral standards in the films.

Draw Up Contracts For Mayfair Lease

Contracts are now being drawn whereby Loew's will take over the Mayfair from Walter Reade on a 10-year leasing deal. The papers will be signed either today or tomorrow.

Preventing the deal from going through yesterday was Loew's insistence on a lease on the Mayfair ground, which is owned by an estate being handled by Chase National. This is expected to come through today.

Reade and practically all of the tenants in the Astor office building yesterday started moving. This will leave the receivers with only the stores rented. Estimates are being taken from equipment dealers for fixing up the Astor, which was recently wrecked.

NRA IS DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Destroying with one blow the ambitious recovery effort of the Administration, the U. S. Supreme Court today unanimously held the code-making authority conferred by the Recovery Act is "an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power."

Passing on the two cases involving the Schechter Poultry Co., immediately after holding the Frazier-Lemke Farm Mortgage Moratorium Act unconstitutional, the court's ruling also put an end to speculation as to the NRA's interpretation of business affecting interstate commerce, which Donald R. Richberg, director of the Industrial Recovery Board, has held should be the basis for the imposition of codes.

"In determining how far the Federal Government may go in controlling intrastate transactions upon the ground that they 'affect' interstate commerce, there is a necessary and well-established distinction between direct and indirect effects," the court declared. "The precise line can be drawn only as individual cases arise,

Will Head Board; Zanuck To Be Vice-President; Combine Product

Joseph M. Schenck has resigned as president of United Artists to join Fox Films as chairman of its board of directors.

At the same time, 20th Century becomes a part of that organization with Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president of the producing company, joining the Fox roster as a vice-president.

Terminating 48 hours of speculation, announcement of this unexpected and bombshell-like development was made jointly by Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox, and Schenck, as president of 20th Century, although the official statement made no mention of the latter's retirement from active participation in the affairs of United Artists, in which, it was understood last night, he may retain his one-sixth stock interest.

"We have concluded preliminary arrangements for a deal that calls for the combining of the interests of our respective companies, which will be finalized as soon as the necessary final contracts can be drawn, regulations of various kinds complied with and necessary corporate action taken," the statement read at one point.

The Fox directorate meets tomorrow at which it is anticipated the Schenck-20th Century deal will be formally ratified. This necessary cor-

All G. B.'s to the Roxy

Howard S. Cullman, trustee for the Roxy, yesterday closed a deal with Arthur A. Lee for the entire new lineup of Gaumont British. After signing the contract, Cullman yesterday said that "there is no longer a distinction to be made between Hollywood and British films."

The Roxy already has played six of the 1934-35 G. B. lineup and on Friday has "Loves of a Dictator," the seventh, dated in. On June 7, "The Clairvoyant," first of the new lineup, starts an indefinite run at the Roxy.

In closing the Roxy deal, Cullman has tied up all the product so that the Music Hall, which played four pictures this season, will not be able to date one Gaumont British film next season.

Lee also announced he had closed a deal with M. A. Lightman for the G. B. product over the entire Malco circuit.

Looking 'Em Over

"My Song for You"

(Gaumont British)

This British production owes much to Jan Kiepura. Without him it would have been mediocre stuff; with him it is pleasant musical diversion.

The story is the familiar romantic tale of the famous tenor (Kiepura) in pursuit of a sweet young thing who sets him palpitating the moment he catches sight of her. The more the girl (Aileen Marson) tries to put him off the more ardent he becomes. In the end the girl capitulates, even if she has to throw over a member of the nobility for the sake of a happy ending.

The picture reaches its peak, musically, with Kiepura's rendition of "Celeste Aida" and "Ave Maria," the latter sung in a church setting as the woman he loves is about to wed her nobleman. The tenor's singing of the sacred air exerts such a power over her that she leaves her husband-to-be at the altar and flees to Kiepura's arms.

Sonnie Hale's comedy as Kiepura's manager helps along. Emlyn Williams and Gina Malo also are in the cast. Maurice Elvey directed.

No production code seal. Running time, 71 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Bulldog Jack"

(Gaumont-British)

LONDON, May 16.—A skit on the "Bulldog Drummond" series in which "Sapper," the author of the originals, has collaborated with Jack Hulbert, who is the star as well as part-author. Fay Wray, feminine lead, is an American name, but she has little to do, and the appeal rests much more on thrill episodes, treated as burlesque, than on star values.

Drummond is hot on the trail of the Morelle jewel-stealing gang when his car brakes are tampered with and he crashes in collision with Jack Pennington, man-about-town. Injured, Drummond instructs Pennington to take his place and receive a message from a mysterious girl which will lead to the capture of the gang. Pennington, in combination with the Bulldog's equally fatuous assistant, Algy, bungles things completely, helping the gang to capture both the girl and her father, whom they wish to coerce into making duplicates of valuable jewels on an idol in the British Museum. The gang's headquarters are hidden in a deserted subway railway station from which a tunnel has been made to the museum.

Pennington and Algy find their way to the underground lair and, of course, are easily captured, but eventually Pennington manages to follow the gang into the museum while Algy sets out to fetch the police. Morelle, chief of the gang, goes crazy and before the police can seize him starts a train with the girl, Pennington and Algy aboard, full speed through the empty tube. Pennington climbs out on the roof and stops him a few seconds before a crash is due.

Most of the entertainment is in the last half of the picture. There is very amusing burlesque stuff in the museum scenes, in which Hulbert, hiding in old suits of armor and behind classic statuary knocks out the whole gang by throwing boomerangs, and then also lays himself out. The finale on the speeding train in the under-London tunnels is a real thrill.

Hulbert's comedy methods may not be immediately understood by American audiences, and there appears to be considerable scope for cutting in the earlier scenes but the stunt and comedy values are considerable, and really original in the conclusion. Paul Graetz, Ralph Richard and Jack Hulbert are all good in their parts.

This is definitely scheduled for American release. Running time, 70 minutes. "G." ALLAN

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Arizonian"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—Routine heroics in every foot make this a superior western, fine for Saturday matinees or spotted on dual bills.

A splendid cast gives unusual value to a film of good average caliber. Richard Dix, noble and manly, saves Margot Grahame from kidnapping by the villainous sheriff, Louis Calhern, who is running the town wide open.

James Bush, Dix's younger brother, also loves Margot. Each vies between big gun battles in giving her to the other. Tense scenes are built when Dix, unarmed, bluffs the bad men out of their guns and cleans up the town, so civilization can have a clear track.

Excellent performances are given by Preston Foster, as a debonair bandit; Dix, Calhern, Bush, Margot Grahame, Ray Mayer, Willie Best, Joseph Sauers and Francis Ford, under Charles Vidor's direction from Dudley Nichols' screen play. Cliff Reid produced.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Hochreich's Charges In Erpi Suit Denied

WILMINGTON, May 27.—Warren Connors, Erpi sales representative at Charlotte, N. C., denied today statements made by David R. Hochreich, former president of Vocafilm, in the General Talking Pictures-Duovac suit against Erpi, W. E. and A. T. & T. Hochreich testified for the plaintiffs several weeks ago.

Connors testified that Samson Theatres, Inc., operating the Clinton and Rockingham, wanted to change from DeForest because they were unable to get servicing. Hochreich had testified that Erpi attempted to get the Samson theatres to break their contract with G.T.P. and DeForest.

Connors denied he attempted to have DeForest sound taken from a Lumberton, N. C., theatre by telling an exhibitor that DeForest was dispensing with its service staff. He also denied telling the Lumberton exhibitor that G.T.P. was going out of business.

Thomas C. Guthrie, counsel for Erpi in North Carolina, and Herbert M. Wilcox, Erpi vice-president, testified briefly for the defendants.

Drop Pittsburgh Duals

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—The Warner, for the last year a double feature house, will return to single bills Thursday with "Let 'Em Have It," the first United Artists release to play a Warner house first run here since "The Private Life of Don Juan."

According to executives in the local office, whether the Warner remains under this policy or resumes duals will depend entirely on the product available. The top, however, remains the same, 40 cents, for one or two pictures.

The Orpheum has dropped vaudeville, leaving the Capitol the only spot with vaudeville and films.

Cahill Forms Bureau

B. I. P. PRODUCTIONS

Schenck Quits U. A., Taking 20th to Fox

porate action is regarded as a routine matter.

The deal will send the Fox program to between 55 and 60 pictures next season with Fox supplying about 48, as usual, and 20th Century, which is expected to maintain its identity as a producing unit, the remaining 12.

Schenck, who sailed for Europe on the Majestic Friday night, will remain abroad about a week, then return to New York and later travel to Hollywood together with Kent. Schenck will make his headquarters on the coast working in conjunction with Winfield Sheehan, vice-president in charge of Fox production, and Zanuck.

The statement left a number of points to be cleared up. No mention, for instance, was made of the pictures Zanuck will produce, but the supposition was he would proceed with the program of 12 he announced on his recent visit to New York. These include:

"Ivanhoe," adapted from the novel by Sir Walter Scott. It will be produced as 20th Century's "most lavish spectacle" and will have an all-star cast.

"The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," starring Ronald Colman, and directed by John Ford from the scenario by Nunnally Johnson.

"Sing, Governor, Sing!" with Paul Whiteman and his band, Phil Baker and his stooges, Beetle and Bottle; and Rubinoff. Songs and musical score by Gus Kahn and Arthur Johnson.

Tibbett Film in Lineup

"The Diamond Horseshoe," starring Lawrence Tibbett, with screenplay by Bess Meredyth and George Marion, Jr.

"Shark Island," starring Fredric March. The screenplay is based on the life of Dr. Samuel Alexander Mudd from the book by his daughter.

"Professional Soldier," starring Wallace Beery, with the scenario provided by Harold Long.

Four for which no stars have been selected are: "Nile Patrol," by Phillip McDonald; "Gentlemen, the King!" by Howard Smith; "Earthbound," by W. P. Lipscomb, and "It Had to Happen," by Howard Smith.

Zanuck is understood to be half owner of the United Artists studio in Hollywood, but the understanding as to his future production headquarters is that he will work on either of the two Fox lots.

The retirement of Schenck from United Artists where he has been president for approximately 10 years is one of the most startling company upsets in some time. A one-sixth stockholder with partners in like percentage including Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Samuel Goldwyn, Douglas Fairbanks and Art Cinema, an authoritative source last night expressed the opinion he would continue to retain that interest.

Switch of 20th Century distribution to Fox removes from United Artists its largest producing contributor and reduces the latter's company's roster to Samuel Goldwyn, Reliance Prod., London Films and British and Dominions.

Al Lichtman, vice-president and general manager of distribution for U. A., leaves by air for Hollywood today to attend a meeting of stockholders when plans for replacement of the 20th Century lineup will be discussed.

Who is in line for the presidency of U. A. was an open question yesterday, the most authentic slant on a successor having it this will be one of the matters to be discussed when the stockholders convene.

Schenck's deal with Kent has been brewing for four or five months, but crystallized in the last few days when the former became a more and more frequent visitor to Kent's office. Difficulties with Goldwyn, long standing, were cited last night as a major factor in Schenck's final decision to break away from United Artists in favor of the new alliance.

Following is the text of the joint statement issued by Schenck and Kent:

"We have concluded preliminary arrangements for a deal that calls for the combining of the interests of our respective companies which will be finalized as soon as the necessary final contracts can be drawn, regulations of various kinds complied with and necessary corporate action taken.

"This move will put together the entire producing personnel and assets of the 20th Century Corp. with those of Fox Film. It includes the future personal services of Joseph M. Schenck, who will become chairman of the board of Fox Film Corp., and Darryl Zanuck, vice-president of 20th Century, who will become a vice-president of Fox Film. Mr. Kent will remain in his present capacity as president of Fox Film Corp.

"Mr. Kent stated that Fox Film had made considerable progress in the improvement of its box-office quality under the leadership of Winfield Sheehan and that this move was not the forerunner of any shake-up in the Fox organization, but rather a rearrangement of the executive work in Hollywood and the producing work involved to the end that we could strengthen our entire producing situation still further. Mr. Kent stated that all of the personnel involved have but one purpose in view and that is to build a greater Fox Film-20th Century producing organization.

"Joseph M. Schenck will make his headquarters on the coast working in close contact with Messrs. Sheehan and Zanuck and the other producers of the two present companies.

"Both presidents are enthused about the future of the new organization and wish to assure the trade that the one purpose behind the move is to make a still better program of quality motion pictures, feeling that the resources of the two put together, both as to manpower, personnel and box-office assets, will lead to an even better quality for the combined program than was possible with each of them producing on their own. The presidents stated that it was their intention to produce a minium of 55 to 60 pictures per annum so that the amount now being made by Fox Film and 20th Century, each on its own, will be continued as to number under the new plan.

"Both Messrs. Joseph M. Schenck and Sidney R. Kent indicated their happiness upon being able to conclude arrangements for the deal and felt that it was constructive for the entire industry.

"Mr. Schenck sailed for Europe on the Majestic and stated that further details would be available upon his return from the other side, at which time he and Mr. Kent will journey to California together."

Hold Schenck Move An Aid to Fox Met

those associated with him in the reorganization, as well as counsel for Fox Met creditors. It was pointed out in this connection that Schenck so thoroughly dominates United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., the company which is to acquire one-half of the stock of the reorganized Fox Met company under the plan, that no difficulty is anticipated in the way of the U. A. theatre company being permitted to carry out its obligations under the plan. The theatre company is to be continued under Schenck's direction, it was said, with no immediate plans for making it an adjunct of Fox Film.

The U. A. theatre company, in addition to its stock ownership in Fox Met, is also made guarantor of various financial phases of the Schenck reorganization plan. Schenck is reported to own more than 90 per cent of the stock of U. A. Theatre Circuit.

Fox Met creditor factors, commenting on the Schenck move to Fox Film, offered the opinion that the new association would enhance the new Fox Met company's future and be of distinct value to the plan. It was also pointed out that Schenck will still be able to deliver 20th Century product to Fox Met, which was one of the considerations leading to the tentative approval given the plan by the Federal court several weeks ago. The product to be delivered to Fox Met by Schenck is not specifically named in the plan, an amendment covering the subject refers only to "such product as Schenck controls."

Schenck agrees in the Fox Met plan to stay with that company for a minimum of five years. The new Fox Met is already assured of Fox product through long term franchises held by Skouras and Randforce, who will continue as operators of the circuit under Schenck's plan.

Ohio Closing Session with No Tax Action

COLUMBUS, May 27.—Neither the bill to reinstate the 10 per cent admission tax nor the state income tax measure have received Senatorial consideration, thus upholding the recent assertion that no new taxes would be voted during the session which officially ended Friday.

Unless the General Assembly, when it meets for one day this week before adjourning sine die, makes some provision for financing old-age pensions for the last half of the year, Governor Davey says he may call a special session at once. Otherwise, another session will be called in the fall, according to those close to legislative activities.

The two bills may receive consideration at either of these sessions, if called.

The 10 per cent admission tax was suspended Jan. 1 for one year, when exhibitors began paying the three per cent sale tax.

No Nebraska Tax Action

LINCOLN, Neb., May 27.—With the adjournment of the State Legislature here early yesterday morning, the industry came through untouched by current legislation.

The amended chain store tax which, up to the last minute would have hit circuits $3 per one house up to $100 for five or more, laid in conference until the session closed..

The sole bill not acted upon was the proposed two-man-in-a-booth measure, which never emerged from committee. The 10 per cent gross film rental tax, two per cent sales tax on admissions and a previous circuit tax were other measures killed.

M. A. Lightman, head of Malco Theatres, Memphis, has closed with Sidney Nutt for the Central, Hot Springs, Ark., and will erect a new theatre on the site this summer for Sept. 1 opening, he stated here yesterday. The new acquisition increases Malco's holdings to 41 houses, all in the Tennessee and Arkansas section.

Lightman, who plans to return to Memphis today, has been here for final conferences with Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head, on his operating partnership for Paramount's Memphis downtown houses. He reported that a new all-time house record at the Palace, Memphis, was recently established by "Goin' to Town."

Right with it was another second-week film, "Our Little Girl," which took $14,000 at the Fox. "People Will Talk" also upped the Earle average $1,000, getting $13,000.

Mae West's "Goin' to Town" didn't measure up to expectations at the Stanley, getting just the average $12,000 on the week. The buildup in the last three days of week, however, resulted in its being held over.

Disappointment of the week was "Flame Within," which went only five days at the Boyd to $7,000. The second week of "G-Men" at the Stanton (third week downtown) held up to a nice $6,000.

Total first run business was $71,500. Average was $68,900.

Clear It All Up

St. Louis, May 27.—Col. Barney Fegan, former distributor, salesman and exhibitor, not to mention exploiteer—he won a national prize in that field once—was running around in circles a few days ago trying to figure out what theatres used for illumination prior to advent of gas.

It all started when he came across a handbill dated October 25, 1847, announcing that a local theatre was to close until gas fixtures were installed. Steve Cady, ex singer and now a tavern keeper down along the Gravois, has supplied the answer that was troubling Barney. He says the theatres used kerosene lamps before October 25, 1847.

Barney may want to know what they used before kerosene was discovered.

financially interested in the Capitol, Wheeling, W. Va., by Clarence H. Marrow, holder of $1,500 of first mortgage 6½ per cent serial gold bonds of the Capitol Theatre Co., which operates the house, also a defendant.

The defendants are charged with purchasing three other theatres in Wheeling through pooling agreements to the detriment of the Capitol. They are also accused of buying inferior product for the theatre to injure its business and of engaging in other acts to reduce the value of the property so that they might obtain it at a reduced price.

Marrow, who filed the action in behalf of other bondholders as well as himself, asks that the defendants be enjoined from carrying on the alleged conspiracy and that the bondholders be given a chance to rehabilitate the theatre.

No one in the Warner legal department could be reached for comment on the above suit yesterday.

Child Ban Is Put on "Werewolf" for K. C.

KANSAS CITY, May 27.—Guy Holmes, city censor, has approved Universal's "Werewolf of London" with the stipulation that admission be refused to children under 12. It had to be that, he ruled, or total rejection. Exhibitors say the edict sets a precedent.

Holmes said he was influenced by protests received from women that the Tower had admitted children to "The Bride of Frankenstein" recently. Juvenile attendance was above the average during the run of that picture.

Court Rules NRA Violates Constitution

but the distinction is clear in principle.

"If the commerce clause were construed to reach all enterprises and transactions which could be said to have an indirect effect upon interstate commerce, the Federal authority would embrace practically all the activities of the people and the authority of the state over its domestic concerns would exist only by sufferance of the Federal Government."

Even though the Federal Government may have the power under the commerce clause of the Constitution to regulate interstate commerce, it does not, the court held, have authority to attempt regulation of intrastate transactions which affect interstate commerce only indirectly. Further, it was held, the attempt through the provisions of the code to fix the hours and wages of employes of defendants in their intrastate business was not a valid exercise of Federal power.

Sharp arraignment of the law was voiced by Justice Cardozo in a concurring opinion. He declared: "It is an attempted delegation not confined to any single act, nor to any class or group of acts identified or described by reference to a standard."

Characterizing the conception that the code is not to be restricted to the elimination of unfair practices, but may include whatever ordinances may be helpful to the industry, as "delegation running riot," Justice Cardozo declared the poultry code to be aimed at nothing less.

Held Void Under Any Circumstance

"If this code had been adopted by Congress itself, and not by the President on the advice of an industrial association, it would even then be void unless authority to adopt it is included in the power 'to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states,'" he said.

In its opinion, read by Chief Justice Hughes, the court held that the recovery act failed to define "fair competition, but it is evident," he said. "that in its widest range, 'unfair competition,' as it has been understood in the law, does not reach the objectives of the codes which are authorized by the National Industrial Recovery Act. The codes may, indeed, cover conduct which existing law condemns, but they are not limited to conduct of that sort."

The purpose of the NRA, the court continued, "is clearly disclosed to authorize new and controlling prohibitions through codes of laws which would embrace what the formulators would propose, and what the President would approve, or prescribe, as wise and beneficent measures for the government of trades and industries in order to bring about their rehabilitation, correction and development, according to the general declaration of policy in the act."

Decision Stuns Capital

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Stunned by the Supreme Court's opinion, Administration leaders tonight were endeavoring to develop some means of keeping the whole NRA effort from collapsing but could see only the enactment of new legislation as the way out.

Admittedy the most serious blow the Roosevelt administration has received, the decision was seen as affecting adversely the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Federal Alcohol Control Administration and other agencies which have been set up since 1932 under "blanket" authorization from Congress.

Richberg and other leaders were called to the White House this afternoon to discuss the matter with the President.

Administration officials tonight confessed themselves unable immediately to see how they could get around the decision. At the Capitol leaders said it might be possible to get around that part of the opinion holding the delegation of power unconstitutional but that the strictures on the control of intrastate operations appeared, for the moment at least, to be an insuperable barrier.

Following the White House conference, no statements were immediately forthcoming.

At the NRA it was indicated that activities would practically cease until new legislation had been drafted, since there is little or nothing that can legally be done.

To File Suit Despite Ruling

KANSAS CITY, May 27.—Despite the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling voiding the NRA, Leonard Ulmann, attorney for Jack Johnston of the Ritz, Macpherson, Kan., announced today he would file in Federal court here tomorrow an application for a restraining order to block the stoppage of film service to Johnston because of his failure to comply with Campi's order to end bank nights.

Ulmann said the defendants will be the permanent and substitute members of the grievance board and Radio, M-G-M, Columbia, Paramount and others.

The board ordered service stopped next Thursday on the complaint of C. W. Helstrom of the Helstrom, Macpherson. Johnston decided to go through with the suit when informed by distributors that despite the Supreme Court's action they were bound by the board's order until officially released.

The Washington ruling was hailed by exhibitors here and several immediately contracted for various giveaway stunts that have been banned under the code.

N. O. Exhibitors Jubilant

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—Independent exhibitors here are jubilant over the Supreme Court's decision on the NRA. They claim they never were benefited and it hurt business. A few are asking: "Now that the NRA is unconstitutional do we get our assessments back?" Others believe that the death of the Blue Eagle is the best thing that ever happened.

Board Hearings Suspended

LOS ANGELES, May 27.—On receipt of notification of the Supreme Court's ruling on the NRA today, John C. Flinn, Campi secretary, stated all local board hearings have been suspended pending clarification from Code Authority.

N.Y. Theatres Seek Arbitration Board

local exhibitors attending a special meeting at the Astor adopted a resolution providing for the setting up of an arbitration board to replace the two boards. The plan was proposed by Harry Brandt, I.T.O.A. head, and was carried unanimously in quick order.

The proposed board will differ from the arbitration bodies which were abolished when the clearance and zoning and grievance boards were set up in that it will be free from control by the Hays office and all interests willing to arbitrate various problems, such as clearance grievances and labor, can cooperate both financially and in the carrying out of decisions.

One of the pressing problems in need of immediate arbitration is the much-disputed operators' scale. A secret meeting of the abandoned fact-finding committee was held in Leslie Thompson's office last week, but Local 306 was not represented. Another is expected to be called this week.

Another problem is clearance and zoning. A third is the flagrant giveaway practice.

Dr. Cornell Breaks a Tie

BUFFALO, May 27.—For the first time Dr. Peter C. Cornell has cast the deciding ballot as impartial government representative on the clearance and zoning board. This resulted in a ruling that the Lyric and Suburban in Binghamton are not in competition.

George N. King, proprietor of the Lyric, fourth run downtown, protested against the seven days' clearance of the Suburban, a Comerford enterprise. The Suburban is open evenings only and is near the outskirts of Binghamton.

K. C. Told to Study Coast Zoning Plan to attend hearings on complaints against the effective setup, he will submit a report to Campi and local boards which, it is expected, will be of assistance in framing other schedules.

Board members here have been advised of Campi's resolution that Kansas City, New Haven and Milwaukee observe the operations of the Los Angeles plan for 30 days and reexamine their schedules in the light of that proving ground with a view to redrafting them. The indicated 30-day period will elapse June 15. It is said here that date is somewhat of a coincidence because many expect the NRA to expire June 16.

Local factors have not taken advantage of Campi's resolution that they may file individual protests pending approval of the schedule submitted. But while the situation here has quieted down for the time being, numerous protests will be forthcoming from independents with inauguration of the Kansas City plan, if and when it ever goes into effect.

Ohio Acts in Code Case

CLEVELAND, May 27.—The county prosecutor has filed a petition for intervention to make the state a party defendant in the case of Frances Reeh, Opera House, Shelby, against the grievance board. Hearing is set for Wednesday in the county court house. The state also is filing a motion to dissolve the temporary injunction granted Reeh, restraining the grievance board from executing its cease service order and also asking that the Opera House, Shelby, be restrained from committing further code violations pending hearing the case on its merits.

Lowered admissions in violation of existing contracts was the basis of the original complaint filed with the grievance board against Reeh by H. D. Shreffler, Castamba, Shelby.

Because Ohio has a state NRA act, attorneys claim that the state should be a party in the case.

No Giveaway Action

No action will be taken by the New York grievance board today when it discusses the local giveaway and chance game situation.

While all members of the board admittedly agree that the practices are bad, no means have yet been devised whereby they can be stopped. Various plans have been talked over, but until one uniform procedure can be decideded upon no action will be taken.

Meanwhile Loew's is holding in abeyance its plan to adopt premiums and chance games. David Loew already has the consent of Nicholas M. Schenck to proceed on whatever basis he decides in combating competing exhibitors.

Century Appeal Off Again

Fox Men Off To Three-Day Chicago Meet

Special Takes 150; Pick Up Others En Route

With the startling and unexpected acquisition of 20th Century product officially only 24 hours old, Fox home office executives, branch managers and salesmen to the tune of 150 left New York last night for Chicago where, on Thursday, the company's largest sales convention, a three-day event, will get under way at the Blackstone. The New York contingent, which left here with the New Haven crew and picked up Albany and Buffalo last night and early this morning, traveled west on a special train which was routed over the New York Central as a second section of the Commodore Vanderbilt.

Asserts Allied Gets Dues from Circuits

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—That several Allied States units are and have been for several years receiving dues from affiliated theatres is a contention made in the current bulletin of M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, in commenting on the recent affiliation of the Philadelphia I.E.P.A. with national Allied. The bulletin says the independent group was formed because the M.P.T.O. "had dues paying, affiliated theatre membership."

U. A. Owners Imply Schenck Deal Iced

In a brief statement issued yesterday over signatures of Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin and Samuel Goldwyn, each a one-sixth owner of United Artists Corp., it was implied Joseph M. Schenck had switched distribution of 20th Century to Fox because a new deal with U.A. had failed. The statement read:

"Mr. Joseph M. Schenck has been negotiating with the United Artists Corp. for several months for the release of his future pictures, but failed to come to satisfactory terms. He has, therefore, apparently made arrangements elsewhere."

Federal Officials Admit Chaos; Statement Due In Next 48 Hours

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Frankly admitting that they did not know the answer to the countless questions regarding codes which have resulted from yesterday's Supreme Court decision, Administration officials today declared that further study would be necessary before clarification of the situation.

Throughout the city, at the White House, the Capitol, and in the various agencies set up under "blanket" authority from Congress and therefore subject to the same criticism of undue delegation of legislative power as was voiced on the Recovery Act, officials and legal experts were attempting to determine the full extent of the decision and lay plans to save as much as possible of the economic program.

So far as recovery codes are concerned, it was admitted that nobody today need continue to operate under them, although it was not expected that there would be an immediate return to the chaotic conditions which existed in many industries prior to the enactment of the law. With respect to the film code, it was said that contracts entered into thereunder would still be effective. This was taken as meaning that the 10 per cent cancellation clause in such contracts would continue to apply. However, there is some question as to the status of clearance and zoning and grievance boards.

For the time being, all legal questions are being left to code authorities and recovery officials are seeking what consolation they can from the repeated assertion that the court decision did not affect Section 4 of the law, authorizing the President to negotiate

Plan for New NRA Reported by U. P.

The basis of a new NRA, minus compulsory features and predicated on a plan of voluntary cooperation by business, is being formulated by the Administration, the United Press reported from Washington last night.

The reported basis of the plan provides the Federal Trade Commission be empowered to issue cease and desist orders to protect volunteering industries from possible chiselers.

Code Workings End with Industry Speculating On the Future

By SHERWIN A. KANE

Code machinery in the form of local clearance and zoning and grievance boards was brought to an abrupt halt yesterday on nationwide instructions issued by John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Campi. All hearings in progress were terminated and new complaints and applications to the bodies were refused. Administration of the code, after a year and a half, became a thing of the past far more abruptly than it came into being.

The sweeping effects throughout the industry of the nullification of NRA, and with it the film code, could only be hazarded yesterday with no definite word on future code procedure and policy forthcoming from the Administration at Washington. It was generally agreed, however, in executive circles here that, unless voluntary company and exhibitor action continues to impose a restraint on unfair trade practices which were subject to code regulation, widespread confusion may result.

It is obvious to trade leaders that, with the code nullified, clearance and zoning schedules are rendered unenforceable and new demands for increased protection may be made on distributors everywhere; overbuying is free of restraint, all forms of giveaways are unrestricted, the forcing of shorts with features can result in no penalty for the seller attempting it, nor can other forms of "coercive" selling.

In addition, it was pointed out that 10 per cent rejection privilege, unless contained in the sales contract, and some distributors have not placed the provision in their contracts, is unenforceable.

As for the future processes of industry self-regulation, no one, from Campi

Court Approves New Paramount Security

The form of indenture securing the new Paramount debentures was agpproved by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday. A hearing date "of convenience" was set for June 6 in the event subsequent developments in connection with the Paramount reorganization require court approval. At present, however, no subjects are in view for the scheduled hearing.

The sub-committee of the new Paramount directorate is continuing its discussions on the naming of the 16 new directors according to one, two and three-year terms on the new board. This work must be concluded before June 3, the date of the special meeting of stockholders at which the new directorate will be formally elected. Members of the sub-committee are Frank A. Vanderlip, Percy H. Johnston, H. A. Fortington and Maurice Newton.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

SPECULATION over further developments and future policies in United Artists was plentiful in the company's home office yesterday and was a luncheon table subject of conversation in the favored Broadway dining halls that superseded in interest even the capitulation of NRA and the film code. Dramatic as any of the best efforts out of Hollywood, here was something to talk about, to chew over, to conjure with in terms of guesswork and question marks. . . .

Conversationalists divided themselves into two distinct schools of thought on U.A.'s future, each one of which appeared to center on what Al Lichtman will do next with Al furnishing no comment by way of light. The U.A. cohorts and a majority of those on the sidelines lean to the belief that Lichtman will come out of the impending U.A. board meeting in Hollywood as the new president of the company, succeeding Joseph M. Schenck. On this assumption, the speculation runs, one or several ranking producers may be brought into U.A. to fill the product blank occasioned by the 20th Century switch to Fox and, bolstered with the new product, U.A. would carry on as before in its customary position in the industry. . . .

A variation of the comment which begins with the assumption that Lichtman will be the next U.A. president has the company entering into a distribution merger with another established company, with the guessers favoring Columbia, probably because such a move had been up for consideration in the past at least once. Under such a development, Lichtman would, according to the speculation, probably retain his own selling organization, trained to obtain top rentals for the U.A. output, but with the physical distribution machinery of one or the other company being scrapped for the appreciable economy involved. . . .

That the Schenck-20th Century move is highly beneficial to Fox is accepted without argument. Several dopesters offer the belief that the step can increase the Fox operating net by $1,500,000 annually through the addition of a minimum of twelve high rental pictures to the company's schedule, sold through a distributing machine admittedly equipped to handle the increase. It has been said on behalf of Sidney Kent that his conception of a wholesale distributor in this business is the organization which handles from sixty to sixty-five pictures a season and that, for some time, he has had it in his mind to eventually increase the Fox program to that number. His objective is no longer beyond his reach. . . .

That brief mention in the official announcement that Schenck will make his headquarters on the coast led to the question yesterday: "Will he be the Louis B. Mayer of Fox?" There were no answers to those who attempted to draw the parallel of Mayer, stepping out of the independent field years ago with Irving Thalberg under contract to join Metro and to become its general production overseer and Schenck stepping into the Fox picture with Zanuck as his Thalberg. But there it was—speculative and unprovable, but certainly an interesting something over which to cogitate. . . .

Why did Schenck walk on United Artists after all these years? The argumentative Samuel Goldwyn is talked about as the primary reason. Two years ago when Schenck, Zanuck and some others formed 20th Century, those who knew Goldwyn didn't take long to draw a quick conclusion that the storm signals had gone up. In the last three or four months, Goldwyn is understood to have been raising more hell than usual, which is normally a lot of hell, over allegedly preferential treatment meted out to 20th Century. He is said to have threatened Schenck he would do the walking, whereupon Schenck's reply, presumably, was cryptic and, in the light of subsequent happenings, significant: "You'll do the walking!" . . .

The sidelights are many. Some of them lend themselves to easy explanation. Others do not. There is, for instance, an entirely new association set up by this important deal. Schenck and Kent have known each other for years, of course. They have had little or no direct business dealings except as their paths met or crossed —Kent at Paramount, now Fox; Schenck at United Artists. On the other hand, Schenck and Winnie Sheehan are old and fast friends, the beginnings of that association going back many years and to the days before either of them became prominent in the industry. Interesting to remember, this last circumstance. . . .

A significant angle is the stronger rapprochement which inevitably will develop between the Fox and Loew organizations. With Joe at the former as board chairman and Brother Nick heading Loew's and M-G-M, it inevitably follows that the inclination will be those two companies to proceed hand in hand. This is not suggesting a merger. Not at all. It is suggesting, for instance, that with 20th Century in the Fox fold, the same friendly treatment which Zanuck has found his from the Metro lot may be expected to reach into the Fox production organization as well. . . .

About the code. It is far too soon to draw any reasonable conclusions. The Administration fails to know where it stands. Code authorities and industry reflecting the same helplessness can do nothing but await further clarification of the import of the Supreme Court's devastating decision. The immediate period at hand will be marked by widespread confusion, chaos, and, this commentator is afraid, chiseling on the part of some in this industry on the strength of the complete breakdown of restrictions on unfair competition which the code, in many respects, had set up. Zoning, premiums, premature advertising, overbuying — these and other practices which the code sought and partially did check—are back whence they began. The period of adjustment, no matter what form it may take, presents a most unhappy picture. . . .

Lightman and Para. Sign a 50-50 Deal

M. A. Lightman yesterday signed contracts with Paramount for the 50-50 pooling arrangement in Memphis involving the Palace, Strand and Orpheum. Malco Memphis, Inc., is the new company formed to operate. The deal was closed about two months ago, but the papers were signed only yesterday.

With Sidney Nutt abandoning the Central, Hot Springs, Ark., Lightman has signed a 15-year lease with the landlord for the house. He is building a new theatre on the site and expects to have it ready for opening on Sept. 1. He will rename the house either the Malco or the Paramount. After attending the G.B. banquet at the Warwick last night, Lightman left for Memphis.

Willis Bright Made 1st Div. Treasurer

Willis Bright, formerly associated with the Vitagraph Co., has been elected treasurer of First Division, it was stated yesterday subsequent to a meeting of the board of the company. Amos Hiatt, acting treasurer, continues with the company in a new capacity.

Pending distribution deals between First Division and British producing companies, which have been under discussion for several weeks, were left open to further negotiation by the board.

Speculation Rife as Code Workings End authorities to ranking industry figures, had any semblance of authoritative information. Company executives looked to the M.P.P.D.A., that organization looked to Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, Rosenblatt looked to the Administration, and the Administration, according to late reports from Washington last night, was still seeking a way of salvaging something from the ruin of NRA.

Executive opinion in several quarters was optimistic over the possibilities of organizing local industry arbitration bodies to administer "home rule" throughout trade territories. What they would be and how they could be organized and what enforcement powers they could draw upon was not made clear, but that a fairish substitute for code boards could be found did not appear to be doubted.

"The industry is faced with operating without a code," one executive put it. "It did that pretty well before 1933 and can do it again. The machinery for this job cannot be concentrated in New York or Hollywood. This would suggest that some fair, intelligent machinery could be set up in each distributing center to the end that honest and just complaints can be speedily and fairly adjudicated, affording relief to the aggrieved parties."

See Delay in New Plans

Generally, it was believed that no program for devising substitute machinery for the code would be undertaken for several days yet, at least until the Administration itself had arrived at a definite position and declared its policy on a program of complete abandonment or partial repair and salvaging of codes and their machinery. When this has been done Rosenblatt, it is believed, will meet here with industry leaders and impart the Administration's instructions or advice, as the case may be.

Meanwhile, a special meeting of Campi has been called for Monday and Rosenblatt is expected to attend this session which, it is believed, will be merely for determining and disclosing the immediate, essential steps which Campi may be required to take in the way of dissembling its machinery and discontinuing its expenditures. Flinn is returning from California by plane for this meeting and advance conferences on these subjects.

It was generally believed that none of the large companies would immediately reduce wages or increase hours under or above the hitherto prevailing code scales and informal inquiries at home offices yesterday appeared to substantiate this. The only changes in hours which are planned are the customary week day extensions to make up for all day Saturday closings during the summer months.

Nullification of the code's labor provisions is viewed by some exhibitors as likely to bring about new demands for wage increases in many sections, and possibly more or less general demands for two men in the booth. Distributors, on the other hand, voiced some apprehension over the possibility of a flood of exhibitor-sponsored legislation, costly or damaging to the sellers, being introduced in state legislatures in the event no new regulatory machinery can be set up.

An interesting sidelight of the nullification of the code and everything it contained came to light yesterday when it was disclosed that spirited efforts had been made at the time of the drafting of the code to embody in it the production code of ethics. This was not done, it was said, because it was pointed out at the time that NRA, a temporary, emergency statute, could be discontinued when the need for it no longer existed and this might occur long before the need for the production code was over. Had the production code been embodied in the NRA film code it, too, would now be an illegal and unenforceable instrument, it was stated by legal authorities yesterday. The same is true of the advertising code of ethics, it was said.

All cases on the calendars of the 32 local boards have been held up indefinitely until further advice from Code Authority. Thirteen appeal cases were scheduled for Campi hearings from now until June 5, all of which have been called off, and decisions on 25 appeals will not be delivered.

Telephone calls and telegrams poured into Code Authority all day yesterday with Tyree Dillard, Jr., handling these matters in the absence of Flinn. All finances of the Code Authority have been held up and no checks will go out until further notice to the various boards throughout the country.

Decisions Being Nullified

In the interim, all code decisions handed down by Code Authority are being nullified and exchanges are insisting that exhibitors live up to contracts as originally written. Locally, this upsets the Leonia clearance and zoning case and the RKO Century clearance issue in Long Island. In the Leonia instance, Julius Charnow, after seven months, was given a favorable decision which is now wiped out. In the RKO Century case, which has been pending for sometime and has cost both companies more than $10,000, the case now goes into the discard.

Yesterday the local grievance board met and adjourned until next Tuesday. Two cases which were on the schedule were called off by Major L. E. Thompson after a phone call from Dillard requesting that the hearing be stopped. Attending the hearing were Louis Geller, Myron Sattler and John O'Connor in addition to Thompson. Some members of the board were concerned about the 10 per cent cancellation, but are withholding opinions until the decision is studied. Nothing was done on the giveaway and chance games situation. From good authority it is learned that the Loew, RKO and Skouras units throughout the country will start in bank nights on a wholesale schedule if competitors refuse to desist from the practice. It is known that all three units have been contacted by the Chevrolet people and that deals are under way for wholesale buys on automobiles.

The Code Authority telegram which went to all boards reads as follows: "In view of the decision of the Supreme Court your board will receive no further complaints and take no further action under the code until further notice. (Signed) Tyree Dillard, Jr."

Warner Is Surprised

Upon his arrival from England last night, Jack L. Warner was surprised to read in Motion Picture Daily that Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck would leave U. A. to join Fox.

He was skeptical at first, but was assured the story was a fact by Harry Charnas and a reporter from this publication.

Zanuck, before joining U. A., was in charge of Warner production.

Warner was anxious to learn the inside of the split, stating he had heard rumors of a rift between Samuel Goldwyn and U. A. heads while in England.

Washington in Turmoil Over Court Ruling

voluntary agreements, although it was admitted there was not much hope that industry would flock to those provisions as a means of keeping their codes alive.

However, it was admitted, the code authorities will have to move carefully, since, there being no codes, they might now subject themselves to the anti-trust laws if they attempted to secure compliance with some of the provisions which, being in codes, heretofore had the security of the exemption granted by the Recovery Act.

Questions today regarding the effect of the decision on rulings by Campi and the code boards, the disposition of funds now held by Campi and the future course of the NRA were all met with the simple answer: "We don't know." It was suggested, however, that industry has little chance of recovering past contributions made to and spent by code authorities, it being pointed out that they were made voluntarily.

It was indicated that a statement of policy would be sent out to all code authorities by the NRA within the next 48 hours, but no indications were obtainable as to what would be said.

So far as the film code is concerned, Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt said he has no idea of the application of the decision or what its effect will be on that agreement, and that additional study will be required before any evaluation of the situation can be made. So far as his personal future is concerned, Rosenblatt said: "I wish I knew what I am going to do, but I have absolutely no plans of any character. Since I announced my intention of resigning I have been so busy I have been unable to discuss my future activities."

All code enforcement activities were halted last night and the NRA today was engaged in sending out notices of "indefinite postponement" of hearings and pending actions. In the amusement division these covered the hearing on the New York booth scale which has been set for June 4 and the amendment to the code announced last week, restricting service on boards of members whose interests were affected by pending cases. All action on the proposed order for newsreel cameramen also has been suspended.

At the White House it was said the President was still trying to get a "picture" of the situation and that it would probably be impossible for him to decide upon any definite line of action before the end of the week. A series of conferences was scheduled by the President with his advisors, both from the Government agencies and from Congress.

At the Capitol the House adjourned almost as soon as it met, while leaders sought to determine the effect of the decision on "must" legislation. The Senate was engaged with one of the calendars, but there, too, the dominant forces applied themselves to a survey of the legislative situation.

While the Supreme Court's decision was applied to the Recovery Act, the points raised in the opinion apply equally directly to a large part of the economic program, including the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Tennessee Valley Authority and other established agencies, and may sharply restrict the scope of much of the legislation sought by the President. So broad was the decision that Administration leaders fear it may even endanger the $4,880,000,000 work-relief measure.

Further meetings of the code boards were today suspended by the National Recovery Administration pending a determination of the future of those bodies under the Supreme Court decision.

Instructions were issued by the NRA that code bodies were to suspend meetings until further notice.

ly." The interview is slated for publication in London tomorrow.

Schenck definitely added there was no truth to the report that his and 20th Century's association with Fox indicated a three-cornered merger with M-G-M as the third angle.

Neither the Fox nor the United Artists offices here are fully advised of the lightning-like shift.

The Donada-Deutsch theatre interests expressed complete surprise and admitted they were awaiting Schenck's arrival to discuss affiliation and expansion with United Artists. Whether or not various deals which have been pending, including renewal of the Korda deal with U. A., will proceed on behalf of Fox is being speculated widely here.

Motion Picture Daily yesterday reported Joseph M. Schenck's association with Fox as chairman of the board did not necessarily mean he would dispose of his one-sixth ownership in United Artists.

Hollywood, May 28.—Following a meeting of U. A. directors Mary Pickford said today she will go ahead with plans to make three films, beginning this summer, with the first for fall release.

will not be changed. He plans to remain in town for a week before heading west to attend the sales convention.

Warner asserted that the main purpose of his trip to England was to double the capacity of the Teddington studios. He said 24 pictures will be made next season. He also stated that he hadn't made up his mind yet about sending American players abroad to appear in the company's English made films.

"There will be no shutdown of the studios," Warner said. He did not sign any talent while abroad and felt unusually jovial upon his debarking from the Berengaria. One of the first questions he asked Harry Charnas, who was among the reception committe, was: "How is 'G-Men' doing?" He spent last night at the fights.

Accompanying Warner were Max Milder, the company's general manager in England, and David E. Griffiths, general manager for First National in England. Milder stated business in England is good. The climate in England, he said, was favorable for production. Griffiths said conditions were good and getting better. More money is being earned and more is being spent on entertainment. Good pictures, he held, whether British or American, earn big money. There are more than 4,000 theatres in Great Britain operating today and much building is going on throughout the country, he added, but Warners is not interested in theatres abroad. They plan to be back in London the first week in July.

On the same boat was Helen Beaudine, daughter of William Beaudine who is directing for Warners in England. She has been signed by Warners and leaves for the coast shortly.

Albert de Courville, G. B. director, who recently completed "The Case of Gabriel Perry" for British Lion, was a passenger on the boat. He was accompanied by his wife, who is the sister of Arthur Kelly, head of foreign activities for U. A. The de Courvilles leave for the coast in a few days. Kelly plans to go to Hollywood a week from today.

Industry Can Work Out Problem: Myers

WASHINGTON, May 28.—"Allied has stood steadfastly for adjustment of complaints and settlement of controversies by cooperative effort within the industry," declared Abram F. Myers, general counsel today in commenting on the Supreme Court's NRA ruling.

Continuing, he said: "The five-five-five conferences and the negotiations with Sidney R. Kent in 1932 marked progress. Had the major companies supported their representatives, the established system could have been incorporated into NRA without difficulty.

"The trouble has been that the majors have insisted on dominating all arbitration and conciliation boards by direct representation, or by stooges. The impossibility of achieving domination in this way now has been amply demonstrated.

"Insistence by exhibitors on legal rights will make necessary further efforts to secure stability and peace through inter-industry cooperation. With the bitter lessons of NRA well learned, I look for the real leaders to carry on in the efforts toward inter-industry cooperation, building on the foundation of past efforts."

Flinn Flies to New York

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—John Flinn flew to New York this afternoon after wiring all code boards to suspend hearings, pending a clarification of the status of Code Authority. A meeting is slated for early next week in New York, he said.

What will happen in the Federal court action now pending here as a result of a move to enjoin the grievance board from enforcing a stop film order is not clear yet, according to Pierson Hall, board attorney.

Local Exchanges Act

Local exchanges yesterday lost no time in declaring all code decisions null and void. One of the first moves to be made was declaration by branch heads to shunt the Leonia, Leonia, which recently was given a clearance decision of 14 days after Englewood, back to its former run. The old run is from 60 to 90 days after Newark.

Peter and Adam Adams of the Park Lane, Palisades Park, have an injunction suit before Vice-Chancellor Campbell in Paterson as a result of the Leonia clearance order. The case had been postponed several times and is now slated to come up next Monday. When the case is called on the calendar, it is expected to be withdrawn since Adams Brothers are back on their former clearance run.

Authority Chairmen Meet

Peter Van Horn, chairman of the Silk Textile Code Authority held a meeting of code authority chairmen in his offices yesterday afternoon, but a spokesman for Van Horn refused any information on what took place.

Tyree Dillard, Jr., Campi attorney, yesterday said no representative from his office attended.

Samuelson Absent; Allied Meeting Off

Due to absence of Sidney Samuelson from the city, Allied of New Jersey called off its meeting yesterday. The I.T.O.A. will not hold its session today. The next meeting is set for next Wednesday.

Louis Schiffman and William Salkin have been added to the I.T.O.A. committee of four to contact local exhibitors on a new plan of pooling theatres into one large circuit. Milton C. Weisman, attorney for the exhibitor unit, is expected to complete the pooling plan today. He did not have it ready yesterday for announcement of details.

The other four on the committee are John Benas, Morris Fleischman, Abe Leff and David Weinstock.

WILMINGTON, May 28.—Trial of the anti-trust suit brought by General Talking Pictures and Duovac Radio against Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T. was recessed here today until Monday, when the defense will resume.

Film Men at Fight

Film executives turned out en masse last night to see Barney Ross lick Jimmy McLarnin for the welterweight championship of the world. Among those glimpsed at the Polo Grounds were Jack Warner, Dr. Julius Klein, James R. Grainger and Mrs. Grainger, Eddie Bonns, J. J. Parker, Sam Dembow and Herman Robbins.

Looking 'Em Over

"April Blossoms"

(Alliance)

Sumptuous settings can be an important element in film entertainment. Splendid singing can be another contributing factor, but the two combined without an actor who can project the arresting qualities of his personality beneath the surface emotions of a mass audience cannot make up for lack of story values, if the subject is intended for mass entertainment.

This production, called a romance to the music of Franz Shubert by its producers, is an eye-filling spectacle. The singing by Richard Tauber, who impersonates Shubert, is magnificent. Some of the words are by John Drinkwater, and some of the music is by G. H. Glutsam. It has class appeal aplenty, but it leaves the spectator with the relaxed feeling of having heard a fine concert.

The love interest is based on Shubert's sacrificial desire to insure the happiness of a young dancing teacher who has refused his hand. He succeeds in getting an audience with the Archduchess to plead with her to let the girl marry a young lieutenant. The girl, Jane Baxter, is pretty, but colorless as a screen actress. The lieutenant, Carl Esmond, is good looking, but it takes something more than posing to stir an American flapper's heart.

The photography is beautiful, but the direction by Paul L. Stein is paced so slowly that he seems to be gloating over the magnificence of his scenes rather than the emotional values of his story.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, about 110 minutes. "G."

men to speak from their seats. Prominent among those who presented their problems were Phillip Meyer of the local office, Mark Goldman of Pittsburgh, Sol Krugman of the local office, John Scully of Boston, J. L. Franconi of Dallas and Irving Jacobs of Denver and Salt Lake City.

Immediately following the open forum, prizes for the winners of the "Big Push" sales drive were awarded the winners. Paul de Outo, Los Angeles branch manager, won first prize of four weeks' salary. He had the choice of the salary or a trip to London. Walter Wessling of Seattle and Portland was awarded three weeks' salary for second prize; Fred Abelson of Minneapolis two weeks' salary for third prize and John Scully of Boston an extra week's pay for fourth place.

Immediately after the awards a vote was taken on the advisability of holding a similar campaign for the Star Spangled Specials and all present voted for the drive to be started in the fall.

Just before the meeting adjourned for lunch, Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox, dropped in and addressed the gathering briefly. Spyros Skouras, vice-president of National Theatres, and Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., are listed as guest speakers at the short morning session today.

Following luncheon yesterday, the group attended the screening of "Thirty-Nine Steps" and "Born for Glory" at the home office.

The French Casino was the gathering place last night for the last dinner of the meeting.

A STRAW IN

While picture business and the press are quite naturally absorbed in excited comment and acclaim for Warner Bros.' three great current hits, there is danger that the deeper significance of these productions may be overlooked. "G-MEN", "BLACK FURY" and "GO INTO YOUR DANCE" are more than an amazing succession of great box-office shows. They are straws that show which way the wind is blowing! . . . . Shrewd film men have rightly appraised them as an augury of still greater projects afoot at Warner Bros.' Actually they are but the first steps in a broad-scale development of our entire production policy which will become increasingly apparent as the next few weeks go by . . . . Almost immediately you will see this new production phase strikingly demonstrated in "In Caliente", "The Girl from 10th Avenue", "Oil for the Lamps of China", "Alibi Ike", and "Stranded" . . . . And in two short weeks you will hear from Hollywood the most stirring new-season news that ever came out of a film convention . . . . Yes, the trade winds are blowing. They are sweeping trade sentiment overwhelmingly to Warner Bros. for 1935-'36.

leaves on the Century this afternoon and will be on hand when the gavel sounds tomorrow morning.

Association of Joseph M. Schenck with Fox as chairman of the board and the merger with 20th Century are destined to be the highlight of the convention at which somewhere between 60 and 65 pictures will be scheduled for the new season. Quietly and for weeks, the Fox selling force has been barnstorming the nation on a sales splurge with an objective of 4,000 new contracts prior to the official opening of the convention. The objective is understood to be reasonably close.

Delegates from New York and the field will be augmented by representatives from 10 foreign countries, the total attendance running to 265.

The first day's program calls for a discussion of new product by Kent and Clark; foreign department plans by Clayton P. Sheehan, general foreign manager; addresses by George Weeks, Louis Hyman and Spyros Skouras, and various talks on short subjects on the new schedule by Earle Hammons, president of Educational Pictures; Jack Skirball and W. J. Clark. W. J. Kupper, western divisional sales manager for Fox, also will discuss distribution at the afternoon session.

Yorke, Earl Wingart and J. A. Clark; a discussion of plans for Fox Movietone News by Truman H. Talley, Laurence Stallings, Lowell Thomas, Lew Lehr and Ed. Thorgersen; an address by E. C. Grainger, eastern divisional sales manager; distribution of prizes for the second "S. R. Kent Drive," and an explanation of the "1935 Distribution Drive" by William C. Gehring, sales manager of the Chicago exchange.

The closing day will be featured by distribution department meetings under the guidance of Clark, Kupper and Grainger; sales meetings conducted by William Sussman and Nat Finkler and a meeting of the ad sales department conducted by James A. Clark. The final afternoon will be devoted to another screening after which the convention will be adjourned.

ceed with any probe of Loew's planned theatre invasion, as reported to the recent Allied convention in Atlanta by Abram F. Myers.

Edwin Silverman of Essanness Theatres, one of the local circuits which has not bought Metro product because of its opposition to percentage terms and designated playing time, declined to comment prior to May 31. This is perhaps construable as indicating that the "dynamite" recently intimated ready to pop will be set off at that time.

May Sue Over Film Ban

A threat to take court action if the decision of N. Y. censor banning "Spring Shower," a DuWorld release, is not reversed was made yesterday by Arthur Garfield Hays following the arguing of an appeal before the state censor board in Albany. The film, directed by Paul Fejos, was denied a license in New York in March on the ground it would tend to corrupt morals.

Color New Industry Tonic, M.P. Club's Forum Is Told

By J. M. JERAULD

Color was described to the M.P. Club Forum yesterday as the new touch of showmanship needed by the industry and as a way of forestalling the future competition of television. All the speakers connected in any way with RKO Radio and Technicolor described "Becky Sharp" as an industry milestone comparable to "The Jazz Singer."

It was the first forum to call out the S.R.O. sign. Extra tables were brought in for late arrivals, and when there was no more space for these a crowd gathered in the corridor.

The speakers included Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, head of Technicolor; Robert Edmond Jones, Miss Billie Burke, M. H. Aylesworth, John Hay Whitney, John F. Wharton, W. G. Van Schmus, Gene Raymond, Charles C. Pettijohn and Harry Hershfield. Those who took bows were Mrs. Natalie Kalmus, Ned E. Depinet and Jules E. Brulatour.

Dr. Kalmus said that 50 per cent of producers, distributors and exhibitors were now interested in color. He reviewed 15 years of progress in Technicolor development and admitted all its early faults. The early color films used an "additive" process, he said, which increased the density of the film, dimmed the whites and made enormous quantities of light necessary. In the new process, he said, a "subtractive" process is used which makes whites practically clear celluloid on the prints and gives the film practically the same luminosity that black and white photography possesses. The sound track is done in silver. As a result, he said, no more light is required than with ordinary prints.

Discusses Costs of Process

The fuzzy quality of Douglas Fairbanks' "The Black Pirate" has been removed, he asserted, and all shades have been captured by the three-color process.

In discussing its cost he said that, if it captures the public fancy, the increase will not matter. Print costs had been reduced gradually from 20 cents a foot to five and one-half cents, and he predicted further reduction with quantity production.

If Kodachrome is developed so that it becomes applicable to standard width film, he said, this would become the Technicolor laboratory method as a result of the cross-licensing agreement on patents worked out with Eastman.

Jones said color was no longer a technical problem, but an artistic one to be developed with use.

Aylesworth stirred a laugh by thanking his competitors, WHN and WMCA, for permitting him as president of NBC to speak into their microphones. He said that anything new which disturbed the routine of an industry was to be welcomed if it proved of lasting benefit.

"I often say," he continued, "that television is just around the corner. I'd like to say that it is away around the corner. It is different with color; it's here. It's cost will make no difference, if the public goes for it as I think it will. Quantity production will reduce the cost."

He paid a tribute to John Hay Whitney as a man who wasn't "willing to join the parade, but wanted to lead it."

Whitney responded briefly by calling attention to the crowd standing outside. "I hope we'll have the same at the end of our eight weeks at the Music Hall." He was that modest.

Van Schmus said he hadn't expected to speak, but as long as the opportunity had been given him he would like to answer the club wit who had said the Music Hall advertising should have an "R.S.V.P." at the bottom.

"Exactly," he agreed with emphasis. "That's the essence of advertising. It loses its point unless there is an R.S.V.P. at the box-office. I'll promise you the 'Becky Sharp' ads will have smash, and zip—punch—sockem!"

Wants Public Used to Color

Wharton made the assertion that the industry would do itself a service by getting the public accustomed to color before the introduction of television. He pointed out that television in black and white would seem flat in comparison.

By this time Louis Nizer, toastmaster, was catching the spirit of color and he pointed out that blue glasses were being used on the tables. He said he wanted to introduce a man who claimed to be an Indian, and predicted that if he ever were photographed in Technicolor he would appear blue.

Pettijohn responded. His color references included the fact that the industry's face was red as a result of the Supreme Court's NRA decision.

"There's nothing left of the code except Nizer's book," he went on.

Hershfield admitted he was for color. In fact, he said he was the first color comic, and this led him into a story about racial shadings, or lack of them.

He told of a Semite arguing with an Aryan over the antiquity of their civilization.

"This man told the Aryan," he said, "that when the Aryans were still eating acorns in the woods the Semites had already developed diabetes."

DETROIT, May 28.—Herbert Fowser, 54, for more than 12 years salesman on the local Universal staff and recently an investigator for the Wayne County sheriff's department, died suddenly Saturday morning at the county jail. Equity Splits Vote On Sunday Showings

The membership of Actors' Equity Ass'n is split on the subject of Sunday performances, with an almost even division of those attending the organization's annual meeting favoring either unconditional refusal to play on Sunday or acceptance of Sunday performances on a conditional basis for a one-year trial, a tabulation yesterday of the votes cast at the annual meeting revealed.

The voting at the meeting was 152 for the flat refusal to perform on Sundays and 152 for the conditional acceptance on a one-year trial. Alternate proposals put to the membership included a block organizational acceptance without qualifications, which was favored by 10 voters, and a one-year experimental acceptance, which received 36 votes.

The subject will be submitted now to the entire Equity membership for a vote and will then go to Equity's council for final disposition.

The annual meeting reelected Frank Gillmore as head of Equity and elected the entire regular slate of councilors by a substantial majority.

Sales Heads for Keeping Present Code Contracts

Include Cancellation in Tentative Plan Until White House Acts

Sentiment of the sales managers of major distributors is for continuance of contract forms adopted under the NRA code without change. This would include retention of the 10 per cent cancellation clause.

Committed to no definite plan in view of the general uncertainty over the entire Recovery Administration program, the sales managers, nevertheless, are currently of the opinion the contracts should remain as they now stand and so expressed themselves at a joint meeting held with Will H. Hays at noon Wednesday.

The conference was called primarily as an open forum to discuss the probable course of the industry in the wake of the Supreme Court's decision ruling the NRA and all codes under it unconstitutional. The discussion was general and touched on a number of suggested procedures, but conclusions were purposely avoided on the general theory that speculation over the Administration's next step made it impossible to light upon any definite program for the industry to pursue.

While nothing was stated about future meetings, the probabilities are others will be held, but not until word emanates from the White House on steps to reconstruct some sort of a structure from the wreckage of the New Deal.

Flinn to Await Campi Ruling Before Dismissing His Staff

John C. Flinn will take no action on disbanding Campi and its 32 boards until he gets official word from Code Authority, he stated Wednesday afternoon on his arrival from the coast. Campi meets Monday to decide what action to take. Flinn added he had no authority to act and that it was up to Code Authority.

More than 100 employes are on the payroll of Campi throughout the country and will be paid their salaries until dismissed.

Industry Eyes On Washington For Guidance

Voluntarily continuing the basic labor provisions of NRA in effect, the industry continued its expectant wait over the holiday for word from Washington on the strategy to be followed in salvaging or replacing codes of fair competition. There appeared to be little to indicate that any official word would be forthcoming in advance of President Roosevelt's scheduled week-end radio address to the nation.

Meanwhile, hope of redrafting NRA along constitutional lines was reported in Washington, where Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, "father" of the act, returned to offer his services in an advisory capacity and messages poured in from the nation's industrial leaders urging the Administration to find a

Voluntary Use Of Codes Seen As a Stop Gap

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Possibilities of meeting temporarily the situation arising from the nullification of recovery codes by the Supreme Court, by inviting industry to turn its former codes into voluntary agreements, as provided for under Section 4 of the Recovery Act, were today under scrutiny by Administration officials and legal experts.

Close study of the Schechter poultry case decision, it is said, shows that the only provisions of the act flatly declared unconstitutional were those of Section 3, authorizing the President to prescribe codes.

Section 4, which did not enter into the case and therefore remains valid,

No Mention Made of 20th Century's Lineup

CHICAGO, May 30.—Fox confined its 1935-36 product announcement to 54 features, 110 shorts and 104 issues of Fox Movietone News today.

Detail was given the assembled sales force at the Blackstone here with no specific mention made as to the product contribution which will be made by 20th Century under its merger deal. The anticipation is that Darryl F. Zanuck will adhere to his program of 12 announced some weeks ago in New York, thereby placing the complete total to be handled by Fox next season at 66.

More than 250 executives, managers and salesmen from all parts of the United States and Canada and 10 foreign countries were in attendance to hear Sidney R. Kent and John D. Clark outline the company's plans for the new season.

A new trend toward spectacular productions and an increased use of music was revealed in the new program. Pictures of a spectacular nature include "Dante's Inferno," "Mysteries of Paris," "Under Two Flags," "Ramona," "Hawk of the Desert,"

HOLLYWOOD, May 30.—That United Artists producer-members will increase their output to fill in the gap caused by withdrawal of 20th Century product was indicated here today. At the same time it became known that Samuel Goldwyn feels the new president should not be a producer, thereby eliminating himself as a candidate for the post left vacant by Joseph M. Schenck's resignation.

Mary Pickford says she has been planning to produce for the past 18 months and hopes to have one, in which she will not appear as a star, ready for fall release. She will not appear in a picture unless she can find a story that appeals strongly to her.

Goldwyn, it is understood, will increase his output to six, and Charlie Chaplin is expected to have one upon

At an annual rate of 188 pictures a year, the requirements of American distributors in that country are adequately met, it was Hays' association opinion.

Warners' "G-Men" Suit Up on June 7

CHICAGO, May 30.—Argument will be heard on June 7 in U. S. District Court here on a report of a hearing before a master of chancery of charges of unfair competition in advertising brought by Warners against the Indiana Amusement Enterprises and Publix-Great States.

The suits grew out of Warners' assertion that "Let 'Em Have It" was advertised at the Palace, South Bend, Ind., Indiana Amusement Enterprises house, and at the Palace, Peoria, Ill., Publix-Great States theatre, with the title of the United Artists picture subordinated to "G-Men."

At the hearing representatives of Publix-Great States testified they had discontinued the advertising practices objected to. They further stated that they were merely retaining the mention of "Government men" in their advertising. The court will determine whether their use of this phrase constitutes unfair competition.

RKO Cuts Its 1934 Deficit To $310,574

Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. reported a consolidated net loss for the year 1934 of $310,574, it was disclosed in a financial report issued Wednesday by Irving Trust Co., trustee in reorganization for RKO. The loss compares with a net loss of $4,384,064 for 1933, and a net loss of $10,629,503 for 1932.

The bulk of the improvement in the company's position last year is traceable to earnings of RKO Radio Pictures, which had a net profit for the year of $570,000, as compared with a loss of $663,000 the preceding year. Total income from film rentals and sales for 1934 amounted to $21,276,716. RKO Pathe Pictures, engaged mostly in the rental of the former Pathe west coast studio, reduced its 1933 loss of $627,000 to a loss of $270,000 last year. Pathe News, likewise, further reduced its losses last year as compared with the preceding year. The 1934 report showed a loss of approximately $25,000.

Cash on hand at the end of the year amounted to $4,659,505, or a gain of approximately $1,000,000 over the preceding year. Consolidated capital deficit amounted to $10,822,925 at the end of the year, as compared with $10,973,141 at the end of 1933. Consolidated operating deficit increased from $15,899,122 at the end of 1933, to $16,078,501 at the end of last year.

Income from theatre admission for the year amounted to $18,290,803. The report disclosed that RKO's interest in Radio City Theatre Corp. has been written down to $16,116 as a result of the transfer of operation of the Music Hall to Rockefeller Center and the withdrawal of the Center Theatre from RKO operation.

Income from wholly owned foreign subsidiaries amounted to $397,163 during 1934.

Warner-Ascap Split Coming at Year End

Warners and their music publishing subsidiaries have decided on a split from the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, says Motion Picture Herald in its current issue. Licensing agreements on the current Warner music libraries are still to be reached, it is said.

Warners have notified broadcasters that after Dec. 31, 1935, negotiations for use of the Warner catalogues will have to be conducted directly with the company. Ascap is said to have told them any contract signed with it will guarantee use of Warner music, but the company has countered with the statement that it will take the issue to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary.

Huling Goes to 'Frisco

LOS ANGELES, May 30.—Mel Huling, partner in Far West Exchanges, has switched to the San Francisco branch, replacing Bruce Johnson, whose future status remains undetermined. Far West is taking over the old U.A. office in San Francisco.

Short Subjects

"The March of Time"

(First Division)

In its fourth release, "The March of Time" continues to hug the high standard promised in its first release, suggested in its second and delivered in its third.

Far less controversial than the third, this subject is, nevertheless, continuously interesting and worthwhile. It divides itself into three subjects, merely called Washington, Russia and Pacific Ocean. The first, dealing with the New Deal, moves along quickly. By way of short clips, tied together with narration, it points up the major figures, pro and con, of the Roosevelt experiment and features Arthur Krock, Pulitzer Prize winner and chief of the Washington Bureau of the New York Times. The chapter poises the question of what will happen to the New Deal, but gets an unfortunate break since the Supreme Court answered the question on Monday.

The second chapter touches on the social program of the Soviets in Moscow, but concentrates on the extension of Stalin's influence to the vast regions east of the nation's capital. In a selection of material and in camera angles, the material is unusual and intriguing. The argument herewith presented swings around what beyond Sovietizing of Russia and Siberia and whether efforts will be made to make the rest of the world Bolshevik in context.

The inner workings of the navy, how the Naval War College plots futures on a checkerboard-like floor, and how the vessels of war go through their maneuvers are episodes in the final chapter which is dramatically tense, expertly edited and assembled.

"Here's the Gang"

(Universal)

This Mentone short has a party in Yvonne Monoff's home as the background against which the usual variety entertainment is presented. Jacqueline Allen is the first artist presented and she sings delightfully. Paul Howard, a contortionist, follows her, and then Nayan Pierce and Don Carthay do some ballroom dancing. The Pope Sisters sing a "hot" number and Wolf Carter a cowboy ballad. The Society Pets wind up the reel with their clowning.

Fairly entertaining, this reel should please most audiences. Production Code Seal No. 0364. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Old Mother Hubbard"

(Celebrity)

The old, familiar nursery tale is here presented in picture form in a slightly modernized version. Mother Hubbard still has her bare cupboard, but in this case she is the washerwoman for the king. Her dog, while delivering the king's laundry, steals a chicken from the royal kitchen and gets his head stuck inside. His antics in trying to release himself so pleases the king that he rewards the old woman and her dog with great riches.

This reel, done in color, should be universally appealing. Exhibitors would do well to concentrate on the children angle here. Production Code Seal, No. 718. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"College Scandal"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, May 30.—This neat, expert murder mystery with an undergraduate background and cast looks and acts collegiate convincingly. Arline Judge plays a cute, determined sophomore in love with a senior, Edward Nugent, who is interested in Wendy Barrie, daughter of a mysterious French professor, William Stack.

Miss Judge's pursuit of Nugent is complicated by her sleuthing for the murderer of Nugent's two best friends with the latter next in line for death. Rehearsals of the college show add comedy from William Benedict and Benny Baker. Both are good.

The story by Beulah Marie Dix and Bertram Millhauser and the screen play by Frank Partos, Charles Brackett and Marguerite Roberts is involved, colorful and logical with the exception of one unexplained character.

The theme song, "In the Middle of a Kiss," by Sam Coslow, is good. Elliott Nugent's direction is smooth. Albert Lewis produced.

The excellent cast includes Mary Nash, Kent Taylor, William Frawley, Johnny Downs, Douglas Blackley, Joyce Compton, Sam Hinds, Douglas Woods, Margaret Armstrong, Edith Arnold, Helena Phillips Evans and Mary Ellen Brown. This is a good, average offering.

Production Code Seal No. 858. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Tango Bar"

(Paramount)

Despite its stereotyped story, this production, made by Paramount's Spanish producing unit and starring Carlos Gardel, should offer a gay time to those familiar with the language of its players, thanks to its gloss, its fine photography, the capability of the cast, the sumptuousness of its settings and its satisfactory musical content.

Gardel, teamed with Rosita Moreno in one of those romances given plenty of obstacles to hurdle before the road to happiness is reached, sings a quartet of tunes, several of them tango numbers.

Gardel and Miss Moreno fall in love at first sight on a ship bound for Spain. The girl, a dancer, is under the influence of a crooked gambler, in one of whose shady deals she has become involved inadvertently.

The story is concerned primarily with Gardel's efforts to free the girl from the bond that holds her to the villain. The girl tries unsuccessfully several times to break away, but at the end with the help of Gardel she has thrown over the yoke. There are a number of amusing incidents worked into the story that add to the entertainment.

The film is without English titles.

In the supporting cast are Tito Lusiardo and Enrique de Rosas, among others. John Reinhardt directed.

No production code seal. Running time, 61 minutes. "G."

"What Price Crime"

(Syndicate Exchanges)

The "G Men" are in again, this time trying to break up a gang robbing government warehouses of munitions and selling them to other crooks. It's all fairly exciting but certainly not up to the production standards nor has it the entertainment values of preceding films of this type.

The yarn has Charles Starrett assigned to find the racketeers who killed a watchman and robbed a government storehouse. In order to get in with Noel Madison, who is suspected of being the leader of the crooks and who is interested in prizefighters, he enters the ring to become the leading contender for the title. Madison buys his contract and introduces him to his sister, Virginia Cherrill. Romance blooms between the two, but Starrett, now on the inside, uncovers the inforrmation he seeks and in a shooting finale the gang is captured and Madison killed. Miss Cherrill realizes Starrett only did his duty and marries him for a happy ending.

Others in the cast are Charles Delaney, Jack Mulhall, Nina Guilbert, Henry Roquemore and Gordon Griffith. Albert Herman directed. Photography of Harry Forbes fair.

Production Code Seal No. 840. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

(Additional review on page 8)

Short Subjects

"Chain Letter Dimes"

(M-G-M)

A timely and interesting short subject is this kidding explanation of the current chain letter craze. The film seems to be trying to explain what the new fad is all about, but Pete Smith's remarks and some of the trick shots that accompany his cracks will have audiences laughing so that they will be apt to miss the point of it all.

This film should do well, and exhibitors would profit by playing it up big while the chain letter craze lasts. It should be played as soon as possible.

Production Code Seal, No. 883. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Happy Little Monkeys"

(Harmon-Ising-M-G-M)

Harmon-Ising's "The Happy Little Monkeys" is one of the cleverest of the series of their color cartoons. It shows the monks who "see no evil, think no evil, speak no evil" tempted by a leering red devil. When they weaken, and seem in danger of the leaping flames of inferno, story books open, famous characters including Rip Van Winkle, Tarzan, Boy Scouts and scores of others rush to the rescue. Lap dissolves of color and line are brilliant technical achievements. This one will be talked about, and is worthy of special billing.

"Memories and Melodies"

(FitzPatrick-M-G-M)

This short subject has two qualities that should put it over big everywhere, some astounding natural color photography and the music of Stephen Foster.

The story, built around an incident in Foster's life, is photographed against the background of a Kentucky plantation in the Civil War period. Especially impressing are the renditions of Foster's songs by a negro chorus.

This film is highly recommended. Production Code Seal, No. 802. Running time, 16 mins. "G."

which he is now at work ready for the new season.

Goldwyn, it is reported authoritatively, feels that only two more pictures will be needed to complete a satisfactory schedule for U.A., inasmuch as 20th Century produced six last year, Goldwyn, three, and Chaplin one, making a total of nine.

There is talk to the effect that Walt Disney has been offered a producer franchise.

With the approval of Henry Duffy, sponsor of her stage engagement in "Coquette," Miss Pickford has been prevailed upon to end her tour in the play with the termination of her Portland engagement. She agreed owing to present press of business and left for Portland last night by plane, being due back here on Sunday. The canceled engagements cover Denver, Colorado Springs, Kansas City, Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio.

The cancellation of her stage appearances makes it possible for Miss Pickford to attend a meeting of U. A. directors and stockholders in New York on June 20. It is not revealed whether Schenck or a representative of Art Cinema will attend. Miss Pickford, Chaplin, Goldwyn and Douglas Fairbanks are expected to be present in person or by proxy.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Binding of the Swedish duty on American films at its present rate of 15.8 crowns per kilogram is seen by the Department of Commerce as one of the advantages to accrue to the United States from the reciprocal trade agreement signed May 25, which becomes operative 30 days after approval by the Swedish Riksdag.

Looking 'Em Over

"Alibi Ike"

(Warners)

Exhibitors that exploit this picture properly should do well. It deals with baseball and tieups with local teams, now that the leagues are beginning to hit their full stride, should aid business.

Joe E. Brown fans will laugh more than ever over his antics and any person liking baseball should appreciate them.

Brown tops his list of characterizations here as Ring Lardner's famous pitcher, "Alibi Ike." Olivia de Haviland, William Frawley, Roscoe Karns, Ruth Donnelly, Eddie Shubert, Paul Horney and Joseph Crehorn round out the cast.

The yarn concerns Brown's debut with the Chicago Cubs as a pitcher. He runs wild on the field and around the hotel with the team. Karns is his nemesis, continually heckling. When Brown becomes engaged to Miss de Haviland he breaks up the romance with his gags. Then Brown, despondent, gets mixed up with crooked gamblers but all ends well.

Director Ray Enright is to be commended for his handling of Lardner's story and his timing of the numerous comic situations. The photography of Arthur Todd is excellent. This one should have no trouble at the box-office where Brown registers.

He stressed the point that exhibitors should buy their product on the merits of each picture and not on the reputation of the producer or distributor.

Following Brandt were Weeks and Lee. They outlined the tentative selling programs to be initiated in the fall with the 16 Star Spangled Specials and announced a few of the plans to be incorporated in the fall selling campaign.

While part of the money would be used for the examination of 350,000 income returns which the normal force of the bureau is said to be unable to handle, much of the sum would be used for a special investigation in 20 metropolitan areas of industries subject to certain excise taxes, including that on admissions.

Industry Eyes On Washington For Guidance

substitute for NRA to avert business chaos.

The Industry & Business Committee for NRA Extension, meeting in New York on Wednesday, and representing 150 groups operating under codes, wired the President a copy of a resolution which reported instances of "chiseling and cut-throat practices, so common prior to NRA, which ultimately means to the producer reducing wages and increasing hours" and called upon the Administration to enact new legislation "as promptly as possible."

In the film industry sentiment favoring the development of some new form of self regulation appeared to be increasing, but, in the absence of definite and official guidance, actual moves in this direction were regarded as premature and futile. With the breakdown of NRA and the nullification of the film code, unfair trade practices were left without check-rein except where specifically covered in sales contracts now in force.

Danger of Harm Present

Taking stock of the restrictions imposed upon the industry under the code, it became apparent that without the code unscrupulous operators in production, distribution or exhibition could easily throw large sections of the business into confusion without fear of an immediate accounting.

Without the code, distributors are free to offer inducements to breach contracts with competitors; to effect sales by threat, coercion or intimidation; to substitute stars, directors, authors, books or plays for those scheduled in contracts; to sell indiscriminately to non-theatrical accounts; to tie in shorts and newsreels with feature sales, or to designate playdates not specified in contracts.

Exhibitors, except where contracts specifically provide otherwise, could be deprived of rejection privileges, even on grounds of the picture's "unsuitability" for exhibition on a certain day or in a certain locality; he could be deprived of the 10 per cent cancellation privilege; overbuying goes unrestricted; reduced admissions and giveaways are unchecked except where banned by state law; clearance and zoning schedules are nullified; grievance and arbitration boards are dissolved along with all of the code machinery.

No Restrictions on "Raiding"

Producers may negotiate for the services of other producers under contract without restriction; they may offer inducements, even in the way of "unreasonable and excessive" payments to talent employed by competitors, as a result of the elimination of the star and talent raiding restrictions of the code; the Agency Committee is disbanded and agents guilty of unscrupulous trade contact may be dealt with without penalty, and defamation or intimidation of competitors is without restriction.

In addition, the general, basic provisions of N.I.R.A. are suspended, including those on maximum hours and minimum wages, child labor bans and the right to collective bargaining.

Voluntary Use of Codes Is Seen as a Stop Gap

authorizes the President to "enter agreements with and to approve voluntary agreements between and among persons engaged in a trade or industry, labor organization, and trade or industrial organizations, associations or groups relating to any trade or industry."

By translating the codes into voluntary agreements, it is pointed out, they can be retained practically unchanged, since Section 5 of the law, providing for the suspension of the anti-trust statutes, would still be applicable. The court did not rule upon the validity of such suspension.

Reports to Washington indicate that in a number of industries a large proportion of the members are anxious that some sort of code be retained, fearing that otherwise there will be an era of price-cutting which will force wages down and precipitate labor difficulties and depress business. In no other manner, it is declared, can this code protection be secured, since the court definitely ruled that the Government cannot impose codes under the act as originally written, nor, under any circumstances, undertake to control intrastate activities not indissolubly linked with interstate commerce.

While it is admitted that under voluntary codes the Government would have no power of enforcement and any control of intrastate activities would have to be secured by the free acceptance thereof by employers, it is believed in Administration circles that business generally is willing to accept such regulation as a preferable alternative to unrestrained competition, at least for such time as may be necessary for the Administration to devise and secure the enactment of legislation to succeed the Recovery Act.

The plan is considered purely as a stop gap and to bridge the period until legislation could be enacted. It is suggested that a simple resolution could be adopted by Congress extending temporarily those provisions of the Recovery Act not invalidated by the court decision. The new legislation, there were indications today, might take the form of a measure transferring the administration and enforcement of fair trade practice provisions to the Federal Trade Commission and extending the suspension of agreements there made.
the anti-trust statutes to cover the

This, however, would not solve the major problem which confronts the Administration of safeguarding the benefits secured for labor through the maximum hour, minimum wage and child labor provisions. There it is faced with the present apparent impossibility of writing a law which would cover labor engaged in intrastate commerce, in view of the prohibition thereon laid down by the Supreme Court. So far, it appears that the only control of the labor situation lies in the voluntary action of industry.

The need for quick action on this phase of the problem is considered imperative. Delay, it is feared, would be fatal, since any prolonged suspension of code provisions would result in a gradual breaking away from hour and wage limitations. In asking industry voluntarily to regulate labor conditions under Section 4 of the Recovery Act, Administration officials believe they would have the weight of public opinion behind them and that this would be sufficient to keep the great majority of employers in line.

So far as the trade practice provisions are concerned, it is said, they can be handled by the Federal Trade Commission under its trade practice submittal policy, with or without further suspension of the anti-trust laws, and while they might have to be revised if this suspension was not extended and confined to unfair methods of competition, it is believed satisfactory agreements could readily be drawn up for practically every industry.

Seals Off Films

Hollywood, May 30.—With the nullification of NRA, producers are eliminating the 15-foot flashes of the code seal from pictures. An estimated saving of $60,000 or more per year is expected to result.

The code seals use approximately 10 seconds running time. At the current rate of six cents per foot for raw stock, developing and printing, the cost would be 90 cents per seal. For 125 prints, the average domestic release, the cost would be $122.50 per production. On the basis of 500 features annually, the industry expends $61,250 per year for the display of the seals.

The American Federation of Actors released a statement Wednesday declaring the organization to be on record as "strongly opposed to any reduction of minimum wages for vaudeville, cabaret and outdoor amusement actors."

"The AFA," the statement declared, "feels that the minimum wages established by the film code constituted a bare living wage and any efforts to use the collapse of the NRA to further exploit variety actors will be opposed and fought with every weapon within our means."

The organization urges the passage of the Wagner-Connery Disputes Bill in Congress.

Sue to Release Films

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—A suit has been filed here in U. S. District Court in behalf of Nasser Bros. and Sam Levin Theatres against every film exchange in San Francisco demanding the release of all features impounded through cease and desist orders of Campi. The plaintiffs contend the nullification of codes nullifies the legality of the board rulings. A suit was also filed charging infringement against approximately 100 local theatres in behalf of Affiliated Theatres.

hard hit by the decision. Those working for a livelihood must earn more than a bare living if theatres are to prosper.

"I think further study of the decision will show that it is not as sweeping and drastic as it seems at first. My opinion is that Congress will work up something to replace it."

departure. One had it he was going to tie up with one of the major studios. Paramount has been mentioned as well as RKO Radio. Other stories had him going to confer with producers on maintenance of wage and hour provisions of the NRA code, but this is denied in the east. Jack L. Warner, upon his arrival from England Tuesday night, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY his studio would continue to operate four shifts six hours each as heretofore.

Call Off Chicago Hearing

CHICAGO, May 30.—Following instructions to neither receive nor act upon complaints pending developments as a result of the Supreme Court decision, a session of the grievance board scheduled Tuesday to hear the Essaness move to restrain Loew building here was postponed indefinitely.

All other activities of the code boards have been suspended and speculation is rife as to the effect of the decision on trade practices.

There is also some apprehension over the possible effects on box-offices of relaxed control in other industries over wage levels. Exhibitors are about evenly divided on whether the death of the NRA will be beneficial or detrimental to box-offices.

Ohio Turns to State Code

COLUMBUS, May 30.—A quick survey of the Ohio situation indicates that exhibitors contemplate no immediate change in hours and wage scales pending a clarification of the situation, in accordance with suggestions of local Chambers of Commerce.

Code boards have suspended operations in accordance with wired instructions.

Governor Davey is hopeful that some form of code regulation can be continued in this state under the Ohio act modeled after the NIRA. O. W. L. Coffin, administrator, is working on the idea.

Originally scheduled to become inoperative 60 days from June 16, the measure passed by the Legislature recently extended the act. It is now awaiting Governor Davey's signature, in spite of the fact that a Cincinnati court recently declared the old act invalid in a case involving an exhibitor charged with paying operators less than the code scale.

No Changes in Virginia

RICHMOND, May 30.—No changes in working conditions or wages are expected in Virginia theatres as a result of the Supreme Court decision.

"We intend to stick by the principles of the NRA code," said Elmer H. Brient, secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Virginia.

Academy Agreements Not Hit by Decision

HOLLYWOOD, May 30.—Outlawing of NRA by the Supreme Court will not affect agreements reached for the benefit of workers by the Academy, it is held here. The Academy will continue as an independent organization, its officials say, and will keep on with the four agreements affecting studio workers. These are: agreement on free lance players; writers' code, directors' code, and conciliation and arbitration board.

Memorial Day is the first of six holidays on which players with weekly contracts will collect pay without working under the new studio Academy working agreements.

Some of the employes of the local code offices have already started looking for new jobs. Two take new posts on Monday.

K. C. Reactions Varied

KANSAS CITY, May 30.—The majority of exhibitors here seem pleased, or at least not much disconcerted, and the majority of distributors appear somewhat grieved at the death of the Blue Eagle from the double barreled shotgun blast fired Monday by the Supreme Court.

"One thing is definite," said Irwin Dubinsky of Dubinsky Brothers, "we now can run our business as we see fit."

"I think the NRA was a great thing, but feel it didn't give the individual enough leeway in business.

"The way I take it, the Supreme Court's action wipes out every action taken under the NRA. Code violators who paid fines, apparently, will be entitled to recover from the government. Even those stopped by operation of the code from carrying out certain plans—bank night, etc.—why won't they be entitled to recover damages from the government?

"Naturally we are interested in what the film business now will do. Some companies provided for arbitration in their contracts at the beginning of the present season, but a few, seeing that the NRA completely covered the situation, eliminated them. Will we go back to the film boards of trade?

"Although defeat of the NRA makes non-effective the present Kansas City schedule, it might very well be continued," Dubinksy feels. The schedule was worked out by film companies on a plan which followed closely the original schedule set up by the clearance board.

"The industry was paying little attention to the code, anyway," commented Jay Means, I.T.O. president and operator of the Oak Park and Bagdad. "Practically all exhibitors had grown restless under the code, and experienced a feeling of relief at the Supreme Court's decision, not so much because they were opposed to the code—many of them, in fact, favored it—but because chiseling was going on and they felt the restraint of the code under such circumstances was unfair."

Means doesn't look for any "wide-open season of bad trade practices. Bank nights, cash nights, etc., are fizzling out of their own weight or are working, depending on natural economic factors and not the code."

Grace Gannon, code secretary here, has notified members of the grievance and clearance boards that no further meetings will be held or action taken until further notice from Campi.

Golden Is Still Hopeful

Commenting on the U. S. Supreme Court's decision invalidating NRA codes, Edward Golden, alternate for W. Ray Johnston on the Campi setup, says:

"When the code was created we approached the situation with hope. Now that the U. S. Supreme Court has said there is no code, there is still hope."

Frisco Boards Suspend

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Both code boards here have suspended all activity.

Passage of Sunday Bill Seen in Penn.

HARRISBURG, May 30.—Prospects for passage of the Sunday theatre opening bill are considered bright by its legislative backers. As favorably reported to the house it contains the original referendum provision permitting municipalities to decide whether theatres shall open after 2 o'clock. In addition, it has two amendments. One requires one day a week rest for employes and the other increases the fine for violations from $50 to $100.

The bill has been made a special order of business for Tuesday. It will come up for third and final reading.

Passage in the Senate of bills permitting Sunday polo and exhibition tennis matches has inspired the prediction by Assemblyman Schwartz that the bill will go through the Senate.

To Hold Trade Showings

Alliance Pictures Corp., a subsidiary of B.I.P. and headed by Arthur Dent, will show 10 pictures to the trade next week at the Chanin Auditorium starting Monday. The new 4th issue of THE MARCH OF TIME brings to the screen three fast-moving, dramatic sequences: the "inside" on Washington politicians, the truth about Russia and the Pacific "war games"... all news subjects that can't fail to draw audiences from coast to coast.

THE MARCH OF TIME for June is backed by advertising campaigns in newspapers, on the air with "spot" broadcasting, and in national magazines.

Each month's issue of "The Newsmagazine of the Screen" spells bigger Box Office for theatres showing it. If you want details, write MARCH OF TIME DISTRIBUTORS, R. K. O. Building, New York City.

Mae West Top Draw in K. C.; Gets $14,000

KANSAS CITY, May 30.—Strong bills at downtown first runs and heavy exploitation zoomed the week's aggregate gross to $48,000, a red letter figure for Kansas City. "Goin' to Town," given a big campaign, made the best comparative showing, $14,000 in nine days of a 16-day run at the Newman where $7,700 is normal for the period.

"G-Men," at the Mainstreet, was another leader, taking $14,300 against par of $8,000. It was held. Despite potent competition, the Midland garnered $9,500 on "Les Miserables," exceeding average by $1,500. The Tower's $7,500 for "Mr. Dynamite" and stage show was $500 above par.

"Baboona" disappointed at $2,700, below the Uptown's normal. Personal appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson the opening day helped materially.

Transfer of Boston Met Gets Court O. K.

BOSTON, May 30.—The Metropolitan, largest house in New England, will be taken over by a subsidiary of New England Theatres, Inc., under a 10-year lease. Judge Hugh D. McLellan of the U. S. District Court has confirmed the report of Arthur Black, master in the reorganization proceedings of Metropolitan Building, Inc., and approved the plan of reorganization. The approval is dependent upon the filing of the necessary assents by creditors and the confirmation of the lease by the court after it has been presented in final form.

Under the scheme, the Metropolitan will be held by New England Theatres, Inc., at a graduated rental of 12½ per cent of the first $1,100,000 of gross, less admission tax; 15 per cent of the next $400,000, and 17½ per cent of all receipts over $1,500,000. The minimum for the first five years will be $156,000. The weekly average is estimated at $22,000, although hit shows often lift the gross above $35,000.

Reorganized Paramount may be rid of the shackles of court and trustee supervision within two weeks, it was stated by Alfred A. Cook, counsel for the debtor, at the special meeting of stockholders of the company yesterday. The meeting approved a proposal to change the number of directors from 20 to not less than 16 and not more than 18 and for the classification of the directors into one, two and three-year terms of service, and also approved the proposed changes in the capital stock of the company.

The meeting adjourned until today to permit the filing of the change in directorate with the secretary of state which must be done prior to the election of new directors. Tomorrow's

Paramount and RKO Talk Product Deal

Preliminary discussions on a product deal between Paramount and RKO have been started. The talks are expected to wind up with a new Paramount franchise to replace the one which expires Aug. 1.

Under the present 10-year franchise, RKO had the right to cancel on 15 months' notice. This clause in the contracts has been complied with and the deal ends at midnight July 31.

Fox Contract Case to Get Fall Hearing

Supreme Bench to Rule On Muller's Fight

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Legality of film contracts containing an arbitration provision will be considered by the U. S. Supreme Court at its fall term as a result of an order today granting Fox Film's petition for review of a decision of the Minnesota Supreme Court holding the contract void.

The matter had previously been brought before the court by Fox, but the original appeal was dismissed February 18, on the ground that the writ of certiorari previously announced had been "improvidentially granted" because no final judgment had been entered.

The case was returned to the Supreme Court as a result of the de-

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—Upon his arrival here late last night Al Lichtman, vice-president of United Artists, said his mission was to confer with U. See Break in Chicago Front

Chicago, June 3.—The Coston circuit, controlled by Warners, is understood to have closed a product deal with M-G-M covering current and next season's releases.

The Coston theatres were part of the Windy City group, including Essanness and houses booked by the buying combine headed by Aaron Saperstein, which have persistently refused to accede to Metro's percentage and preferred playing time terms.

Whether or not the Coston deal, just closed, presages a change on that front was an open question yesterday with no answers. The contract, however, was viewed by those familiar with the situation as indicating the first break in the exhibitor line.

Schenck Plan For Fox Met Is Approved

Formal court approval was given the amended Joseph M. Schenck-Fox Theatres' reorganization plan for Fox Metropolitan Playhouses by Federal Judge Julian W. Mack following a hearing yesterday on final amendments to the plan. The hearing was enlivened by the near-comic presentation by J. Herbert Stern, who described himself as a "financier," of a new offer for Fox Met of cash and securities representing 100 cents on the dollar.

Stern's offer, he said, would give Fox Met bondholders $200 cash and $800 in new 4½ per cent, 10-year, convertible securities for each $1,000 bond presently outstanding. The new securities, he said, would be convertible into 40 shares of new common

Move Studied For Voluntary Industry Code

Reactions to Be Sought; Campi to Liquidate

A voluntary intra-industry machinery, perhaps predicated on ground covered in certain of the clauses in the now illegal NRA code, may follow in the wake of the Supreme Court's recent decision.

Nebulous, but under consideration sufficiently to have been discussed at a special meeting of Campi yesterday when the affairs of that body were ordered into immediate liquidation, the plan is understood to call for a general industry survey through the facilities of Campi in an effort to learn the reactions of the trade at large. The fact-finding effort will take about three weeks to complete after which additional meetings will be held.

"Immediate and economical" liquidation of Campi was authorized at yesterday's meeting and placed in the hands of the standing finance committee composed of Nathan Yamins, cision of the Minnesota court on April 11 upholding the contention of A. B. Muller, an exhibitor, that the contract was illegal in its entirety because it contained an arbitration provision and the company therefore could not collect for pictures which had been refused by the exhibitor.

Fox Contract Case to Get Fall Hearing

Two contracts were involved, calling for the delivery of 46 pictures with an aggregate rental of $1,838. It was contended by Fox that Muller refused to accept or play or pay the license fee for any of them.

Muller contended that the contracts were formulated as the result of a combination and conspiracy between the 10 large producers and distributors in violation of the anti-trust laws; were in restraint of trade and interstate commerce, and illegal and void. It was argued that the printed portion of the contracts was substantially the same as the contract construed in the Paramount case in New York known as the arbitration clause, which there had been held illegal and unenforceable.

The Minnesota decision held that the illegality of the arbitration clause permeated and voided the whole contract.

In addition to the seven per cent preferred stock, KAO has outstanding 1,206,381 shares of an authorized issue of 2,000,000 shares.

Y., 25,600 shares, or 39.81 per cent, of the seven per cent stock.

Directors' remunerations during 1934 as reported by the company showed that Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the board, received $11,245; L. E. Thompson, president from Sept. 6, $25,140; David Sarnoff, $140; M. J. Meehan, nothing; M. H. Aylesworth, $320.

The three high salaries paid last year were Thompson's; N. J. Blumberg, vice-president, $23,830, and A. E. Half of the $50,000 and 40 per cent of the additional 10 per cent was to go to Swope, with the rest divided among those named by him.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Love Me Forever"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—Even though Grace Moore sings beautifully and with superb charm, and Victor Schertzinger directed with expert artistry, "Love Me Forever" falls short of "One Night of Love."

Opening strong with "El Bacio" in an interesting ice skating combination of song and rhythmic action, the film concentrates less on the romance between Miss Moore and Robert Allen and more on the heart effect of a middle-aged gambler, Leo Carrillo, who finances the songbird's career and is thwarted in love by her rise to fame. The climax finds Carrillo rubbed out by a rival gangster for non-payment of gambling debts as he listens to her triumph at the Metropolitan. It's Carrillo's picture.

Miss Moore's singing registers strikingly at the opening and later with the "Neapolitan Love Song" and an aria from "Rigoletto," but at the finale, singing from "La Boheme," the duet is thrown to Michael Bartlett, tenor. Minus popular melody, "La Boheme" lacks the showmanship punch for a hurrah finish.

All the performances of the cast are good with Carrillo overshadowing the others. Allen in a small part, nevertheless challenges Hollywood's romantic leads. Luis Alberni, as a comic; Spring Byington, as Miss Moore's maid, and Douglas Dumbrille, heavy, are also good. Bartlett, in for one song, should go places.

Production values are not all that could be desired, with the photography good but not startling.

The musical accompaniment is well focused by Schertzinger's sympathetic coordination. The story is by the director, screen play by Jo Swerling and Sidney Buchman.

Scheduled for trimming and revision, the finished production should ride on Miss Moore's reputation and on the strength of her previous vehicle, even though "Love Me Forever" may leave audiences wishing to applaud more of Miss Moore's thrilling singing and root for more young romance.

No production code seal. Running time, 101 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Mimi"

(Alliance)

Selling efforts of American exhibitors must, of course, be centered on Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in this blend of music, romance, tragedy and spectacle. Gertrude Lawrence's name also is known.

"Mimi," the title footage states, is "freely adapted from Munger's 'La Boheme.'" Puccini's music is used effectively at intervals, with a song by Miss Lawrence and the "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffman," the latter played by a full orchestra as the background music for a masked ball.

Much of the background is laid in the Latin quarter of Paris in the era of candles and gaslit theatres. Mimi, played by Miss Lawrence, deserts a wealthy actor, Lamotte (Austin Trevor) and joins Rodolphe, an aspiring dramatist (Fairbanks). Her love for him and her faith in his talent inspire him to work, and instill some purpose into his aimless friends, a painter, a poet and a musician. Her plea to Lamotte gets a hearing for his play, "La Boheme."

In the first flush of Rodolphe's success, Sidonia, a well known actress (Diana Napier) stirs Mimi's jealousy. In an angry moment at the masked ball she decides to go back to Lamotte, but changing her mind, flees in a rainstorm. She passes away on the opening night of the play.

The moods contrast sharply, the pace shifts interestingly. There are gripping emotional moments. In some of these Fairbanks is deficient. It is an ambitious effort upon which plenty of money has been spent. The photography is exceptional at times. Two stronger principals could have raised it from merely a good picture to an outstanding attraction.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, about 95 minutes. "A."

Mo. Session Ends; Tax Is Increased

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—After the longest but one regular session in the state's history, the Missouri legislature has adjourned without passing any measures affecting the industry except the one per cent sales tax.

Gov. Guy B. Park has indicated he will sign the sales tax measure, which will produce an estimated $10,000,000 to $11,000,000 annually.

Just how exhibitors will collect the one per cent on admissions, especially on dime nights, is something that will have to be worked out by the state auditor. The tax, which will become effective 90 days after it has been signed by the Governor, must be passed on to the consumer.

As it was, there were numerous scares during the session. One of the most serious of these was a drastic censorship bill.

Killed also were a footage tax and an SRO bill; a 10 per cent admission tax; a bill prohibiting bank night and cash night specifically, and covering also other methods of reducing admissions; chain store tax that would have affected theatres; a bill providing for licensing of billboards by counties.

A bill imposing taxes of from $3 to $15 a year on slot machines and vending devices was passed and signed.

Say Ohio May Drop Jump in Censor Fee of newsreels from the state has been threatened, it is understood.

The Legislature recently passed a bill increasing censorship fees on features from $1 to $3 per 1,000-foot reel. Newsreels previously had been declared exempt from censorship, and were not included. Subsequently, however, it was decided that they be returned to censorship requirements.

Cal. Session Near End

SACRAMENTO, June 3.—The Legislature has started what is expected to be the last week of its longest session to date with the one per cent gross transactions tax, income and other nuisance levies scheduled for a battle on the floors of both branches.

Hollywood is backing the transactions tax. It is predicted it will pass the House and be killed in the Senate. It is also expected a compromise income tax will be passed with rates about one-fourth of the Federal rates.

Russians at M. P. Club

Russian film problems will be detailed today at the weekly forum at the M. P. Club. B. Shumiatsky, head of the Russian picture industry, will headline the group which will speak. V. Verlinsky, president of Amkino; F. Ermler, director of "Shame" and "Peasants"; Y. Reisman, director of "Men on Wings"; V. Nilsen, dean of the Soviet cameramen; G. Melamed, vice-consul of the U.S.S.R., and Boris Morros are others slated for talks.

meeting will reelect eight of the present directors and eight new ones, who will constitute the new board of 16, and will also vote on a proposal to change the name of the company from Paramount Publix Corp. to Paramount Pictures, Inc., and to pass on other proposed changes in the new charter and by-laws.

With Adolph Zukor, Paramount president, acting as chairman of the meeting, both provisions put to the stockholders yesterday were carried without dissenting votes. The proposal to reduce the capital stock from $40,000,000 to $845,631, to reduce the par value of the common stock from $10 each to $1 each, and to reduce the number of shares of common from 4,000,000 to 845,631, was approved by a vote of 2,326,661 shares. The second proposal changing the number of directors was approved by a vote of 2,324,603 shares, and none dissenting.

The reduction in the number of shares outstanding is provided for in the Paramount reorganization plan under which stockholders of the old company are given ¼ share of new stock for each share of the old. The changes in the directorate provisions specify that four directors will serve for one year, six for two years and six for three years, and that there will be annual elections thereafter.

3,211,119 Shares Outstanding

According to the company's records, there are outstanding 3,211,119 shares of Paramount stock. The proxy committee represented 217,288 shares, stockholders present in person represented 5,974 shares, and the stockholders' committee, of which Cook is also counsel, 2,110,222 shares, or a total of 2,327,484 represented at the meeting, which is in excess of 72 per cent.

Cook stated that it is hoped to have an order directing the trustees of Paramount to turn over the assets and properties to the new company ready for signing by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe on June 17. This would end the company's rehabilitation processes.

In reply to a query put to Zukor by a stockholder as to the future business plans of the company, Cook intervened to say that "Zukor is now in the hands of arrogant and repulsive lawyers, but a report will be made shortly. We are biding our time," he said, "and when the proper time comes the stockholders will be advised of our plans. We are not closing our eyes to the interests of stockholders."

Later, Cook said that it is hoped to have the new securities of the company ready for delivery to creditors and stockholders by the first week in July. They are being prepared for printing by the American Bank Note Co., he said, to avoid the issuance of temporary certificates.

There is a possibility that the new board to be elected today may meet later in the day to elect officers, or, again, the meeting may be deferred for several days, Cook said.

Fred K. Conn, holder of about 4,500 shares, came from Tampa to attend the session. Also in attendance were Barney Balaban, Norman Collyer, Gerald Brooks, Eugene Zukor, Walter Cokell, A. E. Dillenbeck and H. A. Levy. Bernard Lubin and A. Hollander served as inspectors.

Following the meeting, Cook remarked that the proceedings of the day were less interesting than a coming Paramount picture he had seen previewed a few days before.

Indications in Paramount creditor circles now are that Zukor may assume business direction of the Paramount studio, serving in a financial advisory capacity to the new Paramount board and acting as principal liaison between the studio and home office. In this event, four candidates are brought to the fore as possible successors of Zukor as president. They are John E. Otterson, head of Erpi; George Schaefer, Paramount general manager; Matthew Sloan, head of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, and Harold Talbott, financier and chairman of the executive committee of Chrysler Motors. Of the four, Otterson is regarded as having by far the largest amount of creditor support.

Ask Action for Allied

An order to show cause why Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe should not approve the more than $5,000,000 claim settlement of Allied Owners Corp. against Paramount was filed with the Federal court yesterday by the Paramount trustees for hearing on June 6.

The Allied Owners' claim settlement is embodied in the Paramount reorganization plan but has never been individually approved by the court due to the inability of the Allied Owners' trustees to complete the reorganization of that company. Approval of the settlement now is essential to the winding up of Paramount's reorganization. The Allied settlement calls for the issuance to the company of new Paramount securities in settlement of a $5,000,000 claim, the payment of $150,000 in cash, the purchase of the Alabama at Birmingham, and the leasing of the Paramount, Brooklyn; Paramount, Fremont, O., and Paramount, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Court to Study Yoost Appeal

A petition for leave to appeal from Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe's order confirming the settlement of Erpi's $1,900,000 claim against Paramount was made to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here yesterday by William Yoost, a Paramount bondholder, and taken under advisement by the court.

Yoost has opposed the settlement's provisions calling for renewal of recording license agreements with Erpi, contending that the fees are "exorbitant." His petition to appeal the order was opposed by counsel for the Paramount trustees. A decision from the court is expected within the next few weeks.

NRA Ends; Ups Pay

Peru, Ill., June 3.—End of the code has brought a five per cent increase in pay to all employes of E. E. Alger, owner of a circuit of 10 houses. About 100 are affected.

Alger said abolition of the NRA would permit him to operate more profitably without restrictions on competition.

Erpi Men on Stand In Anti-Trust Suit

WILMINGTON, June 3.—R. E. Anderson, Erpi treasurer, and Edwin C. Shriber, of Norfolk, Va., an Erpi sales representative, testified for the defendants today as the Erpi-General Talking Pictures' anti-trust suit trial started its seventh week in U. S. District Court here.

Anderson testified concerning license agreements between Erpi and theatre operators and owners. Questioned concerning previous testimony of Jacob Levin of New York, given by the General Talking Pictures' salesman several weeks ago, Shriber denied there was any discussion with the operators of theatres in Hopewell and Williamsburg, Va., to the effect that unless houses were equipped with Western Electric sound they would be unable to secure pictures such as those of M-G-M. Levin had previously testified that operators of these theatres were satisfied with De Forest sound.

Cleveland Session Off; Board to Act

CLEVELAND, June 3.—The regular meeting of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n., previously announced for June 4, has been postponed indefinitely by order of the board of trustees. Instead of the general meeting, the board will meet on June 4, to confer further on local duals.

It is unofficially stated that an effort will be made to hold duals to one change a week, and that not to be on Sunday. It is also rumored that the association will try to put over a policy whereby no feature picture will be shown on a double feature program at any time that has previously played a downtown seven-day run.

Barnstyn Gets "Tarzan"

J. C. Barnstyn yesterday closed a deal with Ben Cohen of Burroughs Tarzan Enterprises, Inc., for the world rights to "New Adventures of Tarzan," both in feature and serial form. Barnstyn sails today on the Statendam for Holland, where he will spend the next six months with his brother. Cohen is seriously ill at the Hotel Astor and has been ordered by his doctor to spend the next four weeks in bed.

John C. Flinn was empowered to engage Price, Waterhouse & Co. to make an audit of the accounts. The secretarial staffs of the 31 clearance and zoning boards and grievance boards and the Hollywood office are being instructed to transmit all records to a central storage place in New York and leases terminated at the earliest possible date. The secretarial staff will be discontinued June 15.

Legal matters pending before Code Authority and the local boards have been referred to the standing legal committee consisting of Austin C. Keough, chairman; J. Robert Rubin, Willard S. McKay and Yamins.

At the meeting, Rubin acted as chairman and there were present L. E. Thompson, Dan Michalove, Austin C. Keough, Sidney Justin, Bareford, Jack Cohn, E. A. Golden, Charles L. O'Reilly, Yamins, Walter Vincent, Tyree Dillard, Jr., counsel, and Flinn.

During the life of the code, approximately 2,300 cases were heard by the various boards. About 70 people had been on the Campi payroll, 50 in the field and 20 in the home office.

K. C. Bank Night Suit Off

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—The suit of Jack Johnston, Ritz, McPherson, Kan., and R. W. McEwan, bank night distributor for Kansas and Missouri, scheduled for the Federal court last week, will not be taken into court, although the suit will be ready for filing at any time the present situation changes.

Johnston and McEwan were going to seek an injunction to prevent local exchanges from stopping film service to the Ritz on order of the local grievance board.

McEwan reports that a number of exhibitors -who stopped using bank night when the grievance board began ruling against them now are going to use it again. Among these are C. A. Schultz, Commonwealth Theatres, Inc.; Granada, Lawrence, Kan.; Ritz, Chillicothe, Mo.; Strand, Creston, Ia., and Frank Cassil's Rialto, St. Joseph.

Rosenblatt Flies to Capital

LOS ANGELES, June 3. — Sol A. Rosenblatt today flew to Washington, where he will remain the next few weeks cleaning up NRA business. Later he will go to New York to open his own law offices. He stated definitely he would not join Nathan Burkan. Rosenblatt said the NRA's going would affect 60 or 70 on the film code payroll, with 2,400 on other code rosters throughout the country being dropped.

Schenck Plan for Fox Met Approved

stock for each $800 note. There would be 1,000,000 shares of new common authorized, of which 600,000 would be issued at once to Stern and his undisclosed associates and 400,000 shares would be set aside for the exercise of the conversion rights. A minimum of $1,000,000 would be made available to the new Fox Met company under the offer, Stern said.

After hearing Stern's proposal, Judge Mack observed that the plan differed only slightly from the one proposed by Si Fabian, which was rejected by the court as less favorable to Fox Met bondholders than the Schenck-Fox Theatres plan. The court indicated, however, that it would have no objections to Stern's proposal, or any other, being placed before the bondholders for their consideration during the 15-day period in which they may either assent to the Schenck-Fox Theatres' plan or withdraw their bond deposits from the protective committee which will vote its deposits in favor of the Schenck plan. Stern indicated that he would follow this procedure and have copies of his proposal printed and sent to Fox Met bondholders in the hope of eventually obtaining enough support for it to block acceptance of the Schenck plan and obtain the required 25 per cent creditor sponsorship to permit him to formally place his own plan before the court.

Won't Reveal Associates

Stern declined to disclose his associates and when asked by the court what his occupation was, replied "a financier, or whatever you want to call it." He was contemptuous of the cash considerations involved in the Schenck plan, remarking at one juncture that "the money in this is very small—in fact, it's a joke," and plainly showed his irritation over the lengthy legal procedure involved in drawing up a reorganization plan and getting it before the court and creditors.

"Why are you just coming into court with your proposal now?" Judge Mack asked Stern, pointing out that reorganization plans had been under consideration for weeks past.

"I was ready three weeks ago," was the reply, "but Bogue (referring to Morton G. Bogue, of counsel to the Fox Met bondholders' committee) gave me a triple play. He sent me to Kresel (Isidore Kresel, attorney for the Schenck-Fox Theatres' plan) and Kresel sent me to Littlefield" (Walter Littlefield, of counsel for Irving Trust Co., trustee of Fox Met).

At another point, apropos of nothing before the court, Stern declared that "a new deal for the motion picture industry was under way which would result in the entire business being placed in the hands of Rockefeller, through the Chase bank, Floyd B. Odlum's Atlas Corp. and the interests I (Stern) represent. Rockefeller," he said, "already owns Fox, Loew's and RKO. Odlum will get Paramount and some others and we will have the rest of it."

Stern was represented by David W. Kahn, an attorney who figured in several other projected bids for Fox Met a year ago which never materialized. One of these involved a $3,000,000 cash bid for the circuit by interests which were never disclosed. Another reputedly had Joseph Plunkett, former RKO theatre head, figuring in it as a principal. Still another reportedly had Walter Reade and Joseph V. Storrs as proponents.

Following various criticisms and suggestions of the accepted amendments to the Schenck plan, Judge Mack declared that he would enter an order holding the amended plan to be fair and equitable and feasible, and would permit the bondholders' committee to begin soliciting assents to the plan to obtain the necessary two-thirds' creditor affirmation to place the plan in effect. This will be undertaken within the next few days and 15 days will be granted the committee to complete the work. Judge Mack set June 27 as the date on which the committee is to report back and, if the necessary assents are on hand, the plan will be finally affirmed and placed in effect on that date.

No objections to the plan were voiced as a result of Schenck's recent arrangement to become chairman of the board of Fox Film, although the question was raised by Archibald Palmer, bondholders' attorney, as to whether Schenck, in his new position, could make good his agreement, contained in the plan, to furnish Fox Met with the product he controls on "fair" terms.

In reply to this question Kresel, as a representative of Schenck, suggested the possibility that the 20th Century product now that it is to be released by Fox, might well be claimed by Fox Met as covered by the franchise it holds for Fox product.

Goetz to Keep His 20th Century Jobs

the company's new affiliation with Fox, he intimated yesterday upon his arrival from London on the Normandie. He said the production setup will be settled at a powwow to be held on the coast in three weeks and which will be attended by Joseph M. Schenck and S. R. Kent. He was accompanied by his wife. He was away eight weeks, visiting London and Paris, spending most of his time in the former city.

Rufus LeMaire, talent scout for M-G-M and business agent for George Arliss, also arrived on the French liner. He denied reports he had been made a producer by Louis B. Mayer. He said he talked to Mayer over the transatlantic phone and no mention of the job was made.

Both Goetz and LeMaire discovered a new actress, Marcelle Chantel. She leaves with them by plane today for the coast to make tests. If the tests are successful a joint deal for her services will be made. LeMaire also interviewed other talent while abroad and is having tests made of the people in England and sent on to Hollywood. The M-G-M scout asserted that the plays abroad are brutal and there is no material for pictures. Arliss is now working on the first of two films he will make for Gaumont British, the second of which will start in September. He added Arliss has no other contractual obligations.

Max Gordon denied he had closed a deal with M-G-M whereby the film company will participate in financing stage shows produced by him. He admitted there had been discussions, however, but no papers have been signed. He said he was not returning to the coast.

Martin Beck stated that he had done nothing abroad to interest the film industry.

Jack Connolly, general manager of Pathe News, described his trip as an inspection tour of all offices. He was away three weeks, he said, during which time he visited France, Italy and London. He said "The Informer," shown on the boat Sunday night, was the only American film screened.

A. J. Richard of Paramount News made several important changes in the staff abroad, particularly the Paris office, where he installed a new manager. He would not discuss the changes.

Jack Lait, Hearst writer, also came back on the boat.

B. Shumiatsky, head of the Soviet film industry, was accompanied by F. Ermler, director. They plan to leave for Hollywood to study American production ideas.

Newman Will Try Giveaways in K. C.

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—The cause of giveaways in Kansas City will receive a material boost on Tuesday when the Publix Newman, downtown first run, inaugurates screeno. The theatre may adopt other schemes as well, said George S. Baker, manager.

Baker said he was forced to the move by the spread of various schemes among subsequent and neighborhood houses and would abandon giveaways if the others would do likewise.

Other downtown first runs, Loew's Midland, RKO Mainstreet and the Tower, are not planning premiums. The Uptown, neighborhood first run, gives gift stamps along with other Fox Midwest houses.

Operation of Dubinsky's coupon idea at the Liberty. 20-cent subsequent run almost adjacent to the Newman, is credited with clinching the first run's decision to join the parade.

Study Moves to Permit Drafting of New Law

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Possibilities that the President will ask Congress to adjourn at the end of this month to return at the end of the summer for a special session to consider new recovery legislation are seen as further study of the Supreme Court NRA decision develops more fully the difficulties which will be encountered in writing new laws.

In order that the government might not lose the advantage of the trained personnel which has been built up in the NRA, it is proposed that an appropriation be made to care for sala-

Recommendations to M.P.T.O.A. members to voluntarily maintain NRA minimum wage and maximum hour provisions in their theatres were issued on Saturday by Ed Kuykendall, president, following discussions with officers and directors of the organization.

"We propose to prevent by voluntary effort any increase in unemployment or decrease in wages in our theatres pending the solution of the tremendous problems presented by the Supreme Court's NRA decision," Kuykendall said.

Schenck Denies Fox Seeking Complete Ownership of G. B.

By BRUCE ALLAN

London, June 2.—Persistent reports scurrying through the British trade that Fox is negotiating to acquire complete ownership of Gaumont British are denied by Joseph M. Schenck, newly elected chairman of the board of the former company.

Fox is not interested in buying G.B., but in maintaining its current holdings which are understood to be approximately between 45 and 49 per cent.

He added his switch to Fox was actuated by a desire of many years' standing on his part to become associated with Sidney R. Kent and emphasized that complete friendship with all hands prevails in both Fox and United Artists.

Lord Beaverbrook, long dominant factor in the former Provincial Cinematograph Theatres, Ltd., which were subsequently absorbed in the G.B. structure, is reported behind Schenck in his negotiations for the Deutsch-Donada circuits which would become affiliated with the United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., as Schenck explained here on Friday.

Fairbanks Mentioned as Schenck Successor

HOLLYWOOD, June 2.—Election of Al Lichtman to succeed Joseph M. Schenck as president of United Artists would not meet the unanimous accord of all company members, a source close to one of them informed MOTION PICTURE DAILY over the week-end.

Asked if he thought Douglas Fairbanks would be acceptable, this source stated it was his opinion that Fairbanks more than anyone else might bring harmony faster to the company. He believes even Mary Pickford would favor a Fairbanks candidacy and reminded that some years ago the latter was rumored for the presidency. At the same time, this spokesman added he did not think Fairbanks would care about returning to such an active job.

So far there is no visible move on the part of U. A. owners to bid for

Fox Acquires House In Wisconsin Moves

Fond du Lac, of the Retlaw is seen as the first step in a move by Fox in Wisconsin to acquire houses in at least 10 other spots in the state. The Fox has gone dark.

In Milwaukee, a neckwear company, which operated a stand in the Majestic before that house was converted into office space, has leased the lobby of the Garden, formerly operated by L. K. Brin. This may portend the future of that downtown house, except that reports have it the Garden will reopen in the fall under the Fox banner. If this occurs, it will give Fox four houses on the avenue as against one for Warner, one for Standard Theatres, and the independent Riverside, operated by E. J. Weisfeldt.

Independents see in the Fox move of raising admission prices at its Riviera and Tower a plan to make key houses of these neighborhood spots.

ries and wages of the organization during the interim. As things now stand, the NRA will go completely out of existence on June 16.

Thorough consideration of the matter has convinced Administration officials that voluntary codes will not answer the purpose, since they can be nullified by a very few members in any industry who refuse to abide by their conditions. Only a few states have recovery laws of their own and most of those will probably be found unconstitutional on the same ground of excessive delegation of power which nullified the national act. There would, therefore, be no way of keeping intrastate business in line.

Administration leaders point out that the consideration of new legislation framed to meet the objections of the Supreme Court might be a matter of months, and appear to believe that best results could be achieved by giving Congress a vacation while officials drafted new laws.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"No More Ladies"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, June 2.—This modern, sophisticated comedy-drama paraded in swanky settings and sparkling with brilliant nonchalance affords Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery intriguing, sympathetic and highly engaging roles. Irving Thalberg produced handsomely.

Joan and Robert decide to try marriage, knowing their personalities will cross-fire. Miss Crawford believes herself strong enough to hold Montgomery, formerly philandering bachelor credited with starting a chain of broken hearts.

When Montgomery tarries in town, spending the evening with an old flame, Miss Crawford retaliates, invites all his former sweethearts for a week-end party, then leaves, going off with Franchot Tone. Tone, previously divorced because of Montgomery's peccadillos with his wife, brings Bob to his senses and reunites him with Joan.

On this pattern Director Edward H. Griffith has fashioned a production which swings gayly, surfaced with brittleness, undershot with heartache. Florida, cocktail bars, smart homes and fashionable restaurants are visualized.

Miss Crawford in this rises many notches as a finished actress, maintaining stylized pulchritude. The supporting cast of Charlie Ruggles, Montgomery's stewy cousin, and Edna May Oliver, Miss Crawford's blunt grandmother, extracts the utmost from the smart dialogue of the Donald Ogden Stewart-Horace Jackson screen play of A. E. Thomas' stage play.

Strong marquee names, plus the genuine feminine appeal of a story accentuating the heart problems of the young married, give this high box-office rating.

Production Code Seal No. 891. Running time, 89 minutes. "A."

"The Raven"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, June 2.—Re-uniting Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi in this chiller suggested by the Poe poem, Lugosi, mad student but expert surgeon, saves the life of Irene Ware and falls in love with her.

Enraged by the objections of Samuel Hinds, her father, to the match, he plans a gruesome revenge with the aid of Karloff, who is in his power because of an operation he (Lugosi) had performed making Karloff's appearance grotesque. Inviting Miss Ware, Lester Matthews, her fiance, Hinds and others for a week-end visit, he traps them into a pit and pendulum and other Poe-conceived torture devices in his museum cellar. With Miss Ware and Matthews about to be crushed in the walled room and Hinds waiting death from the pendulum, Karloff rebels and frees the victims, shoves Lugosi into the death room and dies from a bullet wound.

Director Louis Friedlander paced the action deftly to maintain suspense throughout, keeping the audience ever conscious of the weird undercurrents. The performance of Miss Ware arouses sympathetic concern for her peril and Karloff and Lugosi breathe fantastic menace at every appearance. The production of David Diamond is always in the mood with credit due the photography by Charles Stumar and the art direction by Albert Dagostino.

The picture will completely satisfy audiences craving thrills and chills. Production Code Seal, No. 790. Running time, 63 minutes. "A."

Gary Cooper Quits Hollywood Hussars

HOLLYWOOD, June 2.—Gary Cooper has resigned from the Hollywood Hussars, stating that an investigation has shown "that the Hussars are not the social group I had thought but the men behind it are trying to organize a national, semi-military organization of political nature."

Col. Arthur Guy Empey, head of the Hussars, in commenting on Cooper's resignation said:

"There is no hard feeling. The organization has outgrown the purpose for which Cooper organized it and intends to expand nationally. Cooper feels he doesn't want to be part of so extensive a body. The Hussars, however, are not a Fascist or a political group."

In the meantime, the Academy has postponed action on the Soviet request for permission to fictionize scripts until the arrival of the delegates.

B. Shumiatsky, head of the Soviet film industry, accompanied by F. Ermler, director of "Shame" and "Peasants," arrives here today on the Normandie.

The New York decision came after it had been reported here that Minnesota Amusement Co. was willing to go along with the independent exhibitors in a refusal to play Radio product unless the Orpheum's policy was changed. Minnesota has contended that it was forced to adopt combination bargain shows at the State in order to meet the Orpheum's competition. The State now is expected to resume a straight film policy on June 13.

All use of star ratings or other similar picture judging symbols will be eliminated from affiliated theatres' advertising matter on pictures released after Saturday. Abandonment of use of the stars applies to all forms of theatre advertising, including publications, marquee, trailers, theatre fronts and lobbies, billboards and programs. It will not apply, however, on pictures released and reviewed prior to today but only now being played in a theatre subscribing to the agreement.

It is reported that numerous independent theatres in the metropolitan territory also are voluntarily eliminating the stars from their advertising. For affiliated theatres, the policy will be a national one.

Roosevelt to Seek New NRA Legislation

Makes Intention Known; Critical of Court

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Sharply critical of the Supreme Court's decision in the NRA case as throwing the country back to "the horse-and-buggy stage," President Roosevelt today indicated that he would accept the challenge of the court and seek new legislation to save the gains made by the Recovery Act without violating the principles laid down this week by the nation's high tribunal.

What form the new legislation will take, it was indicated, has not yet been determined, but it was intimated that the Administration is less concerned with the NRA than with the effect of the decision on the AAA and other agencies, including the SEC.

A series of announcements from the White House, it was said, will deal

Hamrick, FWC Pool Their Seattle, Portland Holdings

SEATTLE, May 31.—John Hamrick, independent first run operator here and in Portland, and Evergreen State Amusements, Fox West Coast subsidiary, have pooled their theatres in both cities.

The deal swings these Hamrick houses into the F.W.C. alignment: Orpheum, Music Box and Blue Mouse. Evergreen operates the Coliseum, 5th Ave. and Paramount. Hamrick recently returned from New York and has been busy with his lawyers since his arrival here.

Frank L. Newman, Jr., former manager of the Paramount, has been switched to the 5th Avenue. Herbert Sobottka goes to the Paramount where he replaces Harry Woodin, resigned.

The Paramount has gone to duals and has dropped vaudeville.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 31.—F.W.C. becomes the dominant theatre factor here through a pool just closed with John Hamrick. His three houses, the Music Box, Blue Mouse and Orpheum, now formidably augment Evergreen State Amusements, the F.W.C. subsidiary, which on its own operates the Paramount, Mayfair, Hollywood and Liberty.

Will Keep His Holdings In U. A. and Remain Theatres' Head

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, May 31.—Joseph M. Schenck will be the "coordinator" of Fox production under his new association which makes him chairman of the board of that company. He will also retain his holdings in United Artists.

In a press interview at the Savoy here today he made these statements and, at the same time, cleared up some of the mystery surrounding his sudden switch to Fox. In summary, he made it apparent that he proposes concentrating his personal activities on Fox-20th Century without relinquishing his substantial interest in United Artists.

Winfield Sheehan's status as vice-president in charge of Fox production continues without change, while Darryl F. Zanuck, who is to bear the title of a Fox vice-president, joins the ranks as an additional producer, Schenck declared.

It is his intention to continue as the active head of the United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., Schenck made it clear. The purpose of his trip chiefly concerns theatres and a long-impending deal which will tie U. A. with the Deutsch and Donada circuits, not Fox.

The object, according to Schenck, is to keep the circuits independent and away from any domination by either Gaumont British or Associated British Cinemas.

Schenck to Be "Coordinator" At Fox Studio

the speculation following his association with Fox that London Films and British and Dominions, both releasing through United Artists, might eventually be found allied with Fox, were discounted by Schenck's comment that these companies definitely will continue their present releasing arrangements.

Insofar as the deal with the Deutsch and Donada interests is concerned, the plan provides for the current management to continue. Schenck or Maurice Silverstone, the latter U. A.'s managing director in England, will join the board. United Artists Theatre Circuit will supply the finances and United Artists, the distributing company, will benefit by additional outlets for its product.

Schenck also added that none af the United Artists personnel will join Fox.

Aside from his self-described position as production "coordinator," he announced a big production expansion program for Fox in England, an activity, incidentally, which, Schenck added, he will take charge of personally. Fox, under this plan, proposes to finance independent producers, concentrating activity at the new Korda studio as well as the B. & D. plant.

Twelve a Year Planned

Twelve a year will be made at a minimum of $400,000 a picture, which Schenck said he viewed as the minimum negative cost for the type of product he has in mind and all of them will be aimed at the American market. He was extremely candid about Fox's current production effort here when he declared quota films are not pictures. Until this phase of his new activities crystallizes, it is anticipated, therefore, that Fox's proposed buy of the Wembley studio probably will be held up.

Exactly what he had reference to was not amplified, but Schenck, at one point, made this statement:

"If Gaumont would distribute through Fox, we would take British pictures from them."

The speculation is that he was referring to the distribution of G.B. product through Fox in England, not in America.

In the meantime, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns United Artists' salesmen here have been instructed to proceed slowly on new contracts pending the company's product announcement for next season. Gossip strongly links U. A. and Schenck with General Distributors, Ltd., the company formed by C. M. Woolf, following his retirement as joint managing director of Gaumont British. The company is registered at £270,000, with a stock structure providing for 250,000 shares in 10 per cent participating preferred £1 stock and 400,000 deferred with a par value of one shilling each.

Woolf's finances will be raised partially by public flotation and partially from Lady Yule. The studio planned in connection with the company will be built on the Iver Hall estate near Windsor, will cost £250,000 and will cover four floors. Charles Boot, well known promoter, will be the builder. Schenck today admitted he plans to discuss production with Woolf.

By report at least, Alexander Korda's London Films appear tied in with the Deutsch Donada theatre deal. He has five more to deliver on his current U. A. contract.

U.A. Moves to Fill Release List Gaps negotiating with David O. and Myron Selznick to become producers.

David O. refuses to discuss the matter.

"I have nothing to say," was his only comment. "I'm not saying boo to anybody; I have no idea what I am going to do."

Before leaving for Portland to complete her stage engagement Miss Pickford denied reports she would be the next U. A. president.

"I wouldn't want to be president," she said. "We have been negotiating with a powerful man in the industry to take over the presidency and believe he will join us. However, we will not have an announcement until a week from Monday."

She predicted an expansion in U. A. during the coming year, saying that she would produce four pictures, in one of which she would star.

United Artists producers are getting set for next season.

Samuel Goldwyn faces his busiest production year in many. "The Dark Angel" is before the cameras. In final stages of preparation are "Dreamland," to star Eddie Cantor, and "Barbary Coast," to star Miriam Hopkins. The story Rachel Crothers is writing for Miss Hopkins is reported nearing completion and will go into work as soon as "Barbary Coast" is completed.

Charlie Chaplin's first in some years is in the editing stage.

Reliance will make four next year. "Amateur Girl" and "The Melody Lingers On" will get going shortly. "Robin Hood," starring Robert Donat, is the third and "The Last of the Mohicans" is the fourth.

In London Alexander Korda is completing two scripts. One is on "100 Years From Now" and the other "The Man Who Could Work Miracles."

Herbert Wilcox of B. and D., London, is at work on "Come Out of the Pantry," starring Jack Buchanan. "Peg of Old Drury," starring Anna Neagle, starts in two weeks.

Allied Plan Is Delayed

Approval of a plan of reorganization for Allied Theatre Owners was postponed until June 7 when it came up yesterday before Federal Judge Robert A. Inch in Brooklyn. The delay was again due to the fact that the U. S. Treasury Department has not agreed upon a settlement of an income tax claim against the corporation.

cally by the Fox sales cohorts when delivered to the company's annual convention in session here by Sidney R. Kent, Fox president.

After detailing the new alliance, which also brings Joseph M. Schenck, former head of United Artists, into the Fox organization as chairman of its board, Kent told the sales force that this development was the "best indication" as to whether or not his goal "was to make Fox the biggest company in the industry."

Kent was introduced to the meeting by John D. Clark, general sales manager, who is presiding at the three-day convention at the Blackstone Hotel which winds up on Saturday. With 264 Foxites in attendance, the meeting is held to be the largest sales convention in the company's history.

The conventioneers attended a screening of "Dante's Inferno" late Wednesday night and additional screenings of new Fox product were on the program throughout today. Regional sessions, to be conducted by Clark, William J. Kupper and E. C. Grainger, divisional sales managers, and William Sussman and Nat Finkler, together with a meeting of the ad sales department, to be presided over by James A. Clark, will wind up the business sessions Saturday. The final afternoon of the meeting will be devoted to additional screenings of new product.

Grainger substituted for Spyros Skouras, who was unable to attend the session, on today's speakers' list. Barney Balaban and William K. Hollander, both of B. & K. Theatres, were guests at today's sessions.

Louis Hyman, vice-president of Principal Distributing Corp. and his associate, Sol Lesser, have flown here from the coast to attend the convention.

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Sol Lesser is timing production of "Thunder Mountain," Zane Grey story, to catch the peak of the book sale. Lesser will put his picture into work July 5. EARL WINGERT picked the winner in the last race and it paid $12.50 for every deuce on its nose to vindicate the advertising and publicity department's tradition that the show's never over while there's a one-sheet standing.

HERMAN WOBBER flew in from 'Frisco and would like to fly back when the meet is over, but hasn't been able to make a deal as yet with the Chicago weather man, who's making up for all that rain he didn't turn on last summer.

WALTER BROWN of Federal Ross Service was up and down Peacock Alley renewing old friendships and distributing key to the city.

ROGER FERRI, HARRY BALLANCE, TOM BAILEY, ERNEST LANDAICE, PAUL WILSON, ROY HEFFNER, TOM MITCHELL, SAM HINSON, TOM YOUNG and about as many more ganged on famous old "Pete's Steak House" Wednesday night and inadvertently started a Recovery Riot on Dearborn St. BALLANCE said it would save bookkeeping if everybody gave him three bucks and he paid the check. Everybody did. The check plus tip boiled down to $2.15 a head and BALLANCE, fists full of dollar bills, followed the rest into the street yelling for each to give him 15 cents and take a dollar bill. They closed in on him and he started shelling out, but the bargain sounded at least as good as the chain letter thing to people going by. When BALLANCE realized what was going on he'd made an even half-dozen plain citizens very, very happy. (Remember the name—BALLANCE!)

CLAYTON SHEEHAN, abroad last year at convention time, made his first address to the sales organization under the Kent regime.

EDDIE COLLINS came to town on a duly announced and publicized diet and stuck with it 10 minutes.

GABRIEL YORKE of Los Angeles, where they don't wear 'em, bought a straw hat so he wouldn't be conspicuous, and then it rained, just as it does (or does it?) in the old home town.

C. V. He gets it—the deposit.

discuss the deal with First Division and Pathe officials. Pathe has been working on a new financial setup for First Division, and with this nearing completion it is reported that Pathe backing for Mascot may also figure in any distribution agreement reached with First Division. Mascot, hitherto financed by Consolidated Film, is doubling its production schedule next season. Several new First Division exchanges may also be established if the Mascot deal is consummated.

It is also understood that First Division may effect a reciprocal distribution deal with a British company in order to obtain foreign representation for the pictures it handles here.

Mascot Listing 24 Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Mascot has announced 24 pictures for next year, which will include four or five specials, 12 program pictures, eight musical westerns starring Gene Autry, and four 12-episode serials.

"Tiger Talley," from Reginald Campbell's book, is the first special on the list with "Pocahontas," based on the life of the Indian girl, listed as second. "The Leathernecks Have Landed" and "You're on the Air" complete the list.

Other features on the new program are: "$1,000 a Minute," by Everett Freeman; James Oliver Curwood's "Swift Lightning," Peter B. Kyne's "Film Star's Holiday," "My Brother's Keeper," an original by Gerald Beaumont; "Hitch Hike Lady," "Thirty Fathoms Below," "One Sweepstake Rare," "Blue Ribbon Holiday," "Alma Mater Princess," "You're in the Navy," "Thirteen Girls in Love" and "The Missing Skull."

Nat Levine, Mascot president, put in a busy day here yesterday. He didn't have time to talk to anyone or submit to any interview, but promised to call all the editors personally when he had the time and something to talk about.

Paris Amusements Shutdown Delayed postponed until June 5 because of the present government crisis and the expected fall of the cabinet.

Organized branches of amusement—legitimate and film theatres, music halls, vaudeville spots, night clubs, sports exhibitions, dancing, skating, restaurants, cafes and orchestras—have informed the government they will close unless cuts are made in taxes. Since the move is a climax to agitation dating back to the March session of Parliament it is expected in some quarters relief will be forthcoming from a new cabinet.

Seigel, Cohen Take Two in Philadelphia

Arthur Seigel and Max Cohen, operators of a local string of houses including the Harris, Selwyn, Prospect and Ritz, Bloomfield, N. J., yesterday took over two downtown Philadelphia houses.

Seigel, stepson of Albert Warner, and Cohen will continue the same policies of duals at pop prices at the two new Quaker City additions.

Roosevelt Will Seek New NRA Legislation

with problems raised by the decision and possibly outline the steps to be taken to counteract its effects.

The need for new legislation today was seen as possibly keeping Congress in session throughout a large part of the summer and nullifying the plans of leaders to have it adjourn early in July.

At the Capitol, where confusion still reigns, it developed that difficulties may be encountered in dealing with tax legislation. Engrossed in efforts to push the legislation extending the Recovery Act, the Ways and Means Committee up to this week had found no time to consider the extension of the admission and other nuisance taxes. Since Monday the committee has been trying to determine the effects of the decision on legislation which was pending before it.

Committee leaders are hopeful that they will be able to take up the tax bill during the week of June 10, which will necessitate quick action in House and Senate.

throughout the country. On Thursday the regular session is scheduled to be held, but this is likely to be called off Monday.

No business can be transacted on Thursday unless plans are developed by Washington between now and then for continuing the code in a modified form.

Compliance Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt is expected to fly from the coast in time for Monday's session. He is also due in Washington Monday and in this event may send Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth on to attend the special conclave.

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Denying emphatically he will join M-G-M, Paramount, RKO or any other company, Compliance Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt states he is here on a holiday visiting his sisters.

Rosenblatt insists he will return to private law practice on June 16, but reports persist in linking him with one of the major companies.

Casey Wants Pacts Kept

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—In view of the Supreme Court's NRA decision, Pat Casey, studio labor contact for the producers, has asked all studios to continue right along with the labor code provisions already applied in Hollywood until Washington advises regarding a new bill that it is understood is now being framed.

Acceptance of Casey's request is expected.

Brandt Appeals for NRA Scales

With talk current of increasing working hours and reducing wages in local theatres, Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., yesterday appealed to members and exhibitors at large to maintain conditions in force under the NRA.

As an advocate of the plan to adhere to the NRA schedule, Brandt stated he would continue without change the same hour and wage scales in all of his 36 houses.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Charlie Chan in Egypt"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—Audience entertainment with commercial showmanship is the keynote of this, the newest of the Charlie Chan adventures.

With treasure-laden tombs of the ancient kings as the locale, it builds weird mystery, suspense, accented drama, smartly spotted comedy and bits of romantic love interest. Walter Oland, in his familiar role, is given a well contrived story with which to work.

Assigned to learn the reason for archaeological relics going astray, he encounters a series of thrill-packed situations which combine the awesome taboos of long dead dynasties with devilish modern plottings.

Using his well-known Oriental philosophy, together with ultra-modern methods of criminal trappings, Chan establishes the motives for the killings and tabs the killer. Although the mechanics of the plot are familiar, Oland's performance, together with convincing contributions of Jameson Thomas and Frank Conroy as the suspected menaces, those of Pat Paterson and Thomas Beck in carrying the romance angle, Stepin Fetchit and Paul Porcasi in comedy roles plus the unique setting give the picture an intriguing sock. Lew King directed well.

A better than average attraction for neighborhood and smaller theatres. Good showmanship should assure satisfactory box-office returns.

Production Code Seal No. 905. Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

Academy to Move Today

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—The Academy will move from its present headquarters at the Roosevelt Hotel to the Taft building Saturday. The organization will take over an entire wing on the 12th floor.

The move is made necessary by the expansion of the Technicians' Branch and the need for more space for committee meetings. The Academy has been at the Roosevelt since 1930.

Loses Donat's Services

LONDON, May 31.—The Warners today lost their case for the services of Robert Donat, Justice Goddard ruling the artist was not under contract to the company.

The question involved was what company was to get the services of Robert Donat, whose popularity here skyrocketed with success of "The Count of Monte Cristo." Warners and Reliance both claimed him.

Myers Advises Allied End NRA Contacts

for continuing the present code by voluntary action without new enabling legislation would expose all concerned to the gravest hazards. Independent exhibitors sitting on Code Authority or local boards should perform no act or deed under the code unless or until new legislation is passed.

"Also, independent exhibitors are under no legal obligation to obey any of the requirements of the code. Even in states having enabling acts it is believed that the illegality of the codes makes unlawful their adoption by the state. This view has been taken by the attorney general of at least one state. Further and more definite advice on this point will follow. Under no circumstances should exhibitors pay assessments to Code Authority for the period subsequent to May 27. In fact, it would be wise to withhold all payments until further notice.

"It is my earnest hope that no exhibitor will reduce the wages of his employes or increase their working hours unless compelled to do so in order to continue operations. Apologists for NRA have claimed great social and economic gains as a result of the wage and hour provisions of the codes. These claims have been disputed, but should be given the benefit of the doubt. Certainly a decrease in spending power resulting from a general let-down in employment and wages would not be beneficial."

Waxman Has a Novel Yearbook for G. B.

A. P. Waxman has just issued a striking G. B. yearbook on the coming 16 Star Spangled Specials in the form of a brown leather folding desk pad, measuring two and a half feet in width and a foot and a half deep. The pad is stamped in gold on the outside with the company's initials and its giraffe monogram.

Enclosed in the pad are 16 four-color photo-offsets of the stars of the features on heavy stock suitable for framing in offices or lobbys. The heads, reproductions from oil paintings by the portrait painter, A. Ginsberg, are of George Arliss, Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Conrad Veidt, Richard Dix, Robert Donat, Madeleine Carroll, Jessie Matthews, Claude Rains, Fay Wray, Boris Karloff and Lupe Velez.

Code Revival Is Abandoned By President

Sole Aim Is Continuance Of Skeletonized NRA

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Abandonment of all plans to revive codes was admitted today by President Roosevelt with the announcement he would seek only the continuance of a skeletonized NRA until April 1, next, for the gathering of statistical data on the basis of which, next session, Congress may be asked to enact new legislation on the industrial recovery program halted last week by the Supreme Court decision.

It was made known, however, that legislation to protect the gains of labor under the codes would be sought requiring all Federal purchasing agencies to place their contracts only with corporations or contractors who live up to certain "minimum requirements"

Destroying Non-W.E. Tubes Is Denied by 7

WILMINGTON, June 4.—Testifying for the defense today in the trial of the Duovac Radio-General Talking Pictures suit against Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T., seven Erpi employes denied destroying or mutilating Duovac and other non-Western Electric tubes in the sound equipment of the defendants.

The seven were Harry J. Mayer, Arthur F. Brolin, Olan W. Hancock, Emil F. Hamberger, William C. Clarkin, all engineers; Arthur J. Rademacher, New York district supervisor, and William S. Weatherspoon, Flushing service supervisor.

Arthur E. Axt, Erpi service engineer, denied threats were made to remove Erpi equipment from the Cameo, the Bronx, because Duovac tubes were being used.

Max A. Schlesinger, head of General Talking Pictures; David R. Hochreich, former president of Vocafilm, and John J. Lawrence, manager of Erpi's contract department, were recalled to the stand.

Others to testify were Franklin T. Wood, Western Electric patent attorney; Mervin Kelly of Bell Laboratories; Whitford Drake, Erpi vice-president, and Grace K. Bahler, file clerk for Greene & Hurd, counsel for the defendants.

Tonight the court adjourned to the Playhouse so that Federal Judge John P. Nields might see "Oil for the Lamps of China" on DeForest equipment as part of the rebuttal of Samuel E. Darby, chief counsel for the plaintiffs.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

MUCH might be written about the code and that which is to come. For once, at least, those in this business whose opinion carries weight are constrained to temper their viewpoints with caution in view of the indecision which honeycombs the immediate situation arising from the Supreme Court's recent decision. In many quarters, however, there is a unanimity of thought on one basic observation: That a voluntary machinery, makeup currently unknown, is essential to keep the industry on some sort of an even keel and out of courts of law so far as this can be done. . . .

On many lips is poised a question about the future. Nobody quite knows the answer, but significant about the state of flux which now prevails is the general agreement, in principle, that the need for an understanding control is a vital necessity. You get this on all sides and from spokesmen for interests which diametrically oppose each other. This attitude is important in that it demonstrates a desire at the outset to attempt to harmonize difficulties and to reduce them through machinery designed for such a purpose. . . .

Straws in the wind to date are two. One developed at a meeting of national sales managers last week when the consensus of opinion as expressed to Will Hays struck out for continuance of standard contracts evolved under the influence of the late code. Coupled with that was the unofficial intention of keeping in effect the ten per cent cancellation clause which developed from code formulation in Washington. The second marker happened as recently as Monday, when Campi met and ordered itself to liquidate. While the statement issued following the meeting made no mention of the fact, an interesting development pivoted around the decision, again informal, to canvass the reactions of the industry throughout the United States with the potential ultimate objective a code document voluntary in concept and in execution. . . .

As unsatisfactory as the code has been in much of its functioning, we argue today that its benefits, accruing from certain of its clauses, were a reflection of a control which the industry would do well to maintain in a form to be determined. Exhibitors who had complained of overbuying have been relieved in many instances; the record shows that. Unfair clearances have been shortened in others; the record reveals that, also. Some avaricious exhibitors have been stopped from what was tantamount to theft of theatre properties; the theatre lease clause of the code took care of that. Premature advertising has been halted to the ultimate and proper advantage of prior runs. The ten per cent cancellation clause, excoriated and lambasted as it has been, at least went beyond anything which prevailed in the industry prior to the NRA. . . .

The code has been criticized largely because its purpose was never too clearly understood by the rank and file. When the Code Authority was found to be predominantly representative of the larger interests, the yells echoed across the land and back again. What was overlooked almost entirely was the concept of the NRA, which at no point proposed any other procedure but the retention of major control through code authorities in the hands of the majority interest, who had it anyway. It is true that the independents endeavored to build up the argument that, in toto, they outstripped the majors in point of investment and holdings. It is also true, unless this memory has taken more than a usual turn for the worse, that the thesis was never proved. . . .

With the majors, directly and indirectly through affiliated exhibitor membership the big noise on Campi, what happened thereafter becomes more understandable. It is fair to point out at the same time, however, that there are many instances of decisions which ran counter to what might be viewed as the interests of the dominant group. Whereas the code, as such, was loosely and falsely viewed as the answer to all of the difficulties in this industry, its purpose and, in fact, the idea behind it were not that at all. The code, all through its history, was viewed as a step toward more understanding and more harmony, but only a step. The evil should be dropped, but the good continued for the benefit of the whole, and, if possible, enhanced. . . .

Otterson New Para. Head; Zukor Stays

Maurice Newton of Hallgarten & Co.; Gerald Brooks of E. F. Hutton & Co.; Duncan G. Harris, vice-president of Brown, Wheelock & Harris; Stephen Callaghan, former state supreme court justice and a trustee of Allied Owners Corp.; Percy H. Johnston, chairman of the board of Chemical Bank & Trust Co.; Zukor and Otterson.

In a statement released by Paramount following the meeting it was said that Otterson would immediately resign the presidency of Erpi and would sever all relations he has had with subsidiaries of that company and of Western Electric. It was added that Otterson would devote all of his time to Paramount. No statement could be obtained from Erpi officials yesterday as to Otterson's successor for the various posts he held with the company and with Western Electric.

It is understood that the choice of Otterson as the new Paramount president was unanimous. Reports yesterday were that the Erpi head had advised the board he would not accept unless the board was in complete agreement and that his election, too, would be agreeable to Zukor. During the early stages of the directors' meeting Otterson chatted in a 12th floor office of the Paramount Bldg. and immediately after a canvass of the board was escorted to the meeting room on the seventh floor by way of the executives' private elevator. In the room he was advised of his election and greeted by the new board, some of the members of which he met for the first time yesterday.

Terms of Directors Listed

The new board of directors was formally elected at the adjourned special meeting of stockholders earlier in the day. The 16 directors elected and the terms of each follow:

For one year terms expiring in 1936: Robert K. Cassatt, William S. Gray, Jr., Charles E. Richardson and George J. Schaefer. For two-year terms expiring in 1937: Gerald Brooks, Stephen Callaghan, Duncan G. Harris, John D. Hertz, Henry R. Luce and Charles A. McCulloch. For three-year terms expiring in 1938: H. A. Fortington, Percy H. Johnston, Maurice Newton, Floyd B. Odlum, Frank A. Vanderlip and Adolph Zukor.

Two additional directors may be elected to the board under the by-laws of the new company which provides for a maximum board of 18 and a minimum of 16. Moreover, those elected for one or two-year terms can be reelected at the expiration of their initial term. After 1938 annual elections of a complete board will be held.

The reduction of old stock from 4,000,000 shares to 845,631 shares, authorized at Monday's meeting to carry out the provision for the exchange of one-quarter share of new for one share of old, was followed by an authorization given at yesterday's meeting to increase the number of new shares from 845,631 to 5,450,000 shares, and to increase the capital stock from $845,631 to $41,000,000. The new authorized issue of 5,450,000 shares will be classified into 300,000 shares of first preferred stock of $100 par, 650,000 shares of second preferred of $10 par, and 4,500,000 shares of common of $1 par.

This reduced the voting representation at yesterday's meeting to 580,519 shares from the 2,327,484 shares at Monday's session. Of yesterday's voting shares 580,377 were cast in favor of all proposals submitted. No dissenting votes were cast.

Other proposals approved by the meeting included one for the change of the company's name from Paramount Publix Corp. to Paramount Pictures, Inc.; the repeal of the old bylaws and the adoption of the new, and the guarantee by Paramount Pictures of the payment of three per cent interest annually and the application of not less than $100,000 annually to the purchase or redemption of the new Paramount Broadway Corp. bonds.

Zukor again served as chairman of the meeting with Alfred A. Cook, of counsel for the company, presiding.

Otterson, 54, Was Long in Navy; Erpi Head Since '28

Born in Allegheny, Pa., on March 29, 1881, John Edward Otterson, elected president of Paramount yesterday to succeed Adolph Zukor who was named chairman of the board, was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., in 1904 and from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology five years later.

From 1900 to 1915 he saw service in the navy. At the time of his retirement, he was a naval constructor with the rank of lieutenant. For the next six years he served with the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., being president at the time he left the company to join the Winchester Simmons Co. as president.

In 1924 Otterson became associated with Western Electric, of which he was general commercial manager when three years later he was made vice-president and a director of Erpi. He was elevated to the presidency of Erpi in 1928 when the film industry entered upon the first phases of its sound era.

He is also president and a director of most of the international subsidiaries of Western Electric.

Otterson likewise is a director of the Exhibitors' Reliance Corp., New York; American Arbitration Ass'n, New York; New Haven Hospital and New Haven Chamber of Commerce, and is a member of the U. S. Naval Institute, Navy Athletic League, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology Alumni Ass'n.

Hold Australian Lead

American pictures are maintaining their leadership in the favor of Australian theatre patrons, John E. Kennebeck, Paramount managing director for Australia and New Zealand, who is here on his first visit to the home office in five years, reported yesterday.

Kennebeck said that admissions were maintained on their usual levels throughout the depression in Australia's 1,100 theatres and New Zealand's 350, and that with the economic recovery in both countries receipts are now very favorable. He pointed out that with few other forms of competing popular entertainment in his territory, films were by far the leading amusement of the masses.

Kennebeck leaves for the west coast in about two weeks on his return trip to Sydney.

today when the fall of the new cabinet dealt a fresh blow to their hopes to obtain more equitable taxation.

The new French Finance Minister, Joseph Caillaux, had predicted just before the collapse of the cabinet a decree would be made granting a reduction of about 50 per cent in the so-called pauper tax and about 25 per cent in the state income tax.

each new theatre will be around $250,000. Seating capacity will average 2,000.

Maxwell's purpose in coming over is to decide on the company's future policy in this country. Arthur Dent, general manager, has been here for the past two weeks making a survey for Maxwell who will make the final decision. B. I. P. is spending from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 annually on production. Maxwell contemplates going to Hollywood on a search for talent. He plans to be here about three weeks, returning to England with Dent.

Maxwell said this was his first trip in four years. He added business with the company is "very good." B. I. P. plans to make 25 pictures this year. Five are in production. They are "Invitation to a Waltz," "My Heart's Delight," "The DuBarry," "Old Heidelberg" and "Music of Charms."

It is stated that if G. B. sold, Lord Lee would swing his votes with the company. So far B. I. P. is not interested in the competing company and is rapidly increasing its production costs and its theatre circuit.

Shumiatsky Says Russian Films Have to Be Tripled

Russia is now producing features at the rate of 300 annually, but is faced with the necessity of increasing this total by at least 300 per cent within the next two years. B. Z. Shumiatsky, head of the Russian film industry who heads a Soviet commission now here to study American film methods, so stated at the Motion Picture Club Forum yesterday.

He added that, during the same period, the number of theatres equipped with sound must be multiplied by 10 until a total of 40,000 has been reached.

Shumiatsky said Russia will first study the technological advances of Europe and America to decide which system of production will best answer the large scale needs of its industry. He added this was the chief purpose for his trip. The industry, both in technique and scale of operations, in America seems more important to the Soviets, he said.

Queried by Louis Nizer, who was toastmaster, on a list of prepared questions and with Boris Morros handling the translation, Shumiatsky asserted that Russia will produce 300 features and a like number of shorts and newsreels in 1935. He explained his government viewed films as one of its principal industries and primarily educational in scope. He added that 800,000,000 rubles will be spent on production this year. The government, he said, made a profit of 100,000,000 rubles from the film industry last year. It increases financing of production with proportionate rises in earnings. Paper rubles currently are worth two cents, American.

The head of the Russian industry said that the appeal of foreign language pictures in Russia is limited since sound because of the language problem and because they do not embrace enough action. The same system of run classification applies in Russia as in the United States. Most of the stars are developed in schools and those giving outstanding performances are assigned leading roles, he added.

In reply to a question sent to the dais by Harry Hershfield who inquired what other colors Russia would use in Technicolor, Shumiatsky delivered a two-way answer. If the query was aimed at the artistic complexities of pictures, he said, Russia would use all colors, not merely its traditional red. If the question had political connotations, Shumiatsky deftly answered Russia's pictures will reflect the life of his country. He drew an analogy between French and English pictures, assumed that product from those sources properly should reflect the spirit and the habits of the countries that made them and concluded by adding Russia would follow suit.

V. Verlinsky, head of Amkino, officially welcomed the group. He recalled his first visit to the club a year ago when the only American expressions he knew were "Oh Boy! okay, lousy pictures, money and cash."

G. Melamed, general consul of the U. S. S. R. in New York, urged a cooperative film movement between Russia and America. V. Nilsen, Russian cameraman, talked in his native tongue and, after Morros was through translating, Nizer took the floor to explain Morros' remarks.

The Russian delegation will appear en masse at the Ampa meeting at the Edison tomorrow. Nizer will also attend as will Tom Howard, the comedian, and others.

Bowes to Make Shorts

Major Edward Bowes is negotiating to make a series of shorts in the east. It is understood the subjects will feature amateur radio talent. The deal is expected to be closed within a day or two.

Friedman to WMCA

Zach Friedman has resigned as manager of the Fox, Brooklyn, to organize the WMCA Artists' Bureau. It is probable no immediate successor will be named to take over his former theatre duties.

Looking 'Em Over

"Dance Band"

This is a pleasing little musical, unpretentious by comparison with Hollywood's lavish revues, but succeeding in sustaining a light entertainment thread from beginning to end. Its story, that of the romance of two band leaders—girl and boy—and the obstacles to it presented by their professional rivalry, is as slight as the theme of any musical, but it serves as a suitable background for songs, dances, comedy and the display of Buddy Rogers' and June Clyde's voices and syncopation.

Rogers, as the band leader whose professional skill and good fortune continually frustrate his romantic pursuit of Miss Coyle, the leader of a girl's orchestra entered in a band contest against him, appears to good advantage under the direction of Marcel Varnel. Miss Clyde, similarly well cast, is at her best in the musical numbers. The remainder of the cast, although able, is unknown here. Settings, occasionally, leave something to be desired. Photography is good.

The picture should be a good contribution to any double feature program. Previewed without production code seal. Running time, about 75 minutes. "G."

Trade Bill Sought As NRA Substitute

of the NRA as remains valid under the Supreme Court decision.

The measure would declare interstate commerce to be a public utility and impose an excise tax of one dollar on every enterprise engaged therein. All enterprises using the mails or any form of interstate transportation or communication would be required to register with and secure a license from the commission.

The commission would have the authority to impose regulations for the conduct of businesses subject to its control, but no effort would be made to control or regulate enterprises engaged solely in intrastate commerce, held by the court to be beyond the reach of the Federal government.

In addition to the measure introduced by Shanley, Representative Connery of Massachusetts announced he would introduce a bill tomorrow also requiring licenses but with the further requirements that licensed establishments observe the 30-hour week and pay specified minimum wages.

To Report on Coast Cuts

Los Angeles, June 4.—The local labor boards have received instructions from NRA headquarters in Washington to file the names and addresses of all employers trying to extend working hours and reduce wages, according to R. L. Haywood of the operators' union following a general labor meeting yesterday.

To date there have been no wage reductions or hour extensions in the exhibiting field or any effort to change the NRA scale by independent exhibitors. However, there have been complaints over the loss of NRA protection against the flood of bank nights and other giveaways.

Another labor rally is scheduled here for June 13 at Trinity Auditorium. All affiliated stage and screen craft organizations are expected to attend.

Leonia Suit Is Delayed

Hearing on the Adams Brothers' suit for an injunction to restrain Fox from releasing pictures to the Leonia, Leonia, ahead of the Park Lane, Palisades Park, N. J., has been postponed to June 17.

Peter and Adam Adams filed the suit recently when Campi handed down a decision granting the Leonia the right to play 14 days after Englewood. The Park Lane contracts call for protection over the Leonia. Meanwhile, Fox is serving the Leonia in compliance with the code decision, despite invalidation by the Supreme Court of the NRA codes.

Code Revival Is Abandoned By President

which, the President said, would be the hour and labor provisions of the codes.

The effect of this will be that any producer or distributor who hopes to sell films to any Federal agency will have to retain the labor provisions of the film code.

Although the President did not comment on the matter, there were indications that resort may yet be had to the Federal Trade Commission's trade practice agreement plan to enable such industries as desire to retain such of their code trade provisions as would not run afoul of the anti-trust laws to do so. It is not likely, however, that any legislation will be sought this session either to extend the scope of these agreements or to cover them with the anti-trust law exemption by which they were protected while in the codes.

The only other legislation on the matter expected to be sought this session is the approval by the House of the first paragraph of the Clark resolution passed by the Senate May 14, extending the NRA for nine and one-half months. The provisions of that resolution applying to codes will be eliminated.

The President made it clear no effort would be made to enforce any of the provisions of the codes. "It should not be assumed by any person," it was declared in an official White House statement, "that this proposed continuation of the National Recovery Administration, in skeletonized form, relates in any way to the enforcement of working conditions or fair trade practices formerly existing under the codes. All such requirements were eliminated by the Supreme Court decision."

The legislation planned by the Administration, it was admitted, "does not make such progress toward obtaining the ultimate objectives of national standards for the working population of America nor for national standards which seek to protect honorable employers against the unfair practices of less honorable competitors."

"U" to Retain Code Features In Contracts

Chicago Convention Gets News from McKay

CHICAGO, June 5.—Universal today made public its intention to retain in its exhibition contracts all of the rules, provisions and specifications inaugurated under the NRA code, the sole change contemplated being alterations in the text to eliminate direct and specific mention of the code itself. Presumably, this means Universal will continue the 10 per cent cancellation clause among others.

Announcement of the company's policy was divulged by Willard S. McKay, general counsel, as the company swung into the opening day of

Autonomy Up Again Among 306 Members

End of Basic Wage Deals Brings on New Move

With the public hearing on the operators' basic wage scale in Washington having been called off, members of Local 306 are expected to ask for local autonomy for the union.

The I.A.T.S.E. has been representing the local at various conferences held with circuits and independent exhibitor leaders, but now that the scale situation is wide open and free from NRA jurisdiction, projectionists feel that the union should be turned over to the members again for operation.

At a meeting of the membership about two weeks ago, the local autonomy angle was discarded in favor of

E. S. Bloom to Head Erpi As Its President

In Otterson Post; to Be Announced Soon

Edgar S. Bloom, president of Western Electric, an American Telephone and Telegraph subsidiary, is slated to succeed John E. Otterson as president of Erpi.

The step has been agreed upon, but will not be submitted for formal action until the board of Erpi meets, which may be in about a week.

Bloom, an old-time telephone man, was one-time president of the Missouri Bell Telephone Co. A successor to his post at W. E. has not been determined upon so far as could be learned yesterday.

It was unofficially reported that his Erpi appointment will in no wise affect his current duties and that he may continue as president of both companies although this procedure was viewed yesterday as running contrary to the telephone company's thoughts on corporate procedure for its subsidiary and allied companies.

Otterson, who was elected president of Paramount on Tuesday, will assume his new post June 17. In a brief statement issued yesterday, Erpi made it clear that he would resign all posts with Erpi and with the Bell System.

Zanuck to Be One of Big 3 In Fox-20th

Kent president and Sheehan and himself vice-presidents, with the management of all production under "the united control" of Schenck, Sheehan and himself.

Zanuck pointed out the merger was not a case of either company absorbing the other, but a consolidation of all assets and talents of both. Housing facilities for 20th Century were being rushed by Fox, he said, with the former's moving slated for Aug. 1.

An important factor in the development of 20th Century, Zanuck said, was the fact that its distribution had been in the hands of Al Lichtman of United Artists, whom he called "one of the fine minds of the industry."

Zanuck will go to New York next week for a meeting with Schenck and Kent at which plans for Fox-20th Century will be completed. His trip east will be necessitated by the fact that as a partner in 20th Century he must sign the papers sealing the union along with Schenck. Kent and Schenck will return here with Zanuck.

It was also learned today on unimpeachable authority that John Krimsky, assistant to Producer Edward Butcher, is to be made a producer at Fox at an early date.

Decentralizing Two Fox Theatre Units

Rocky Mountain, are in town conferring with Spyros Skouras and Fox Film and Chase National Bank factors.

Under a plan being worked out by Skouras and National Theatres greater authority will be granted to the operating heads of the two units. Expected to become effective with the windup of the Fox Midwest and Fox Rocky Mountain receiverships in Federal court at Kansas City, the new setup calls for transfer of the general bookkeeping department staff from Los Angeles to the divisional headquarters. Only general records will go to Fox West Coast in Los Angeles, with a periodical report made to Skouras in New York.

Under the decentralization plan 70 houses in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and most of Nebraska will be included in Ricketson's division, while Rhoden will have under his supervision 120 theatres in Kansas, Missouri, Southern Illinois, Iowa and Beatrice, Neb., not all of which are open.

Australians Prepare For Start of Quota

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY, May 5.—Although the New South Wales Quota Bill was brought down more than a month ago, there is little activity among producers or investors. Realizing that the first effects of the quota will not be felt for another 12 months, producers are apparently taking their time. Nevertheless, Mastergraft Film Corp., Ltd., and Film Players Corp. each capitalized at £50,000 have been registered.

Directors of Film Players' read importantly. They include Sir John Butters, a director of Associated Newspapers, Ltd.; W. J. Bradley, K. C., well known barrister, and George H. Rayner, society figure.

In the prospectus, the company claims to have made releasing arrangements in Australia and Great Britain and other countries. First production will be "The Burgomaster." National Studios, Ltd., who are not calling for public money, are all set to start shooting as soon as special recording equipment is landed from Great Britain.

F. W. Thring, pioneer of local film production, has called a temporary halt to his Efftee activities in Melbourne, expecting the Victorian Government to introduce a Quota Bill similar to that which will operate in N. S. W.

Important announcements as to Cinesound activities is expected here from Ken G. Hall, production head just back from the United States.

Expeditionary Films, winners of the Commonwealth Government's £2,500 production competition, have increased the company's capital from £15,000 to £50,000.

The gift practice has assumed alarming proportions here. Furniture, radios, vacuum cleaners, crockery, etc., are figuring largely on the giveaway lists, one exhibitor going so far as to plug the line "Bigger and Better Gifts next Saturday" in his advertisements.

Fearing dire results, the N. S. W. Exhibitors' Ass'n. called a general meeting which ended in a decision to enlist the M. P. D. A.'s aid in effecting a halt. The distributors were right behind the Exhibitors' Ass'n. decision, but, despite the ultimatum issued by exhibitors, the gifts continue.

There is some talk of embodying a no-gift clause in a standard contract, if the distributors are agreeable.

"English producers are offering extraordinary money to Hollywood players and directors who aren't worth one quarter of it. They're doing the silly things that sent Hollywood bankrupt," said Ken G. Hall, production head of Cinesound, when he returned after a six months' survey of studio activities in Hollywood.

Hall expressed the opinion that the major producers will have to watch the independents, who, on a lower overhead, are delivering hits with almost the same consistency as the larger companies.

"Encumbered with heavy operating costs, and lacking any really effective means of eliminating waste, the big production organizations are likely to find themselves embarrassed by the independents' competition," he said.

Pictures and vaudeville on a 50-50 basis are being revived by General Theatres Corp. in Brisbane. If the idea clicks, the policy may be extended to other states.

Vaudeville and revues are enjoying a vogue in Australian cities just now, and it was to be expected that picture houses would make a bid for their share of whatever revenue is going.

Loew-Momand Claim To Get New Hearing

19 by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday. The claims aggregate more than $10,000,000 and are based on the triple damage provisions of the anti-trust laws. The motion seeks to determine what the exact amount of the claims should be, if any.

On the same date Judge Coxe is scheduled to hear exceptions to Special Master John E. Joyce's report on the Loew and Momand claims which held that while actual damages from alleged anti-trust law violations might be provable against a bankrupt the triple damage provisions do not apply. Both Loew and Momand and Paramount are filing exceptions to this report.

Ontario's New Tax Is Passed to Public

add the complete assessment of the Ontario government and not absorbing any portion of the tax. In passing on the whole of the tax to the people the brunt fell on the purchasers of tickets of 25 cents and under in face value, which were formerly tax free. The most strenuous objections were against the payment of a five cents tax on quarter admissions and a two cents levy on dime tickets for children.

The policy of demanding the tax extra from the public is intended to make a nuisance of the whole impost. This is also noted in the sale of two tickets, one for admission and one for the tax at box-offices.

The greatest increase in the new tax is on the 30 cents admissions, which formerly called for two cents and now five.

The upper range of admissions is not greatly disturbed and this is one cause for the big kick on the part of theatres with working class patronage since they are hit the hardest.

will cost studios and others $35,500,000 biennially.

The Senate has also approved a $2,000,000 biennial chain store tax from which theatres are exempt, but has rejected the Assembly's income tax bill setting a rate one-third that of the Federal levy, offering a substitute measure cutting the rate to one-fifth.

Kill Bill on Coin Devices

BOSTON, June 5.—A bill introduced in the state legislature by Governor Curley to tax automatic weighing and vending machines $5 annually was defeated today when the house accepted the report of the ways and means committee which held that no such legislation was "necessary."

It was shown at the hearing on the bill which, it was claimed, would put the department administering the tax on a paying basis, that the department in question was already returning a profit of $30,000 annually to the state. The bill, under the present setup, would have affected all theatres and Loew's two Boston houses alone would have been taxed an estimated $10,000 annually.

A measure to license theatrical booking agents was passed by the Senate. It was favored by many film men who believe it will do away with unfair business methods by agents.

More than two dozen organizations sent representatives to a hearing today to protest a bill calling for the appointment of a director of outdoor advertising to the legislative committee on mercantile affairs. Film men are opposing.

Coast Indigent Ban Fails

SACRAMENTO, June 5.—The Assembly has refused passage of the bill which would have placed armed guards at the state borders to exclude paupers. The bill was designed at the request of the studios and other big interests who see relief costs rising daily as 2,500 indigents a month pour into the state.

Looking 'Em Over

"Border Brigands"

(Universal)

Buck Jones changes the usual order of things around a bit here. He is a member of the Canadian Royal Northwest Mounted Police instead of the usual cowpuncher, but the result is good entertainment.

The story is typical of previous Jones vehicles of this series. Director Nick Grinde extracts the maximum of entertainment from the ingredients handed him and is ably assisted toward that end by good cast portrayals, particularly on the part of Jones, Lona Andre and Fred Kohler.

The yarn has Jones a sergeant in the mounted police under the command of his brother, who is murdered by Kohler as he hangs the latter's brother for a killing. Jones then sets out to capture his brother's assassin and crosses the border into the United States, where he succeeds in joining Kohler's gang. A romance develops between the hero and Miss Andre, who aids materially in bringing things to a head because Kohler resents her attentions to Jones. The climax is a grand gun fight between the mounted police and the bandits, with the law winning out. Jones kills the villain in a hand-to-hand struggle and winds up in Miss Andre's arms.

The camera work of William Sickner and Allen Thompson is particularly good, and doubly so on the outdoor shots.

For territories where westerns are liked this one is highly recommended.

Production Code Seal No. 781. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Red Blood of Courage"

(Syndicate)

Although this Ambassador production is a routine tale of villainy in the north country, it has enough exciting action to draw younger filmgoers.

Kermit Maynard, who is starred, plays a mountie in disguise on the trail of a gang trying to seize some lands rich in natural resources belonging to Ann Sheridan's uncle, whom she has not seen since childhood. A member of the outfit poses as her uncle and tries to get her to turn over her interest in the property.

Maynard meets the girl when he saves her from one of the gang, only to fall into the hands of the villains himself later. He cuts a mysterious figure. He keeps the villains guessing (if not the audience) until the film is in its closing chapter. When his identity is learned things become still hotter for him. After a pretty game of tag with the bad men, featured by pursuits, gunplay and fisticuffing without stint, he comes out on top and finds himself with Miss Sheridan on his hands.

The film contains some nice exterior shots.

George Regas, Nat Carr and Reginald Barlow are among those in the supporting cast. The direction is credited to Jack English.

Production Code Seal No. 831. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

"Heroes of the Arctic"

(Amkino)

Despite the fact that this film is a very interesting pictorial record of the Chelyuskin scientific expedition, its disastrous end and the rescue of the members of the party, it is undoubtedly meant as strong propaganda for the Soviet air force.

The material in the film is of the usual type found in Arctic pictures, until the wrecking of the expedition's ship. From that point on the audience interest should mount until the last survivor of the ill-fated group is flown off the ice.

The Chelyuskin expedition will probably be still familiar in the minds of most people and exhibitors will do well to exploit those angles played up in the daily press last year when airplanes were scouring the Bering Sea for traces of the party. Also familiar will be the stories of the babies born on the ice.

Where this type picture is liked this should prove satisfactory, but it must be remembered that it is Soviet propaganda.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Elizabeth of England"

attempt to paint a wide and sweeping picture of the most spectacular period in England's rise to power is, however, somewhat marred by the restrictions of the scenario which force the conventional love interest on him.

Because of this, the almost majestic sequences periodically descend to bathos, and the story is held up to tell of what was, after all, a romance which had nothing to do with the story.

But in the scenes with Elizabeth, the Queen, and Drake, the sailor, both camera work, acting and direction are first rate. Athene Seyler's portrayal of the Queen can easily be classed as the finest of all recent historical films. The veracity of her acting is enhanced by the care of the construction of the interior sets which have been founded upon historical research. There is a pleasing lack of pseudo-lavishness which is invariably shown in such films but is not borne out by fact. While these scenes may be rated first class, there is unfortunately a definite lack of such a quality in the broader scenes, and the sequences of the Spanish Armada of 140 galleons and their clashes with the much smaller English fleet—shots which could quite justifiably be built on de Mille lines—are disappointing.

The models are very obviously models and the sea completely fails to give the impression of anything more than a ruffled pool. Some attempt has been made to overcome this defect by filming in the twilight, a trick which fails to come off. Yet the poorness of these shots is more than made up for by the actual battle scenes, with hand to hand encounters from locked-together galleons reminiscent of "Ben Hur."

Matheson Lang is satisfying as the bluff son of Devon, who tells Elizabeth of the treachery of her so-called ally, Philip of Spain, and encourages her to ignore the advice of her timid councillors and beard the paramount power of Europe at that time. While officially refusing to acknowledge the exploits of the buccaneer in pillaging the treasure towns of South America, she does, in fact, give her personal approval. Finally, after his epic expedition round the world in the Golden Hind (very sketchily shown in the film) she officially recognizes him, knights him, and so sets Spain at the throat of England. Drake, after his historically famous game of bowls on Plymouth Hoe, scuttles the Invincible Armada and thereby founds his country's maritime strength.

Elizabeth, well nigh perfectly portrayed, with her speeches founded on fact, and her unqueenlike regard for the unconventional, is the greatest box-office factor in the film. The story, which could have superseded her, somehow lacks cohesion and real action. Jane Baxter, as Drake's lover, does her best with her part, but as it is her sequences which hamper the continuity it is difficult for her to shine. Ben Webster is admirably cast as the old and timid Lord Burghley, chief advisor to the Queen.

Running time, 95 minutes. "G." A.

"Les As du Turf"

(Paramount)

A comedy of the race track, "Les As du Turf" ("Aces of the Turf"), one of Paramount's French productions, provides mild amusement. The story serves but as a framework for the antics of a comedy team billed merely as Pauley and Drean, whose efforts are merely passably funny. The film, which has a number of musical interludes, has no English subtitles.

The pair are cast as a couple of track bugs. At the opening of the film they have won several hundred francs, but the bookmaker fails to show up with the result they are forced to work out their bill at the cafe where they have been making merry in advance of receipt of the winnings. When the bookie shows his face the boys collect and are off again to play the ponies.

They unwittingly trade their huge winnings in a race for a race horse. Pauley and Drean are kept prisoners while their horse and their girl friends are stolen by the bookmaker in connivance with the owner of the cafe. Their horse is entered in the big race by the villains and wins. Pauley and Drean escape in time to reclaim the horse and the girls.

There are several race sequences that are strangely unexciting.

Supporting Pauley and Drean are Josyane, Janett Flo and Barancey, among others. Serge de Poligny directed.

No production code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Taxes May Be Used In Federal Control

by the President and make provision for voluntary codes, but Administration leaders place little or no confidence in them and apparently would be just as well pleased if the whole code effort was dropped.

Leaders at the Capitol today made it clear that they have not decided how the taxing power could be applied to the control of industry, although several measures have been introduced or are being written, the first of which, submitted yesterday by Congressman Shanley of Connecticut, would create a Federal Commerce Control Commission with which all concerns using the mails or other methods of interstate communication would have to register. The taxing power would be applied in this bill as an excise tax of one dollar upon every concern engaged in interstate commerce.

It was also made clear that no determination has been reached as to the desirability of permanent NRA legislation, but it was emphasized in all quarters that any bill written would follow faithfully the limitations imposed by the Supreme Court.

Allied Is Sifting Member Complaints

NRA, says that "the decision robbed the codes of their status as laws, stripped the code authorities of their status as government agencies and left nothing of the old setup which anybody could conceivably want."

The bulletin later states that "many lawyers, including Allied's general counsel (Abram F. Myers), believe there remains a wide field for industrial cooperation under Federal supervision within the limits of the Constitution."

The prospect of the Pettengill bill receiving a hearing in Congress next January is predicted in the bulletin. Commenting on Loew's theatre building plans for Chicago, the Allied bulletin calls them a "coercive campaign" either to "compel exhibitors to buy M-G-M pictures on onerous terms or to punish them for not doing so." It urges exhibitors to protest the Chicago moves directly to Nicholas M. Schenck, Loew's and M-G-M head.

Salary data was omitted in several of the statements which have been filed by film companies, in some cases additional time being given to furnish it.

While officials of the commission refused to comment on the subject, it was pointed out that under other sections of the law in every instance where requests have been made that figures be kept confidential they have been denied, although it was not indicated that this was a precedent which necessarily would be followed in the case of salary data.

Floods Hit Theatres In Western Section

a number of houses and flood damage affected others.

Colorado houses closed were in Sterling, Wray, Brush, Fort Morgan and Hugo. Nebraska spots dark were in Benkelman, McCook, Imperial, Wanneta and Palisades.

The Emerson at Brush was flooded up to the level of the stage. It had been refurnished recently. The Chief at Greeley had to substitute "Woman in the Dark" for "Break of Hearts." The print of the latter was stalled on a Burlington train at Benkelman. Alexander Film Co., Colorado Springs, took pictures of the flood and sold them to reels. M-G-M used planes for Wyoming deliveries. Detours of over 100 miles were made by the Exhibitors' Film Delivery Service.

"Reckless" $3,800 Lincoln Leader

LINCOLN, June 5.—"Reckless" and "Traveling Saleslady" did battle here for supremacy, but "Reckless" at the Stuart topped in money after a sensational Memorial day play up to $3,800. That's $700 in the black. "Saleslady" at the Lincoln took $2,800, $600 to the good.

The Orpheum, doing three days of "Our Daily Bread" with "Rhapsody in Rhythm" on the stage, followed by three days with the dual bill, "It's a Small World" and "Million Dollar Baby," was worth $2,200 on the six days, although the seven-day normal is $2,300. Ascap Manager on Stand at Wilmington

WILMINGTON, June 5.—On the stand today in the Duovac Radio-General Talking Pictures suit against Erpi, Western Electric and A. T. & T., Edwin C. Mills, manager of Ascap, gave testimony in rebuttal to that of John E. Otterson, president of Erpi and new Paramount head. Mills was permitted by the defense to be called by the plaintiffs after it had closed.

Mills denied he insisted upon a clause in a contract between a group of music publishers and Erpi whereby songs were to be released only for pictures to be produced on Erpi equipment. He insisted Erpi executives and counsel wrote this clause into the contracts, which were copied from Western Electric and RCA.

Meyer Leventhal of the Philip G. Scheck theatres of Baltimore testified that the theatres lost money because Western Electric sound went bad and had to be replaced by DeForest.

Albert B. Williams and Walter F. Scott, projectionists in charge of DeForest equipment at a special showing for Judge Nields last night; Chester Tappan, chief engineer for G.T.P., and Fred W. Bynum, North Carolina attorney, also testified for the plaintiffs.

William D. Kelly of M-G-M testified for the defendants, after which depositions by the following were read: Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's; George W. Parr, Lancaster, S. C., exhibitor; David Bernstein, M-G-M treasurer; Joseph L. Caudell of Charlotte, N. C.; George H. Miller, former Erpi engineer; Thomas C. Lambden and Kenneth W. Keene of New York.

Looking 'Em Over

"Give Her a Ring"

(Alliance)

This is the third musical in the current series of 12 just brought to this country by Alliance. It is tuneful and has a light story thread that keeps the romantic interest alive. Wendy Barrie is a gorgeous eyeful.

The principal chorus number, starting at a switchboard, with the telephone operators singing and plugging wires in rhythm has been done before in a Vitaphone short.

Miss Barrie makes a blind date to meet Eric Rhodes at a fountain in a park. At the same time Zelma O'Neal makes an engagement for the same place with the manager of the telephone company, Clifford Mollison, while complaining about the telephone service. Both couples wind up in a restaurant in an amusement park. This furnishes an opportunity for the director to shift the scenes from one attraction to another, with incidental music. Complications develop, but eventually Mollison and Miss Barrie get together. Arthur Woods directed.

It's no musical spectacle, but it is pleasant diversion.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, about 90 minutes. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Keeper of the Bees"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, June 5.—This modernized version of the widely read Gene Stratton Porter novel will please lovers of her works. Telling of the rehabilitation of Neil Hamilton, gassed war veteran given six months to live, the picture expresses the theme simply but forcefully.

Hamilton, leaving the hospital for a final spree before death, detours to follow Betty Furness and meets Hobart Bosworth, a bee master and a dying victim of the Spanish American war. With the help of Edith Fellows, child actress, Hamilton takes care of the bees while Bosworth is hospitalized and inherits a half interest in the been ranch when Bosworth dies. Meanwhile Hamilton has married Miss Furness for her convenience, believing he will die soon. Under the care of Emma Dunn's open air orange juice treatment Hamilton recovers, as it develops Miss Furness married him for the benefit of Miss Dunn's daughter, Marion Shilling, who dies in child birth, leaving Hamilton and Miss Furness to start anew.

Adele Buffington's screen adaptation follows the original faithfully, eliminating the elements which dated the Porter novel. The small cast gives expert interpretations to the roles with Miss Dunn outstanding in support. The direction of Christy Cabanne shows deft understanding.

The picture should click especially where folksy, sunshine and faith entertainment is appreciated.

Production Code Seal No. 936. Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

"Dizzy Dames"

(Liberty)

HOLLYWOOD, June 5.—Several entertaining elements engage this production, not to strong in story. Running a theatrical boarding house, Marjorie Rambeau, a former stage favorite, raises her daughter (Florine McKinney), keeping her show business past from the girl. When Miss McKinney returns from finishing school engaged to a society boy, Miss Rambeau makes her believe the boarders are society house guests.

Miss McKinney soon finds she prefers Lawrence Gray, a song writer, to John Warburton, her fiance, but Miss Rambeau opposes her marrying into show business. A fight for the girl between the boys climaxes during a junior league show, when Miss McKinney learns the truth about her mother and the boarders. The story ends with Gray getting the girl during the big number.

The dialogue of George Waggner and the direction of William Nigh make the situations believable. Performances by the supporting cast, which includes Berton Churchill, Lillian Miles, Fuzzy Knight and Inez Courtney, are good.

Several musical numbers, including "Rhumba," "Martinique" and "I Was Taken by Storm," may be remembered.

This picture fits in a bill including a more serious subject.

No production code number. Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

No Hearing by SEC

WASHINGTON, June 5.—No hearing is planned by the Securities and Exchange Commission on the Paramount reorganization, it was learned today, and in the event that a hearing is held it would be purely academic for the gathering of information.

So far as the commission is concerned, it was said, the company is free to submit applications for the registration of its securities at any time. It is understod that Paramount does not plan to issue any new securities, so that its applications will be solely to cover issues now outstanding.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! The good news appears in Motion Picture Herald's issue of June 8th (out today) and in Motion Picture Daily next week. Ask M-G-M for a copy of the most thrilling announcement since the dawn of movies!

79 Shorts and 104 News Round Out Schedule

CHICAGO, June 6.—Of its schedule of 42 features for next season, Universal divulged data on 26 to its sales convention at the Stevens today.

James R. Grainger, general sales manager, outlined the schedule and declared it was planned to handle "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "Phantom of the Opera" as roadshows. He gave no detail as to casts or direction for these potential standouts on the Universal lineup.

Edward Arnold in "Diamond Jim," which is already finished, will lead off the 1935-36 group.

In the short subject field, the company will have 27 two-reelers, 52 one-

Buys "Dodsworth"

Hollywood, June 6.—Samuel Goldwyn added another title to the quota of films he will contribute to United Artists' current program today when he won out in the bidding for the rights to "Dodsworth," Sidney Howard play fashioned from the Theodore Dreiser novel. The purchase price is reported around $175,000.

"'U' Still Owns Self—Body, Soul, Breeches"—Cochrane

CHICAGO, June 6.—It was R. H. ("Bob") Cochrane, senior vice-president of Universal, who sent the delegates here in convention into something that sounded suspiciously like cheers and, at the same time, sent their spirits soaring when he told them "Universal still owns itself—body, soul and breeches."

Cochranisms had their day. In his characteristically pungent style, the Universal executive said in part:

"I am, frankly, surprised to see you here today. In fact, I am surprised to be here myself, because I have read at least 12 times since I last saw you that the Universal company had been sold out. Naturally, you and I believe everything we read in all of the trade papers. Maybe you believe even more of it than I do. Maybe there have been times during the past year when you wondered whether you

Attack Begun On Playdate Law in Ohio

COLUMBUS, June 6.—An action to obtain an injunction to restrain the state of Ohio from enforcing the new law prohibiting designation of playdates in film contracts has been filed in U. S. The action contends that the state law is unconstitutional and a direct violation of the interstate commerce laws. It is understood that the complaint was prepared by counsel for the M.P.P.D.A. as a test action for all CHICAGO, June 6.—Essaness has given up its current attempt to secure a Federal court injunction to prevent Loew's from building here. The case was dismissed today by Judge Barnes upon motion of Essaness.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

NOT in some time has the rumor market reached the heights which currently bounce about from lip to lip, through telephone to telephone to eagerly poised ears. Never shy on yarns to talk about, this late spring has been particularly lacking in the listlessness which is apt to cloak the industry immediately prior to the season of sales conventions. . . .

Take the merger situation, for instance. That's always an interesting, if often cock-eyed, matter to contemplate and to wallow in. Scarcely had the seepage done its work and word of the Joe Schenck - Darryl Zanuck - 20th Century hegira to Fox gotten about when the buzzings shifted into high. And what a high! Around for the asking, or even less, was the yarn about Floyd Odlum, a little known man to the film fraternity but the head of Atlas, America's largest investment trust and a very important behind-the-scenes figure in Paramount. His company has a finger in the RKO situation, or will. Mere suggestion of the circumstance was enough for those who draw conclusions quickly to gather Paramount and RKO into the same fold. If it's caution you want, you'll get it: Put your mental calisthenics through a cautious routine on that one. . . .

In loud whisper is the one that control of one of your biggest and best known producers and distributors has changed hands through the usual means of buying up the controlling block of stock with San Francisco intermediaries in reality operating for a New York group which prefers to keep his identities hidden—that is, as long as anything remains hidden in this business. Say those who ought to know: "Pooh pooh and a couple of mish moshes." Yet, there it is, that story, kicking around and intriguing mightily those who have heard it. . . .

Ernst Lubitsch takes the skyway into New York from Hollywood on Sunday. His business is urgent. Currently head of Paramount production, his deal, by very reliable report, runs out June 15. Herr Lubitsch wants to know about the future and, of course, you cannot blame him for that. Next week, therefore, will see parleys between Lubitsch and John Edward Otterson, midshipman, technologist, naval constructor, arms manufacturer, telephone man, sound equipment manufacturer, and now president-elect of Paramount. Those meetings will be significant in that the studio berth will be the subject matter. . . .

In the interim and not necessarily tied in with what you have just read if you've gotten this far is the cordial association, largely social, between Otterson and an ex-laboratory man who made a tidy sum of money when he sold his plant some years back. Watterson R. Rothacker is his name. That name, months ago, was rolling around not a few tongues in connection with Paramount production. Otterson, of course, was not then the head of the company, although Erpi's position as a large creditor gave his opinions weight in the councils which determined matters. Today, Otterson is prexy. That may mean nothing or something where "Watty" is concerned. It's hard to tell. . . .

In this space on May 29:

"The brief mention in the official announcement (Schenck to Fox) that Schenck will make his headquarters on the coast led to the question yesterday: 'Will he be the Louis B. Mayer of Fox?' There were no answers to these who attempted to draw the parallel of Mayer stepping out of the independent field years ago with Irving Thalberg under contract to join Metro and to become its general production overseer and Schenck stepping into the Fox picture with Zanuck as his Thalberg. But there it was—speculative and unprovable, but certainly an interesting something over which to cogitate."

Page one, June 1, via the London cable:

"Joseph M. Schenck will be the 'coordinator' of Fox production under his new association which makes him chairman of the board of that company. . . ."

It would seem that the question has been answered by the party most directly concerned. . . .

High above Pershing Square, his general manager, Arthur Dent, was diligently causing to be screened a series of ten and more B.I.P. attractions for which the company seeks an outlet here. While this was proceeding on schedule in the Chanin Auditorium, John Maxwell, who is B.I.P., was disembarking from the Aquitania. Already two hundred and forty British theatres strong, forty are in various stages of construction and an additional 20 will be acquired for Associated British Cinemas, by corporate infusion a blood relation of B.I.P. Such was Maxwell's arrival statement. He could have gone on about conditions in England and the status of production at some length. Curious is one way of describing why he stressed theatres which mean playdates for American distributors over there when it's playdates which Dent is seeking over here. . . .

Expect Fall Trial Of St. Louis Case

three St. Louis first run houses to obtain product will not go to trial until next fall, attorneys for the defendant film companies here said yesterday it was their belief.

Although June 17 has been reported as a possible trial date for the case, local attorneys have not been notified yet nor instructed to appear in Federal court at St. Louis on that date. With only 10 days intervening now, the defendants' attorneys point out that it is most improbable that the case will be called for trial on the 17th without notifications having been sent out yet. It is also pointed out that the Federal court session adjourns for the term a week later, further indicating the unlikelihood of a trial before fall.

Seven film executives associated with the three companies were indicted by a St. Louis Federal grand jury last winter in the conspiracy case.

Court Drops Warner Suit Over "G-Men"

against Publix-Great States in an endeavor to protect its "G-Men" title against allegedly unfair competition was dismissed today for lack of jurisdiction.

Federal Judge Sullivan accepted the argument of attorneys for Publix-Great States that the defendant was resident in New Castle County, Del., so consequently the district court had no jurisdiction in the case.

The suit was an application for an injunction to restrain Publix-Great States from referring to G-men in advertising the United Artists picture "Let 'Em Have It." The direct cause of the suit was the charge that "Let 'Em Have It" had been advertised at the Palace, Peoria, Ill., with its title subordinated to "G-Men."

Requests of exhibitors that facilities be established for distributing copies of "Universal Weekly," company house organ, direct to theatregoers brought the proposition before company delegates. The plan contemplated no invasion of the fan paper field, but would make it possible for an exhibitor to supply names of those to whom he wished the house organ mailed direct, the exhibitor to pay a flat per copy price for same. Following discussion and suggestions, the subject was tabled for disposition after overnight consideration.

This was the liveliest topic of an afternoon session in which talks on matters pertaining to their various departments were given by Andrew Sharick, accessories; Joe Weil, exploitation; Charles Leonard, advertising; Paul Gulick, publicity; Herman Stern, non-theatrical; Charles Ford, newsreels; William Kramer, E. F. Cox and Oscar Binder.

Grainger occupied the starring spot in today's proceedings. Two hundred wires of good wishes from exhibitors were tallied by late this afternoon. At a luncheon today, 100 local exhibitors joined the conventioneers. Included were John and Dave Balaban, Jules and Maurice Ruben, Jack Miller, Jack Rose, Eddie Trinz, Walter Immerman, Abe Kaufman, Simon Simanksy, Alex Halpern, John Drowey, Dave Wallerstein, Bill Hollander, Harry Goldman, Maurice Leonard, James Christy, Glenn Caldwell, H. Goldberg, Joe Stern and Art Gould. Tonight Universal was host at a dinner to Chicago newspapermen with Edward Arnold as the guest. The actor, incidentally, will travel back to New York with Universal eastern group later in the week.

No official word has reached here on the reported deal whereby Fanchon and Marco will make two musicals for Universal. The deal, however, is reported advancing rapidly to the signature stage.

On Friday, Grainger will devote the morning session to a discussion of angles of the new product. At noon, Carl Laemmle will deliver the concluding address.

Lederer to Universal

HOLLYWOOD, June 6.—Francis Lederer has been signed by Universal to appear opposite Margaret Sullavan in "Next Time We Live," which she will make when she has finished "So Red the Rose" for Paramount. Lederer at present is playing in "The Gay Deception" for Jesse Lasky at Fox.

'Straight from the Shoulder'

CHICAGO, June 6.—A substantial majority of the 79 delegates arrived in Chicago on Tuesday and R. H. COCHRANE pitched a party for them in the evening that exhausted the stock of provender put in for Wednesday's luncheon necessitating a re-order, but had everybody in the pink for the opening session yesterday morning.

Chicago Manager HENRY HERBEL was gratefully accused of staging the convention at the Stevens because it's just around a swift corner from the Universal exchange—"gratefully" because the boys say the convention quarters in the Tower Ballroom top all previous zeniths for facility, convenience and sheer swell-elegant grandeur.

The New York contingent Centuried in Wednesday morning.

WILLARD MCKAY displayed some of the ability it requires to be a general counsel when he made a neat profit from the sale of several rubbers of bridge to HARRY WARNER, coast-bound, on the train.

E. T. ("Peck") GOMERSALL, western sales manager who has been operating from New York, will stay on and make his headquarters in Chicago for a number of months. The local exchange is being remodeled to afford him suitable offices.

The sartorial championship was awarded without contest to PAUL GULICK, a symphony in brown and gray, whose directorship of Universal publicity over more years than most newshawks are old is an interesting chapter in the annals of industry press agentry.

Volatile JAMES R. GRAINGER, whose staccato interjections crackle like wireless over a sales meeting, had his Wednesday lightened and brightened by a telegram from son Edmund, associate producer, saying: "Diamond Jim is on the way season's going to be okay."

JAMES HOBBS, Charlotte, N. C., manager, aired a legitimate grouch because he hadn't been invited to the "U" golf tournament. Last year he shot a birdie three for a final 72, winning the North Carolina state tournament. It's admitted that's tops for the company.

P. D. COCHRANE "cut" Wednesday's afternoon session to spend the time with his brother, WITT K., who directs Universal's national (direct-to-public) advertising from Chicago.

MAX FRIEDLAND, continental manager, arrived Thursday morning after crossing on the Normandie, which he states is quite a canoe.

President CARL LAEMMLE arrived on the Chief today completely recovered from his recent illness and expressing himself happy, as always, to visit again the scene of his early successes.

LOUIS LAEMMLE, renewing organization contacts on all sides, says it's like old home week.

Exploitation Manager JOE WEIL had the delegates smoking "Diamond Jim" cigars and stuffing their pockets with more of the same—that's selling at the sales source.

SAM SEDRON, purchasing agent, mentioned too loudly that he'd shot an authenticated 86 on JIMMY GRAINGER'S golf course and got himself promptly challenged by the latter for a match on Sunday. Wherefore SEDRON'S planing out on Friday so he can get in a practice round on Saturday in preparation for the title go.

CHARLIE LEONARD came to town a day early and spent it renewing friendships with the screen scribes of the daily press, of whom he knows so many and so much.

DICK ANDERSON, CHARLES LEONARD, PAUL GULICK and JOE WEIL betook themselves on Wednesday night to A Little Bit o' Sweden, swank local dinery, for the purpose of partaking of the renowned punch dispensed thereat. And they came back under their own power and that's news because that's punch!

ALTON K. FREEMAN, former manager of the M. & P.-Publix Scollay Square Theatre here, continued on to the Orient after reaching the West Coast because it seemed pretty close from there. Go West with a Smile Candid camera shot of Sales Managers Sears and Smith as the Warner convention special slid out of Pennsylvania Station Wednesday evening. The man with the Eddie Cantor optics looks suspiciously like Al Jolson.

Herb Crooker, Warner publicity department representative and special correspondent on the westbound convention special, reported these early activities of delegates by wire yesterday:

"Traveling Warnerites having swell time . . . Stanley Shuford, Andy Smith and Bob Mochrie playing bridge. . . . Grad Sears hot at pinochle . . . Moe Silver, Mort Blumenstock, Harry Kalmine at stud poker . . . Crooker playing solitaire and winning from himself heavily . . . Ad Men Confer Today

Twenty advertising men from all parts of the country begin a conference today on a campaign for Fox's "Dante's Inferno." They will be welcomed this morning by John D. Clark, general manager of distribution, and Charles E. McCarthy, advertising and publicity chief.

Following a screening of the picture the group will have lunch on the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf, followed by informal discussions and an ad and accessories exhibit in the Romany Suite.

Color Suit Dismissed

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure has ordered the Leon Douglas color patent infringement suit against Fox dismissed on stipulation of attorneys for both sides, according to court records made available today.

Fox Wins S-C Action

Fox Film yesterday was awarded $3,589 in an arbitration hearing with Springer and Cocalis in a dispute involving film service. The circuit sought to gain the point that the sum was not due under a cancellation clause in its contract, which Fox denied. The hearing was arbitrated under a proviso in the contract providing for that form of adjudication. Louis Nizer represented the distributor and today will seek to have the decision confirmed in judgment form before the state Supreme Court.

Weeks Names New Men

Leslie Wilkes, formerly with Paramount and Columbia, has been appointed to the G. B. Dallas office by George W. Weeks, general sales manager. William Adams, formerly with Columbia, has been made a member of the Minneapolis staff.

Ascap Is Ready for Trial, Says Burkan

The American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers is ready to go to trial on Monday in the government's anti-trust suit against the organization, it was stated yesterday at the office of Nathan Burkan, counsel for Ascap.

The Burkan office has abandoned all thought of petitioning for a writ of prohibition to halt the trial for the present, a consideration that was entertained for some time following the government's successful effort to have the case given a preference on the calendar. In addition, it was stated that no motion for an adjournment would be made by Ascap on Monday. The organization is prepared to proceed with the trial on that day if the government is, it was said.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard may preside at the trial. Ascap will probably retain former Judge Thomas D. Thacher as associate counsel for Burkan. The government, through its anti-trust suit, is endeavoring primarily to have Ascap's fee-fixing methods for music licensing declared illegal.

Para.-Allied Owners Settlement Approved

The agreement in settlement of Allied Owners Corp.'s claim against Paramount was approved by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday when no objections to the proposal were presented.

The settlement of the claim, which was originally filed for more than $23,000,000, provides for the issuance to Allied of new Paramount securities to satisfy a $5,000,000 claim, the payment of $150,000 cash, the purchase of the Brooklyn Paramount and the leasing of the Paramount theatres at Birmingham, Glens Falls, N. Y., and Fremont, O.

An adjourned hearing date was set for June 17, at which time application will be made by the new Paramount company for a transfer of Paramount's assets from the trustees to the board and officers of the new company. This is regarded as the final step, except for the actual discharge of the trustees, in the Paramount rehabilitation process.

Yoost Is Denied Appeal

William Yoost, a Paramount bondholder, was denied leave to appeal from Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe's order approving the settlement of Erpi's claim against Paramount under a decision handed down yesterday by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

Yoost has been opposing acceptance of the settlement agreement in the courts for the past three months, directing his attack at the provisions in the agreement for continuation by Paramount of Erpi licensing and servicing. He charged that the proposed fees in the new agreements were excessive. Yoost's opposition to the Erpi settlement has been identified with the activities of the Society for the Protection of the M. P. Theatre, an organization dedicated to the harrying of so-called "big electrics."

"'U' Still Owns Self—Body, Soul, Breeches"—Cochrane

were working for Universal or whether you were working for somebody else.

"I don't blame you. In fact, far from blaming you, I have often wondered how you could listen to all the stories which have been circulated about Universal and still keep your nerve up. Apparently you have guts!

"Will you take my word for it that when I left the home office yesterday afternoon to come to this meeting, the Universal still owned itself, body, soul and breeches? I waited at the office until the very last minute to see whether I should come here as R. H. Cochrane or whether I should come disguised as someone else. Imagine my deep joy when I found that I could hustle away from New York and come here as Cochrane.

"God knows I am not given to preaching. Nor to moralizing. Nor do I pose as a philosopher. But if you and I together cannot get something good out of all the evil which has been reported about Universal during the last year, we are nothing more nor less than a lot of dumbbells.

The Universal Brook

"A guy named Tennyson wrote a poem called 'The Brook.' The brook, in the poem, bragged of the fact that it was everlasting. For just a minute, think of Universal as the brook. It goes on forever. The damned thing never stops! I can't imagine that anything in the world can kill it. It is everlasting. It has gone through more hell than all other companies put together—but it lasts.

"Now, I have always tried to give you the lowdown every time I have talked to you, so I am going to stick to that policy. It is the truth that at one time this spring we had nine different offers to sell out. That's a hell of a lot of offers, even if only two or three of them might have been bona fide. But it proves to me, as I hope it will prove to you, that when nine groups of people try to buy Universal, then Universal must have something worth buying.

"Don't get the idea that the offers were not good enough in dollars and cents. The truth is they were not good enough in sentiment to influence a man named Laemmle to sell his baby. He placed so many restrictions on the sale that he did not sell. Have you any idea what those restrictions were? They were you! They were you—and a lot of other Universal men whom he wanted to protect. He would not sell for dollars, unless he first had it in writing that the key men in the organization must be taken care of."

Code Revival Held Possible in Capital

the NRA will be administered during the remainder of its life, but it is generally understood Donald R. Richberg will not be at its head.

Discussion of a revival of the codes was based on reports that the President had under consideration general legislation which would return to effectiveness all of those provisions of the original recovery act which clearly are permissible under the Supreme Court decision in the Schechter poultry case. This could easily be done despite the extension bill's repeal of powers, since it would be necessary to rewrite those sections which gave the President power to impose codes so as to make them conform to the decision.

The plan under consideration is said to contemplate the imposition of codes upon businesses engaged in interstate commerce, possibly with a change in the Federal Trade Commission machinery whereby cease and desist orders could be speedily issued in prima facie cases of violation, and the adoption of voluntary codes by establishments confined to intrastate activities.

In the event the administration fails to submit a comprehensive plan for industrial control Senator Nye of North Dakota is expected to push a bill he has prepared authorizing the Federal Trade Commission to cooperate with industries in the drafting of agreements for the abandonment or prevention of unfair methods of competition and establishment of business practices which will prevent unlawful restraints of trade and monopolistic practices. Such agreements would be exempt from the anti-trust statutes.

Florida Quits With No Taxes Hitting Films

TALLAHASSEE, June 6.—The zero hour of the 1935 session of the Florida legislature arrived and nothing had been done—that is, nothing much—to sock amusements, although the last week had witnessed a "hot fight" to assess a three per cent sales tax against all lines of business. So, the clocks were stopped and the war continued.

Finally the three per cent tax was ditched, and then a try was made for a two per cent tax, but that was finally voted down. The schools closed so the teachers could troop to the capital. They wanted $10,500,000 and the lay-out showed the anticipated taxes were shy about $4,000,000. Finally the advocates of a chain store tax got the ball rolling, and it was all over but the shouting.

The chain store tax, and that meant only "retail" stores, which gave the theatre circuits a break, as they were not retailers, starts out with a license tax of $10 for one store to the state, and a like amount to the county and city. For three, five, 10 and then over 16 stores the license fee keeps piling up until the state collects $400, and a like amount for the county and city. In addition to the license fee there will be a tax on gross receipts. The individual store pays one-half of one per cent. Chains of three will have to pay one per cent; four to six stores pay two per cent; seven to 10 have a levy of three per cent; 11 to 15 come in with four per cent, and more than 16 stores, five per cent.

Gambling got a break, with all kinds of slot machines, push boards and skill games made legal, provided a license is purchased for each machine. Dog and horse racing betting has been legal for several years, and now jai-Alai has been given the official okay.

A bill to tax "traveling shows" a daily license fee of $1,000 was presented in the house during the final week of the session, but it got lost in the shuffle.

Missouri Sales Tax Signed

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—Governor Park today signed the one per cent sales tax which will become effective August 27.

State Auditor Forrest Smith, administrator of the tax, has planned tentatively to issue coupon books for collection of fractional taxes on small sales. Exhibitors contend this would be a nuisance.

Merchants have been conferring with Smith in an effort to work out a simple plan for collection. At present many exhibitors favor adding one cent to every admission, but others have talked cuts in scales to absorb the tax.

Report Pa. Sunday Bill

HARRISBURG, June 6.—Bringing the Sunday show bill one step closer to enactment, the Committee on State Government of the Senate last night reported the measure favorably and the full Senate passed it on first reading. It is practically certain that next Monday the bill will be passed on second reading and then sent back to committee for a public hearing next Tuesday evening. Unless unforeseen circumstances arise the committee will re-report the measure after the hearing which would put it in position for final passage next Wednesday.

The measure already has passed the House, 122—80.

Study Copyright Changes

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Senate Foreign Affairs Committee has under consideration a number of changes proposed for the copyright bill by the sub-commitee in charge of the measure. No information is available as to what the committee is doing or when it will report the measure, although it is extremely doubtful if it can be put through Congress this session.

To Report Alien Bill

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The House immigration committee today agreed to report the Dickstein bill making alien actors subject to the contract labor provisions of the Immigration Law.

Owing to the absence from the committee meeting of Representative Kramer of California he was unable to secure action on his amendment which would permit free entry as at present, but require all aliens to leave the country as soon as their entry permits expired, and he will probably offer it when the bill comes up on the floor of the House.

Looking 'Em Over

"Girls Will Be Boys"

(Alliance)

A smart comedy, done on a background of aristocratic life in rural England. It has been brilliantly cast, with two young people in the leads who ought to be popular with American audiences although their names mean nothing for selling purposes.

Cyril Maude is impressive as a duke—a bit crusty, but with flashes of humor to relieve his brusque manner. Dramatic developments begin when he sends his butler to Paris to get his grandson—that is, he thinks it is his grandson, because the name is Pat Caverley. The butler gets a jolt when he discovers the bearer of the name is a charming young actress.

It develops that the duke's son had been turned out for an unsatisfactory marriage and that he had spent years of his life hating women.

This girl's role is played by a petite youngster named Dolly Haas. She is like a young edition of Elisabeth Bergner, with talent to spare. When shs appears at the ducal manor dressed as a boy the fun begins. First, she can't hold up her end of the drinking. The duke puts his estate manager (Esmond Knight) in charge of a course of physical training for the young Pat. Eventually things turn out all right with the girl and the estate manager in a romance.

It's smart. Situations are cleverly handled. The camera work on some of the outdoor scenes is beautiful. Charles Paton as a butler gives a rollicking performance. Marcel Varnel directed.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Red Wagon"

(B. I. P.-Alliance)

For 94 minutes, "Red Wagon" creaks along wobbly dramatic paths, already worn well by numberless and earlier circus pictures and ends where it begins which is practically nowhere at all.

This English-made production lacks the technical excellence of its average Hollywood cousin. That might be pardonable if, in the departments of story construction, dramatic suspense, acting and dialogue, there was some redemption.

The story has to do with life in a circus and pivots around Charles Bickford, his business and love travail. Falling for Greta Nissen, the lovely tiger trainer, he is led to believe she is two-timing him. On the rebound, he rushes Raquel Torres, gypsy girl with a Mexican accent, and marries her chiefly to get even. Miss Torres, stormy and impetuous petrel that she is, turns out to be a disturbing factor and succeeds in driving Miss Nissen to the opposition. Thereafter, Bickford's circus begins to peter out. Eventually, Miss Torres returns to her gypsy sweetheart and Bickford, about to get going thoroughly in his cups, again meets Miss Nissen, who finances his comeback. They marry and, to prove it, the final scene shows the offspring who some day will carry on the tradition of his dad in the carnival field.

"Red Wagon" is mostly an unhappy venture with very little to recommend it. Even the fire scenes, the shots of Miss Nissen making the tigers docile, and the big fight sequence near the close are shy of the punch elements they were designd to impart. Paul L. Stein's direction emphasizes antiquated treatment that stamps this as a decidedly mediocre affair.

No production code seal. "G."

member companies. An answer to the complaint was filed late Wednesday by Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States, representing the Ohio independent exhibitors' unit in the action.

Although a hearing is scheduled to be held either here or in Cincinnati some time next week, Bricker is attempting to obtain a postponement of two or three weeks.

P. J. Wood, secretary of the Ohio exhibitor unit which sponsored the law, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he was confident of an ultimate victory for the new law and described Myers' answer as "one of the most important documents in the history of the industry."

The case is expected to attract nationwide attention because of the precedent involved.

Bay State Spot Wins Fight on Dog Track

BOSTON, June 6.—Judge Franklin Hammond has upheld the right of municipalities to ban pari mutuel dog tracks from their limits. The decision throws into confusion those who have been rushing completion of a track at Dighton for the Bristol County Kennel Club.

Town authorities contended in a suit that a local license was necessary as well as a license from the State Racing Commission. The court upheld this contention.

Blames Poor Product on Other Firms' Worries

CINCINNATI, June 7.—Edward A. Golden, general sales manager of Republic, declared today that the reason there are many poor pictures was because producing companies have been in financial difficulties. He spoke at the opening session of Republic Pictures' sales convention.

Republic has no such trouble, he said. He told home office officials, exchange managers and salesmen from 39 branches that Republic is financed for the delivery of every one of the 46 pictures which he announced for the 1935-36 schedule. His announcement

Sentiment for Keeping Hour, Wage Levels

Maintenance of NRA scales of minimum wages and maximum working hours will be voluntarily continued throughout the industry in the absence of a compulsory code, it appeared fairly certain from inquiries made at home offices here yesterday. It was stated by representatives of most companies that the continuation of prevailing wage and hour schedules was taken for granted for the time being, at least, and the lack of necessity for a revision of this kind has made it unnecessary for any of the large companies to call meetings

A one-day advertising and exploitation convention sponsored by Fox on behalf of "Dante's Inferno" with circuit theatre operators and their advertising directors from the field as participants was carried through to a successful conclusion yesterday. From time to time as pictures rate, Fox proposes using the plan along identical lines.

The idea is credited to Sidney R. Kent. The execution was placed in the hands of Charles E. McCarthy, director of advertising and publicity for the company. Advertising roughs and sample lobby displays and lithographs were prepared by the Fox advertising department and strung around ample quarters at the Waldorf yesterday for the consideration of the visiting theatremen.

The session started in the morning with a screening of the picture, was followed by lunch at which the merits of the attraction were discussed and then moved into an all-afternoon conference when the Fox suggestions

Hearing in St. Louis Trust Suit June 18

Assistant Attorney General Russell Hardy asked for an early trial and accused the defendants of "bleeding to death" the lessees of the Grand Central, Missouri and Ambassador, whose charges of inability to obtain product brought about the government action.

Hardy told the court the government had insisted upon an early trial of the case on its merits and estimated disposal of the matter by early July. The defendants had asked that the trial go over to the fall. Hardy informed the court Attorney General Cummings thought the case so important he had applied to the chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court for the dispatching of a special judge to try the case if necessary. The appointment of Judge Moore by President Roosevelt to fill a vacancy on the bench here had made that step unnecessary, Hardy said.

It was asserted by Hardy that the loss suffered by the three theatres had already reached $100,000.

to discuss the subject. So far as could be learned yesterday no such meetings are in prospect, and representatives of most companies said that, barring a new business emergency, it could reasonably be expected that no changes in prevailing schedules would be made.

The possibility of isolated variations from code schedules being made by individual theatres, particularly during the summer months, was suggested by some exhibition officials. Circuit heads, however, declared that no changes were contemplated in their organizations. A large percentage of theatre personnel is working under union labor contracts and the remainder, it is believed, would be unaffected for the most part except in the face of a sustained business decrease.

Allied States and M.P.T.O.A. have urged member exhibitors to maintain prevailing standards for all employees.

Move to Cut Press Lists for Studios

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—The first step toward cutting down the film press correspondent list was taken at the publicity executives' meeting yesterday at the Hays office when the publicists agreed that no publication hereafter will be recognized unless it is six months old and its circulation is at least 25,000.

The group also decided to ask editors to do away with future stories exposing the technical tricks of the industry.

Disciplinary action will be taken at the next meeting against Modern Screen for printing allegedly unsubstantiated stories on the personal lives of stars.

Later from Fort Worth: "Moray, Blank and R. Lohrenz missed train at Dallas, but made it by taxi to this point."

Pictures Improving, Clubwomen Are Told

DETROIT, June 7.—Hollywood has kept its promise to the clubwomen of America and is making a higher percentage of films suitable for the entire family, Mrs. Richard M. McClure of Chicago, chairman of the motion picture committee, told 5,000 delegates to the national meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Last April this department announced producers had accepted our pleas for family night programs and had promised the 1935 production schedule would bring more films suitable for the entire family," Mrs. McClure said.

"Producers have kept that promise. Of 333 features released since May, 1934, 116 are classed as family entertainment, as against 70 the preceding year."

Republic Set On Financing List—Golden

was received with cheers by the 150 men present. Later Golden declared that the company was ready to take its place among the leading producing and distributing firms.

Golden asserted Republic would continue the Monogram policies. The new company's reputation, he declared, would be founded on the practice of "delivery on every promise." He pointed out that in 1933-34 every picture promised by Monogram was delivered. Golden said Republic's policy of placing the various sales territories under local control was being recognized by other companies as the only sensible method of operation.

According to Golden, the majors have taken recognition of the value of action films in their new announcements, something which he said his organization had taken cognizance of a long time ago. Golden said he wished to correct any impression Republic would make pictures only for the double-feature market.

The convention was opened this morning by W. Ray Johnston, president. He backed up Golden's statements about company financing and said that every promise made would be kept.

Says Has High Ideals

"Republic has high ideals for the production of pictures," Johnston said, "and they are—to see that its product is of such a nature that any member of a family can see it and be entertained without being offended by indecency and grossness."

"It aims," he declared, "to give the public the classics and works of famous authors, as well as to encourage American authors to write better stories for the screen."

Johnston also said that "as the company grows and new positions of authority are created they will be filled by men from the ranks," adding that next year he expected "to see a number of boys now in the field seated on the dais in some executive capacity, thus building up our structure on a firm foundation."

Johnston then introduced Mayor Russell Wilson of Cincinnati. The Mayor welcomed the guests in the name of the city and extended the well wishes of himself and official family.

Edward Finney, advertising and publicity head, said Republic would continue the policies of Monogram on a far more extensive basis. He revealed a number of tieups had already been arranged on the first Republic releases, "Forbidden Heaven" and "Eastward Ho!" and stressed truth in advertising.

All franchise holders were present except Floyd St. John and J. T. Sheffield, for whose benefit a special meeting will be held after the close of the Cincinnati convention.

Trem Carr and Ben Goetz arrived from the coast as the afternoon session opened.

Following luncheon, Golden again took the floor, and, after going into salesmanship angles, announced that Republic would make 46 attractions on its 1935-36 program. These are to be broken up into several groups, the first of which is five special productions to be known as Gold Medal Specials, the second five Blue Ribbon Winners, then eight Showmanship Pictures, eight Entertainment Group, eight John Wayne Greater Western Series, eight Fast Action Westerns and four Serials.

First in the de luxe group of five Republic Gold Medal Specials to go into production will be "Forbidden Heaven" with Charles Farrell and Charlotte Henry. This picture is to be directed by Reginald Barker.

There will be another session of the convention tomorrow concluding with a banquet in the Netherlands-Plaza Saturday night.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Clairvoyant"

(Gaumont British)

Claude Rains here gives another of his sterling characterizations, this time as a misunderstood clairvoyant. It is good entertainment on the whole.

Director Maurice Elvey has played up the science of gift—whatever it may be—of clairvoyancy to enhance the film's values and, although at times the material almost borders on the far-fetched, he never allows the picture to get out of hand. The photography of Harry Hand is good.

An excellent cast, including Fay Wray, Jane Baxter, Ben Field and Mary Clare turns in good portrayals.

The yarn, taken from Ernst Lothar's novel of the same name, has Rains a small time vaudeville mindreader until the gift of seeing into the future suddenly comes upon him. After saving a newspaper publisher's daughter, Miss Baxter, from a train wreck by looking into the future he predicts the winner of the Derby and becomes the talk of London. But while climbing he loses his wife, Miss Wray, and is seen continually with Miss Baxter. After the people had failed to heed a warning that a tunnel would collapse they turn on Rains for revenge and he finds himself in court on trial as a public nuisance. In a dramatic climax he vindicates himself and the closing shot shows him and Miss Wray happily reunited.

Exhibitors have many exploitable angles in this one. If played up right the picture should react favorably at the box-office. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

were studied, criticized, approved and revamped. The result of the endeavor was a complete campaign which will be whipped into shape by McCarthy's men, embodied in press books, and, of course, ultimately used by the circuits, including Loew's RKO, Butterfield, Lucas and Jenkins and others which were represented, since the ideas are theirs.

The decision on "Dante's Inferno" was to stress the modern story aspects of the picture, plus its spectacular phases, and subordinate the allegory.

Many of those present will remain in town today and depart for their respective cities tonight or tomorrow. The group included:

Elmer C. Rhoden, Kansas City; Rick Ricketson, Denver; Arch Bowles, San Francisco, and Harold J. Fitzgerald, Milwaukee, who are operating chiefs of the various National Theatre subsidiaries; Milton Feld, Monarch; Oscar A. Dooh, Loew's; John Dowd, RKO; Morris Kinzler, The Roxy; Harry Browning, M. & P.-Publix, Boston; Charles Winchell, Minnesota Amusement Co., Minneapolis; H. E. Jameyson, Fox, Wichita, Kan.; Frank W. Buhler, Fox, Philadelphia; Charles B. Taylor, Buffalo, Buffalo; Gus W. Lampe, Eckel, Syracuse; E. E. Whitaker, Fox, Atlanta; Ollie Brooks, Butterfield Circuit, Detroit; John Carroll, Fay's, Providence; L. B. Cool, Fulton, Pittsburgh; William Hollander, B. & K., Chicago; George Tyson, Alvin, Pittsburgh.

New Rules Made for Mass. Sunday Shows

BOSTON, June 7.—Applications and programs accompanying licenses for Sunday shows, which must be submitted for the approval of the Commissioner of Public Safety under the Massachusetts Sunday censorship law, must be signed by the person responsible for the entertainment or they will be disapproved in the future. Patrick F. Healey, supervisor of the Bureau of Sunday Entertainments, has notified exhibitors to this effect.

Of particular interest to vaudeville houses is the part of the bulletin which states: "No change of program shall be permitted after same has received the approval of the Commissioner of Public Safety, unless such change has been approved by a representative of this bureau, and said approval must be received directly and not later than 12 o'clock noon Saturday.

DALLAS, June 7.—R. & R. Circuit has acquired five new theatres: the Palace and the Lyric at Commerce, and the Mission, Broadway and Palace at Sulphur Springs. East Texas Theatres have taken over the Rex at Arp and the Texas at Kilgore.

Small Texas towns continue a fertile field for new theatres. Lester Dollison has opened the Texas in Balmorhea. Edinburg will have the Aztec, owned by C. G. Harryman. H. J. McFerrin is operating a new house in Tuscola, the Cupid. W. A. Schennault has opened an outdoor theatre, the Airdome, in Quemado.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 7.—Acquisition by Warners of the State gives the circuit virtual control of this town except for one house owned and operated by Wilmer & Vincent.

Sabatini Winner on Income Tax Appeal

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Income derived by Rafael Sabatini, British author, from sale of the film rights of five of his books, "Gates of Doom," "Strolling Saint," "Bardelys, the Magnificent," "Tavern Knight" and "Captain Blood," today was held by the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals to be exempt from American income taxes. The contracts gave the producers world wide picture rights to the books for $20,000 each. The agreements were signed in London.

Sabatini, however, was held subject to tax in this country for all receipts from the dramatization of "Scaramouche," for which he received an advance of $500 from Charles I. Wagner.

The Government was seeking the collection of some $40,000 in tax deficiencies and penalties for the years 1921-1928, inclusive.

Blames Poor Product on Other Firms' Worries

CINCINNATI, June 7.—Edward A. Golden, general sales manager of Republic, declared today that the reason there are many poor pictures was because producing companies have been in financial difficulties. He spoke at the opening session of Republic Pictures' sales convention.

Sentiment for Keeping Hour, Wage Levels

Maintenance of NRA scales of minimum wages and maximum working hours will be voluntarily continued throughout the industry in the absence of a compulsory code, it appeared fairly certain from inquiries made at home offices here yesterday. "Inferno" Round Table Hits; Fox Will Use Ideas on Others

A one-day advertising and exploitation convention sponsored by Fox on behalf of "Dante's Inferno" with circuit theatre operators and their advertising directors from the field as participants was carried through to a successful conclusion yesterday. From time to time as pictures rate, Fox proposes using the plan along identical lines.

The idea is credited to Sidney R. Kent. The execution was placed in the hands of Charles E. McCarthy, director of advertising and publicity for the company. Advertising roughs and sample lobby displays and lithographs were prepared by the Fox advertising department and strung around ample quarters at the Waldorf yesterday for the consideration of the visiting theatremen.

The session started in the morning with a screening of the picture, was followed by lunch at which the merits of the attraction were discussed and then moved into an all-afternoon conference when the Fox suggestions

Assistant Attorney General Russell Hardy asked for an early trial and accused the defendants of "bleeding to death" the lessees of the Grand Central, Missouri and Ambassador, whose charges of inability to obtain product brought about the government action.

Hardy told the court the government had insisted upon an early trial of the case on its merits and estimated disposal of the matter by early July. The defendants had asked that the trial go over to the fall. Hardy informed the court Attorney General Cummings thought the case so important he had applied to the chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court for the dispatching of a special judge to try the case if necessary. The appointment of Judge Moore by President Roosevelt to fill a vacancy on the bench here had made that step unnecessary, Hardy said.

It was asserted by Hardy that the loss suffered by the three theatres had already reached $100,000.

to discuss the subject. So far as could be learned yesterday no such meetings are in prospect, and representatives of most companies said that, barring a new business emergency, it could reasonably be expected that no changes in prevailing schedules would be made.

The possibility of isolated variations from code schedules being made by individual theatres, particularly during the summer months, was suggested by some exhibition officials. Circuit heads, however, declared that no changes were contemplated in their organizations. A large percentage of theatre personnel is working under union labor contracts and the remainder, it is believed, would be unaffected for the most part except in the face of a sustained business decrease.

Allied States and M.P.T.O.A. have urged member exhibitors to maintain prevailing standards for all employees.

Move to Cut Press Lists for Studios

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—The first step toward cutting down the film press correspondent list was taken at the publicity executives' meeting yesterday at the Hays office when the publicists agreed that no publication hereafter will be recognized unless it is six months old and its circulation is at least 25,000.

Pictures Improving, Clubwomen Are Told

DETROIT, June 7.—Hollywood has kept its promise to the clubwomen of America and is making a higher percentage of films suitable for the entire family, Mrs. Richard M. McClure of Chicago, chairman of the motion picture committee, told 5,000 delegates to the national meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Last April this department announced producers had accepted our pleas for family night programs and had promised the 1935 production schedule would bring more films suitable for the entire family," Mrs. McClure said.

"Producers have kept that promise. Of 333 features released since May, 1934, 116 are classed as family entertainment, as against 70 the preceding year."

among others, were joining the company he stated: "No new producers have been signed as yet, although negotiations are in progress."

Lichtman plans to remain here at least another week.

After American Units

LONDON, June 7.—Maurice Silverstone, managing director here for United Artists, declared today the company is negotiating for several important American producers, but refused to divulge their identity. He also stated an early announcement will be made of two big British pictures for U. A. distribution.

The company has closed for a Technicolor feature to be made by Tower Film Prod.

Joseph M. Schenck today decided to return to New York on the Normandie next week. Silverstone will accompany him.

Die for Theatre Murders

BOSTON, June 7.—Death in the electric chair at Massachusetts State Prison at Charleston early this morning ended the crime careers of Murton and Irving Millen and Abraham Faber in which depredations against theatre men figured prominently. The trio had been convicted of murdering Fred Sumner and Bill Poster, film men, during a holdup at the Paramount, Lynn.

Mascot officials could not be reached yesterday for comment on the progress of the Yates' conferences.

Republic Set On Financing List—Golden

was received with cheers by the 150 men present. Later Golden declared that the company was ready to take its place among the leading producing and distributing firms.

Golden asserted Republic would continue the Monogram policies. The new company's reputation, he declared, would be founded on the practice of "delivery on every promise." He pointed out that in 1933-34 every picture promised by Monogram was delivered. Golden said Republic's policy of placing the various sales territories under local control was being recognized by other companies as the only sensible method of operation.

According to Golden, the majors have taken recognition of the value of action films in their new announcements, something which he said his organization had taken cognizance of a long time ago. Golden said he wished to correct any impression Republic would make pictures only for the double-feature market.

The convention was opened this morning by W. Ray Johnston, president. He backed up Golden's statements about company financing and said that every promise made would be kept.

Says Has High Ideals

"Republic has high ideals for the production of pictures," Johnston said, "and they are—to see that its product is of such a nature that any member of a family can see it and be entertained without being offended by indecency and grossness."

"It aims," he declared, "to give the public the classics and works of famous authors, as well as to encourage American authors to write better stories for the screen."

Johnston also said that "as the company grows and new positions of authority are created they will be filled by men from the ranks," adding that next year he expected "to see a number of boys now in the field seated on the dais in some executive capacity, thus building up our structure on a firm foundation."

Johnston then introduced Mayor Russell Wilson of Cincinnati. The Mayor welcomed the guests in the name of the city and extended the well wishes of himself and official family.

Edward Finney, advertising and publicity head, said Republic would continue the policies of Monogram on a far more extensive basis. He revealed a number of tieups had already been arranged on the first Republic releases, "Forbidden Heaven" and "Eastward Ho!" and stressed truth in advertising.

All franchise holders were present except Floyd St. John and J. T. Sheffield, for whose benefit a special meeting will be held after the close of the Cincinnati convention.

Trem Carr and Ben Goetz arrived from the coast as the afternoon session opened.

Following luncheon, Golden again took the floor, and, after going into salesmanship angles, announced that Republic would make 46 attractions on its 1935-36 program. These are to be broken up into several groups, the first of which is five special productions to be known as Gold Medal Specials, the second five Blue Ribbon Winners, then eight Showmanship Pictures, eight Entertainment Group, eight John Wayne Greater Western Series, eight Fast Action Westerns and four Serials.

First in the de luxe group of five Republic Gold Medal Specials to go into production will be "Forbidden Heaven" with Charles Farrell and Charlotte Henry. This picture is to be directed by Reginald Barker.

There will be another session of the convention tomorrow concluding with a banquet in the Netherlands-Plaza Saturday night.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Clairvoyant"

(Gaumont British)

Claude Rains here gives another of his sterling characterizations, this time as a misunderstood clairvoyant. It is good entertainment on the whole.

Director Maurice Elvey has played up the science of gift—whatever it may be—of clairvoyancy to enhance the film's values and, although at times the material almost borders on the far-fetched, he never allows the picture to get out of hand. The photography of Harry Hand is good.

An excellent cast, including Fay Wray, Jane Baxter, Ben Field and Mary Clare turns in good portrayals.

The yarn, taken from Ernst Lothar's novel of the same name, has Rains a small time vaudeville mindreader until the gift of seeing into the future suddenly comes upon him. After saving a newspaper publisher's daughter, Miss Baxter, from a train wreck by looking into the future he predicts the winner of the Derby and becomes the talk of London. But while climbing he loses his wife, Miss Wray, and is seen continually with Miss Baxter. After the people had failed to heed a warning that a tunnel would collapse they turn on Rains for revenge and he finds himself in court on trial as a public nuisance. In a dramatic climax he vindicates himself and the closing shot shows him and Miss Wray happily reunited.

Exhibitors have many exploitable angles in this one. If played up right the picture should react favorably at the box-office. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Inferno" Round Table Hits; Fox Will Use Ideas on Others

were studied, criticized, approved and revamped. The result of the endeavor was a complete campaign which will be whipped into shape by McCarthy's men, embodied in press books, and, of course, ultimately used by the circuits, including Loew's RKO, Butterfield, Lucas and Jenkins and others which were represented, since the ideas are theirs.

The decision on "Dante's Inferno" was to stress the modern story aspects of the picture, plus its spectacular phases, and subordinate the allegory.

Many of those present will remain in town today and depart for their respective cities tonight or tomorrow. The group included:

Elmer C. Rhoden, Kansas City; Rick Ricketson, Denver; Arch Bowles, San Francisco, and Harold J. Fitzgerald, Milwaukee, who are operating chiefs of the various National Theatre subsidiaries; Milton Feld, Monarch; Oscar A. Doob, Loew's; John Dowd, RKO; Morris Kinzler, The Roxy; Harry Browning, M. & P.-Publix, Boston; Charles Winchell, Minnesota Amusement Co., Minneapolis; H. E. Jameyson, Fox, Wichita, Kan.; Frank W. Buhler, Fox, Philadelphia; Charles B. Taylor, Buffalo, Buffalo; Gus W. Lampe, Eckel, Syracuse; E. E. Whitaker, Fox, Atlanta; Ollie Brooks, Butterfield Circuit, Detroit; John Carroll, Fay's, Providence; L. B. Cool, Fulton, Pittsburgh; William Hollander, B. & K., Chicago; George Tyson, Alvin, Pittsburgh.

New Rules Made for Mass. Sunday Shows

BOSTON, June 7.—Applications and programs accompanying licenses for Sunday shows, which must be submitted for the approval of the Commissioner of Public Safety under the Massachusetts Sunday censorship law, must be signed by the person responsible for the entertainment or they will be disapproved in the future. Patrick F. Healey, supervisor of the Bureau of Sunday Entertainments, has notified exhibitors to this effect.

Of particular interest to vaudeville houses is the part of the bulletin which states: "No change of program shall be permitted after same has received the approval of the Commissioner of Public Safety, unless such change has been approved by a representative of this bureau, and said approval must be received directly and not later than 12 o'clock noon Saturday.

Reliance Starts List

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.—Reliance Pictures starts its new season's lineup with "Red Salute," in which Constance Cummings will be starred.

"Amateur Girl," originally scheduled as the first, has been delayed.

a house to be built on Delmar Boulevard.

The fifth house will be a 650-seater at Pine Lawn in St. Louis County. A sixth is to be constructed at De Soto, Mo., by the Karte Trading Co. for operation by the Collins Circuit.

Buy, Build in Texas Towns

DALLAS, June 7.—R. & R. Circuit has acquired five new theatres: the Palace and the Lyric at Commerce, and the Mission, Broadway and Palace at Sulphur Springs. East Texas Theatres have taken over the Rex at Arp and the Texas at Kilgore.

Small Texas towns continue a fertile field for new theatres. Lester Dollison has opened the Texas in Balmorhea. Edinburg will have the Aztec, owned by C. G. Harryman. H. J. McFerrin is operating a new house in Tuscola, the Cupid. W. A. Schennault has opened an outdoor theatre, the Airdome, in Quemado.

Plan Second Mass. Drive-in BOSTON, June 7.—A second drive-in theatre is planned for this state. The second venture will be located north of Boston. Work on the first, which will be in the vicinity of Hingham, is well under way.

The Union Hill in Gloucester, recently taken over by M. & P.-Publix, is in operation. In East Weymouth, the Roosevelt has been rejuvenated with new sound.

Fire has closed the Methven at Methven Point. On Cape Cod at Chatham, Moore & Fitzgerald have opened the Chatham.

Warners Get Control

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 7.—Acquisition by Warners of the State gives the circuit virtual control of this town except for one house owned and operated by Wilmer & Vincent.

The State, at one time part of Paramount's property, has been managed under a Federal receivership for some time.

Sabatini Winner on Income Tax Appeal

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Income derived by Rafael Sabatini, British author, from sale of the film rights of five of his books, "Gates of Doom," "Strolling Saint," "Bardelys, the Magnificent," "Tavern Knight" and "Captain Blood," today was held by the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals to be exempt from American income taxes. The contracts gave the producers world wide picture rights to the books for $20,000 each. The agreements were signed in London.

Sabatini, however, was held subject to tax in this country for all receipts from the dramatization of "Scaramouche," for which he received an advance of $500 from Charles I. Wagner.

The Government was seeking the collection of some $40,000 in tax deficiencies and penalties for the years 1921-1928, inclusive.

Los Angeles, June 9.—Warners are expected to adhere to their current program of 60 features and the same number of Vitaphone shorts for 1935-36. The schedule will be outlined to the assembled sales force, domestic and partially foreign, later in the week.

Considerable attention will be concentrated on "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which, it is understood, will be the company's big shot for next season.

With the arrival this morning of the special train from the east, delegates from all points are now assembled at the Ambassador and tonight were prepared for the opening gun, which is slated for Monday morning. The meetings may run for as many as 10 days.

Film Deliveries by Boat Beat Out Flood Problems

Kansas City, June 9.—Flood, following hard on the heels of dust storms and drought, added another note of drama to the film business in this territory. Northern Kansas—Manhattan, Topeka, Clay Center, Concordia, etc. — and Central Missouri above and below Jefferson City, experienced the most severe damage.

Drivers for Exhibitors Film Delivery Service probably came into more frequent and direct contact with flood areas than any one else in the business. It became a night and day problem for both drivers and Sam Abend. At Ottawa, Kan., where the Fox Webster was closed early in the week because flood waters had backed up into it, Film Delivery had to carry film in

Metzger, refers in its current bulletin to court recourse as a means of settling exhibitor problems as "a long and expensive procedure" which can

Criterion, Loew's Close; to Be Razed

The Criterion and Loew's New York closed last night for the last time and their passing leaves Broadway with two less of the old landmarks. Originally opened to house legitimate and musical shows, the Criterion turned to films over a decade ago. "The Birth of a Nation," "Wings," "Grass" and "The Iron Horse" were some of the old features that played there on a two-a-day policy.

Wrecking crews fell to work on both houses shortly after midnight.

Of the old houses that still feature pictures on Broadway only the Astor and Globe are left.

Rumors Stir Of Merger by Air Coolers

Hollywood, June 9.—Recent rumors of a possible merger in the air conditioning field gained credence here over the week-end when A. C. Blumenthal admitted he was interested.

"With 100 theatres in New York considering air cooling," he said, "it might be a good thing to get into the air conditioning field."

He was noncommital on details.

Blumenthal's presence here is said also to be due to a possible post with United Artists.

Cleveland Reported Set on Duals' Limit

Cleveland, June 9.—Sustained exhibitor effort to hold duals here to a minimum upon the expiration on July 8 of the single feature policy is reported to have resulted in a plan to limit them to one change a week.

The plan, reported ready for submission to the local exhibitor body, is said to contain restriction of duals to features that have not played a seven-day downtown first run engagement. The plan further provides, according to report, that violations will be followed by injunctions through regular legal procedure.

No date has been set for an exhibitor meeting to pass on this plan.

NRA End Seen As Brake for Merger Moves

Anti-Trust Laws Back in Effect, Is Warning

Voluntary codes, if they are adopted by the industry to perpetuate any of the advantages developed under the NRA code, cannot be made to protect subscribers to such agreements from the anti-trust laws, as was possible under NRA, President Roosevelt pointed out to industry at large in a statement over the week-end.

The declaration is regarded as significant in industry quarters in view of the consideration given by financial and executive groups to reported proposals for the merging of large film companies in recent months. Such mergers, it is pointed out, would have undoubtedly encountered fewer Federal objections while NRA, or any similar statute providing for the suspension of anti-trust laws for coded industries, was in effect. With the nullification of the NRA codes, however, and the declared impossibility of waiving compliance with the anti-trust statutes for the benefit of subscribers to voluntary industry codes, any anticipated mergers of large scale operations are once more regarded as being subject to close government scrutiny and intervention.

It has been rumored for weeks that several proposals for combinations of compared to 38 features and two shorts for the preceding week.

Fox led the field, hitting a season's high for that studio with nine features shooting, none preparing and six in the cutting room. M-G-M was second with eight, one and 13; Radio, six, one and three; Paramount, five, two and three; Warners, five, one and nine; Columbia, three, four and three; Universal, two, one and two; Goldwyn, one, zero and zero; Roach, one, zero and zero. The independent group had four, five and eight.

Short subject production also registered a decided gain. M-G-M had two shorts in work, two preparing and six in the cutting room. Roach had two, zero and two; Universal, one one and one; Radio, one, zero and six; Columbia, zero, zero and three with the independents charting two, two and seven.

Ohio Picks Counsel To Defend Date Bill

CLEVELAND, June 9. — Rocker & Schwartz have been appointed special counsel to Attorney General John W. Bricker to represent the State in the case instituted by RKO to test the constitutionality of the preferred playing time bill. This bill, passed by both houses of the legislature, became a law without the Governor's signature on April 6. It goes into effect July 5.

The case, filed in Franklin county, will be heard in Federal court, Cincinnati, probably the end of this month.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

NOW that executive management of Paramount at this end is set and John E. Otterson on June 17 officially steps into the presidency, there remains a job to be done in the next few days about the studio, admittedly and, of course, the nerve center of any producing and distributing company, no matter how major or minor. Flowing from, through and about the various financial groups which are now welded together in Paramount come many angles touching upon the ultimate determination of this vital problem. . . .

Available are the following, all predicated on what appears to go beyond gossip:

That Ernst Lubitsch, who took an airplane east from Hollywood yesterday, is generally favored for retention in a ranking production capacity.

That a long-term contract to replace his short-term contract which expired June 15 could be his. A matter of terms, which means negotiations.

That, the above being what it is, there enter several other possibilities, all of varying degrees of strength. One persistently and doggedly swings around the name of Emanuel Cohen and the report he may return to Paramount. One source says in his former capacity; another, in a high production post, but not necessarily the old one. A spokesman for the so-called Fortington-Atlas group on the new board, influential there, states his principals have consistently avowed Cohen's championship. . . .

To conjure with, also, are these semi-loud whispers:

That Lubitsch and Henry Herzbrun would be retained in their present capacities of producer and business administrator, respectively, with a third man, who might be described as a general overseer, to collaborate with both. If such a procedure is determined, Watterson R. Rothacker enters the lists as a strong contender.

That not remote by any manner of means is the final possibility which would send Adolph Zukor, now chairman of the board, to Hollywood where he would assume stewardship of the studio. . . .

The choice may come out of executive committee meetings in New York this week. Another piece of Grade A business which the committee will have before it is the subject of a formal contract with Otterson, it is reliably understood. It is reported no definite basis of remuneration was agreed upon between the new head at Paramount and the board prior to the election. The understanding is that an almost unanimous board wanted Otterson and that the former Erpi chief was not unwilling. It was on such a basis, there appears substantial reason to believe, the election was consummated. Terms, at best, are said to have been outlined only in general. A term contract for Otterson, therefore, is a task to be worked out. New York financial editors have been reporting his salary will run about $100,000 a year. . . .

The Fox West Coast pool with John Hamrick in Seattle and Portland is capturing the attention of sales managers and others in New York. The operating merger makes F. W. C., or Evergreen State Theatres which are tantamount to the same thing, the big noise in those Far Northwestern cities. Wafted about is conversation about deals to come in that same area as part of a post-depression ambition to once again make F. W. C., certainly powerful enough now, the uncontested theatre giant of the Pacific slope. . . .

Certain men, to remain unnamed here today, will be interested in the President's statement that relaxation of the anti-trust laws under voluntary codes, such as this industry is weighing, will not be countenanced. That may upset some plans smacking of mergers. . . .

before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in U. S. District Court.

At stake is the legality of Ascap's licensing and fee fixing policies for the reproduction of music in theatres and its recording in studios, radio broadcasting and other public performance of music. Numerous representative exhibitors are expected to be called by the government as witnesses for the trial which, it is expected, may continue for three weeks.

leave the exhibitor "bankrupt and out of business before some of the issues are settled finally."

The bulletin reflects on the significance to exhibitors of the nullification of the industry code, citing nine direct benefits achieved while it was in force which, the bulletin states, now are apparently lost.

"At first thought," it remarks, "many exhibitors will rejoice that they are now freed from the restrictions of the code. But, upon maturer consideration, many exhibitors are considerably disturbed about the future."

Referring to the court procedure, which was adopted by Allied's convention as a national policy, the bulletin declares that "the very nature of the motion picture industry means that you cannot afford to be tied up waiting for a decision for years. Looking back over the past 15 years of this industry, we cannot recall one time when any piece of litigation by either the government in behalf of exhibitors, or by exhibitors themselves, has ever given either speedy relief or the type of relief desired, or anything of substantial help."

Cites Benefits Under Code

"Our code," the bulletin says, "seemed to offer some rules (however imperfect) whereby we could know rather than guess where we stood on problems. . . . That is out now, but the need for such clarification in this industry remains."

The nine code advantages to exhibitors cited by the bulletin are clearance and zoning, restriction of prior run's protection, restrictions on overbuying, curtailment of the forcing of shorts with features, a helpful 10 per cent cancellation, bans on film service for non-theatrical competition, bans on servicing free street shows, restrictions on reduced admission practices and, finally, the definition of exhibitors' rights and liabilities.

Commenting on bank nights and lotteries, subsequent to the nullification of the code, the bulletin remarks that "it has long been our thought that lotteries and things of that nature help each theatre until your competitor puts on the same or a similar stunt. It is like double features, after your competitor starts them you are both doing the same business you did before you started them except that you are both spending a lot more money to do the same old amount of business."

large film companies have been considered by financial groups recently and reputedly favored by the heads of the companies involved. The most frequently advanced explanation of the change of venue in regard to such proposed combinations is that of government disfavor.

Muni in "Death Fighter"

HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—Paul Muni has been set by Warners for the leading role in "Death Fighter," an original story by Pierre Collings which deals with a scientist. Production is scheduled to follow "Dr. Socrates." No director has been selected.

Richards in "Big Shot"

HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—Warners have added Addison Richards, Joe Sauers and Arthur Vinson to the cast of "Little Big Shot." Glenda Farrell, Robert Armstrong and Edward Everett Horton head the cast, and Michael Curtiz is directing.

Looking 'Em Over

"Java Head"

(First Division)

With the familiar theme of "East is East and West is West and ne'er the twain shall meet" woven freely through the plot structure and vividly portraying the bigotry of the 18th century, this picturization of Joseph Hergesheimer's novel of the same name is good adult entertainment.

With Edmund Gwenn, Anna May Wong, John Loder and Elizabeth Allan heading the cast, the picture's value is greatly enhanced by their excellent portrayals. Director J. Walter Ruben has deftly handled his characters to keep the action moving along to the climax.

The familiar story has Loder, dashing sea captain, bringing home an Oriental bride, Miss Wong, to staid Bristol after he loses Miss Allan because of her family. His family, headed by Gwenn, accepts his wife and the two manage to conquer the prejudices of the town. All is serene until Loder's love for Miss Allan begins to crop up again along with hers for him. When Miss Wong realizes what has happened, she reverts to type and commits suicide. The fadeout shows Loder and Miss Allan sailing away together on his ship.

American audiences will probably appreciate this film, for it has many good qualities. Basil Dean Prod., London, produced.

Others in the capable cast are Ralph Richardson, Herbert Lomas and George Curzon.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

"Circus Shadows"

(Peerless)

Forced situations and amateurish acting combine to make this independently produced picture a pretty dull effort. It will probably make the grade in the neighborhood grinds. Caught at the Skouras Valentine, the audience did not refrain from showing disapproval. Compared with other independent features, the photography could be improved considerably.

Her mother killed in a fall when she misses her trapeze in the circus, Dorothy Wilson takes up her career under the big top guessing weights. Being closely allied with Russell Hopton so many years, a strong friendship develops between the heroine and the pick-pocket. However, the entrance of Kane Richmond upsets the romance and Miss Wilson falls head over heels for the wealthy boy.

Complications set in when the heroine leaves the circus to join up with William Ruhl, a mystic, who goes into business for himself and becomes enmeshed in a plot to force Richmond's aunt to sell her mining stock. The hero finds the former circus girl mixed up in the affair, but it takes the stout hearted Hopton to set the lovers straight.

No production code seal. Running time, 66 minutes. "G."

"Tovarishi"

(Amkino)

Only those who dote on Russian pictures are likely to find more than mild entertainment in this Lenfilm production fitted out with English subtitles. American audiences will regard it as a bit dull, with no exhilarating photography to add interest to the film.

The story is a little muddled. It attempts to tell of life in the Soviet and results in a strange admixture of romance and Soviet ideals. Presumably it endeavors to show how the Russian's sense of fidelity and duty toward the Soviet governs everything he does. One is brought to this conclusion by the fact that the two leading masculine characters seem to have difficulty in carrying on their work as true sons of the Soviet state and at the same time doing justice to their love life. Romantically, the film ends happily for one but unhappily for the other.

Its music is one of the film's best assets.

The direction is by S. Timoshenko. Among the players are Nicolai Batalov, Anatoli Goriunov, Mikhail Jharov, Tatiana Guretskaya and Veronica Polonskaya.

No production code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Wagon Trail"

(Ajax)

There is more than enough entertainment to please western fans in this William Berke production, which stars Harry Carey. It is packed with action, with no stint of gun play, hoof beats and flying fists.

Carey is cast as a two-fisted sheriff who sets out to clear his son when the boy is condemned to hang for the death of a man killed in a stagecoach holdup. While the youth did participate in the robbery, he had no hand in the actual killing. It so happened he was the sole member by boat. Flood waters barred the truck on the outskirts of town.

Dickinson's Wareham at Manhattan, Kans., didn't have a matinee June 4 because the lobby was filled with water, but the manager went through with the night show. Film was delivered after Film Delivery's driver had gone 250 miles out of the way to get into the town.

Main roads and principal bridges were out. Trains were not running. Two hundred miles and hours of nosing along little used roads, over small bridges, was the rule rather than the exception, according to Abend.

Dubinsky Brothers' New Capitol at Jefferson City was formally opened June 5 with the sound of flood waters in the ears of guests.

When waters of the Kaw reached to within a few inches of the levee top in the Argentine district of Kansas City, Kan., June 5, Fred Meyn brought in a crew to remove seats, screen and lobby boards from his Pershing. It was hoped the river would not go out at that point.

RKO to Take Sales For March of Time

dent of The March of Time, Inc., stated Saturday.

"The need for widespread national and international distribution for The March of Time has been becoming increasingly apparent," Larsen said in making the announcement. He said that inquiries "from all sections of the world" asking where the reel could be seen convinced its owners that "an aggressive, world wide sales organization such as RKO" was needed for complete distribution coverage.

The fourth edition of the reel now showing is the last that will be handled by First Division. In breaking off relations with the company and its state rights affiliates Larsen paid a high compliment to the wholehearted cooperation and help which has been given, he said, "in bringing The March of Time to its present standing."

The circuses were suggested by the American Federation of Actors to give employment to idle actors.

Carey Sues Weiss

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—Harry Carey filed suit in the Superior Court against Louis Weiss for alleged breach of contract. Carey claims that in 1931 he was signed by Weiss to make eight films in 16 weeks at $1,500 a week; that he made four films, was paid $11,500 and told that his services were no longer needed. The actor is suing for $12,750. Artclass Pictures Corp. also is named in the suit.

Louis Weiss is still in California. His brother, Max, was not in New York on Saturday.

Delay Bank Night Case

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Hearing by Common Pleas Judge McMahon on the first bank night case filed locally, originally set for last Friday, has been indefinitely postponed.

Meyer Fischer, Fountain, is asking for an injunction to stop bank night at the Haltnorth, operated by M. B. Horwitz. Judge McMahon refused to issue a temporary injunction pending hearing the case on its merits.

of the gang to be caught. He was forced to join the outfit on the threat of the head villain, the owner of the town saloon, to turn over his gambling debts to his dad.

When Carey learns the truth he turns the boy loose, with the result he is deprived of his sheriff's badge. Carey sets out after the villains, with the added incentive of winning back his post. There is a hot chase when the gang gets its hands on the boy. The film winds up with the chief villain killing himself when he is caught and the boy and his sweetheart headed for a quiet nook. The girl, who is the foster-daughter of the saloon operator, is played by Gertrude Messinger.

Also in the cast are Edward Norris and Roger Williams. Harry Fraser directed and Robert Cline handled the photography, which is good.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Twenty Dollars a Week"

(Ajax-Selected)

HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—"Twenty Dollars a Week" had the preview audience in the aisles—some rolling, but most walking out.

It is a tale of obvious lechery rampant all over a business office. Pauline Starke takes one look at James Murray, and falls into a staring love trance, but she has determined to marry a millionaire so she breaks their date to go out with a sub-boss, Bryant Washburn. She gets an apartment which could not be had under $20 a day, but remains militantly a good girl even when engaged to the owner of the business.

Produced by a major company, the story would be no worse than routine, but struggling with inadequate adaptation, direction and cutting, here it becomes a burlesque of heavy melodrama.

In the cast are Gwen Lee, Dorothy Revere, William Worthington, Audry Rice, Jr., Bertlett Carre. Wesley Forde directed the screenplay by L. V. Jefferson from Rob Eden's novel.

No production code seal. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

merely being fitted with new steel windows and new locks and hinges, however.

The reason for all this preparation is The Film Daily Golf Tournament set for next Wednesday at the Progress Country Club. The townspeople intend to be prepared for the bombardment of mud clots that is certain to descend upon them once the film boys begin belaboring the earth with their clubs. The greatest danger, however, is thought to lie in the gales of wind that will sweep down on the houses all day long from missouts in swings. For those who have to venture outside on this day, special helmets and protective suits are being provided by the Village Board of Selectmen and special lifelines will be strung along the main thoroughfare. All traffic will be re-routed away from the town to insure safety to travelers forced to pass in this vicinity.

Approximately 150 filmites will meet to vie for the number of prizes, among which will be one presented by the Quigley Publications. James Cron, leading golfer of that organization, denies that that prize will be presented to the player whose divot travels farthest from where he makes his shot.

The main match of the day, however, will be the one between the teams from the M. P. Club and the Ampa for a leg on the Albee Memorial Trophy.

John W. Alicoate, formerly general of the Kentucky colonels, has been resting at White Sulphur by way of preparation for the event.

He, plus entourage, will arrive here Tuesday evening to survey the terrain and to make certain the cellars—wine, not storm— are in the pink.

Despite manifested hopes of its sponsors that the plan eventually will bear fruit, the two local schemes to corral about 150 independent houses in New York and approximately 75 in New Jersey into two compact corporations again have reached the dormancy stage after having emerged three weeks ago from a prolonged lethargy.

It's the same old story and its corollary reasons why nothing may come of the plan. The story is that where exhibitors are asked to pool their interests in a corporation for which stock would be given in return, although management would be retained by the owner, there develops

Strike Closes Three Mexico City Houses

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, June 10.—A strike resulting from alleged unjustified dismissal of 25 ticket-takers and a demand for increased wages has closed three neighborhood houses and threatens to shut one first run and five second runs next Saturday.

A boycott of Mexican and foreign distributors has been voted by the local branch of the Confederation of Workers and Peasants, this country's strongest labor organization, as a protest against distributors' refusal to allow their employes to join the Cinema Employes' Union. The confederation has advised some distributors that the boycott will be put into effect unless they reinstate employes dismissed for alleged union activities. Other branches of the confederation are supporting the boycott move.

The distributors point out that these workers already have a union of their own.

sufficient distrust in the minds of some exhibitors to upset the applecart.

About two weeks ago when the plan was revived about 25 New Jersey independents openly approved the idea at a meeting in Newark. Following this session, a conclave of 86 New York exhibitors was held at the M. P. Club. The men present were in the mood and endorsed the local tieup en masse, but when it came time to follow through, that was something else.

Sponsors of the plan visualized the present as propitious for pooling, since it is just a few weeks ahead of new selling. It was figured it would take a few weeks to work out the details and if the plan were successful the combine would make itself felt when the new selling season broke.

Milton C. Weisman, attorney for the I.T.O.A., had been detailed to draw up the plan for the local unit, but he has been busy with other matters. The idea has no connection with either the I.T.O.A. or the T.O.C.C.

Although the circuit idea is back in the doldrums, there are several unaffiliated exhibitors who cling to the last remaining hope that in the future something will develop along the lines outlined. However, the few advocates and hopefuls are not precise as to a definite date. No future meetings are scheduled in New Jersey and New York.

Felix Jenkins, general counsel of Fox, yesterday stated he had heard of the suit but has had no details.

CHINA SEAS

is COMPLETED and will be released in August. It is one of the GREATEST FILMS EVER MADE! starring

CLARK GABLE · JEAN HARLOW · WALLACE BEERY

Based on novel by Crosbie Garsten. Directed by Tay Garnett. Adapted by Jules Furthman

WHEN you glimpse Irving Thalberg's production of "China Seas", you will get an idea of the kind of product M-G-M will flash on the industry in the new season. From now on the title "China Seas" will be mentioned wherever film folk meet. You will read about it often in the trade press.

Behind a wall at the M-G-M studios is one of the most amazing sets created since "Ben-Hur." It is the harbor of Hong Kong, noisy, crowded, colorful. Here is enacted the pulse-pounding drama between Clark Gable, as the hard-bitten sea-faring man; Jean Harlow as the frank lady of the Oriental ports and Wallace Beery as the bluff trader who also seeks Miss Harlow's affections. The power and the elemental thrill of Gable and Harlow in this picture is even more tempestuous than it was in "Red Dust."

"China Seas" deals with fierce loves, bitter hatreds and dangerous intrigues and is played against a background of tropical hurricanes and pirate raids. Aboard the wheezy old liner Kin Lung, as she beats down the coast from Hang Kang to Singapore, are not only the group of white people in her cabins but also a wild assortment of Malay gangsters in her forecastle. Storms batter the Kin Lung and all but disable her. Pirates capture her and torture Gable, her skipper. The pirate raid is a scene never to be forgotten in the action annals of films. And right out of the headlines, too, for this coast of China is the last stronghold of pirates today. This stark, throbbing panorama comes to the screen for the first time in what is destined to be one of the most lustily exciting screen dramas of our time.

WIFE vs. SECRETARY

Based on the novel by Faith Baldwin in Cosmopolitan Magazine

LISTEN to this yarn . . . and visualize it portrayed by BIG STAR names . . . and produced in the de luxe M-G-M manner with backgrounds of Park Avenue penthouses, swanky Palm Beach, beautiful Bermuda. Faith Baldwin, the authoress, who knows what-the-public-wants, has given here in full, rich measure, a sparkling comedy drama. She relates her high-voltage story in the ultra modern manner, and yet with a tug at the heart and a primitive elemental thrill of the soul. Briefly, a combination business executive and society playboy in love with his wife engages in a harmless flirtation with his beautiful secretary. This man finds it passible to be crazy over two women at the same time and true to both of them. The secretary doesn't want another woman's husband. She doesn't know that side of him. She's in love with her boss, a different kind of loyalty and devotion that the modern world of business causes to happen. On the other hand, the wife doesn't truly know the man at the office. But audiences will be excited by this true-story-telling, because these human relationships happen in their own lives. The showman-producers of M-G-M sensed this in the selection of this story. Their judgment has been confirmed by the overwhelming response which Miss Baldwin's story has received nation-wide from readers of Cosmopolitan Magazine. It is one of the HIT magazine features of the year. It will be one of the HIT screen attractions of '35-'36 in a Star-Studded, de luxe M-G-M entertainment.

It was the exciting human interest story af M-G-M's earlier success that kept them clinging to the edge of their seats. The "Broadway Melody of 1936" is blessed with a dramatic lave stary twice as intense, with twists and unexpected developments in rapid-fire, breath-taking profusion. Unique methods of introducing song and dance and spectacle, make this a model of ingenuity. And what a cast, headed by radio favorite Jack Benny. And those gowns by Adrian! THE FORTY DAYS OF MUSA DAGH

Based on the novel by Franz Werfel. Screen play by Carey Wilson and Talbot Jennings.

THE most electrifying announcement of recent times was the flash to the world that M-G-M had bought the year's best seller, "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh," and that this remarkable novel would be filmed by Irving Thalberg as one of the most staggering production-undertakings of all picture history. No wonder this news-flash sped to the four corners of the globe, because the book, with its heart-stabbing story, had gripped the sympathetic attention of a world-audience. More than a hundred and seventy thousand copies were rapidly sold and the presses have been pouring forth additional thousands ever since! Why? Because this is life's blood, vivid on the printed page . . . the drama of the people of seven Armenian villages who, during the first year of the World War were cut off from the rest of the world. Facing extermination at the hands of the Turks, their beautiful daughters fleeing from the bestial approach of the soldiery, struggling against inhuman odds to preserve their lives, this wretched band entrenched themselves in the wild fastnesses of the holy mountain Musa Dagh. At their head was a handsome and wealthy young Armenian who yielded a life of ease and luxury in Paris to lead his distressed people. A mountain forest fire, a devastating avalanche, the endless replacement troops of the enemy, the distracting love of a beautiful woman . . . all these plagued him, but for forty memorable, world-shaking days he and his little band held out. And then at desperation's last stand, when the French cruisers arrive for the breath-taking rescue, there is climax on climax to win the tears and cheers of all audiences. There are actually 63 name parts assuring a host of the industry's stars in the brilliant cast of next season's towering entertainment. Salute now the genius of Thalberg, for this picture is destined for inclusion among the rare few immortalized in the Screen's Hall of Fame! Backed by a $2,500 Prize Contest now current in Modern Screen Magazine in cooperation with M-G-M and the publishers, Viking Press.

THE GREAT ZIEGFELD

WILLIAM POWELL

and Big Name Cast

By arrangement with the estate of Florenz Ziegfeld and presented in an original story by William Anthony McGuire

EVERYBODY wanted it! M-G-M got it! So big in possibilities, so gigantic in stature for proper presentation of the most magical name in show business . . . that only M-G-M could handle it! ZIEGFELD! What a wealth of showmanship it represents for every highway and byway of the globe! It is the symbol of this generation's ultimate vision of what's top in the show world! A trademark on any theatre's marquee that pre-sells a giant entertainment GLORIFYING THE AMERICAN GIRL. Only M-G-M has the rights to "The Great Ziegfeld," a name that's worth its weight in gold, built up by years of glamour and scintillating headliners. The production of this picture is being undertaken by the M-G-M studios on a scale ranking with the most pretentious in its history. William Powell has been chosen for the role of Ziegfeld. Harriet Hoctor, dancing star, is the first of a long list of celebrities engaged. Of many lavish scenes, a typical example is the Lion Ballet being staged by the renowned dance director, Seymour Felix, in which countless beauties, trained lions, ponies, dogs and other animals take part. William Anthony McGuire, who wrote the original story, will be associated in its production. McGuire's background of hits gives you an idea of what he can do..."Whoopee," "Three Musketeers," "Kid Boots," "Roman Scandals," just to mention a few that poured millions into box-offices! And that's why Mr. Exhibitor may safely dust off the S.R.O. sign...or better yet, get himself a few extra ones, for here comes M-G-M's "The Great Ziegfeld."

GARBO and FREDRIC MARCH in ANNA KARENINA

(For September Release.) It is completed and is positively the greatest Garbo picture of her entire career. Based on the novel by Tolstoi. Director Clarence Brown

The Cast: GRETA GARBO, FREDRIC MARCH, FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW, MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN, MAY ROBSON, REGINALD OWEN, BASIL RATHBONE, REGINALD DENNY, PHOEBE FOSTER, JOAN MARCH and 15 more!

THOSE who have been priviliged to see the completed production of "Anna Karenina" state without reservation that this is the Garbo picture for which the fans have yearned. This is the Garbo to yield tears, to grip souls, to thrill a romance-hungry world. Beautiful wife of a neglectful Russian government official, she meets the handsome Vronsky and their lives become fatefully joined. Their overpowering love surmounts tragedy and social ostracism. Their story is tear-dimmed, yet exquisitely beautiful, a drama so gripping it reaches deep into the public heart. Garbo is magnificent. Fredric March, newly applauded in "Les Miserables," is handsome and powerful in his role of lover. Freddie Bartholomew makes his first appearance following his "Copperfield" triumph and is definitely on the way to stardom. The skilled direction of Clarence Brown prophesies a headline triumph of the next season!

AFTER THE THIN MAN with WM. POWELL • MYRNA LOY

A NATURAL because the fans are waiting for it. And Dashiell Hammett, the author, Goodrich and Hackett, the adaptors, and W. S. Van Dyke, the director, are conspiring again to repeat the record-breaking success of their previous popular entertainment, "The Thin Man." The sequel is equally smart in dialogue and much more dramatic in story, with the delightful romantic feeling between William Powell and Myrna Loy that the fans loved.

Capital Stops Move to Delay Ascap Hearing

may be taken, and resumed again in October.

If Ascap's proposal to delay trial until fall were accepted, counsel for the government and Ascap would have got together in the meantime for agreement on various forms of evidence which would be admitted at the trial. With Ascap consenting to various stipulations which were expected to result from the summer conferences, the trial itself could have been greatly shortened next fall, attorneys said.

The suggestion to adopt this procedure was made by Nathan Burkan, Ascap's counsel, who refuted the government's statement that the trial could be concluded in three weeks if begun immediately, as scheduled. Burkan said the trial would consume at least three months and pointed out that with Judge Goddard slated for another court assignment July 1 the Ascap trial would have to be postponed until fall on that date, regardless.

Special Assistant Attorney General Andrew Dennett would have agreed to the postponement on the condition that Ascap's attorneys agreed during the summer to certain stipulations on evidence which would have saved considerable trial time next fall. Judge Goddard, likewise, indicated that he approved this course. When Burkan agreed to Dennett's condition an effort was made to obtain Attorney General Cummings' sanction of the postponement.

The courtroom was crowded yesterday with witnesses and attorneys. The government is endeavoring to have Ascap's licensing and price fixing policies declared illegal. It is understood that Ascap's current contracts, some of which expire early next fall, would be extended to the end of the year if the trial were delayed until October.

Gene Buck, Ascap president, yesterday named national radio broadcasting companies as the real figures behind the government's action.

"Ascap is glad that the whole thing is being brought out into the open," he said. "The monopolies which have sold millions of receiving sets and tubes have scrapped practically every phonograph in America and closed the lid on every piano. The composer wants a fair deal and an end to the legalized piracy of his work."

Cohen Advisor on Beacon

Sydney Cohen, advisor to the Roxy bondholders' committee and treasurer of Artco, which has a management contract with the theatre, has been retained by the Beacon Theatre bondholders' group to reorganize the property. Springer & Cocalis are now operating the Beacon.

ing minimum wages, maximum hours and prohibition of child labor and (2) prohibiting unfair competitive practices which offend against existing law or which constitute unfair methods of competition under the Federal Trade Commission Act."

The measure as reported to the Senate will continue Section 4, providing for voluntary agreements, and Section 5 excepting them from anti-trust prosecutions as well as Subsection B of Section 3, providing that violations of standards of fair competition in codes in interstate and foreign commerce shall be deemed an unfair method of competition under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

It was stressed by Senator Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the Finance Committee, that there is no waiver or suspension of the anti-trust law except as provided in the agreements, and violations, he hoped, would be prosecuted by the government.

New Color Process Gets Chicago Trial

CHICAGO, June 10.—Sons of J. Szczepanik, an inventor, who died in Europe in 1928 after eight years development work on a color process bearing his name, demonstrated the completed apparatus at Chicago Film Laboratory to an invited audience under auspices of Pennington-Hick Corp., a patents and investment securities house.

The inventor's sons explained, through an interpreter, that their camera feeds a continuously flowing negative at 30 per cent above normal speed past a single lens supplemented by 18 to 24 secondary lenses revolved back of it and in front of the negative. Projection is from a single positive with three lenses successively exposed by a dissolving shutter device, picture frames being colored green, red and a shade of violet, consecutively. The pull-down is 40 against the usual 24. It is claimed for the process that black and white can be used in the same film with color and that production cost is moderate. No commercial use of the process has been made, according to the interpreter.

Report Rosenblatt May Join the TOCC

president of the Independent exhibitor's group.

O'Reilly yesterday denied the story. Despite the denial, it is reputed Rosenblatt would make his headquarters at the T.O.C.C. Whether this would be under a temporary arrangement until Rosenblatt gets himself an office is not known, but the T.O.C.C. president also denies this.

Several weeks ago, Rosenblatt disturbed O'Reilly when he drafted a basic operators' wage scale for this territory. Other independents raised hullabaloo, contending that the NRA executive was favoring the I.A.T.S.E. and Local 306. This immediately led to reports that Rosenblatt had been retained by the International, starting June 16. Denials were made both by Rosenblatt and George Browne, head of the I. A.T.S.E.

According to him, the recent exchange of players is just a forerunner of a closer alliance of producing companies. He looks forward to the time when technicians and producers will be exchanged between American and European companies.

be made available for commercial telegraph work, will oppose the application.

Installation of the cable, it was stated by A. T. & T. spokesmen here, is primarily wanted to test television transmitting facilities outside the laboratory.

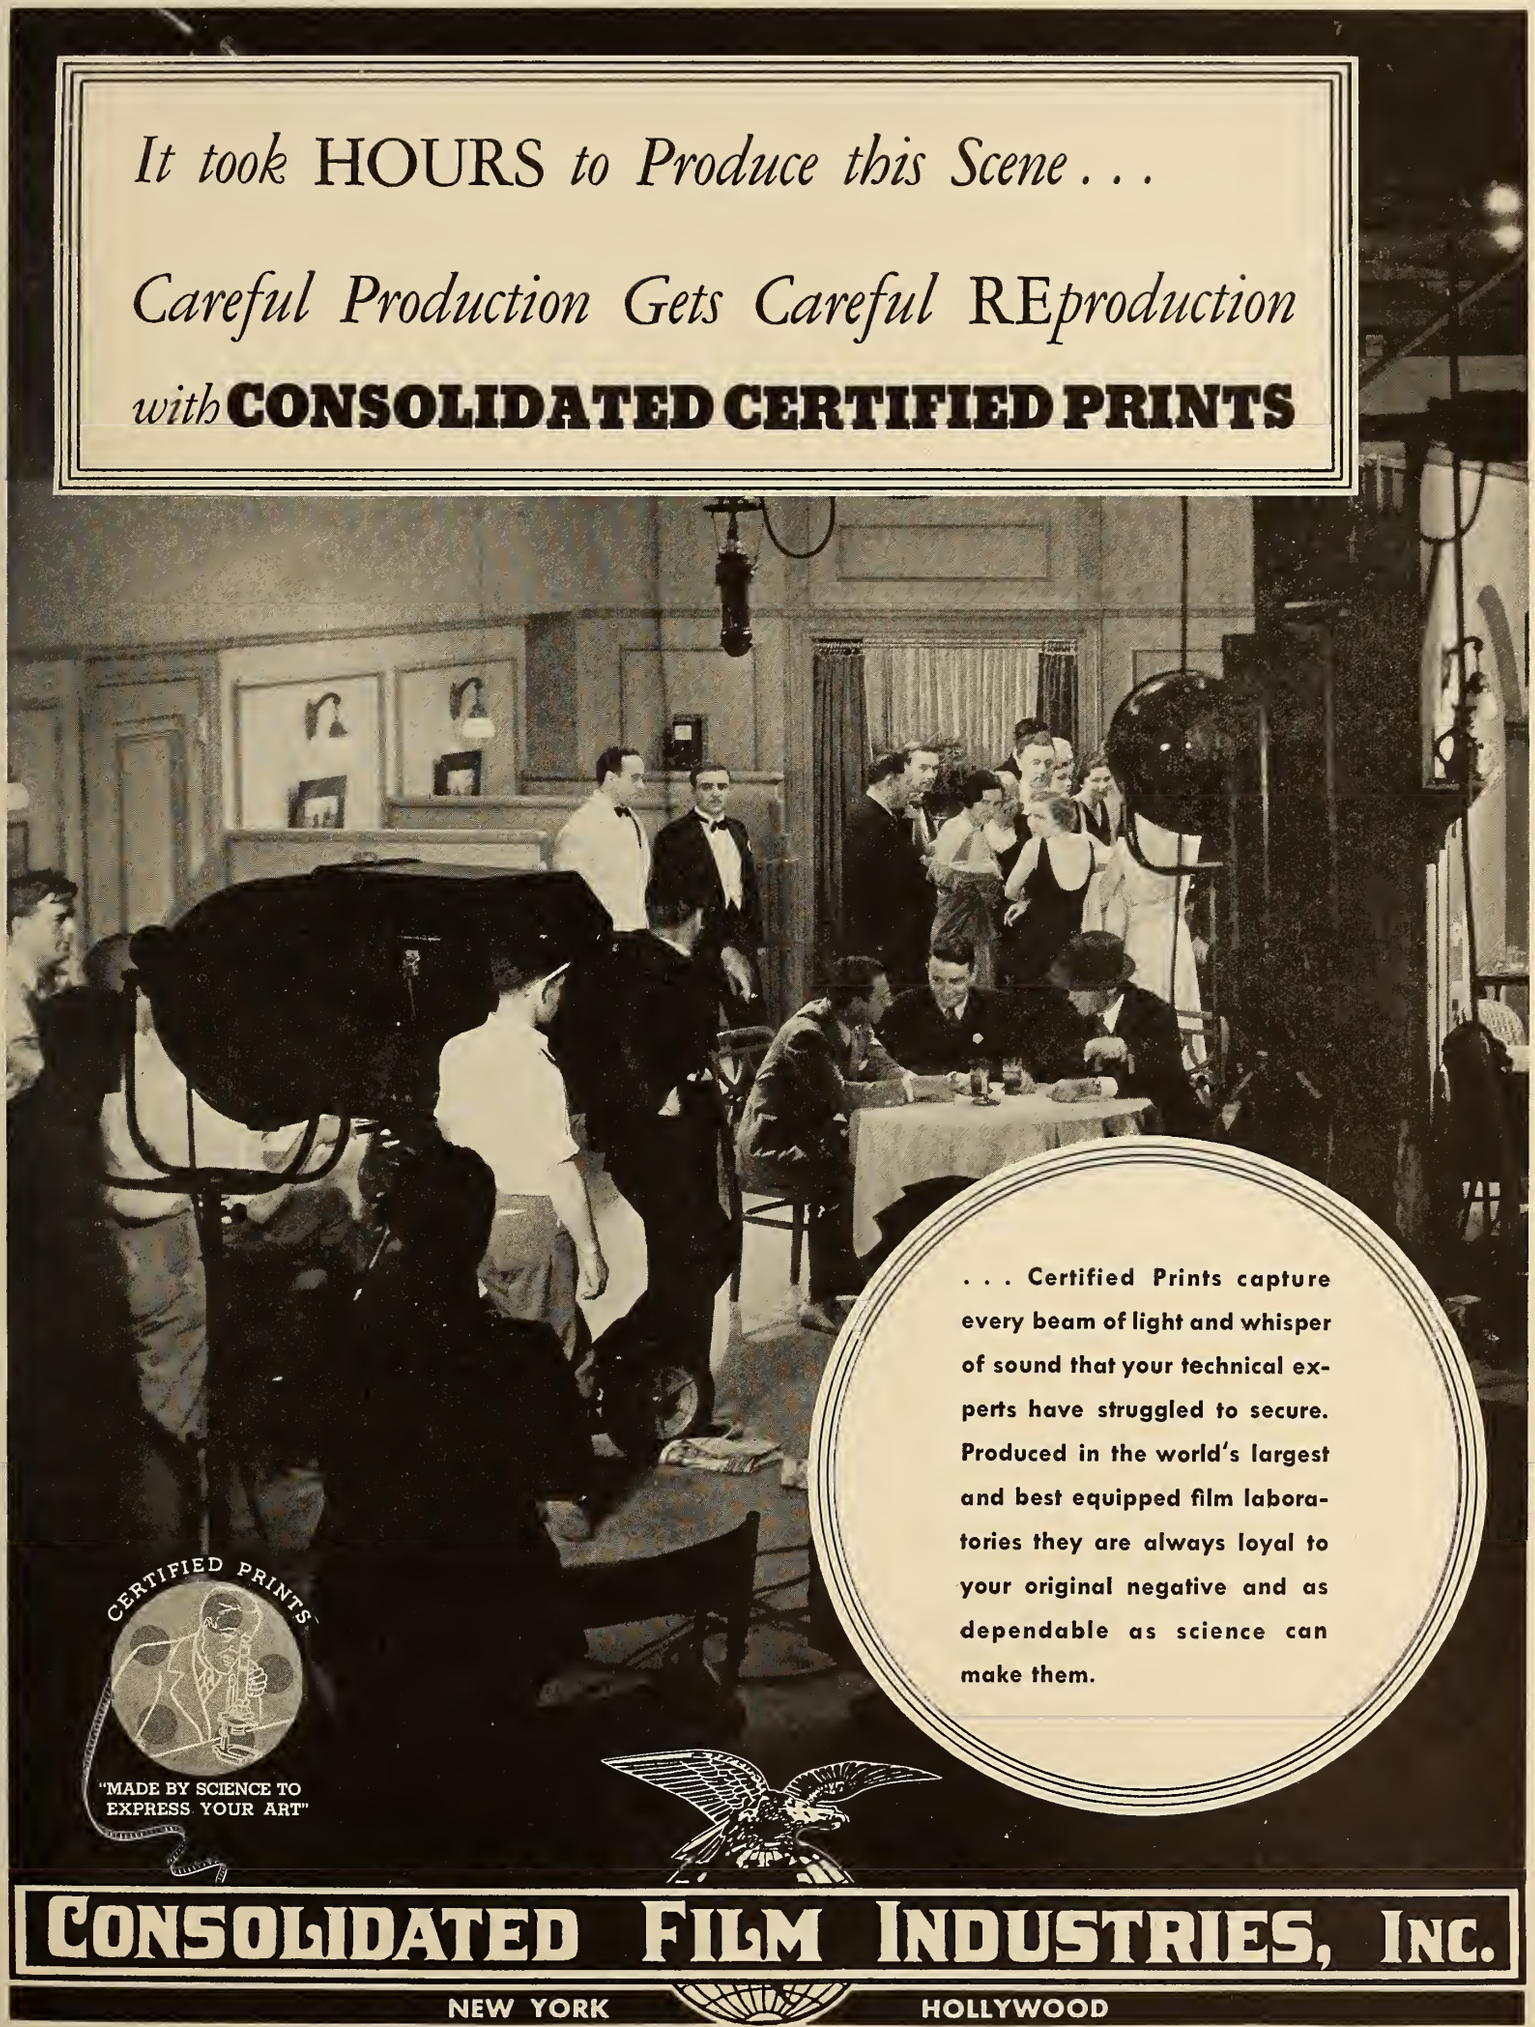
The television transmissions will require a circuit of amplifying stations at 10-mile intervals and the testing facilities will cost about $600,000 it was said.

RCA, through David Sarnoff, president, also announced a $1,000,000 fund would be applied for field tests of television transmission in the near future. The tests are expected to be conducted over a period of a year with experimental transmission headquarters being established in the Empire State Bldg., according to report.

Reports of a television invention enabling the transmission of images in their original colors simultaneously with sound have reached here from Brussels, Belgium. The invention, said to be the work of Leon Damas, a radio amateur, is reported to employ a screened lamp which can be produced at a wholesale cost of about $10.

Old Timers at Last Rites for New York

Oldtimers and stars of today were present at the closing of Loew's New York yesterday where they exchanged reminiscences of performances at the theatre and did bits of their acts before wreckers began demolishing the building.



Among those present were: Daniel Frohman, Arthur Hammerstein, Ned Wayburn, Charles Moskowitz, Victor Moore, Joe Weber, Pat Rooney, Gus Edwards and Eugene Howard. Joe Laurie, Jr., presided and offered a toast after which the guests joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne." The participants in the ceremony were given bricks and parts of the stage door as mementos of the occasion.

The party went over to the recently acquired Mayfair where a bronze plaque of Marcus Loew which had been transferred from the New York was unveiled by Arthur Hammerstein in a ceremony presided over by Charles C. Moskowitz.

The manager of the New York, Jack Feinman, takes over the reins at the Mayfair and three cashiers, Virginia Langdon, Mae Kirby and Ethel Shostak who began in 1915 when they were employed by Loew, keep their jobs.

The first day of operation of the Mayfair by the Loew circuit developed into a grosser. At 9 P. M. the tape was up and some ticketholders had been waiting to see the opening program, consisting of "Cardinal Richelieu" and "The Scoundrel."

Moskowitz, general operator of the New York City Loew houses, was on deck, busily checking the house and the smoothness with which operations were proceeding, even taking tickets at the door.

Passage of a resolution calling upon Allied's leaders to do less talking and more hard work may be asked at the board of directors' meeting at the Warwick Thursday and Friday.

President Sidney Samuelson yesterday asserted: "We've got a job to do which entails a lot of work. If we are to be successful in the job, we'll have to spend our time working and not talking."

No meeting is slated for Allied of New Jersey today. Samuelson hasn't set one for next Tuesday, but is considering calling a session to be held either in New York or Newark.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Farmer Takes a Wife"

(Fox)

SAN JOSE, June 10.—Under the spell of Victor Fleming's competent direction, California theatre patrons, at a first preview, saw Janet Gaynor as a canal girl and Henry Fonda as a farm boy reveal a rare romance, and showmen present sensed an important, big money picture was ready for the market.

In 1840, set against the picturesque backgrounds of the Erie canal, cities of the Empire State and historical events cavalcade behind the love story, as covered wagons parade west, county fairs boom, railroads arrive and the canal relinquishes to progress.

Before such a moving panorama is enacted a heart-socking romance, suffused with warmth and charm, racy with the flavor of good earth and painted in heroic proportions.

Simplicity marks the story of Miss Gaynor, who is fiercely loyal to the canal people in conflict with Fonda, who is working on the canal to earn enough money to buy a farm.

There's that likable heavy, Charles Bickford, who can lick any man on the canal and drink twice as much. There's Slim Summerville, who wins a set of dentist's instruments in a poker game and starts practicing. There's Andy Devine, hog caller and perfume buyer; Roger Imhof, who runs a boat and wins a lottery; Jane Withers, who says: "Cows don't give milk, you've got to take it from them."

Everyone in the cast is topnotch. Miss Gaynor is lovely to look at and gives her best screen performance, graduating from her syrupy roles with skill. Young Fonda, a find, resembling young Abraham Lincoln, is sincere, repressed and strong in what it takes. In linking Miss Gaynor with Fonda a new romantic team is created.

Edwin Burke's screen play adapted from Max Gordon's play and from the novel "Rome Haul" by Walter Edmonds, is taut, well constructed and strongly focused on young love.

The production contains comedy, wealth of dramatic interludes and a homey, down-to-earth tang. Enriched by the beauty of Ernie Palmer's photography, the authentic settings make for eye appeal.

With Miss Gaynor going from sweet-faced roles to maturity in a romance that captures an interesting era, Fox, in producing this, has transmuted dramatic metals into finely rolled gold, cashable at any box-office.

Production Code Seal No. 927. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

"Calm Yourself"

(M-G-M)

SAN JOSE, June 10.—This lively farce is expertly played and designed as average entertainment.

Robert Young, an advertising agent, is fired by Claude Gillingwater for flirting with Betty Furness, his daughter. Gillingwater's temper inspires Young to start a confidential service bureau to perform unpleasant tasks. When established, the service draws a wide variety of clients. Ralph Morgan employs Young to take care of his daughter, Madge Evans, until he can tell his second wife that he is old enough to have sired a grown child. Hardie Albright uses the service to rid himself of a baby he has been asked to mind. An unseen client turns over a great Dane for care. In the complication a kidnap angle is introduced and Young finally wins Miss Evans.

Director George B. Seitz maintains a rapid fire pace throughout, building situations deftly for hilarity. Nat Pendleton, introduced with the kidnap theme, scores many laughs. The screen play by Arthur Kober and the production by Lucien Hubbard are up to M-G-M standards for this type picture. The title lends itself nicely for exploitation.

No production code seal. Running time, 71 minutes. "G."

"Thomas" Top In Dull Week At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, June 10.—The small-seat houses had a corner on the slim business here last week while the de luxe theatres for the most part took it on the chin. The Fulton did well with "Doubting Thomas," getting $5,500, although it was the smallest gross a Will Rogers picture has had here in some time.

"Let 'Em Have It" was the lone other stand-out, getting $5,250 at the Warner. It was the first week for the return to a single feature policy and the attraction did considerably better than duals have been doing of late.

At the Penn, "The Mark of the Vampire" was a flop, and didn't round out the week, the first time in three years that this house has been forced to yank a picture prematurely. It did only around $4,000. The return for a week of Johnny Perkins on the stage didn't help the Alvin as much as had been expected and with "Under the Pampas Moon" on the screen, the take was around $8,500.

Total first run grosses were $37,250. Average is $47,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending June 6:

Warners Up Sears, Smith and Einfeld

pany's easiest way out of its theatre debts would have been to declare bankruptcy. "We could have let the receivers struggle with the problem and go out of business," he said, "but my brothers and I, having worked a lifetime to build up the business, refused to surrender without a struggle. Bankruptcy would have been cowardice."

Major Albert Warner told the convention the company would stop at no expense to produce high-quality product.

The conventioneers on Tuesday will be given the Vitaphone lineup for the new season with Norman H. Moray, in charge of sales of the abbreviated subjects, divulging the details.

In the morning, "cleanup" problems in connection with the remainder of the current season's product will be gone into by Smith, Sears; Robert Mochrie, who is the former's assistant, and Carl Leserman, who is Sears' aide. Discussion will hinge largely on "Alibi Ike," "Strand," "Don't Bet on Blondes," "Broadway Gondolier," "The Irish in Us," "We're in the Money," "Broadway Joe" and "Front Page Woman."

On Wednesday, the feature lineup, reported set at the usual 60, will be outlined.

Other speakers today were Sam E. Morris, Harold S. Bareford, Moray, Einfeld, Max Milder and D. E. Griffiths. Luncheon for the visitors was held at the Burbank studio with Jack L. Warner, Hal Wallis, and William Koenig as a triumvirate of hosts. It was followed by a round table on product from the theatre angle with the Warner circuit zone managers, headed by Joseph Bernhard, as chief participants. This group embraced Harry Kalmine, Pittsburgh; John J. Payette, Washington, D. C.; Nat Wolf, Cleveland; Don Jacocks, Newark, N. J.; Howard Waugh, Memphis; I. J. Hoffman, New Haven; James Coston, Chicago; Moe Silver, Albany, and Lou J. Halper, Los Angeles.

MEXICO CITY, June 10.—The popularity among Mexicans of dramatic and romantic tales, founded upon the history of their country, has inspired Felipe Mier, who resigned last fall as Warner manager, to become a distributor on his own, to branch out as a writer and producer. His first production is "El Tesoro de Pancho Villa" ("Pancho Villa's Treasure").

The picture is now being made and is scheduled for release in June. Mier has sold exhibition rights in the southern United States.

Another with a historical background is "Martin Garatuza," picturing deeds of a stout swordsman of that name who fought in the 17th century when Mexico was a Spanish colony. This production has had a good reception here. Aguila Films, S. A. is the producer.

Missouri's Racing Bill Gets a Veto

KANSAS CITY, June 10.—Governor Park has vetoed the bill legalizing horse and dog racing in Missouri. Because it would have made the state a partner in racetrack gambling enterprises, with 12 per cent to operators and three per cent to the state, Park pronounced it unconstitutional. Dog racing would have been legal within 20 miles of St. Louis, horse racing throughout the state.

Theatre men are pleased.

Cal. Income Bill Up Today

SACRAMENTO, June 10.—The Senate-Assembly Free Conference Committee today prepared to send to the floor of both houses of the California Legislature tomorrow the income tax bill calling for one-quarter the Federal rate, plus a tax on unearned income, such as dividends. The original Assembly bill called for one-third the Federal levy. This was amended in the Senate to one-fifth.

values incorporated in an exclusive flower shop, the plot settings and names suggest unique exploitation.

Pitched to a human key, the yarn blends two intriguing situations. An ace lawyer conducting eviction proceedings becomes attached to a woman florist victim of big business greed. Meanwhile, a wife instituting divorce proceedings retains him. He is not aware that his wife is the mysterious co-respondent. The florist, through dealing with the smart set, knows the situation, but goes to jail for contempt of court rather then embarrass the man who has been considerate of her. The finale, fusing tense drama and gay comedy, adjusts the situations pleasantly for lawyer and florist.

John Boles, singing two songs, fits like a glove into the lawyer role. The florist, Jean Muir, performs with charm and grace. Charles Butterworth, characteristically bemoaning a blighted romance, abetted by Arthur Treachers, supplies sparkling comedy. Spring Byington, Ruthelma Stevens and Harvey Stephens are convincing in dramatic romantic contrasts. William Seiter's smart direction adds entertainment and an exploitation sock to the Gordon Rigby-Robert Dillon original expertly adapted by Howard Estabrook and Bartlett Cormack.

Voluntary Code Delayed By Trade's Legal Doubts

Arbitration Back Locally; It Reappears with a Bang

While ways and means of evolving a general industry program of voluntary code procedure is keeping brows furrowed, voluntary arbitration, virtually at a standstill since the code was put into force, is returning with a bang locally. Three cases were on the calendar at the New York Film Board of Trade yesterday. Only one was heard and two postponed until next Tuesday. One of the two delayed cases will most likely be settled in the interim.

Prior to the handing down of the Thacher decree declaring compulsory Arbitration, Clearance Among Points Shy of Clarification

By RED KANN

Agreed that self-regulation, with or without benefit of NRA, would prove sane and sensible industry practice, major interests find themselves confused on procedure because of indecision on the Administration's part and trepidation over legalistic questions on the inside.

The latter is the chief bugaboo.

Insofar as action looking toward adoption of a voluntary code is concerned, the drift is all for it. Between approbation and consummation, however, a chasm yawns and steps up any contemplation of ways and means of hurdling it into the dubious division of courageous enterprise.

What Washington will do about the extension of the NRA, or what is left of it after the nine black-robed Supreme Court justices scraped the bones of the Blue Eagle, appears to be a far less pressing consideration

See Lubitsch And Herzbrun Remaining On

Early Talks Indicate No Paramount Shift

Indications that Ernst Lubitsch and Henry Herzbrun will be retained in their present capacities as executive producer and studio business administrator for Paramount, respectively, appeared yesterday at the end of the second day of conferences between the two and John E. Otterson, Paramount president-elect.

With the conferences still only midway toward conclusion, an eventual agreement on the retention of both Lubitsch and Herzbrun without change in their ranking studio posts and, probably, on long-term contracts, appears both reasonable and likely, according to informed report. That the decision to be made is being left entirely with Otterson also appeared evident from inquiries made with sources close to the new Paramount board. These sources flatly stated that the decision was being left to Otterson and any

Whether Monday's ruling of the Federal Communications Commission limiting officials of communications companies to one job with firms of this type would affect the position of David Sarnoff, head of the RCA, with RKO was not clear yesterday. Warners Stay At 130, Same Shorts List

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—Warners will release 130 shorts—52 in two-reels each and 78 in single reels—next season, the sales convention was informed here today by Norman H. Moray, Vitaphone sales manager. The number matches the current season's program.

Twenty will be made at the Warner studio here, the rest, exclusive of the 26 cartoons in two series, will be concentrated in the Brooklyn studio which operates under the general administration of Sam Sax.

Production on the shorts for next season is already under way. Moray said today the program had been planned as a result of observations gathered on a recent four month tour throughout the United States.

The releases have been split into eight series. They are:

Equal Rights Bill Is Signed in Penn.

HARRISBURG, June 11.—Governor Earle today signed the so-called equal rights bill granting like privileges in theatres, hotels, restaurants and other public places to all persons, regardless of creed or color. The measure thus makes it illegal to bar negroes from theatres.

The bill had passed both branches of the Legislature practically without opposition before its signing by the Governor. Assemblyman Leo A. Achterman introduced in the House a resolution recalling the bill from the Governor's office. The Senate, however, tabled the resolution.

Price Fixing Only Issue in Ascap Action

The elimination of "price fixing by concerted action" is the only issue recognized by the government in its anti-trust action against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers, Andrew W. Bennett, special assistant to the Attorney General, told Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard with the opening of trial of the suit in U. S. District Court here yesterday.

"The government," Bennett said, "is not trying to injure Ascap or to cause its dissolution. We are only trying to correct a situation in interstate commerce which has prevented competition where competition should exist. We believe the evidence will show that price fixing by concerted action has made this possible and that is the only issue in this case."

Bennett's remarks followed the opening statements of Nathan Burkan, chief counsel for Ascap, who described the background and activities of the music society to the court and asked that all allegations relating to Music Dealers' Service Corp., named a defendant in the government's complaint, and which, Burkan said, has now been dissolved by the former directors of the corporation, be stricken out.

Sees 3 Cases Tried as One

Francis Gilbert, of counsel for Music Dealers' Service Corp. and Music Publishers' Protective Ass'n., the latter also a defendant in the government's action, echoed Burkan's motion and declared that the government, in reality, was endeavoring to prosecute three separate cases as one and should be required to specify which of the three it would elect to try.

In replying, Bennett pointed out that all three organizations had interlocking directorates, boards of governors, officers and even employed one switchboard for central offices at one time. He stated that E. C. Mills, present general manager of Ascap, at one time was both chairman of Music Publishers and chairman of the administrative committee of Ascap. Bennett admitted that Music Dealers was now a "dead" organization, but charged that the Music Publishers group planned to revive it later.

Burkan also contended that Music Publishers was not properly involved in the government's action against Ascap and moved that allegations to the publishers' organization also be stricken out of the government's complaint. Judge Goddard indicated he would rule on the defense motions within the next few days.

In his opening remarks Burkan said that most of the present-day users of Ascap's service came into being long after the licensing society was organized. He declared that a $30 annual assessment, in some cases, gives the licensee the right to use the works of 44,000 composers as often as desired.

The trial will continue today and is expected to run throughout the month. Judge Goddard is scheduled for a new court assignment during July and August, which may necessitate postponement of the case until fall if it is not concluded by July 1.

Seven two-reel Technicolor shorts, which will be produced in Hollywood. They will star Winifred Shaw, El Brendel, Maxine Doyle, Phil Regan, Dorothy Dare, Phillip Reed, Patricia Ellis, the Meglin Kiddies and others.

Twelve "Broadway Headliners," with stage names, including Sophie Tucker, Phil Baker, Hal LeRoy, Eleanor Whitney, Armida, Eddie Peabody, Kate Smith, Morton Downey and Fifi D'Orsay.

Six "Varsity Frolics," a new series, each to feature a different personality. Already set are Phil Harris, Hal LeRoy, Eleanor Whitney, N. Y. U. Glee Club, Georgie Price, and Columbia University Glee Club.

20 Vitaphone Comedies

Half of the schedule of these two-reelers will be made in Brooklyn and will include four with the Yacht Club Boys, three with Bob Hope, and three co-starring Shemp Howard and Roscoe Ates; with the remaining 10 to be made here with El Brendel, Hobart Cavanaugh, Allen Jenkins, Frank McHugh, Henry Armetta, and the "Old Timers," who include Ford Sterling, Ben Turpin, Marie Prevost, Chester Conklin, Hank Mann and the Keystone Comedy Gang.

13 "Our United States"

These one-reelers are planned as a follow-up to the "See America First" shorts. E. M. Newman, lecturer, traveler and author, has already sent a crew of cameramen to gather material. The releases will be: "Cosmopolitan America," "Playgrounds," "Curious Industries," "Beauty Spots," "Steel and Stone," "Harbor Lights,' "Nature's Wonders," "Marketing." "Vacation Spots," "Curiosities," "American Sports," a Surprise reel, in preparation, and "Highlights of America."

13 "Pepper Pots"

Vitaphone will release 13 instead of 26 as on the current quota. The Radio Ramblers, Singer Midgets, Charles Ahearn and His Millionaire Tramps, Edgar Bergen, the Jesse Crawfords, and the Easy Aces have already been signed.

26 Cartoons

Vitaphone will use Technicolor's three-point process in "Merrie Melodies" cartoons, while the 13 "Looney Tunes" are being set up with new characters in black and white. Both series will be produced here on the coast by Leon Schlesinger.

13 "Melody Master" Bands

Radio, night club and stage names have been signed for the "Melody Master" band series, including Little Jack Little, Claude Hopkins, Jack Denny, Johnny Green, The Rimacs, Phil Spitalny, Art Jarret B. A. Rolfe, and Dave Apollon.

13 "Big Time Vaudeville Units"

Vaudeville reels, which are part of the current season's "Pepper Pot" subjects, will total 13. Each reel is promised as "a complete vaudeville unit," and will contain four standard "big name" acts, a headliner and three supporting acts. Two or three will be composed entirely of circus type acts. Already under contract are Eddie Peabody, Aunt Jemima, Buster West, Babs Ryan & Bros., Hal Sherman, Radio Rubes, Ray Huling and Seal, The 4 Mullen Sisters, Lester Cole & Co., Fritz & Jean Hubert, Sakuri Japs, Alf Loyal's Dogs, Four Trojans, Harry Burns & Co., Kluting's Animals, Monroe & Grant, Proski's Tigers and others.

Following the report on the shorts lineup Gradwell Sears and A. W. Smith, Jr., announced the formation of a Warner 100 per cent club for the purpose of promoting top-rank salesmen in the field to branch managerships. The club will never have more than 12 members at any one time.

The first dozen salesmen to make up the roster of the club were named today as follows: John Pavone, New Haven; W. B. Collins, Detroit; G. Simmons, Winnipeg; Norman J. Ayers, Washington, D. C.; John Bachman, Philadelphia; Gus Solomon, New York; R. L. McCoy, Dallas; Fred Grenberg, Kansas City; R. Lohrens, Minneapolis; Newt Levi, San Francisco; C. W. Young, Seattle; G. C. Diamond, Kansas City.

Most of the conventioneers will remain here until Sunday for sightseeing, although the convention sessions end Thursday.

Harry M. Warner again will be the principal speaker tomorrow. He will be followed by Albert Warner and Joseph Bernhard at the morning session. S. Charles Einfeld, Sears and Smith are slated to talk in the afternoon, when the feature product will be announced.

Film Daily's 23rd Golf Jamboree Goes on Today

Pill-swatting, celluloid style, gets under way at the Progress Country Club at Purchase this morning when the 23rd Film Daily Golf Tournament will be held. Under the general supervision of Jack Alicoate and Don Mersereau, a long array of prizes has been assembled, reports late yesterday being there were enough to go around once and almost twice. This will allow errant husbands to prove to their wives where they spent the day and evening.

The piece de resistance will be the traditional conflict between the Ampa team which this year is made up of Tom Gerety, captain; Charles C. Pettijohn, Monroe Greenthal, Herb Berg, Herbert Fecke of Motion Picture Herald and James Allen Cron of MOTION PICTURE DAILY. This group will pit its wits and its golfing hips against the Motion Picture Club team, which is captained by Al Lichtman and made up of Mitchell May, Jr., Phil Reisman, Herbert J. Yates with Harry Brandt as manager.

About 150 are expected to play, while at the dinner which climaxes the day more are expected. Last night, as is customary, an advance guard descended on Progress to see that all arrangements, including the bar, were in working trim.

Over in 1936

Los Angeles, June 11.—H. M. Warner, on the economic status of the industry, in an address to the Warner conventioneers:

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—"Silk Hat Kid" has been chosen as the final title for "The Lord's Referee" by Fox.

Ask 34 Changes in Nebraska Law Suit

LINCOLN, June 11.—Two motions involving 34 requests either to strike out portions of the complaint or to make its allegations more specific were filed here today by the defendants in the $444,000 State Theatres' suit against Lincoln Theatre Corp., a number of distributors, Robert Livingston and Joe Cooper.

The suit was brought in an attempt to recover for damages allegedly inflicted on the now defunct State theatre, which, it is charged, was accomplished by collusion and conspiracy between the film companies and Lincoln. Three outstanding requests are made in the motions filed by the defendants today. It is asked that proof of any agreement between the Lincoln company and the distributors be shown; that the alleged $12,000 spent equipping the State be accounted for, and that proof be given that exclusive picture rights were granted Cooper and Livingston.

The suit was filed late in April and alleges that the State had shown an earning capacity of $15,000 yearly, which during the life of the lease would have amounted to nearly $148,000. The house closed, however, $11,000 in arrears, according to the complainant. Triple damages are asked in the suit.

Seeks Picket Halt

In an effort to put a stop to inter-union picketing of theatres here Mayor La Guardia yesterday ordered a conference of theatre owners and officials of operators' unions to be called by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine. The Mayor wants to have it made plain to theatre men and operators that the inter-union labor fight is detrimental to the public interest.

Bloom Named For Otterson Post by Erpi

Federal Communications Commission on Monday to permit Walter S. Gifford, head of A. T. & T., to hold more than one communications post caused a flurry in the Erpi board yesterday, and there was some talk for a short time of delaying the election.

Bloom has been a prominent engineer in the telephone field for a number of years. When Erpi was formed he was its first head and held the post until 1928. He has been a director since the inception of the company. He is also a director of the Manufacturers' Trust Co., Interborough Rapid Transit Co., and National Surety Corp., and is a former trustee of the University of Pennsylvania.

He entered the telephone industry in 1896 as a member of the engineering staff of the N. Y. Telephone Co. Since that time he has held executive positions with various Bell operating companies on the Pacific Coast and in the Middle West. He was a vice-president of A. Legal Doubts Delay Voluntary Code Start than the what and the how of self-regulatory machinery.

Admittedly, a formula of some kind must be set up to adjudicate intra-industry disputes. This is conceded. Once known as arbitration, Judge Thomas Thacher, a few years ago, ruled the method, when compulsory, was illegal. Voluntarily pursued, the plan was within the law as the jurist read the law. Yet, major interests asserted then, as they do now, that any other type but the enforced type defeated the purpose which brought the plan into existence in the first instance. That purpose, in their lights, was to keep the flow of buying and selling running smoothly and without interruption or long-winded delay necessitated by recourse to overcrowded courts of law.

While it would seem that to any individual should be set aside the privilege of legal redress, it is also held to make sense that, under proper auspices and impartial trade judges, contract difficulties might better be settled from within.

At any rate, the Thacher decision is a mental and an actual hurdle which has to be jumped under any theory evolved for self-regulation. Exactly what the answer is is exactly what is causing much of the difficulty. Company lawyers are being relied upon to furnish the answer.

Have Been Burned Often

Having been burned plentifully and often, they may sidestep if they do not advise that the matter be kept on ice. In other instances, notably the 5-5-5 deliberations which ran hectically and then not so hectically over a period of 22 months, the legal coterie decided thumbs down because they envisioned unhappy days ahead with the Department of Justice and, perhaps, with the Federal Trade Commission thrown in by way of a next-to-closing act.

Clearance, once known as protection until there came along those who insisted upon a change of name to remove any impression smacking of racketeering, is a second big something which calls for an answer so far apparently not supplied. The legal standing of the practice which belongs as part of the fabric of the industry has been challenged from time to time through the years, but a clear-cut, sharply defined exposition of what can or what cannot be permitted without stubbing toes has never been forthcoming.

There are instances, distantly removed now, where clearance under its former monicker has been condemned in lower court decisions. Distributors, however, have been lax in carrying the fight up the line into higher courts of jurisdiction, the consequence being considerable lack of legal opinion as to their exact rights or otherwise.

Procedure in the past has taken a twofold course. Where complaining and allegedly hard-pressed exhibitors had won in earlier rounds, practice, as a rule, had been to straighten out such a situation and then call off the suit. In other instances where distributors had been found traveling too fast and too hard down protection's alley, consent decrees had been entered upon, thereby wringing an admission of malpractice out coupling with it a promise to be good in the future.

Several highly placed opinions, therefore, today assume the attitude that the problem of clearances and whatever rights rest in them have never been adequately cleared up. They tie in with this circumstance trepidation over new attempts along old lines and misgivings over adventures into new ones.

The one tangible suggestion about future methods of preventing trade disruption and chaos from sweeping in is that advanced by Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., who strikes out for curtailment of duals, price slashes and premiums through a modification the new wrinkle written into many of his film service contracts at the insistence of Karl Hoblitzelle of the Interstate Circuit in Texas.

The wrinkle has taken the form of a clause which would prevent any first-run product playing an Interstate house at more than 40 cents, night adult admission, from running in any house thereafter under 25 cents. Dallas neighborhoods have protested the plan and have tried their luck in court without success so far. In the meantime, Hoblitzelle, through his circuit buying power, has won his point.

How Kuykendall Plan Works

Kuykendall proposes to eliminate price reductions, giveaways and duals by restrictions in the form of a contract rider on distributor and exhibitor alike. If the distributor, for instance, violates the terms, he would be compelled to refund 25 per cent of the contracted rental to the Class A house. If the exhibitor takes a stroll on his agreement, the distributor would be relieved of the obligation to supply service.

It is noteworthy that the proposal would be confined to specifically named pictures; that other pictures of the same distributor may be sold in any manner and under any terms. Avowedly, the plan is directly designed to protect the Class A theatre with all thereafter patently slated to get along as best they can.

It was reported late yesterday some distributors will not take to the suggestion kindly. It would appear obvious as well that many exhibitors, including some of those who are M.P.T.O.A. members, also will not. While the proposed rider was described as a scheme emanating from Kuykendall's own think tank, a question unanswered was whether or not it does not actually constitute a "trial balloon" sent aloft by distributors at large to catch the sentiment of the exhibitor body to a suggestion which is heading for discussion as well as hot argument.

The M.P.T.O.A. Plan

The M.P.T.O.A. suggestion to end duals, to avoid admission price cuts and to eliminate all forms of premiums and giveaways is outlined in the organization's latest bulletin.

The purpose, as outlined in the bulletin is this:

"To protect the so-called de-luxe operations in competitive spots, and to prevent the cheapening and demoralizing of the business in such competitive areas, as has happened in the past time and again, we suggest the use of a provision in the license agreements by exhibitors operating Class "A" theatres similar to the following rider."

Execution of the idea, described as one to be voluntarily requested by the exhibitor, would take the form of a rider to existing exhibition contracts. It would provide:

This rider attached to and made a part of this application for a contract bearing even date herewith shall be deemed incorporated therein when approved by the distributor.

(1) The distributor agrees to require by contract with any exhibitor to whom a license is granted to exhibit any of the feature motion pictures specified in tbe contract to which this rider is attached and made a part thereof, for exhibition at any theatre situated within the territorial limits specified iu the Schedule in connection with the "run" and "clearance period" therein provided for, tbat during the exhibition thereat of any of said pictures such exhibitor will

(a) charge for adult admissions to said theatre an actual admission fee of not less than (*twenty-five) cents for the evening performances after (*6:00 P.M.) and/or not less than (*fifteen) cents for matinee performances prior to (*6:00 P.M.); or

(b) will not lower the prices publicly announced or advertised for admission thereto by giving rebates in the form of premiums, gifts, prizes, chances on anything of value, or by means of reduced script books, coupons, throw-away tickets or "two-for-one" admissions or any other thing of value or by any other method or device of a similar nature which directly or indirectly lowers or tends to lower such publicly announced admission prices; and will not conduct or operate any lottery, drawing, gamble or any other form of hazard at such theatre; or

(c) will not exhibit any of the said motion pictures together with another feature length motion picture for the same admission charge. (Any motion picture originally made and released in more than 3,000 linear feet of film shall be deemed a feature motion picture.)

If the distributor shall exhibit or grant to any exhibitor a license to exhibit any of said motion pictures for exhibition at any theatre situated within the said territorial limits in violaton of the provisions hereof, the rental specified in the schedule provided to be paid by the exhibitor to the distributor for each of said motion pictures so exhibited shall be reduced by a sum equal to (*25%) of such rental and, if paid by the exhibitor, the distributor shall repay to or credit the account of the exhibitor with the amount of such reduction.

(2) During the whole of the licensed exhibition period of each of the said motion pictures, the exhibitor agrees to and shall charge for admission to the theatre designated not less than the admission prices specified in said contract; and agrees to refrain from doing or permitting any of the acts specified in the paragraphs of this rider designated as (b) and (c).

If, during any such period of exhibition, less than said admission prices be charged, or if the exhibitor shall do or permit any of the acts specified in said paragraphs (b) and (c), the provisions of this rider contained in paragraph (1) thereof shall be deemed null and void and of no effect and the distributor shall be relieved of any further obligation to comply therewith and in addition the distributor shall have the right to waive or to eliminate from any contract made with any other exhibitor operating a theatre situated within the said territorial limits the provisions thereof made in compliance with the provisions of said paragraph (1); but tbe rights of the distributor under all other provisions of said contract shall remain unimpaired.

*The minimum admission for evening and matinee performances; the time indicating when such performances begin and end respectively; and the percentage by which rentals shall be reduced, are matters for individual negotiation witb each separate distributor. The figures here used are by way of examples only.

Explaining how it foresees the plan in operation, the bulletin goes on:

"The responsible exhibitor with a real investment in the business will do well to give this suggestion careful consideration before it is too late. Negotiations are now starting for the coming season's exhibition contracts. The first or prior run exhibitor, seriously concerned with maintaining a single feature policy, relatively higher admissions and who has to pay a film rental many times larger than a subsequent run, can on his own initiative negotiate such an agreement with each distributor separately that supplies pictures for the theatre.

"These points should be noted:

"1) The restrictions would apply only to the pictures specified in the contract into which the rider is incorporated. Pictures of all other distributors and other pictures of the same distributor can be sold any way tbey choose to any theatres. It does not restrain other theatres from double featuring, giving premiums, etc., or charging unreasonably low admissions, merely that they cannot use tbese same pictures that way in unfair competition directly with this theatre.

"2) The specific provisions of such a rider can be cut to fit the local situation in any competitive area by eliminations or additions to the suggested provisions. The provisions are limited to only those theatres directly competing with the exhibitor's theatre.

"3) The exhibitor should be prepared to defend the agreement in court, if necessary. There is every indication that the premium dealers, promoters of "advertising" schemes and double feature producers will threaten law suits or get some small exhibitor to file one. As far as we can ascertain, these questions have never been decided by a superior court. There is an inferior court decision on a double feature clause, which is generally expected to be reversed on appeal anyhow, but this is on the grounds of a conspiracy between two or more distributors. In many situations the cost of such a court determination would be insignificant compared to the value of such protection against the chiseling of unfair and unscrupulous competitors.

"4) Under such a clause, if a distributor elects to license his pictures for subsequent run showings without requiring a minimum admission, etc., he must refund a percentage of the film rental paid by the exhibitor.

"5) If the subsequent run secures a limited license on condition that he will charge a minimum admission, etc., then violates this agreement in this respect, it is believed that the exhibitor would have a right to bring suit against such subsequent run for damages and/or an injunction because the agreement was made for his benefit, even though the exhibitor is not actually a party to the contract.

"6) The exhibitor using the rider must agree to maintain admissions in his own theatre, loses the protection if he fails to do so. The agreement is in effect reciprocal."

than amply financed and that it is extending its theatre circuit, is spending more money on individual productions, and progress is being made on its equipment company to make it more self contained.

Lee pointed out that G. B. is probably the only company which, in addition to production, distribution and exhibition, also has large interests in co-relative organizations such as its own recording process, equipment company, research and invention staffs, its radio station in the Duchy of Luxembourg and in television.

The Ostrers, Lee asserted, are "in the business to stay; they have contributed much toward it and have made definite plans to make even greater contributions in the future."

All announcements pertaining to the 1935-36 lineup, he declared, will be carried through and delivered with the one possible proviso—that more money will be allocated to some of the pictures than originally intended, and all contracts for their distribution will be definitely adhered to by G. B.

Laemmle to Avoid Color Next Season hopeful over next season than I have been in 10 past," he told MOTION PICTURE DAILY. "It naturally depends on the product, but we will deliver."

Laemmle leaves for Hollywood on Saturday night and is prepared to forego his usual European trip this year in order to keep a personal eye on production. He is sanguine over Universal's new unit system which calls for division of next year's program of 42 features among six producers.

Production is being geared with direct attention to overseas markets, he added. "Pictures today must be made not only for America, but for world consumption. We have made our plans accordingly," he concluded.

"U" Directors Meet

A regular monthly meeting of the directors of Universal was held yesterday. It ran its course in a handful of minutes. Procedure was described as routine.

PROVIDENCE, June 11.—Jack Sullivan is again reviewing pictures for the News-Tribune.

Arbitration Back Locally; It Reappears with a Bang

arbitration illegal several years ago, practically all key centers had Film Boards whose main function was to settle disputes between the distributor and exhibitor within the industry. Three distributors and three exhibitors were on these boards which met every week to dispose of pending cases.

Under the new setup locally, the distributor involved in the proceeding names two exchange men and the exhibitor delegates a like number of theatre owners. In the event of a deadlock, both contestants agree upon a fifth arbitrator.

Paramount yesterday had a complaint before the New York board where the validity of a contract with Albert Cooper of the Idle Hour, Long Island City, was involved. Paramount asked for $945. The board was composed of Robert Wolff and Jack Bowen of RKO Radio and M-G-M, respectively, and John Manheimer and Harry Lewis, selected by the respondent.

Henry Randel and Howard F. Leon testified for the exchange with Louis Nizer, secretary of the board, representing them. Cooper testified himself without benefit of counsel.

Paramount claimed it had entered into a contract with the exhibitor on Nov. 26 last and, after permitting Cooper to play about six pictures on the contract, cancelled it, later making a new deal on increased terms. About five pictures were dated on the new contract which were played and paid. On Jan. 18, the exhibitor had some trouble with the booker and canceled.

Cooper contended he had tried to get a number of pictures day and date with the Verona, his opposition, and when the booker could not give him the dates canceled before the exchange sent him a written approval. He then made a deal with Warners, he said.

During summation, Nizer warned the board that, if the decision was in favor of Cooper, all exchanges in the future would not spot book on contracts until home-office approvals were delivered. The board held in favor of Paramount. It decided that the Idle Hour must play all releases from June 20 on.

The two cases put over until next week are: Fox against A. W. Savage of the Rivoli, Hoboken, on an alleged breach of contract. Fox against Matty Chrystamos of the Mineola, Mineola, L. I., alleged breach of contract. The Savage dispute is expected to be settled before the meeting.

Mickey a Hit

London, June 11.—Arturo Toscanini, conductor of the New York Philharmonic, has been thrilled by Mickey Mouse. He saw one for the first time the other day.

"Surely, it is impossible; it is magnificent," he said, after seeing "The Band Concert." Then he wanted to see a Silly Symphony, and he did.

Walt Disney will be invited to his Italian home on Lake Maggiore, Toscanini says.

Ends Film Studies For New Army Post

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Lieut. Charles S. Stodter, here since last fall to study film production under a cooperative arrangement between the Academy and the War Department for training army men, left yesterday for Washington to take charge of the Signal Corps photographic laboratory and studio.

Capt. M. E. Gillette, here on the same duty last year, will take over the post of chief Signal Corps officer in the War Department, replacing Capt. Fred Hoorn in charge of the Army pictorial service.

Adams Drops Fox Suit

With Fox now serving the Park Lane, Palisades Park, N. J., in conformance with contracted clearance provisions, Adam and Peter Adams have withdrawn their injunction suit against the exchange. Fox had been serving the Leonia, Leonia, ahead of the Park Lane as a result of a code decision, but with invalidation of the codes by the U. S. Supreme Court, the distributor has reverted to the contracted stipulations.

I. T. O. A. Meet Off

No meeting of the I.T.O.A. will be held today, the next session being slated for a week from today. The exhibitor unit is on a summer schedule which calls for meetings every other week.

Says Half Possible Audience Is Ignored

NEW HAVEN, June 11.—In a recent interview, Dr. Mark A. May, executive director of the Yale Institute of Human Relations and President of the Council of Film Patrons, maintained that the picture industry was "stupid not to see that actually 50 per cent of the market of theatre patrons was not yet exploited." This 50 per cent, he explained, is represented by the higher intellectual class.

Dr. May originated and this year executed the idea of cutting to one reel old films which could be obtained for exhibition before junior clubs.

Republic May Handle Twelve for Liberty

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—M. H. Hoffman, head of Liberty, who arrived here last night for conferences with Herbert Yates, said today his company's program for Republic release possibly would total 12 pictures, although the present lineup includes but eight.

No Plans Yet, Says Lasky Anent Rumors

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Jesse Lasky today answered reports he would become affiliated with Paramount or United Artists by saying he was not making any plans yet, his Fox contract not expiring until Oct. 1.

See Lubitsch And Herzbrun Staying arrangement made by him with Lubitsch and Herzbrun could be regarded as final and its appproval by the board at its next meeting, June 27, taken as a matter of course.

Asked to comment on the reports yesterday, Lubitsch confined himself to the statement that "while no definite decision has been reached yet, everything is harmonious, the conferences are progressing smoothly and we are in accord on all important matters thus far."

Otterson could not be reached for his statement yesterday. It is understood, however, that the conferences will continue for several days. Neither Lubitsch nor Herzbrun knows definitely when he will be able to return to the coast as yet.

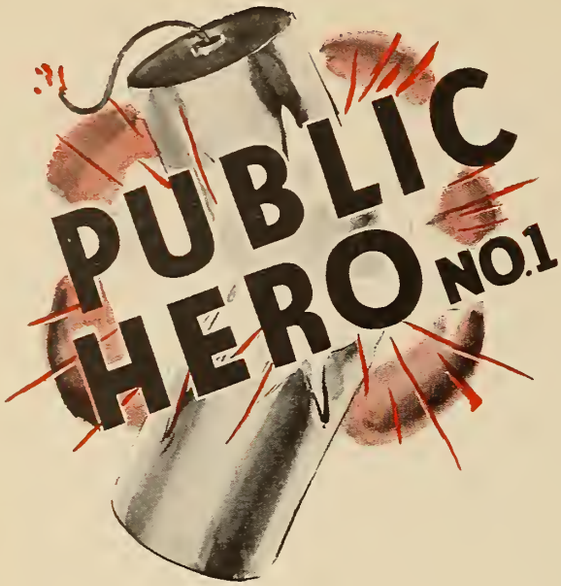
While it was generally anticipated that both studio executives would be retained by the new Paramount administration in important capacities, providing mutually satisfactory terms could be worked out, it was authoritatively reported within Paramount that the executive status of the two might undergo a change with a new studio "overlord" being named. The names most prominently heard in this connection were those of Watterson R. Rothacker and Emanuel Cohen. Current developments, however, indicate that Cohen's name either has been dropped from consideration or will be and that Rothacker's appointment to a top studio post now is unlikely. However, his name still figures in reports of a studio connection of lesser magnitude.

Take Claim Under Advisement

A proposal to settle George J. Schaefer's $98,500 claim against Paramount Publix for $55,000 was taken under advisement by Special Master John E. Joyce following a hearing yesterday at which no objections to the proposal were made.

Schaefer's claim is based on a personal service contract as general manager of the company. Joyce is expected to submit his report and recommendations on the proposed settlement in about two weeks.

A report approving Paramount's participation in a three-way pooling arrangement with M. E. Comerford and RKO houses in Rochester was submitted by Joyce yesterday to Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, by whom it must also be approved. The proposal involves Paramount's Century and Regent, Comerford's Capitol and B. F. Keith's Palace and Temple.



Five Straight for NBC

With "Sugar" Cain on the pitcher's mound and Pete Finnerty on the home plate, NBC won its fifth straight victory by swamping M-G-M with a score of 15 to 3. The NBC team remains at the top in the league standing.

The Roxy nine yesterday beat Loew's 175th St. nine by a score of 3-0. R. Dick, pitcher for the Roxy, only allowed one hit.

Last Saturday United Artists defeated M-G-M, 7 to 2, at James Madison Field. The RKO-Erpi game on that day was called because of rain.

Games scheduled for this week are: Thursday, Universal vs. NBC at George Washington Stadium; Saturday, M-G-M vs. Erpi at the James Madison Field.

M. & S.-RKO Hearing To Wind Up Tonight

Closing arguments in the arbitration of Meyer & Schneider's breach of lease charges against RKO will be held before the board of three arbitrators tonight at the Bar Ass'n Building. A decision from the board will then be due not later than June 24.

Arbitration of the case was begun early last winter, but encountered numerous delays and postponements. M. & S. contended that RKO had failed to play the same product at the Hollywood and Apollo on the same policy as at RKO houses in comparable classifications and alleged that its percentage of the grosses at the two houses, provided for in the leases with RKO, was injured as a result.

Broadway gasped and got itself into a state of excitement yesterday over a report that Eddie Cantor had died.

Elevator men forgot to say "Floor, please," and asked: "Have you heard the news?"

California Income Tax Passes House

SACRAMENTO, June 12.—The House has adopted the conference report fixing the proposed state income tax rate at 25 per cent of the Federal rate. It now goes to the Senate.

The rates are scaled from one per cent on $3,000 to 15 per cent for $250,000 and over. This compromise broke the long deadlock which began when studios threatened to quit California if any rate higher than one-third of the Federal rate were adopted.

Another bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate calls for payments of three per cent of payrolls of employes getting less than $2,500 per year into a state unemployment insurance fund. Each employe would contribute one per cent of his monthly pay to the fund and draw from $7 to $15 per week when unemployed.

Broadcasters Heard In Ascap Trust Suit

Radio broadcasters were given the first inning as witnesses in the trial of the government's anti-trust suit against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers, which went into its second day yesterday before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in U. S. District Court here. There is no definite indication yet when film and theatre men who have been subpoenaed as witnesses by the government will be called to the stand.

Yesterday's testimony was largely of a technical nature, intended to show that radio broadcasting is an activity in interstate commerce. Dr. C. B. Jolliffe, chief engineer of the Federal Communications Commission, supported this viewpoint with his testimony. Raymond P. Robinson and William C. Siegfried, officials of the U. S. Copyright Bureau, testified that Ascap owned or controlled more than one-sixth of the musical copyrights registered since July 1, 1909. Thomas Belviso, manager of the Music Library Research Dept. of the music rights division of NBC, was on the stand when the trial was adjourned to this morning. He testified as to the amount of music used by the chain and the percentage of it that was controlled by Ascap. He will resume the stand today for further cross-examination by Nathan Burkan, Ascap counsel.

Burkan indicated yesterday by his cross-examination that he would endeavor to show that Ascap's fees are reasonable in view of the large audiences reached by radio.

Lichtman to Be Made New Head of U. A.

that subsidiary, succeeding Schenck who occupied that post as well. No word on Silverstone's successor was available yesterday.

With decision to move Lichtman into the highest post at U.A., the company at once concluded other plans for the new season and announced it will hold its annual sales convention in Hollywood July 8-11. Deals current in Hollywood and in London are expected to fill in the gap created by switch of 20th Century to Fox and perhaps increase the 1935-36 output beyond the current season's level.

Apply for U. A. Stock Sale

WILMINGTON, June 12.—A petition was filed in Chancery Court here today by the trustees in dissolution of Art Cinema Corp. for permission to sell 1,000 shares of common stock in United Artists Corp., controlled by Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, Joseph M. Schenck and Samuel Goldwyn.

The petition states that the trustees have received an offer of $650,000 for the stock on behalf of United Artists from Nathan Burkan for Miss Pickford, Chaplin and Goldwyn.

The court is asked to approve the proposed sale. It is provided, however, that the Elton Corp., controlled by Fairbanks, will have a right to purchase stock at the same price if it so desires, the obvious thought being maintenance of the balance of power.

The court directed that stockholders of Art Cinema be notified of the petition and directed to appear before the court June 26, at which time the petition will be heard.

It is believed here that the proposed sale, which represents one-sixth of United Artists' outstanding stock, was one of the reasons Fairbanks cut short his world cruise. There is a possibility that he may attend the hearing.

The petition states that the stock was appraised at $613,254 on Oct. 26 last and that on Dec. 24 a dividend amounting to $83,330 was paid on it. The trustees express the opinion that the sale would be to the best interest of Art Cinema stockholders. They add that they have been assured that Schenck will vote for the purchase of a unit of 1,000 shares by United Artists.

Art Cinema is a dissolved corporation. William Jasie, Dennis F. O'Brien, general counsel, and William Phillips, treasurer of United Artists, were appointed trustee in dissolution last October in Chancery Court.

Zanuck and Goetz Coming

HOLLYWOOD, June 12.—Darryl Zanuck and William Goetz leave for New York Thursday for conferences with Joseph M. Schenck.

Roach Offers Pitts Job

Hal Roach has offered Alabama Pitts a job as an assistant cameraman and the cooperation of studio workers in studying the production end of the business. He has also wired Judge Landis asking him to give Pitts a chance to play professional baseball.

Roach is in New York at present working on "Lucky Beginners."

Lichtman Man of Varied Talents; Popular Figure

Al Lichtman's election to the presidency of United Artists will mark another step in the career of a man regarded as one of the colorful figures of the industry—a rare blend of forceful executive, suave social figure, wit, after-dinner speaker.

His varied talents have made it possible for him to build up a reputation as a sales head who gets some of the highest rentals in the business while at the same time widening his circle of friends among exhibitors. He makes them pay and like it, but combines his persuasive salesmanship with a reputation for fairness.

Lichtman was born in Hungary in 1888 and reached this country while a small boy. Later he joined the army.

His start in the amusement business was as an usher at Tony Pastor's 14th St. theatre. In the course of time he became manager for C. C. Pyle when that famous promoter ran a poster company in Chicago; an actor in vaudeville; a manager of an act; a film salesman.

Eventually he became general manager of distribution for Monopol Film Co., owned by P. A. Powers and C. C. Craft. He handled "Dante's Inferno," "Homer's Odyssey" and "The Life of Buffalo Bill."

When Famous Players Co. was organized he was its first sales manager. Also, he was the first general manager of distribution for Artcraft, selling pictures for Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, George M. Cohan, Elsie Ferguson, William S. Hart and others.

After the mergers which resulted in the formation of Famous Players-Lasky Corp. he was general manager of distribution for the combined companies. He held the same post for Universal later.

His first connection with United Artists was as special field representative, the appointment coming from Hiram Abrams in May, 1926. The following November he was made distribution head by Joseph M. Schenck and later became vice-president and a member of the executive committee.

Horwitz Bank Night Injunction Denied

CLEVELAND, June 12.—Application of Meyer Fischer of the Fountain for a temporary injunction to prevent M. B. Horwitz from conducting a bank night at the Haltnorth was denied today by Judge Frederick Walther in Common Pleas Court. The petition had been based on the charge that bank night is a lottery and unfair competition.

Basing his ruling on a Supreme Court NRA decision that unfair competition involves deceiving the public, Judge Walther held that bank night does not victimize the public. No question of a lottery was involved in his decision.

The court held that if a criminal act (meaning a lottery) was involved the matter was one for criminal procedure.

Theatre Loan Limit Raised to $50,000 for borrowing by theatre owners almost everything used in reconditioning is eligible for loans.

Heretofore loans could not be applied to movable equipment. Under the new arrangement sound equipment, air-cooling outfits, projectors, stage curtains, decorating and all forms of remodeling are held entitled to Federal aid. No decision has been reached on carpets.

Promissory notes will be accepted and financial institutions will not be allowed to charge fees equivalent to more than $5 per $100 of original face amount of a one-year note to be paid in monthly installments.

Steinbeck Out on Bail

FRANKLIN, O., June 12.—William E. Steinbeck, operating the Ohio, who has been held by authorities here on charge of shooting with intent to kill, has been released on $3,500 bond. Upon recommendation of the prosecution, the hearing has been postponed for a week.

Steinbeck is said to have shot a Negro patron in a scuffle.

Pa. Sunday Hearing Stirs Lively Debate

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 12.—The Sunday local option bill was bitterly debated at a hearing last night before a Senate committee.

Jeanette Wilinsky of Pittsburgh, representing independent theatre owners, who oppose the measure, charged big theatre circuits had sent paid boosters here to stage a demonstration for the bill at last night's and earlier hearings. She declared "paid" employes of circuits had been forced to come to Harrisburg to try to put the bill across.

Others who spoke against the measure were Rev. Dr. W. B. Forney of the Lord's Day Alliance and Rev. Dr. W. L. Mudge, secretary of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches.

John A. Phillips, head of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, and Walter Vincent of the Wilmer & Vincent circuit, were among those who urged enactment of the bill.

The measure, which has passed the lower house, will go before the Senate on a second reading if it is reported back to that body by the Committee on State Government, before which last night's hearing was held.

J. J. Franklin Expands

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—J. J. Franklin, former division manager of the RKO interests here, is conducting an expansion program in Hawaii, according to William Citron, Franklin's representative here.

Franklin is adding a $50,000 theatre to the two he already has in Honolulu. The new theatre will be in the center of the downtown district and he has obtained a 14-year lease on the premises. The lease calls for an aggregate rental of $123,600.

Libson in for Meeting

Ike Libson, Cincinnati partner of RKO, arrived in town yesterday to attend a board of directors' meeting of the RKO Midwest Corp. today. Routine business matters will be discussed at the monthly session.

Report on RKO Claims Coming Within a Week

ment of an RKO reorganization plan. While the claims covered in the report will be subject to further contest by either the RKO trustee or by the claimants before finally being allowed or disallowed, the report, nevertheless, is expected to serve importantly in determining the approximate amounts for which provision would have to be made in any plan of reorganization. Thacher's report, therefore, is considered to be a vital factor in clearing the way for further progress toward a reorganization of RKO.

The $25,800,000 of claims were contested by the RKO trustee, Irving Trust Co., at hearings held before Thacher last year, but no decisions have been rendered on any of them to date. The total claims filed against RKO amounted to $35,766,000, exclusive of four additional claims aggregating about $10,000,000 for RKO's contingent liability on obligations of subsidiaries which are not now in default. If no default occurs, there will, of course, be no liability on the part of RKO in respect to these claims.

Of the approximately $10,000,000 of claims not heard by Thacher, more than $2,500,000 have either been withdrawn or dismissed by the court and more than $2,000,000 additionally have negotiations for their withdrawal pending. RKO has outstanding approximately $16,200,000 of gold notes and debentures for which no proof of claims have been required by the court.

Receiver Is Asked For Pathe Exchange

Casey, head of Vaudeville Managers' Protective Ass'n., and studio labor representative for major producers. Casey is described in the application as the owner of 40 shares of Pathe stock. The application will be contested by Pathe through Coudert Bros., former counsel to the company.

Reports that E. B. Derr, former Pathe production head, was identified with the filing of the action were freely circulated yesterday. Derr came here from the coast about two weeks ago, preceded by reports that he was interested in purchasing Pathe. Reached at his hotel yesterday, Derr declined to comment on the reports linking him with the receivership application. At the time of Derr's reported interest in acquiring Pathe, officials of the company admitted that an offer had been received from him but was not being considered.

CCC Film Showings To Be Scrutinized

Distributors' complaints that "Jack Rabbit" circuit operators have been holding unauthorized showings of films in many CCC camps have resulted in a War Department order that in the future these exhibitors must produce specific authorizations for showings in specific camps.

Heretofore their licenses have read "camps" or "CCC camps" in many instances, and nearby exhibitors have been suffering from unfair competition, it is claimed.

Goldwater & Flynn, attorneys for the trustees, Stephen Callahan, Percival E. Jackson and William M. Greve. It was seconded by Paul McQuillin, of Sullivan, Cromwell & McQuillin, attorneys for the First Mortgage Bondholders' Committee, who said that any further delay would jeopardize the interests of the bondholders. Richard Hunt, attorney for the Second Mortgage Bondholders' Committee, seconed this.

Kraushaar objected and said he hoped the committees would withdraw approval as they "were under fire before the Sabath committee."

This caused a stir and some wordy protests.

Hecht and MacArthur Talk New Para. Deal

Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur are negotiating a new deal with Paramount. While details are not set, the number to be made under the new arrangement will not exceed six.

The two producers recently wound up a three-picture pact with the company when Paramount could not agree on conditions of a fourth picture, which was provided for under an option. The trio made by Hecht and MacArthur were "Crime Without Passion," "Once in a Blue Moon" and "The Scoundrel." The second picture, which was held up for some time, is now in general circulation.

In the event the new deal is consummated, the former producing headquarters, Eastern Service Studios at Astoria, will be used again.

Hecht and MacArthur several weeks ago had a deal on the fire with M-G-M, but nothing came of it.

that this be done in order to expedite the consideration by the Production Code Administration of stories and scripts submitted by British producers, and the reviewing by the Administration of British pictures, all this with a view toward facilitating the American distribution of foreign films," said an announcement of the action issued following the meeting.

"The service thus provided," the statement concluded, "will be available for the use of any other producers, foreign or domestic, who find it more accessible to their needs than the West Coast office."

It is anticipated that producers using eastern studio facilities during the new season will make use of the new production code agency here.

Consideration of the effects on the industry of the NRA nullification also occupied the M. P. P. D. A. directors' meeting and further study will be given the subject by that group, it was said.

Republic to Take Mascot In New Setup

pany, which was founded on Johnston's Monogram organization. The addition of Mascot to the Republic forces may increase the latter's new season production schedule by an as yet undetermined number of pictures. Republic has already announced a lineup of 46 pictures, eight of which will come from M. H. Hoffman, formerly of Liberty.

While Mascot, previously, had announced 24 pictures for next season, it is known that this schedule will be completely revised. It will probably produce in the neighborhood of 16, thus carrying the Republic lineup to approximately 60. Trem Carr, Republic producer, would be in charge of the remaining 20 to 24 pictures. Levine's production units will continue to use their former studio space, while the Carr and Hoffman units will produce at the Republic lot.

The Mascot and Liberty names will be dropped and Republic will divide its production among Levine, Carr and Hoffman. Levine, who recently leased the Mack Sennett studio, will continue to produce there. The production of Republic product will be spread over the Mascot and Pathe studios.

Earlier Republic consolidations brought Herman Gluckman and Emmanuel Goldstein of Majestic and Budd Rogers of Liberty into the Republic executive fold. No announcement was made by Johnston or Levine yesterday as to any officials of Mascot, other than Levine, being transferred to Republic.

Warners Name 45 of 60 on Season's List

Dream," which cost well over $1,000,000 to produce. The understanding is that the picture will be handled as a roadshow.

Cosmopolitan will furnish six, two of them to star Marion Davies, whose first, already finished, is "Page Miss Glory." No information was given on the second, but two of Cosmopolitan's six will be "The Green Light," starring Leslie Howard and "Thin Air," for which only James Melton has thus far been cast.

Warner stated Max Reinhardt, who directed "A Midsummer Night's Dream," has been engaged for another picture. He did not list it, but, if reports are to be credited, the vehicle will be "The Green Pastures" which Warners will handle as a special next season.

The company is drawing upon 10 Broadway stage plays and 23 published stories for its program of 60. Warner also stressed his intention of keeping plans sufficiently flexible to "take immediate advantage of new plays and stories of a timely nature that may come along during the year."

An analysis of the plans, so far as divulged, shows that the co-starring team of Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell will be continued in at least two pictures, "Blondes Prefer Gentlemen" and "Miss Pacific Fleet,." Joe E. Brown, Bette Davis, Dolores Del Rio, Kay Francis, Paul Muni, Dick Powell and Rudy Vallee are listed for solo starring pictures, although several in this group are to be co-starred in others as well. Edward G. Robinson returns to the program in "Stiletto," while Warren William will be starred in at least two.

Some Names Missing

Absent from the announced roster are Hugh Herbert, Josephine Hutchinson, Guy Kibbee, Al Jolson, Jean Muir and Lyle Talbot, although it does not necessarily follow they will not appear in any of next year's product. They may be cast later.

Definitely slated for the new program are these:

"The Green Pastures," the Pulitzer Prize play by Marc Connolly. This will be made into a special.

"Page Miss Glory," already completed as Marion Davies' first picture under the recent Warner-Cosmopolitan affiliation. Pat O'Brien, Dick Powell, Frank McHugh. Mary Astor, Allen Jenkins and Patsy Kelly are in the support.

"Three Men on a Horse," play by Cecil Holm and George Abbott.

"The Petrified Forest," by Robert Sherwood, now playing on Broadway, will be produced with Leslie Howard in the same role he is playing on the stage.

"Anthony Adverse," by Hervey Allen.

"Captain Blood," by Rafael Sabatini.

"The Green Light," by Lloyd C. Douglas, which will star Leslie Howard and be a Cosmopolitan release.

"Dr. Socrates," by W. R. Burnett. It will star Paul Muni.

"The Charge of the 600" based upon the poem by Tennyson.

"Slim," based on the novel by William Wister Haines, will star James Cagney.

"Dress Parade" is now in production at Annapolis, with Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler teamed.

Powell and Miss Keeler will also be teamed in "Colleen."

Paul Muni will follow "Dr. Socrates" with "The Death Fighter," an original by Pierre Collings and Sheridan Gibney.

"Lucky Me" will have Dick Powell heading an all-star cast in a story of three entertainers, a boy and two girls.

Kay Francis in "I Found Stella Parrish," based upon a story by John Monk Saunders. Sybil Jason, the five-and-one-half-year old actress, will play an important part.

"You've Got to Learn Sometime," comedy-drama by Richard Wormser, soon to be published in a national magazine.

"Frenchy," by Henry Meilhac and Ludwig Halevy, will be used as a starring vehicle for either Claudette Colbert or a star of similar importance.

Edward G. Robinson will be starred in "Stiletto," based on the life and exploits of a man-hunter of the New York detective force.

"Thin Air," a Cosmopolitan Magazine story by Mildred Cram, will have Franchot Tone, James Melton and at least one feminine radio personality heading the cast.

"The Goose and the Gander," which stars Kay Francis and George Brent, has been completed.

"The Trial of Dr. Beamish," based upon the Liberty Magazine story by Walton Green, is a story about a college professor who conducts his own case when tried for murder.

The morning session Thursday will be given over entirely to the studio executives, including Jack L. Warner, Hal Wallis, William Koenig and the following associate producers and supervisors: Henry Blanke, Earl Baldwin, Robert Lord, Sam Bischoff, Bryan Foy, Harry Joe Brown, Lou Edelman. In the afternoon the delegates will attend a showing of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Wilturn.

The convention will end with a banquet Thursday night at which all of the Warner stars will be present. The toastmaster will be Jack L. Warner. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the company's "California or Bust" contest at the banquet.

Farrar to Assist

Hollywood, June 12.—John Farrar of Farrar and Rinehart, publishers of "Anthony Adverse," has been engaged by Warners to collaborate on treatment of the novel. He is due here soon and will return to New York with Jake Wilk, Warner story editor.

Renew Anita Carey Ticket

Hollywood, June 12.—Anita Carey has had her option taken up by Warners, following her work in "We're in the Money" with Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell and Hugh Herbert. Ray Enright directed under supervision of Harry Joe Brown.

Karloff Signed by Warners

Schine to Get Warner List

Warners have signed the entire Schine circuit, operating approximately 60 houses in New York and Ohio, for the 1935-36 feature and shorts lineups. The deal was set before Warner officials left for the coast convention. Meyer Schine signed for the circuit.

Schine, in town yesterday on a two-day trip from Gloversville, stated this is the only product arrangement he has closed so far. He is negotiating for about 15 theatres in his territories, he said.

The distributor has also closed several other important circuit deals which are expected to be announced following return of the sales forces from Los Angeles.

in its history. He told the salesmen to urge exhibitors to spend more money on advertising. Einfeld also told the delegates Warners always sought to deliver product with merchandising and selling angles.

Asserting Warners' affiliation with Cosmopolitan was the biggest thing in the company's history from an advertising standpoint, Einfeld revealed that Marion Davies' newest picture, "Page Miss Glory," would have the greatest pre-release publicity campaign ever given a picture by his company.

It was said by Einfeld that the company would continue to back and produce stage plays to overcome story shortage.

Club Leader Claims Huge Aid to Films

That a new audience numbering at least 25,000,000 persons has been created for approved pictures was one of the striking statements made to the General Federation of Women's Clubs by Mrs. Richard M. McClure, national chairman of the committee on motion pictures, at the recent Detroit convention, according to Motion Picture Herald's current issue.

This new market, she said, had been created by the production of films with an appeal both to the masses and the "discriminating and cultured."

Through its affiliated groups the Federation has worked in 13 states by stimulating interest in selected pictures. The campaign has been conducted in daily papers, magazines, radio, speakers' bureaus, tieups with libraries, "Family Nights" and "Juvenile Matinees." The aid of 225 Better Films Councils has been enlisted. In some instances ticket-selling campaigns were conducted.

Flash Previews

Ladies Crave Excitement—The picture as an action melodrama should please in all spots where this type of film is popular.

Honeymoon Limited—An unusually sprightly, gay comedy romance but was turned out on a small budget, but it is nonetheless a good bet on a double bill.

These films will be reviewed in full in a later issue of Motion Picture Daily.

To Rebuild Carrolton

New Orleans, June 12.—The Carrolton, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt by United Theatres, Inc., owners at a cost of approximately $50,000.

Those Busy Warnerites

Los Angeles, June 12.—Six busses and a string of private cars were required to carry the 300 delegates to the Warner convention from their Ambassador headquarters to the studio at the conclusion of a three-hour business session Monday, which saw the annual convention open with a bang.

Duplicating the delegation's Sunday arrival, the busses were met with a brass band (very brassy) at the studio gates. The group piled out en masse and within 10 minutes were comfortably seated at lengthy tables in one of the sound stages. Everything went like clock-work. An orchestra tuned up with popular melodies, flashlight bulbs popped, cameras clicked and the guests started in on their Avocados, bathed in a glare from a thousand and one giant arc lights.

Following several interesting moments, during which time knives, forks and whatnot offered a clattering accompaniment to the other noises, the contented delegates leaned back in their chairs and watched the world go by.

Vocal numbers were then contributed by Phil Regan, Dorothy Dare, Maxine Doyle, Wini Shaw, Harry Seymour and Everett Marshall, all contract players.

Jack Warner finished up on a chicken leg in record time and stood up at the speaker's table to extend a formal welcome to the conventioneers, followed by introductions of stars, producers, and directors.

Bill Koenig took a beating from Warner on the introductions. He got blamed for everything including the introduction list which seemed to be all balled up for some reason.

Irving Rothenberg, from the New York exchange, was a class mate of Director Archie Mayo in public school. They met for the first time since graduation at the convention and held a happy reunion, with Archie inviting Irving out to the house for dinner.

The luncheon wound up after the introductions and the delegates filed out to watch "Man Mountain Dean" and Chief Pontiac scramble a few ears, during which they wrestled in and out of the ring and spent several minutes out of each fall in the lap of Sam Morris.

After the regular shot of the wrestling match in "We're in the Money," had been taken, "Man Mountain" Dean and "Little Chief" put on a gag bout for the conventioneers. The back of "Man Mountain's" sweat shirt bore the sign "Production," while the Indian was labeled "Distribution." Dean threw the Indian out of the ring, landing "Distribution" right in the lap of Morris. Sam, however, tossed it right back to Joe E. Brown, who acted as referee. When the match seemed a draw, Brown removed his sweater, revealing that he was "Exhibitor" and finally threw Dean, proving perhaps that the man who sells the tickets is the key to the situation.

Nat Furst, New Haven, celebrated his birthday on the opening day. Mrs. Furst and the kids sent a wire from home wishing him many more happy returns.

Ray S. Smith, Albany, is trying to figure a way to get down to the San Diego Fair before he goes back east. Ray thinks it would be a shame to get so close and not attend.

The afternoon session on the opening day gave the boys the answer to the question, "For what?" which exhibitors ask when told that a negative cost $300,000. Many of them saw the workings of a studio for the first time. They were taken on the sets of "We're in the Money," "The Irish in Us," and "Little Big Shot."

On the "Irish" set, they saw an exact replica of a New York precinct police station. They saw that it sometimes takes an hour to film sequences which appear as flashes in a picture. When they saw "Little Big Shot," they saw how a child actress is trained to play her scenes. They watched Director Michael Curtiz patiently instruct baby Sybil Jason in a song and dance routine, then sat entranced as the child did her number and later gave imitations of Jimmy Durante and Mae West.

When they finished watching them make pictures, they were taken on busses around the lot, and realized for the first time that their studio covers more than 75 acres. Later, over cocktails in the Cosmopolitan bungalow, the boys thought these things over, and wondered if the production department does not understate the cost of making a picture.

At the studio luncheon, Jack Warner recalled the picture "Convention City" which the company made. He said he hoped that no delegate would turn out like Hugh Herbert in that film, who attended the wrong convention.

The entrance to Stage 2 where the luncheon was held was guarded by a cannon on which there was a sign, "Sell our pictures or else!"

Herb Crooker of the New York press department was all over the place. When Director Ray Enright called for boos from the crowd during the filming of the wrestling match scene, Herb gave it to him in the best Madison Square Garden manner.

Credit and lots of it, should go to Eddie Selzer of the studio publicity department and his staff. The publicity boys thought of nearly everything, and the delegates had no complaints about the way all arrangements have been handled.

Grad Sears, one of three new vice-presidents of Vitagraph, the Warner distributing company, says the market opened strong on V.P.'s but hopes it doesn't sell off later.

The Moaners

Purchase, N. Y., June 12.

One hundred and eighty teed off in the morning. It was a record playing contingent and this was the 23rd tourney which The Film Daily has sponsored.

That was a very deliberate drive MONROE GREENTHAL made at the 18th hole. He shot an 89 and won $40. Six holes were made at par.

HARRY BRANDT was the professor of the ivories. He showed the boys how Tuesday night.

ED LEVY, whose native terrain is New Haven, journeyed in from that point all for the game's sweet sake. Not only that he was on time at the first hole.

The overnight contingent tallied 25, another record for a pre-tournament turnout.

LOU NIZER crept up the stairs at 6:30 bending low over something or other. It developed it was tennis that bowed his shoulders.

C. C. RYAN, after a strenuous struggle with CLINT WEYER, was fully convinced that the weather was great . . . and who cared about golf and a score.

GREGORY DICKSON swears that the golf clubs ARNOLD VAN LEER got for him had nothing to do with that nice 120. BRUCE GALLUP, his partner in crime in that foursome, will attest to that.

CHARLIE PETTIJOHN showed up the night before the big show and demonstrated a special sport coat that was the envy of many eyes.

AL SELIG and LEE OCHS copped the honors of being the first to register at the club. The official timer clocked 'em at 7:59 A.M.

Old Colonel ALICOATE had about 30 golf mugs present for that special breakfast he threw in their honor.

ARTHUR W. KELLY got a hand for one of the nifty putts he pulled in the putting contest. But ARTHUR just didn't come up to snuff at the finish.

There was quite a howl on the fourth green, but it proved no merger, just a happy threesome with RUGOFF, RINZLER and CHARLIE MOSES.

HARRY SHIFFMAN didn't care much for that morning round. The score was the reason.

PAUL BENJAMIN and BILLY FERGUSON were highly elated over the fact that both have improved their golf to the extent where they both chopped three strikes off their score.

DON HANCOCK finally showed up but did not go for the golf.

"That's for the youg fellows," said he.

ED FINNEY decided to warm up for the afternoon golf by a snappy set-to of tennis. WALTER EBERHARDT knows if that improved his score any. From what was seen on the 18th, ED could easily go back to the courts.

HERB YATES almost lost his temper on the 17th when his caddy lost the ball at the crucial moment. That uphill trudge finally wore HERB down.

T.H.Boland Coming East

HOLLYWOOD, June 12.—Thomas H. Boland, who has leased his theatres in Oklahoma City to Warners, leaves by motor today for Oklahoma City and New York. He expects to be gone three weeks.

Golfing Quality Varied, But This Was a Tourney De Luxe

PURCHASE, N. Y., June 12.—It topped all previous events, did the The Film Daily Tournament today. And there have been 22 ahead of this one.

Some there were who protested it was violating all the precepts of the ancient and honorable game to turn loose the celluloid contingent on the beautifully maintained greens and fairways of the Progress Country Club, but there they were, nevertheless, 180 strong pounding and hacking at the elusive pill.

The boys were willing. Technique, in many instances, was something notable by its absence, but certainly plenty of do and dare was apparent.

The weather man was kind. The day was lovely and warmish, with whisps of clouds chasing their way across the heavens by way of reminding those who recalled their poetry that all was right in the world, if not on the links.

Dinner Under Stars

The morning round was followed by the putting contest with lunch sandwiched in somewhere along the line, although not for Don Mersereau, Marvin Kirsch, Charlie Alicoate and others of The Film Daily staff who kept the machinery smoothly functioning on the inside so that everything would be O.K. on the outside.

The players straggled in late. This delayed dinner until about 8 o'clock. It was held on the terrace, gayly festooned with colored lights and banners. Jack Alicoate, the old golfing maestro, occupied the head place at the dais, as usual, and with him, among others, were John Maxwell, Arthur Dent, Louis Nizer, and members of the winning AMPA Team. Mersereau was chief handicapper, a job that kept him so busy there was no time for lunch although enough for him to emerge in the evening in a natty golf attire of flannel sportcoat, an Esquire type shirt and trousers and shoes in harmonious ensemble.

Film Men See Films

There was music. That helped. There was an outdoor bar. That helped even more. There were talkers shown, the equipment having been set up by National Theatre Supply. "Radio Rascals," an Al Christie comedy for Educational, was one. Another was the first showing anywhere of "Who Killed Cock Robin?" a Silly Symphony about which more is said elsewhere in this edition.

Dent was called upon to take a bow. Also Nizer. Also Maxwell who was described by Alicoate as the "No. 1 man in the English film industry."

There was lots more, all combining successfully to make it a swell day and a sweller night. Among those present were:

Swellelegant

"Who Killed Cock Robin?" latest contribution to the gayety of nations and box-offices, was shown for the first time at The Film Daily Golf Tournament at Progress last night.

Conceived astutely and cleverly by Walt Disney, this Silly Symphony is a delightful take-off on justice, American style, Mae West and Bing Crosby. In jingle and song, it rates a spot on any theatre's marquee which is the same way of suggesting on any exhibitor's screen. It's simply swell.

Northwest's Merger Expected in August

SEATTLE, June 12.—Indications are that the Evergreen-John Hamrick pooling of theatres in Seattle and Portland, announced last week, will become effective some time in August.

Both Hamrick and Frank L. Newman, head of the Evergreen circuit, have been spending much time away from their local offices. Booking arrangements in New York and Los Angeles and other details of the merger are being arranged at these out-of-town conferences.

Definite information on the theatre policies will not be announced until the merger is more closely planned, it was stated here this week.

In the short subject division, the company will release 106 one-reelers, one two-reeler and 104 issues of Paramount News to a grand total of 211, an increase of seven over the current season.

Accompanying the announcement were definite release dates of the 19 features which Paramount will release in its first quarter ending Oct.

Para. Clear Monday, Schaefer Predicts

"Paramount will emerge from bankruptcy on Monday, provided everything goes along as it has been," George J. Schaefer, vice-president of the company, yesterday told the company's conventioneers as the first of a three-day international sales meet opened at the Waldorf. He did not elaborate on the statement, but indicated that the company would be turned over to the new administration by the trustees on that date.

The morning session was opened by Neil Agnew, general sales manager,

Zukor Staying at Paramount; In Post He Wants, Son Says

Scotching reports, persistent recently, that his father had plans other than to remain at Paramount, Eugene J. Zukor, executive of the company's foreign department, told the sales convention at the Waldorf yesterday that Adolph Zukor now occupied a post in the company "that he wanted and where he felt he could be most useful to Paramount."

The younger Zukor declared he might be speaking out of turn, but that he wanted to pass on to the selling force the situation as his father viewed it. He added Adolph Zukor regarded in the presidency of John E. Otterson an addition to the company of an executive of pronounced capabilities who would bring to the management many attributes which will serve it in good stead.

Cheers for both Zukor and Otterson greeted the conclusion of the remarks.

'Time' Buyer of RKO Notes, Casey Pathe Suit Reveals

Time magazine purchased from Pathe Exchange the latter's $1,696,000 of RKO notes for approximately $340,000 in two recent transactions, it was disclosed yesterday at a hearing before Justice Edward A. Dore in state supreme court here on the application of Pat Casey for the appointment of a receiver for Pathe.

The notes were acquired during April and, according to Pathe's affidavit, the purchase, presumably, was due to Time's interest in attaining a closer affiliation with RKO preliminary to consummation of the recent deal by which RKO took over distribution of the "March of Time" reel.

Allied Heads Talk to Hays On Problems

Circuit Buying Is One Of Topics Discussed

Carrying out a resolution adopted at its recent national convention at Atlanta, Allied States' leaders yesterday met with Will H. Hays, M.P.P. D. A. head, to seek the latter's aid in obtaining relief for independent exhibitors from alleged aggressions by affiliated circuits.

The Allied delegation confined its appeal to Hays, according to one member of the party, to the invoking of restrictions on overbuying against powerful circuit organizations. The Mascot production organization will be kept intact to produce its quota of new season pictures for Republic release, but present indications are that Mascot's home office and sales staffs will be dispensed with at the end of the current season, it was said.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

"BECKY SHARP" bowed in at the Music Hall yesterday. That's news on more than one score. In the first instance, or maybe it's the second, this picture, Pioneer-"Jock" Whitney-made for RKO distribution, is the initial feature in Technicolor's new three-way process. Much heralding has preceded it, largely on the basis of color, of course, and much of what has been claimed is there, caught on film by way of proof. . . .

The attraction is a real one. Let's get that down in this space early. Why and how open up avenues of various approach, some of them following along now quickly. Kenneth Macgowan, the producer, and Rouben Mamoulian, the director, demonstrated their sagacity in building "Becky Sharp" first in point of story and dramatic content. The film is at its outset and thereafter for its eighty-five minutes an interesting page torn out of the life and customs of an England worried over the return of Napoleon from Elba. In any medium, not necessarily color at all, this "Becky Sharp," therefore, would have been a first-rate show. In color, indubitably its value is enhanced. . . .

Important for another reason, "Becky Sharp" takes Miriam Hopkins who has been loitering on the border line as a drawing card and very definitely sends her over that line onto that rare greensward reserved for the select few among the real stars of this industry. Miss Hopkins, always competent and always attractive, here got her chance and delivers with an emphasis that may defy ultimate analysis because the hullabaloo and fuss which will be tied with the exploitation of the picture and the new process by which it was made will be so difficult to divorce from any individual performances. . . .

Yet to this commentator, "Becky Sharp" is what it is, which is plenty, far and away because of the brilliance of Miss Hopkins' rendition of the title role. She is photographed beautifully and with rare quality. She is accoutred with all of the nostalgia of the costuming of the period. But she is also a complete and charming knockout in a generally unsympathetic role which, by treatment, does its best to make her sweet and worthwhile when actually she is untrustworthy, a moral cheat and a liar. It's her picture from go to finish. . . .

The Technicolor which makes its appearance here is a sharp improvement over anything which has been marketed to date. Launching itself in soft grays and light blues, the color design which is credited to Robert Edmond Jones, the stage director, creeps up gradually into the stronger variations and thereby adroitly avoids conflict with the unfoldment of the story. This reporter's reaction to the color equation of which he was naturally conscious slipt into low gear along about the third reel. He was aware of the beautiful lighting and photographic job which resulted in soft and restful pictorial gems. He realized that, clipped blindly at almost any point where a mythical shears might happen, the frame so cut away would make a lovely picture. But his primary interest was in Miss Hopkins and her deviltries. . . .

Exactly how much, then, does this high-water mark in color photography aid "Becky Sharp"? And beyond that, exactly how much will any concentration on color to the slighting of other important elements in picture making mean when added production and print cost are calculated? It is difficult to tell because producers have a way of stampeding toward innovations with what is more often enthusiasm than good judgment. . . .

This department's thought, as it always has been, is color is an added appendage; that the first requisite is entertainment which color cannot replace although it can make that entertainment optically and, therefore, esthetically, more acceptable. "Becky Sharp" strengthens this observation. It suggests that caution is always commendable and headlong flight usually disastrous. No one can foretell how much excitement this picture will create. We see in it no revolution, but the holding forth of a promise, extent unknown, which can blossom into sane and sensible benefit through the exercise of moderation and restraint. . . .

John Maxwell Returns

John Maxwell, chairman of the B.I.P. board, sailed yesterday for London on the Majestic after 10 days in New York. Arthur Dent, general manager, is remaining for about two more weeks to finish up on a number of deals he has pending on the company's distribution here.

also be named when the U. A. board meets in New York June 25. Indications now point to the choice of Samuel Goldwyn for the post made vacant by Joseph M. Schenck's resignation.

According to a reliable source, Walter Wanger will produce Mary Pickford's quota of two pictures for the current season, although no contracts have been signed as yet. Charlie Chaplin will produce one other film this season in addition to Production No. 5. He will not appear in the second film, but it is understood that Paulette Goddard will have the lead.

The U. A. convention will be held in Los Angeles July 8-10, with Lichtman presiding. Lichtman and Hal Horne will fly to New York on Saturday. Horne has been working on the convention details.

An explanation of the Wilmington, Del., Chancery Court move seeking permission for the U. A. franchise holders to buy the 1,000 shares of U. A. stock owned by the Art Cinema Corp. now in process of dissolution has been made here. It is designed to keep control among the four present owner-producers—Pickford, Chaplin, Goldwyn and Douglas Fairbanks. Fairbanks is now on his way to this country from the Far East.

Rosenblatt Insists No Plans Are Made

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Denying that he will join the T.O.C.C., the I.A.T.S.E. or any other of the organizations with which his name has been linked since announcement of his resignation from NRA, Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt declares himself unable to discuss his future plans, other than that his first step would be to look around for an office. He repeated that he has made no arrangements for his activities when he returns to private practice.

25 with "The Milky Way," starring Harold Lloyd. Schaefer declared the group is either completed or in final stages of production.

Notable by his absence is W. C. Fields whose name does not appear in the product breakdown. Carl Brisson and Mary Ellis, who were featured this season, likewise do not appear.

Claudette Colbert will star in two, as will Mae West and Bing Crosby. Gary Cooper, Marlene Dietrich, Jan Kiepura, Harold Lloyd, Carole Lombard, Joe Penner and Margaret Sullavan are each slated for solo starring vehicles although some of this group are to be co-starred with others or each other in additional pictures. Sylvia Sidney and Fred MacMurray, a new team, will be featured in two. George Raft and Alice Faye are to be co-starred in "Every Night at Eight." Ann Harding will make at least one for the company. This is to be "Peter Ibbetson" with Cooper as a co-star. The latter is also slated to co-star with Miss Dietrich in "The Pearl Necklace." Down for their debuts are Jessica Dragonette, radio performer, and Gladys Swarthout, Metropolitan Opera star.

Annapolis Unit Returning

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—Paramount's "Annapolis Farewell" company is on its way back to the studio by train.

who welcomed the 140 men from all over the country and Europe. He was followed by J. J. Unger, eastern and southern divisional head, who distributed checks to the winners of the 3-1-1 sales contest held recently in honor of Schaefer.

Charles Reagan, western division head, then announced the 15 new members elected to the 100 Per Cent Club. He gave each of the men present a $3,000 life insurance paid up for one year. Schaefer then pinned buttons on the winners. They are:

T. Abner, Philadelphia; G. Elmo, Pittsburgh; J. A. Harris, Boston; Irwin Lesser, New York; E. B. Price, Atlanta; F. A. Tomes, Dallas; H. Roth, Cleveland; E. Walter, Buffalo; C. J. Duer, Denver; H. R. Hamburg, Chicago; G. Hinton, Omaha; G. E. Sessler, Sioux Falls; A. Taylor, San Francisco; J. E. Lenahan, Milwaukee; L. D. Hatfield, Toronto.

Roth and Lenahan are bookers, while Walter is ad sales manager of his exchange. The other 12 are salesmen.

Unlike the last convention, which was held on the coast, theatre operating partners did not attend, the session being limited to distribution forces.

John W. Hicks, vice-president of Paramount International, took the floor in the afternoon session and introduced about five foreign managers. He stated that many of his offices have already closed deals on the new lineup, announcement of which will be made at today's meeting. Cecil Graham of the London office and Jack Rappaport of the Havana branch also spoke briefly. George Weltner, assistant to Hicks, related how the foreign fields develop manpower.

Says Zukor Will Stay Active

Eugene J. Zukor, son of the chairman of the new board of directors, told the men that his father would continue to be active in the company's affairs. He did not go into details, but it was an assuring statement to the conventioneers. Zukor then reviewed his many years with the company.

Lou Diamond, in charge of shorts, gave an analysis of the one-reelers. A. J. Richard, head of the newsreel, talked on the 104 issues to be released for the new season. Grantland Rice, who is producing a series of sports reels, announced that Ted Husing had been signed as commentator for the subjects. Rice's talk was brief. He had to rush away to interview Max Baer before the big fight last night.

After the speeches, a screening was held. Tests of Gladys Swarthout and Helen Jepson, radio and opera stars, were shown. The two personalities will figure prominently in future Paramount releases.

The first Grantland Rice reel in which Husing narrates the action was exhibited. Also "Better Than Worster," a Popeye cartoon, and a new Variety short, "Broadway Highlights."

An enlarged photo taken at the Paris International sales convention on May 12 was unveiled at the convention hall by Hicks prior to the foreign session.

Blank Reflects Optimism

Theatre business in the west has greatly improved over last year, A. H. Blank, Paramount theatre partner in Iowa, stated yesterday. He says there has been a lot of rain which has helped the general morale of the farmer because of the prospects of fine crops.

Business is on the mend and everything points to a better season. He has been here with Ralph G. Branton, general manager of Tri-States, and finished up conferences with Y. Frank Freeman yesterday. He decided to stay over to see the Baer-Braddock fight last night and will leave with Branton for Des Moines this afternoon.

Fields Ill, Vacationing

W. C. Fields, who is missing from the Paramount announcement, has been granted a three-months vacation to recuperate from an illness. No vehicle has been selected for him when he returns, but studio forces are now surveying the material market for a story.

Para. Buys Amateurs' Song

Victor Mizzy and Irving Taylor, N. Y. U. students who took first place on one of the Fred Allen amateur broadcasts and played the Roxy for two weeks, have sold their original composition, "When Your Heart Rhymes With Mine," to Paramount.

Paramount Personalities

PERCY BLOCK, district manager for Philadelphia and Washington, brought with him from the Quaker City where he makes his headquarters. EARLE SWEIGERT, branch manager; THEODORE ABNER, salesman, just elected to the 100% Club, and ULRIK SMITH, sales manager.

MORRIS GLUCK, ad sales manager for the New York exchange, proudly exhibiting the $150 check received as second prize in the recent contest. ED WALTERS, who took fourth and received a $75 bonus, also displaying considerable gratification. These two were the only ad sales winners present.

MYKE LEWIS, coast district manager, was all smiles after being awarded a $1,000 check as winner of the recent 3-1-1 drive.

A. H. BLANK, who is in town on theatre business, didn't put in an appearance at the convention and GEORGE SCHAEFER gave him rats for being in the hotel and not dropping in. He is here with RALPH G. BRANTON, general manager of Tri-States. Both leave this afternoon for Des Moines.

JACK HIMMELEIN of Cleveland and EDDIE RUFF of Maine are inseparable. They promenade up and down the Waldorf lobby, taking in all the window displays.

MYRON SATTLER, New York branch manager, a symphony in blue, hunted up a couple of the boys who lend their ears to a coupe of quips he had saved for the occasion.

HENRY RANDEL, Brooklyn and Long Island exchange manager, bought himself a new hat for the conferences. EARLE SWEIGERT, the conservative one, is repeating on his $10 Stetson of last year.

IRWIN LESSER, New York salesman, was too modest to take a bow for winning the 100% Club award for the second consecutive time.

MAX FLEISCHER was ill and could not attend.

JOHNNY MOORE, sales manager at Boston, and AL KANE, New Haven branch manager, arrived at 11 P.M. Wednesday night and immediately went on a liquid diet.

COL. BILL ERBB, district manager for New England, reported his blue ribbon saddle horse Trojan has gone lame, which has prevented him from taking his early morning exercises.

J. J. UNGER, without reservation, declared that the convention is minus horseplay and positively all business. He also stated there were no changes in personnel.

CLAYTON EASTMAN, who captains the Albany branch, was an interested listener in one of the small groups which cluttered up the Waldorf lobby after the afternoon session.

Most of the sales force took in the BRADDOCK-BAER fight after dining at the Hollywood restaurant. The tickets were on the company.

EDDIE FONTAINE, Chicago district boss, arrived early, well equipped for his usual ribbing of HARRY GOLDSTEIN, from Pittsburgh. EDDIE reports having taken over ALLEN USHER, Windy City branch manager, on the golf links Sunday, which is an accomplishment.

PERCY BLOCK nursed a bad headache all afternoon.

AL WILKIE was busy commuting between the convention hall and the Newark airport where he met CECIL B. DEMILLE and BILL PINE arriving from the coast.

LEON NETTER and LOUIS NOTARIUS were the only representatives of the home office theatre department attending.

DAVE CHATKIN held an informal chat with NEIL AGNEW in the lobby after the second session.

CHARLES REAGAN and JOHNNY HOWARD, branch manager of the Indianapolis exchange, talked about old times.

CHET BELL, sales manager of the Detroit exchange, motored by way of Toronto into New England and messed up a couple of golf courses while visiting the Boston, New Haven and Maine exchanges. He took the trip as a vacation jaunt and made the 3,000 miles in a week.

000, based on obligations accruing from the construction of theatres for Paramount. The claim was later reduced to $12,000,000. RKO Claims Reduced Nearly $12,500,000

Thacher, forwarded to the RKO trustee yesterday.

The report covers hearings held last year on $25,800,000 of the $45,000,000 total claims filed against RKO. Of the reductions recommended by Thacher the largest was that dealing with the Rockefeller Center claims of $18,500,000, which were reduced to $9,600,000. These claims were based on RKO's liability for part of the construction costs of the two Radio City theatres and for office space in the RKO Bldg. The portions of the claims based on "future rents" were disallowed by the special master.

Another large claim which was materially reduced was that of Walter Reade for $2,700,000, based on a lease on the Mayfair, which was cut to $337,500. Numerous additional smaller claims were either reduced appreciably or disallowed in their entirety. It is assumed that the RKO trustee will contest further the Rockefeller Center claim, and other individual claimants in all probability will appeal the special master's rulings in respect to their claims.

Those Busy Warnerites

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—Colonel HOWARD WAUGH of Memphis found himself locked out of his room at the Ambassador on the first night of the Warner convention by people he always had regarded as pals and friends. To add insult to injury, they took his comb and brush when they finally were dislodged. Up to press time he had not located the missing articles.

MORT BLUMENSTOCK left Hollywood three years ago as a director. His last picture was "Morals of the Moment" for Tiffany. Even though he is busy greeting friends from every studio here, he leaves Friday night by plane and will stop over for several hours in Detroit on business.

A. L. SCHWALBERG, in charge of entertainment arrangements, complimenting studio men on their cooperation, and getting compliments in return. He has been here since Saturday and busy every minute.

THORNTON SARGENT of the local Fox West Coast office, and JOHN N. DILLON of the local Fox exchange turned up the second Warner day at the Ambassador, lunched early in lonely splendor before the morning session broke up and were waiting at the entrance to the Cocoanut Grove to greet friends from the east. The rally around them took on the proportions of a convention of their own before they left.

More Kentucky colonels are at the convention than are to be found in all of Kentucky, to all appearances. For instance, M. A. SILVER, zone theatre manager from Albany; FRED M. JACK of Dallas, MORT BLUMENSTOCK of New York, NAT WOLF of Cleveland and HARRY KALMINE of Pittsburgh.

Warner Calls Films A Service to Public

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—Warner pictures are performing a public service and "G-Men" is significant among the films that might be put in this classification, declared Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production, at the convention session in the Hotel Ambassador today.

"Films are an important factor in world betterment," Warner declared. "We are no longer merely in the entertainment business, but are helping standards, morals and living conditions."

Warner told the convention gathering that "A Midsummer Night's Dream" represents "a triumph for the entire industry." He described it as "one of the greatest forward steps from the beaten path."

Ed Hatrick, vice-president of Cosmopolitan Prod., expressed his pleasure over the affiliation of his company with Warners. Hal Wallis, studio production executive, said he hoped that more conventions would be held where films are made.

S. Charles Einfeld, introduced by Gradwell L. Sears, said that during the coming year the advertising budget would be the largest in the history of the company.

After praising the production and sales executives H. M. Warner surprised the delegates by telling them that he did not own stock in any company other than Warners.

Mervyn LeRoy also spoke.

The convention ended tonight with a banquet at which prizes were presented the winners of the company's "California or Bust" contest. Jack L. Warner was toastmaster.

Further studio conferences are to be held Friday between studio executives and theatre and production heads.

Warners to Film "G-Women"

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—A picture based on the work of women operatives in the government fight on crime is planned by Warners under the title "G-Women."

LeRoys to Tour Europe

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—Mervyn LeRoy is planning a vacation of six to eight weeks, starting early in September. Accompanied by Mrs. LeRoy, he will tour the principal capitals of Europe.

"Special Agent" Set to Start

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—"Special Agent," with a cast headed by Bette Davis, George Brent and Ricardo Cortez, goes into production in a day or two at Warners.

Visit Warner Home Office

Jack Holden, Warner studio art director; Dr. Dickey, Studio physician, and Leslie Clark, his assistant, who came east for the Shriners' Convention in Washington, were home office visitors yesterday.

Jolson Off to Coast Sunday

Al Jolson leaves town for the Warner studios Sunday.

Mass. Dog Races Start

BOSTON, June 13.—Massachusetts had its first taste of pari-mutuel dog racing when the $500,000 Wonderland track opened last night a few miles outside of Boston.

Music Details Up In Ascap Hearing

Further testimony of a technical nature relating to the use of copyrighted music by radio broadcasters was given by Thomas Belviso, manager of NBC's music library research department, during cross examination by Nathan Burkan yesterday in the government's anti-trust suit against Ascap.

Belviso was on the stand all day. His testimony concerned music that has come into the public domain through the lapse of copyrights or the lack of them that is freely available for public performance. The government contends that Ascap's alleged monopoly on copyrighted music makes it impossible to give a succession of varied, public performances of music without being licensed by the organization. Most of the music in the public domain, Belviso contended, is the classical compositions of long-dead composers.

Belviso admitted under questioning by Burkan, counsel for Ascap, that NBC had a music library of its own of 250,000 titles, many of them different arrangements of the same song. Burkan also brought out that Belviso himself composed music for NBC programs and endeavored to show that, similarly, other radio programs are prepared without benefit of Ascap.

The trial will continue before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in U.S. District Court here today. Indications are that all radio broadcasting witnesses will testify prior to the calling of theatre and film men to the stand as witnesses for the government. This may require another week.

Penn. Sunday Bill Undergoes Changes

HARRISBURG, June 13.—After accepting an amendment today to make the proposed Sunday local option bill more acceptable to some of the Senate members whose votes were in doubt, the Pennsylvania Senate passed the measure on second reading. The bill will come up on a vote for final passage next week.

The bill originally made it mandatory for each municipal sub-division of the state to vote next November on whether to permit Sunday shows after 2 P. M. The amendment provides that a referendum may be held only if such a proposal is petitioned for by at least five per cent of the voters of the party that polled the highest vote in the preceding municipal election.

While for many weeks the bill proposing a 10 per cent tax on gross receipts has lain dormant in committee, interest was revived today in an amusement tax proposal, though on a lower percentage basis. The new suggestion is for a four per cent tax on admissions to all places of amusement.

If the Sunday bill goes through, it is said theatre interests will be less hostile to the proposed receipts tax at the lower figure.

The bill proposing a tax on billboards was favorably reported.

TRENTON, June 13.—Governor Hoffman has signed New Jersey's new sales tax law. It provides for a two per cent levy on all retail sales, but does not affect theatre admissions.

'Time' Buyer of RKO Notes, Casey Pathe Suit Reveals

the sale of the RKO notes at 20 cents on the dollar constituted a wastage of Pathe's assets, and that the value of the notes was greatly in excess of the sales price, the defendant directors and officers of Pathe countered that the sale of the RKO notes was "of great benefit to Pathe" and "an exercise of sound business judgment."

"The RKO notes," the reply states, "were offered to various security houses and investment trusts who might reasonably have been expected to make a bid tor the same, including the Atlas Securities Corp., who were working on a plan of reorganization for RKO and were thoroughly familiar with that company's situation. The best bid that Atlas would make was 17. A bid of 20 was finally made by the magazine Time, to whom they were sold."

The reply further points out that no interest has been paid Pathe on any of the RKO notes since July 1, 1932, and that $774,000 principal amount of the RKO notes were past due and unpaid last Sept. 29. The reply further points out that while reorganization plans for RKO have been discussed for almost the entire two years since the company's receivership, no plan has yet been announced. The notes were sold, the reply adds, "in order to reduce to cash what otherwise would have remained an asset of dubious value, and which represented obligations of a defunct company."

Says RKO Notes Unsecured

It also states that the RKO notes are unsecured and in a junior position to $13,000,000 of additional first and second RKO liens, believed to be secured by "substantially all of the important assets of RKO," and that these latter notes have sold in the market for as low as 26½ since the first of the year. The notes held by Pathe, the reply states, rank with approximately $45,000,000 of claims filed by RKO creditors.

"It would seem apparent," the reply concludes, "that a sale of these notes at a price of 20 was fair and reasonable, if indeed not more than their reasonable market value and actual worth."

Casey's application for a receiver declares that Pathe's rise attracted the attention of Wall Street speculators, who eventually brought about the company's sale to RKO, the sale price being paid in large part by the latter company's unsecured notes. Thereafter, the application says, Pathe's dominating group of directors who brought about the sale left the company "helplessly floundering." In spite of this, it states, Pathe staged a recovery through some of its assets which were "troublesome to pry loose," at the time of the sale and again attracted Wall St. attention and became the "prey of market manipulators."

The complaint alleges that loans and advances of $200,000 made to First Division by Pathe will result in a total loss, and declares that the advances were made for production financing to a company which had neither "producing experience nor world wide distributing facilities." It also charges that loans totaling $150,000 were made to "one Rowland" to finance the production of "The Girl Friend" and that as a result of Columbia's rejection of the picture for distribution "the loans will be a total loss."

The complaint also alleges that Robert R. Young, of the investment firm of Young & Kolbe, dominates Pathe presently and that Frank F. Kolbe, Pathe president, and Robert Atkins, executive vice-president, are "dummies" of Young. It charges that Young bought up Pathe debentures in the market at advantageous prices after the company itself had been obliged, "because of improvident loans and advances," to halt such buying. It further charges that Stuart Webb's replacement as Pathe president was made to appear to stockholders as a reform move, whereas in reality the new management plans to continue the same policies of "dissipation of Pathe's assets."

The complaint charges that the pledging of Pathe's 49 per cent stock interest in Du Pont Film Mfg. Co. for a $2,000,000 loan which requires the payment of interest and principal on certain due dates places the stock in a position where, in the event of defaults, it might have to be dumped on the market, causing the loss of Pathe's most valuable asset. It states further that the Du Pont stock has a book value of $4,000,000 and that its actual value is believed to be much more. It adds that its value will probably be greatly enhanced by current "valuable" experiments being conducted by Du Pont which are expected to "greatly lessen the cost of manufacturing raw stock."

See Derr Behind Action

Reflecting the reports which identified E. B. Derr, former Pathe production head, as the figure behind Casey's action, the reply of the defendants advances the belief that Derr is using Casey's name to bring the action, and that he, Derr, "is hostile to Pathe" because of "facts which took place" at the time that he was an employe of the company and who "has anything but the best interests of the company at heart." The answer further states that Derr recently "had the audacity to ask that the management of Pathe be turned over to him."

The defendants state that the production loan for "The Girl Friend" would amount to less than $50,000, rather than the $150,000 alleged and that it has been learned from "officers of Columbia" that it will be repaid "at least in part" and may "net a profit."

In a separate reply filed by Young denial is made that he dominates the company or rules its officers and sets forth that he owns 2,000 shares of Pathe's 8 per cent preferred, or 25 per cent of that issue, and more than 25,000 shares of the Class A stock, or about 10 per cent of that issue. In this connection Young points out that if, as alleged, his intentions were to encourage the mismanagement of Pathe "and ruthlessly destroy the rights of stockholders, it is apparent that, as the largest stockholder, I would be injuring myself most of all." He adds that the only dealings his firm had in Pathe securities occurred in 1933, involved a few hundred shares and resulted in a loss of $586.75.

Young also denies that his purchase of Pathe debentures was for speculative purposes or to hold for redemption by the company at par, and points out that the debentures were selling at above or slightly below par for six months before they were called for retirement.

The answers defend the $2,000,000 loan from Bankers Trust and the pledging of the Du Pont stock as security for it in pointing out that the loan which made possible the calling in of Pathe's debentures carries interest of only four per cent, whereas the retired debentures were at seven per cent interest. In addition, the answer says, the entire debenture issue matured May 1, 1937, whereas only $500,000 of the new loan now matures on that date, another $500,000 one year later and the remaining $1,000,000 on May 1, 1939. "By making this loan," the answer concludes, "Pathe has both materially reduced its fixed interest charges and has extended the maturities of its fixed obligations."

Replying to the charge that the pledging of the Du Pont stock in any way jeopardized it as a Pathe asset, the defendants' answer points out that dividends on the stock in the past have been sufficient to meet the obligations set by the loan.

The answer charges that all of the allegations in Casey's application are unsupported by fact and are inconsistent. "The appointment of a receiver under these circumstances," it concludes, "would be a terrible calamity to the corporate defendant, would undoubtedly reduce the market value of the preferred stock to a fraction of its present price, destroy the credit of the company, place all of its assets in jeopardy and work irretrievable injury."

Justice Dore gave Casey's attorney until tomorrow to file an answer to the reply, following which he will rule on the application for the receiver.

Loew's and RKO Plan No Summer Closings

Loew's and RKO will not close any theatres for the summer, it was learned yesterday. The former circuit operates on a 40-week rental basis and has already paid rents for the 10-week warm period.

While RKO previously followed the same procedure as Loew's in charging off rents for the summer months, this practice has been discontinued.

Loew's recently closed the Lyric, Bridgeport, Conn., and unless circuit officials change their minds later, the theatre will remain dark after Sept. 1.

Receiver Suit Against Campi To Be Dropped

paid only $18 for the second half of the 1934 assessment and counsel for Campi is trying to find out what is behind it.

Felix A. Jenkins, alternating for S. R. Kent, and Nathan Yamins, chairman of the finance committee, met yesterday to discuss with John C. Flinn the progress made so far in winding up Campi's affairs. Price, Waterhouse & Co. has started an audit on the financial structure of the boards. Balances from each code secretary who had $50 on hand for expenses are coming in and it will be another week before the report is completed.

Bids are being taken for furniture at Code Authority and at local boards where the equipment was not leased.

Exhibitors paid about $4,000 for the first half of 1935, while producers and distributors contributed $32,000. Disposition of the balance after Campi has quit will be made by the finance committee. Producers and distributors already have notified Campi that decision of the committee will meet with its approval. There is a possibility that the remaining money may be divided pro rata among members who paid assessments for the first half of this year.

After 15 telegrams have been received by Code Authority from exhibitors throughout the country recommending an industry tribunal and boards similar to the code be set up to continue the work of Campi. The wires, all virtually the same in text, were received on the same day. Letters were also received commending the various secretaries.

Tyree Dillard, Jr., plans to sail on a six-week cruise about July 1 when he winds up his legal activities at Campi. It will be his first real vacation in six years.

New Skeleton NRA Given Senate Vote

through the longest session in recent years.

Despite bitterness over the amendment of the resolution by the Senate, the House of Representatives is expected to approve it tomorrow.

The agreements provided for will be required to deal with collective bargaining, minimum wages, maximum hours and child labor, and may prohibit such trade practices as are forbidden by the Federal Trade, Clayton and other laws. No exemption from operation of the anti-trust statutes would be given such codes.

Administration officials, while accepting the situation philosophically, are not optimistic over the effects of the provision for voluntary agreements and do not anticipate a rush of industry to get under the cover of a type of agreement which, without restrictions as to labor conditions, has been available at any time during the past 10 years from the Federal Trade Commission.

Meanwhile, finally certain that the days of the robust NRA are drawing to a close, officials began making arrangements to cut the staff from over 5,000 to 1,500 or less. The end of the week will see a general exodus from Washington of officials who have been engaged in the negotiation and administration of codes.

Ohio NRA Act Ended

COLUMBUS, June 13.—Seven judges of the state Supreme Court have unanimously concurred in the opinion of a lower court declaring the Ohio NRA act unconstitutional as a delegation of legislative authority.

Ohio was the first state to enact a law modeled on the National Industrial Recovery Act. Governor Davey recently signed an act extending the Ohio law during the life of the NRA, but not longer than April 1 next year.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Honeymoon Limited"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—An unusually sprightly, gay comedy romance that was turned out on a small budget, but it is nonetheless a good bet on a double bill.

Neil Hamilton wagers his choleric publisher, Henry Kolker, that he can walk across the country penniless, arriving in six months with a completed novel. The time is almost up and the novel still not started when Hamilton finds a deserted house and the publisher's three runaway granddaughters. Gangsters Russell Hicks and Lorin Raker, who are after hidden money in the fireplace, provide fights and laughs, masquerading as a honeymooning pair from the deep south.

The slight inconsistencies in the story are easily overlooked in clever characterizations, resourceful plot variations and excellent dialogue by Dorothy Reid and Betty Burbridge, who adapted from Vida Hurst's novel. Arthur Lubin's direction is smooth. Irene Hervey is a pleasing feminine lead. The cute twins, Joy and June Filmer, register heavily in a cast that includes Lloyd Hughes, George Hayes, Gertrude Astor, Virginia Brissac and Lee Moran.

Looking 'Em Over

"Becky Sharp"

(Pioneer-Radio)

"Becky Sharp" is a splendid piece of entertainment highlighted with a finely etched, compelling performance by Miriam Hopkins. It would be an important picture in black and white. How much more important it is with color will be demonstrated at the box-office within the next few weeks and months.

Most certainly color doesn't detract from the dramatic values. After the first few moments of curiosity and conscious delight in the beauty of the effects achieved the observer becomes absorbed in the characterization being unfolded by Miss Hopkins. The impression deepens that she is at a new milestone in her career, that she is vitalizing a difficult role with swift, kaleidoscopic emotional flashes.

Becky Sharp, as presented here, is an ambitious orphan determined to go somewhere socially when she leaves a fashionable English boarding school of the period of 1812. Her purpose never wavers. She tries to trick Nigel Bruce into a proposal, she succeeds in marrying an impecunious officer of good family, she goes into debt and gambles. She tricks money from everyone, she enmeshes the Marquis of Steyne (Cedrick Hardwicke) with her fatal lure on the eve of the battle of Waterloo. Finally her husband leaves her in disgrace and she goes back to her first admirer, Bruce, but through it all she is delightful.

Closeups, gorgeous spectacles, swift action are shrewdly blended by Rouben Mamoulian in a production design conceived by Robert Edmond Jones to get the best results from the new three-tone Technicolor process, but he keeps his story in hand at all times and makes the tints an adjunct to the telling.

The cast is outstanding. Alan Mowbray, as the husband, is impressive; Frances Dee is charming. Alison Skipworth stands out in a brief sequence. Billie Burke appears to advantage in brief flashes. G. P. Huntley, Jr., as the husband of Becky's girlhood friend, is adequate.

Exhibitors have a ready-made exploitation angle—the first full length feature in the three-color process and the extensive campaign Radio has put on to build it up. It is bound to make money. It may take its place as a significant new industry turning point, but time will tell on that point.

Allied Heads Talk to Hays On Problems

to supplant the regulations in force under the NRA industry code was not touched upon at the session.

The meeting was described "as a friendly and sympathetic exchange of views" in line with the specific resolution adopted at the Allied convention to petition Hays for aid in ending the practices complained of at the Atlanta meeting. These were, primarily, circuit theatre practices in Texas as recited by Col. H. A. Cole, Allied director, who declared that they were designed either to force independents out of business or to make them a part of a national booking combine. The complaints, relayed to Hays yesterday, will be further investigated by his office, it is understood. Pending developments from this study, it is regarded as unlikely that further meetings on the subject will be held during the current session of Allied's executive committee, but the possibility that other meetings may result later was advanced.

The Allied delegation, following the meeting with Hays, repaired to the Hotel Warwick, where the executive committee is convening. No official statement on the conference with Hays was issued, President Sidney Samuelson confining himself to the declaration that the meeting, which winds up today, is an administration confab to determine upon means of putting into effect the mandates of Allied's recent convention. Attending the session are Samuelson, Abram F. Myers, W. A. Steffes, H. M. Richey, Newman Waters, Fred Herrington, Nathan Yamins, Edward Ansin and Bennie Berger. Most of the delegates will leave for their homes tonight.

To Discuss Code Problems

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—How to get along without a code and what to put in its place will be the principal topics of discussion at the 17th annual convention of the K. M. T. A. scheduled to be held here June 26-27.

"Because of the elimination of the code, there is an acute need for a strong, closely knit organization," says R. R. Biechele, secretary.

"Exhibitors are today without a means of conciliation or arbitration between exhibitors, between exhibitors and distributors, and between exhibitors and producers."

There are other vital matters which demand consideration. For Kansas exhibitors there is the question of a special session of the Legislature, definitely set for this year, to consider taxation almost entirely. An effort will be made to pass a sales tax.

Missouri exhibitors are faced with the problem of collecting the sales tax. No definite plan has been outlined by state officials by which the tax can be collected.

Insurance also will be discussed.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Voluntary code suggestions are met with little enthusiasm here. The prevailing opinion seems to be that if a code backed by governmental authority could not be enforced no other kind stands a chance.

Para. Convention Told Studio Regime Will Remain Unchanged

Ernst Lubitsch will continue as managing director of Paramount production, and Henry Herzbrun as studio business administrator.

Following four days of negotiation with John E. Otterson, president-elect of the company, negotiations are understood to have been consummated Thursday evening. Paramount, however, will make no official announcement until Monday or thereafter when the deal will be verified and, it is understood, contracts signed.

Indicating that the current management in Hollywood will stay without change, was George J. Schaefer's statement to the sales convention at the Waldorf yesterday that "no change is contemplated in the management of the studio."

While he made no specific reference by name, a second statement that "there would be no restoration of former studio management" clearly inferred that Emanuel Cohen, persistently mentioned in connection with a return to Paramount, was now definitely and conclusively out of the running.

This verifies MOTION PICTURE DAILY's exclusive story of Wednesday that Lubitsch and Herzbrun will stay at the helm of production.

With the election of Adolph Zukor to the board chairmanship, he will concentrate considerable of his time collaborating on production, his son,

Chicago exhibitors and the distribution company was indicated by an Allied spokesman yesterday, who said that the committee would remain here "as long as there is anything for it to do."

The Allied executive committee wound up a two-day session here yesterday with further discussion of administrative subjects. Abram F. Myers and H. M. Richey were designated to perfect plans for National Allied Day, scheduled for Aug. 5, at which time member theatres are expected to contribute 25 per cent of their day's receipts to the national Allied treasury.

and other forms of giveaways. He has filed an appeal from Judge Frederick P. Walther's refusal to grant an injunction against M. B. Horwitz's use of bank night at the Haltnorth.

Spread of all these practices is feared unless court help is secured. A. F. Ptak has started bank night at the Lyceum and others are reported to be considering it.

Ascap Trial Progresses

C. W. Bennier, NBC aide, was the only witness to testify yesterday in the government's anti-trust suit against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers, which is in progress before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in U. S. District Court here. Bennier's testimony related to the quantity of music used on NBC programs and licensed by Ascap and that used which required no licensing. The trial resumes again on Monday.

Weil's Book Sparkles

Joe Weil of Universal has turned out a striking pressbook for "Diamond Jim." The outside cover printed in purple on a gilt background is illuminated with a lot of sparklers that look like diamonds. Edward Arnold's studs, his boutonnier, his cane, cuff links, and the title letters all stand out brilliantly.

Move for New Code Fails to Cheer Chicago

not want a code, voluntary or otherwise, extending beyond hours and wages for the protection of employes. No arbitrary regulation of trade practices such as resulted in frequent injustices and in decisions lacking equity is desirable to us."

Edwin Silverman, speaking for Essaness houses, was equally emphatic.

"If they couldn't enforce the quasi-judicial code, why try a voluntary one?" he asked. "Naturally we and every reputable organization are abiding by the wage and hour standards, and will, because this is economically sound, but in Chicago the code was the cause of more trouble than the business had had in all of the 10 years preceding it. It gave the chiselers, who wouldn't abide by the board decisions, an unfair advantage."

Charles H. Ryan, assistant zone manager for Warners, concurred in the thought that codes should not go beyond hour and wage regulation.

Against Voluntary Code

"I am not in favor of adopting a voluntary code," he said. "I was satisfied with the operation of the code as it related to hours and wages, but when regulation went beyond that it went wrong. When the code attempted to tell exhibitors how to run their theatres, and whether or not he could use bank night, screeno and such things, it was detrimental rather than helpful. We believe in and practice fair competition, but are not in favor of adopting a voluntary code which works hardship on the exhibitor and interferes with his operation of his business."

Ludwig Sussman, well known independent operator, favors a code if one can be worked out for the benefit of all.

"I would like to see a code of a fair and proper kind," he declared, "if it could be enforced equitably and would operate fairly with respect to the little fellow as well as the big fellow. Of course, the assurance of fair and square treatment of employes is the best purpose that a code serves, although most men in business have come to consider this as merely the honest and human thing to do. It ought not to require enforcement.

"I have never used the code, personally; that is, I have never been brought before a board or had anyone else brought before one, but if a code were to be worked out after a sufficient discussion of the pros and cons by conscientious members of the industry it could serve a worthwhile purpose."

MPTO in St. Louis Seeks Arbitration

Wehrenberg, president, has sounded out the membership on the question of setting up a voluntary arbitration board to take the place of the grievance and the clearance and zoning boards.

His bulletin reads: "Now that the Supreme Court has declared the NRA unconstitutional, I think that the industry should organize self-regulation, where disputes and contractual violations could be heard by an unbiased arbitration board, selected by exhibitors to consist of three exhibitors and three exchange men and in the event of a tie both parties shall agree upon the seventh arbitrator. I rather think a setup of this kind should be welcomed by exhibitors. I do not mean the same setup as in the old Film Board of Trade days, but some kind of a tribune where industry disputes could be settled within the industry.

"Won't you please sign the enclosed postcard and mail at once to this office, stating whether or not you are in favor of such a setup?"

Early returns indicate exhibitors are in favor of the idea.

Short Subjects

"Baer-Braddock Fight"

(Oliver)

Dull may sound like a strange criticism to make of the film record of a heavyweight championship fight. But a picture such as this is one bit of celluloid that can never be better than the cast. The producers have made a fine job of filming the Baer-Braddock bout. If the two gladiators had made as fine a job of trying to annihilate each other this would have been a swell film of its kind.

As revealed by the camera (and there is a no more candid camera than a motion picture camera at a ringside) the fight was devoid of any real excitement. Sometimes it was so downright bad that an audience at the Palace here broke out into guffaws. The picture leaves no question of Braddock's supremacy. Every blow is clearly captured by the camera. All that this picture suffers from is actor trouble. And that in a fight picture is a pretty serious fault. No production code seal. Running time, 30 mins. "G."

Lubitsch to Stay On with Herzbrun

Eugene, said yesterday in the lobby of the hotel. "My father has been buried on details of the company for many years and his new post will give him a clear mind to lay out production plans," he said. Zukor will most likely make a trip to the coast shortly, but he plans to take it easy for the summer.

Schaefer also told the delegates a new deal had been signed with Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur for two pictures on the new program, likewise confirming another of this publication's exclusives of Thursday. Their duet will be "down to earth and designed for the masses," Schaefer added.

The Paramount vice-president spent considerable time yesterday in delving into angles on next season's product. He stressed star names, asserted that where Paramount had scheduled stars for given numbers of pictures, the company will bend every effort to deliver on those promises. Paramount, he pointed out, regarded its stellar array as formidable as any in the industry.

He announced that, by a deal with Columbia, Frank Capra, that company's "ace" director, will make one picture for Paramount which, in turn, has "loaned" Bing Crosby to Columbia for one picture.

Pending, but not signed, is a new deal with Walter Wanger for a series of six. The producer is in New York in connection with the impending contract, which, by all indications, is set for signature.

During the afternoon session Schaefer discussed the sales policy generally in addition to the important 400 first runs throughout the country. He was called out of the meeting for conferences at the home office with Lubitsch and Herzbrun. He and Neil F. Agnew today will discuss individual territorial sales plans with district and branch men.

Robert M. Gillham, Bill Pine and Don Velde went over advertising, publicity and exploitation plans.

"Nat'l Velvet" Undetermined

Sylvia Sidney and Fred MacMurray will not be teamed in "National Velvet," as reported yesterday.

McFaul to Look In

Vincent McFaul, president and general manager of the Shea circuit upstate, arrives from Buffalo today to attend the Paramount sales meet.

Schine After Deal

BUFFALO, June 14.—Meyer Schine is seeking a deal with Paramount to take over the latter's Glens Falls house. If he can get the house he will close the Rialto, in that city.

Paramount is not anxious to dispose of any of its theatre holdings at present and there is no immediate outlook for a deal going through.

NEW HAVEN, June 14.—Herman Rifkin will play host to New England exhibitors at a buffet luncheon to be held at the Republic offices here next Tuesday. The occasion is the formal opening of Republic Pictures of New England.

Paramount Personalities

ERNST LUBITSCH and BEN HECHT accompanied GEORGE SCHAEFER to the Baer-Braddock fight the other night. They were enthused plenty over the fisticuffs.

JIMMY BINKOV, Union City exhibitor, tried to make a deal with EARLE SWEIGERT for the new product between sessions. It was no go because details of the sales policy were not announced until the afternoon.

NEIL AGNEW, J. J. UNGER, CHARLES REAGAN and MILT KUSELL stepped out of the convention headquarters for their usual luncheon tidbits and chatter. They returned at two sharp, the appointed hour for resuming the session.

ADOLPH ZUKOR and HENRY HERZBRUN held one of those luncheon confabs, but were nowhere near the Waldorf.

HARRY HUNTER, branch manager of the Washington exchange, has just received his certificate of appointment as a Kentucky colonel.

JOHN W. HICKS, EUGENE J. ZUKOR, GEORGE WELTNER and other foreign executives had an exclusive table for lunch.

JOE MANFRE, Kansas City head, has achieved a life-long ambition—to ride in a New York subway. This is his first visit east of the Hudson.

A-MIKE VOGEL, chairman of Showmen's Round Table of Motion Picture Herald, renewed acquaintance with a lot of the boys he knew from the old days. He even took advantage of the free buffet luncheon.

PERCY BLOCK says he got over that headache without the aide of bromos.

MILT KUSELL pulled a quick change of dress act yesterday afternoon. He left for the tailor in a dark blue suit and returned in 10 minutes in a double-breasted grey outfit.

J. ARTHUR HIRSCH, head of Consolidated Theatres in Canada, was invited over by the Canadian contingent after the session to participate in a drinking bout.

GEORGE AKERSON, former HERBERT HOOVER secretary and public relations counsel for Paramount, was seen chatting with some of the boys. It was noticed he had dropped poundage.

Garbed in a white serge outfit, navy blue shirt and creamy white shoes, BILL PINE opened his talk with the admonition: "Don't let the get-up fool you!"

EDDIE (BIG CASINO) RUFF, who guides the activities of the Portland, Me., exchange, showed up sporting the best tan of any conventioneer. When questioned how it was possible to acquire such a swell tan in New England while selling film, EDDIE's alibi was he had no awnings in his office.

JOHNNY HIMMELEIN, pilot of the Cleveland office, is said to have made DUKE CLARKE of Columbus blush profusely by a smart Himmelein crack.

KENNETH ROBINSON, Buffalo branch head, having shrunk considerable in avoirdupois, particularly about the belt line since last year, is being kidded aplenty about the missus being responsible for the new waistline.

J. HAROLD STEVENS, Boston branch head, took the sartorial honors as the best dressed conventionite. No award given.

SCOTT CHESNUTT, exchange head at Jacksonville, accounted for his being 30 pounds overweight by the fact that he had been confined to bed for a few weeks as a result of an accident while fishing recently in the West Indies.

Otterson Begins Paramount Job; Court Control Near End

John E. Otterson, newly elected president of Paramount, officially takes over that position today, concurrently with the anticipated ending of court supervision of the administration of Paramount.

The law firm of Cook, Nathan & Lehman, counsel for Paramount in reorganization, has been working night and day for the past week to clear legal hurdles in order to make possible the submission of an order to Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe today directing the Paramount trustees to return title to the company's assets to the new board and officers.

Court supervision has been in effect since January, 1933. With the lawyers working all day yesterday, indications are that the order will be ready for submission and signing by Judge Coxe today, although the actual transfer of assets may entail another two weeks.

Uncertainties Dampen Hopes For Code Rule

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Beset by grave uncertainties as to its future, the National Recovery Administration today started in on what will probably be the final phase of a tempestuous career.

Stripped of its powers to impose and enforce codes, without any definite plans for the future and with little likelihood of its hands being strengthened by new legislation, the NRA today is but a shell of the powerful weapon for industrial control which was visualized by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, under whose administration nearly 600 codes were developed.

Under the new legislation, the Administration is continued for nine and a half months—until April 1, 1936—so that Congress, next session, may enact such legislation as then seems desirable if the effort is to be continued. But, faced with the definite limitations laid down by the Supreme RICHMOND, June 16.—Problems developing out of the scrapping of the code will be one of the leading subjects to come before the annual convention of the M. P. T. O. of Virginia which started a two-day session here today.

Morton G. Thalhimer of Richmond is presiding. Edwin S. Reid and Mrs. Elizabeth C. Chalkley of the state censor board are to be among the speakers.

Loew Decides On Giveaways; RKO Shies Off

Loew's has definitely decided to go in for giveaways and chance games in the local area. The circuit will first experiment with chance games in one or two spots where its competitors have been employing the practices. The theatres have not been set.

Negotiations are on with several of the game and premium agents. As soon as one of the games is successful, it will be put on in a number of other houses.

RKO is shying clear of the practice for the time being. Circuit heads feel that until its theatres are hurt by competing exhibitors using the various stimulants it will not go for the schemes.

With 112 houses in the metropolitan area already signed up, Parco Co., distributor of Lucky, expects to have 250 theatres playing the game within the next three months. William Raynor, general manager of the company, is authority for the statement. Since

New Federal Film Probes Are Stirring

Justice Dept. Seeking Campi Texas Records

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Possibilities of widespread film prosecutions, rumored some months ago following the filing of the St. Louis anti-trust case, were revived when it was learned that the Department of Justice was seeking to secure the records of Campi.

It was indicated that the department at present is particularly interested in conditions in Texas, where the grievance board experienced considerable difficulty in dealing with controversies over the supply of product.

Whether the department will seek to secure all of the Campi records or only those dealing with the Texas situation could not be learned.

Following the filing of the St. Louis action it was rumored the department was planning to bring a number of prosecutions in the various exchange areas, although officials declared they did not contemplate any particular drive against the industry.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

PROMISE for the future. Sidney Kent, quotes and all, addressing the recent Fox convention:

"I tell you this is the most important deal (20th Century) made in this industry and in a short time you will appreciate the full significance of that statement."

Intriguing? However, there is more:

"Those in charge of our theatre affiliations have done a wonderful piece of work. Today we can announce with justifiable pride the fact that our every division of theatres is in black. Every single division of our theatre organization is showing a nice profit."

And then this on balance sheets:

"Your company is in a very good position. We have maintained our high position. We have no obligations to meet and had to make no loans. I am glad to tell you that in the first six months of this year we have earned more than we did during all of 1934."

That's how it is with Fox these days. . . .

Typewriter keys going careless on a quiet Saturday and emerging with this:

That Dave Selznick might become United Artists' new Zanuck, particularly if he can shuffle the arrangement to allow the birth of Selznick Pictures. For Dave and Myron are proud of that name. Moreover, Dave does not regard his 4 G's a week from Metro sufficient reward. Especially when he looks over on his old lot, Radio, and sees "Pan" Berman doing almost twice as well on a percentage-of-profit basis. Of course, any contemplation of things that may be at U. A. must take into consideration Sam Goldwyn. That's plenty to consider in any man's company. . . .

A roster of those who did not know about Joe Schenck's deal with Kent would fill an industry blue book. Schenck's visits to Kent's office were known, but the frequency with which they happened seemed logical enough in view of the Fox Met offer in which Kent has a decided interest because of playdates for Fox product. Then, too, there were equities in the bankrupt Fox Theatres estate. An amusing sidelight has to do with a ranking executive who found the story poured into his unsuspecting ear at the cocktail hour six days before the yarn broke. His informant was a Wall Street source. The executive concluded quickly the whisperer was merely drunk. . . .

"Jock" Whitney wanted to take in the Braddock-Baer fight Thursday night. He did. He also wanted three hundred of his intimate friends to see "Becky Sharp" privately after the bout. Therefore, he had blocked off the necessary and best seats in the Music Hall loge. Some one cautiously suggested that even high society might feel too exclusive with almost six thousand vacant seats around it. Then there were problems to conjure with such as echoes and drafts. And perhaps one or two wild-eyed lost souls rambling for days through the limitless expanse of the structure in search of an exit might swoop down to the confusion of delicate sensibilities. Anyhow, a public performance was delicately suggested to make everything and everybody homey and comfy. That's how the Music Hall happened to hold a midnight show on Thursday. . . .

Personal Preferences: Jean Arthur's pert, lively and thoroughly competent performance as the romantic lead in "Public Hero Number 1." It reminds she also did a swell job in "The Whole Town's Talking." Both suggest bright days for her if some producer gets smart. . . . Josephine Hutchinson's quiet but emotionally stirring work in "Oil for the Lamps of China," which compromises with some of the issues pushed forward by the novel, but which is expertly and smoothly directed by Mervyn LeRoy nonetheless. . . . Joseph Calleia, who debuts strongly as the menace in "Public Hero Number 1." . . .

The "Truth Must Prevail" department cannot square with its conscience without drawing attention to Columbia's recent and ambitious press yarn, tall kind, about its Music Hall deal. Claiming 30 per cent of that theatre's playing time, which the lightning calculator computes at 15.60 weeks, the fact is Columbia product will play only 10 weeks. One picture or nine more than one, it makes no difference. The arrangement is for 70 days of playing time. Then it ends. . . .

Campi, or what's left of it, has been getting wires lately. Interesting wires from exhibitors who say they are for a revival of Film Boards of Trade under voluntary code machinery. If you should ask Charlie Pettijohn what he knows about it, he'd incline toward a discussion of the tailoring points of his new sport jacket. That's understandable. It's a very impressive jacket. . . .

N. Y. Critics For, Against Color Film

New York critics reacted variously to "Becky Sharp," now in its world premiere at the Music Hall, and viewed the new three-color Technicolor process with which it was made as alternately excellent and experimental.

Consensus of their opinion follows:

American— . . . but this department enthusiatically contrihutes its vote to the assured success of "Becky Sharp." Further, it predicts that it (color) will be henceforth as important to the cinema as "The Jazz Singer." Though color is introduced, Director Mamoulian has not brutally taken advantage of it. . . . "Becky Sharp" does not rely on such grandiose measures. It is hrisk and lively, sensitive and serene, and what excitement there is exudes naturally from the story.

Daily Mirror— . . . a truly beautiful film. The color is exquisite. Subtle olive greens, turquoises, flames, pearls are captured by the camera with accurate fidelity. No previous color picture compares with "Becky Sharp." The story, unfortunately, is a sedate, talky account. . . . The central character, superbly played by Miriam Hopkins, is not a really sympathetic one.

Daily News—The spectators came with the expectation of being bowled over by something entirely new in the way of color photography. They were, I'm afraid, disappointed on that score, but they remained to applaud the efforts of all those concerned in the making of a picture that is endowed with a great deal of pictorial beauty. . . . Color photography is still in the experimental stage, but "Becky Sharp" shows the strides that have been made in the Technicolor laboratories. . . . Except for her voice, which became too strident at times, Miriam Hopkins gives a fine performance. . . . The success of "Becky Sharp" demonstrates that color has a definite place in the scheme of pictures. . . .

Called "Handsome Production"

Evening Journal— . . . a handsome production that, technically, is a great improvement over the earlier experiments in color photography. Visually "Becky Sharp" is charming. Cool blues, pale yellows and bright reds are assembled with a genuine color sense and blended with artistic effect. . . . But color is still a novelty, and it is still too early to say whether, as its sponsors hope, it can replace the black and white of the screen. Miriam Hopkins gives an excellent performance as the designing Becky of Thackeray's "Vanity Fair." The hrilliant novel has been skillfully transferred to the screen and very well cast.

Herald-Tribune — The most important cinematic experiment since moving shadows first became articulate. . . . As a dramatic entertainment it has its faults, and some of these stem from the experiment itself, hut as the first serious step in an uncharted field it is a considerable triumph. . . . It is understandable but regrettable that their concentration on sheer imagery has caused them to neglect the dramatic aspects of "Becky Sharp." Francis Edward Faragoh's scenario is episodic and singularly lacking in climactic power. . . . When color is employed too profusely it definitely diverts one's attention from the dramatic action, a recurrent fault in "Becky Sharp." And, except in the dimly lit passages, it is curiously flat, with scant graduation in tone and almost no dimensional addition to cinematic technique.

Post—Not that the black and white filtu is to vanish overnight, but it is in the death throes, and the knell was sounded yesterday with the arrival in glorious raiment of "Becky Sharp." . . . Even without color "Becky Sharp" would be a superior picture . . . it is an exciting adventure in a new medium, a finger pointing dramatically toward hitherto unrealized possibilities in the motion picture art. . . . From a scientific standpoint there undoubtedly is room for improvement. In certain dissolves the color transition seems wobbly. . . . What impressed me in "Becky Sharp" is the added dimension which color gives and the use which Mamoulian made of that color not only esthetically but in foreshadowing and scoring the dramatic implications of the story. . . . Next to this I should place Miriam Hopkins's performance in the title role. . . .

Sun— . . . in spite of all the ballyhoo, color photography still has its faults, and serious ones. Even the charm and quaintness of the Robert Edmond Jones settings could not conceal the metallic quality of the sound production, the difficulty in matching up skin tones in close-ups and near-shots. The tendency of the light to fade and suddenly brighten. . . . The picture, as drama, is both helped and hindered by its insistence upon color. . . . Even Miriam Hopkins lacks her customary warmth and wholeheartedness. . . . As drama, "Becky Sharp" is an artificial piece . . . although it never touches greatness, has much to offer. The panic at the ball. . . . The difficulty of cutting from one color sequence to another, without too much distracting attention from the story, is one of the many problems that Hollywood will eventually have to solve. Color-photography of course will some day he taken for granted. That day does not seem to he yet upon us. Hollywood, cautiously watching the opening of "Becky Sharp," need not hysterically throw away its reliable black-and-white cameras.

Times—Although it is dramatiqally tedious, it is a gallant and distinguished outpost in an almost uncharted domain, and it probably is the most significant event of the 1935 cinema. . . . Certainly the photoplay, coloristically speaking, is the most successful that has ever reached the screen. . . . It possesses an extraordinary variety of tints, ranging from placid and lovely grays to hues which are vibrant with warmth and richness. This is not the coloration of natural life, hut a vividly pigmented dream world of the artistic imagination. . . . Rouben Mamoulian and Robert Edmond Jones have employed the new process in a deliberately stylized form, so that "Becky Sharp" becomes an animate procession of cunningly designed canvases. Some of the color combinations make excessive demands upon the eye. Many of them are as soothing as black and white. The most glaring technical fault, and it is a comparatively minor one, is the poor definition in the long shots, which convert faces into blurred masses. In close-ups where scarlet is the dominant motif, there is also a tendency to provoke an after-image when the scene shifts abruptly to a quieter color combination. . . . The major problem, from the spectator's point of view, is the necessity for accustoming the eye to this new screen element . . . the film is so much more significant as an experiment in the advanced use of color than as a straightforward dramatic entertainment. . . . But one thing is certain about "Becky Sharp." Its best is so good that it becomes a prophecy of the future of color on the screen. It forced this column to the conclusion that color will become an integral motion picture element in the next few years.

World-Telegram—The general effect, then, is fascinating. The new process is soothing to the cye and it is sharply defined, but, largely because of the expert manner in which certain colors have been grouped, it does not jump up and slap you in the face. Indeed, there are times when one is scarcely conscious of color at all.

It is at its hest, it seems to me, in close-ups and when certain solid colors, like a pure red, are used. When it attempts to mix two colors to get another it loses its vitality, and in moderately long shots, except when vivid colors are used, it hecomes hlurred. . . . It is safe to say that when it is perfected further and if used with well-written stories it will he of great help to the cinema. If not it will always remain a novelty. But if it is skillfully blended with story, acting, direction and dialogue it can bring a tempo and an excitement to films that are missing in hlack and white photography. . . . As for the story . . . it is an uneven entertainment, with dull and interesting scenes by turns, and that it is played by its entire cast in a manner much better than it deserves.

RUTGERS NEILSON, the sees-all-knows-all (Pathe News influence, eh!) assistant to BARRET MCCORMICK, was all over the field like a duffer on a golf course, only "RUT" could call his shots.

The studio delegation included two men attending RKO meets for the first time, HOWARD S. BENEDICT, publicity, and IRVING BERLIN, the songwriter. J. R. Uncertainties Dampen Hopes For Code Rule

Court May 27 in its decision in the "sick chicken" case, there seems little likelihood that any determined effort will be made to revive the NRA.

During the next nine and one-half months, the Administration may approve voluntary agreements, but since those agreements would be without the protection from enforcement of the anti-trust laws which covered the codes, officials in Washington are not very enthusiastic over the prospects. They cannot see industries rushing in with voluntary agreements which can cover effectively only concerns engaged in interstate commerce, with violations punishable only by cease-and-desist orders.

These agreements, further, will be required to provide for collective bargaining, minimum wages, maximum hours and prohibition of child labor if they are to deal with trade practices, and then may only prohibit much unfair methods of competition as are already outlawed by existing statutes.

Must Bind Themselves

Thus, it will be necessary for members of industries desiring to eliminate unfair trade practices to bind themselves to the observance of labor conditions from which their competitors who do not sign the agreement will be exempt. This will be true even though non-signatory concerns may be prosecuted if they violate the trade standards which are set up by the signers, which in effect will be nothing more than a statement of the practices prohibited under the Federal Trade, Clayton and other acts.

The National Industrial Recovery Act was one of the first of the important measures of the Roosevelt Administration offered during the special session of Congress called in 1933. It was signed by President Roosevelt on June 16 of that year.

Within two months, negotiation of a code for the industry was initiated by then Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt. After a number of meetings in New York and other cities, members of the industry were called to Washington Sept. 12 for public hearings, which lasted for three days. On Nov. 4, the code was sent to the White House and on Nov. 27 was approved by the President, becoming effective early the following month. Like all other codes, it lapsed May 27 when the Supreme Court held that the powers delegated to the President were beyond the authority of Congress and that the Federal Government was without a right to attempt to control intrastate business.

Most exhibitors in this territory are observing code regulations thus far.

Looking 'Em Over

"Born for Glory"

(Gaumont British)

LONDON, June 6.—Released here as "Brown on Resolution," the big production value in "Born for Glory," which is to be the film's American title, is the realism of a series of scenes picturing naval engagements between British and German men-of-war during the World War. The British Admiralty cooperated by the loan of ships and personnel and the result, so far as the sea scenes are concerned, is a most impressive, even terrifying, picture of the realities of modern war. The story will offend no national sensibilities, the film, in fact, being excellent peace propaganda as well as a fine spectacle.

'Way back in '93, a London shopkeeper's daughter is betrayed by a naval lieutenant. Turned away by her father, she slaves to educate her son as a sailor and he passes through training ship and naval school to become, on the eve of the war, an able-bodied seaman on the cruiser Rutland in the Pacific. In port, the crew fraternizes with sailors from the German ship Zeithen and the boy strikes up a friendship with one of them.

Soon after the outbreak of hostilities, the Rutland meets and is sunk by the more powerfully armed Zeithen. The boy is among those saved. As a prisoner on the German boat he again meets his friend. He knows that the Zeithen, pursued by the British ship Leopard, must make hasty repairs if it is to escape. When it puts in at Resolution Island for that purpose, he manages to swim ashore with a rifle and cartridges and, by sniping the men engaged in fixing a new plate on the ship's side, holds up the work. One of the men he shoots is his German friend. Finally his hiding place is shelled, but the sound of the guns brings the Leopard on the scene and the Zeithen is sunk. All that can be found on the island of the possessions of the dead boy is a gold watch. The captain of the Leopard recognizes it as that which he gave to the shop-girl over 20 years ago.

The story is just strong enough to link the war sequences, but these are good enough to make any audience sit up. That they are authentic in all points of British naval procedure and discipline is a merit on top of their exceptional spectacular values. Walter Forde, director, has managed the microphone as well as the camera in close-ups of shell-bursts, big-gun broadsides and drowning men in flooded engine rooms. John Mills is excellent in the role of the boy hero and Betty Balfour, his mother, does well with few opportunities.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G." ALLAN

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Ladies Crave Excitement"

(Mascot)

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.—Dealing with newsreel cameramen, suggesting how, perhaps, the "March of Time" reel was born, this picture is entertaining, though hardly authentic.

Norman Foster, star cameraman for a newsreel service, with the assistance of Eric Linden, covers the army war games and similar events and fights constantly with his boss, Purnell Pratt. While working, he meets Evalyn Knapp, daughter of Gilbert Emery, the owner of a rival newsreel, but does not know her identity.

Foster gets exclusive shots of gangsters doping a horse but is robbed of the negative on the way to his office. Discharged for negligence, he conceives the idea for a march of events reel, sells it to Pratt and learns just before the reel is released that his competitors have beaten him with a similar film. Things are settled when the companies merge and Foster marries Miss Knapp.

The dialogue and screenplay of Wellyn Totman and the direction of Nick Grinde keep up interest at all times. The supporting cast, including Irene Franklin and Esther Ralston, gives able performances.

The picture as an action melodrama should please in all spots where this type of film is popular.

No production code seal. Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

"The death knell of black and white films was sounded yesterday with the arrival in glorious raiment of 'Becky Sharp' . . . Even without color it would be a superior picture; in the naturalistic hues with which the improved Technicolor has invested it, 'Becky Sharp' becomes more than a photoplay; it is an exciting adventure in a new medium, a finger pointing dramatically toward hitherto unrealized possibilities in motion picture art."

—Thornton Delehanty, N. Y. Post

"Science and art have joined hands to endow the screen with a miraculous new element in 'Becky Sharp.' . . . It produces in the spectator all the excitement of standing upon a peak and glimpsing a strange, beautiful and unexpected new world."

RKO to Stay, Meet Is Told By Aylesworth

sensible attitude is entitled to reciprocal appreciation from the film business." Mayor Kelly had been previously introduced by Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO Distributing Corp. He responded by saying that films were "the sounding board of the entire United States."

Reviewing the past season, Aylesworth said "it did his heart good to come to this season's convention and tell the men that promises had come true, even more so than had been expected."

Speaking of color, Aylesworth said emphatically that he was extremely proud that the RKO organization had been able to sponsor the release of the first perfected color feature.

Going in briefly for personalities, the RKO and NBC executive said that he considered Merian C. Cooper, now producing "The Last Days of Pompeii" and "She" for Radio, and previously responsible for many of its successes, as a leading authority in the use of color and looked for great things when Cooper assumes the Pioneer Pictures production reins.

Aylesworth also expressed the opinion that the time was ripe for another Frank Buck picture, and said his advices from Singapore had convinced him that Buck would again surprise the business.

Returns East After Talk

Aylesworth came in by plane from New York and left immediately for Manhattan after delivering his talk.

Color was talked strenuously both in and outside the convention. Before going into the opening session to talk to the delegates John Hay Whitney, president of Pioneer Pictures, producer of "Becky Sharp," and Rouben Mamoulian, director, interviewed the press.

Whitney told the convention that color would not be as revolutionary as sound. Mamoulian contended color was of secondary value, but emphasized that it was a great aid in developing dramatic effects. He said he hoped his next assignment would be a color film.

Mamoulian caught the Chief to the coast later, and Whitney took an afternoon plane to New York.

The morning was devoted to flashes of coming releases which were shown at the Cinema Arts Theatre.

Jules Levy, vice-president and general sales manager of RKO Distributing Corp., welcomed newcomers to his staff. He paid tribute to the following who have joined the organization during the year: Cleve Adams, Pittsburgh; H. W. Boehme, Seattle; L. S. Gruenberg, Minneapolis; P. Harrison, Jacksonville; H. W. Landstrom and H. B. Lovelace, Salt Lake City; J. Myers, Winnipeg, and C. R. Westbrook, Pittsburgh.

Key addresses today will be made by J. R. McDonough, president of RKO Radio Pictures, who will talk on product, and Depinet, who will announce the new season's lineup.

Predict Para. Claims Under 64 Millions

$63,377,000 level was an essential step in the consummation of the company's reorganization plan which provides that the plan shall not be effective in the event provable claims against the company exceed $65,000,000.

All of the remaining legal steps for the carrying out of the plan and the effecting of the transfer of the company's property from the trustees to the new Paramount board and officers were taken yesterday at a special meeting of the board and in court. The actual transfer of the company's assets, however, will require another two weeks. With this in mind, July 1 has been set as the exact date on which the New Paramount company will officially begin operations.

Authority Sought For Para. Payment

Irving Trust Co., as trustee in bankruptcy for Publix Enterprises, and Irving's petition that it be discharged as trustee, was also approved by Referee Ehrhorn. If the report is approved by the Federal Court tomorrow the distribution of dividends will be begun immediately and the affairs of Publix Enterprises will be completely wound up within three weeks, attorneys said. The assets of the company were acquired at foreclosure sale by Famous Theatres Corp, new Paramount theatre subsidiary, a year and a half ago.

Defendants Can't Collect

Former Paramount officers and directors who are defendants in actions brought by the trustees of Paramount to recover sums allegedly paid them in salaries or bonuses in excess of reasonable amounts will be unable to collect on any claims they may have against Paramount until the actions against them, now pending in state court here, have been adjudicated.

This was disclosed yesterday at a hearing before Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, when Edward Pride of Hughes, Schurman & Dwight, counsel for some of the defendants in the trustees' actions, opposed this provision which is contained in a final order carrying out closing steps in the Paramount reorganization.

Among the defendants in the trustees suits are Sidney R. Kent, Jesse L. Lasky and Sam Katz. Their total claims against Paramount are believed to be not less than "several hundred thousand dollars" but less than $1,000,000. Alfred E. Cook, counsel for Paramount, described the provision as an "attachment" of any sums which might be collected from Paramount.

Judge Coxe signed the order with the stipulation that those affected by it could have individual cases reviewed by the court later.

20 Firms to Submit Bills

Approximately 20 law firms which participated in the reorganization of Paramount Publix will file applications for allowances which are expected to exceed $1,000,000 on July 2. A public hearing on the applications was set for July 18 by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, who yesterday cautioned the attorneys to submit only "moderate and reasonable" applications so as not to invite criticism and court displeasure. The applications will represent the bill for reorganizing Paramount, which must be paid by the new company.

new company head, Otterson stressed the fact that he would not have accepted the presidency if his election had not been welcomed by Zukor, with whom he planned to work closely at all times in the future, he said.

Otterson then emphasized the fact that he did not contemplate any changes in the personnel of any branch of Paramount and paid tribute to the ability of the men who carried the company through the two-and-a-half years of bankruptcy. In discussing the coast setup, Otterson said that as a result of a series of conferences between eastern executives and Henry Herzbrun and Ernst Lubitsch, general manager and managing director, respectively, of the studio, were returning to Hollywood to continue in their present posts and to work out the studio's program in complete harmony with home office executives.

The new company head brought his address to a close by paying individual tribute to the reorganization work of George J. Schaefer, vice-president; Y. Frank Freeman, head of the theatre organization; and Austin C. Keough, chief legal counsel and secretary of the new company.

Before introducing Otterson, Zukor, asserted that the entrance of the former Erpi head was one of the best things that has happened for the company.

Zukor told the men that for years he has had a yearning to be active in coast production and Otterson's election to the presidency now gives him that opportunity.

He said that when S. R. Kent was general sales manager during his last years with the company, he was offered the presidency by Zukor and Kent turned it down.

Following Otterson's talk, Jessica Dragonette, who will make her screen debut in "The Big Broadcast of 1935"; Joe Penner, who will star in "Collegiate"; Cecil B. DeMille, producer-director of "The Crusades," and Loretta Young were introduced.

The company is mulling over plans to roadshow the DeMille picture, which was said to have cost more than $1,000,000 and took a year to make.

J. J. Unger leaves for the south today to begin a series of regional meetings with branch heads and exchange forces. Selling policies for individual territories will be laid out at these sessions. Charles Reagan, western divisional head, will leave tonight for Minneapolis where he will hold a meeting tomorrow and Thursday. From there he will go to Chicago and three other key centers.

It is understood Paramount will increase the number of percentage pictures this season over last year.

The Minneapolis regional will be held June 19-20; Chicago, June 21-22; Kansas City at Excelsior Springs, June 24-25; Denver, June 27-28; San Francisco, June 30 and July 1.

Kuykendall Is Pessimistic

COLUMBUS, MISS., June 17.—In an address before the Columbus Rotary club, Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., painted a picture of national conditions in the wake of the Supreme Court's decision on the NRA.

Kuykendall said he was more or less pessimistic about the situation, feeling that many of the benefits of NRA would be lost permanently by the adverse court decision. He discounted voluntary codes, declaring that it was his opinion that no codes without compulsion could be effectively enforced.

He declared that uncertainty prevailed throughout the industry.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Tracing the activities of Paramount from prewar days to the receivership in 1933, the Securities and Exchange Commission today began hearings in its formal investigation of the company's reorganization, ordered by Congress.

The inquiry is purely formal, since the commission is without authority to take any action approving or disapproving the reorganization or the issuance of the substitute securities by which the new organization takes over the obligations of its predecessor.

The history of Paramount's operations, including its financing and the lawsuits leading up to the receivership and bankruptcy and the handling of the receivership and bankruptcy proceedings were traced through Austin C. Keough, secretary of the company, and third vice-president and steward of Local 306 in New York, is expected to move for reorganization of the New York unit. Sessions started yesterday.

Although there have been reports Local 306 would be put back on an autonomous basis, this is discounted here. The opinion of international officers is that the charter of the New York local will be lifted and a new one granted under a new name and number. There are said to be certain disruptive elements in the organization which officials want to clear out.

deletion of the provision for the relief of a defendant charged with infringement who could prove he had been duped by a third person, an increase from $5,000 to $20,000 in the maximum recovery for infringement, and elimination of the $250 minimum.

Films are more directly treated in the new version of the bill, which provides that "the right to exhibit the copyright work publicly if it be a motion picture" may be acquired just as the right to perform or produce a drama.

Much of the committee's report was directed to a discussion of the minimum penalty clause which was eliminated. "The existence of such a provision, as well as some others of the remedial provisions has a significance much larger than the mere matter of collecting damages," it was declared.

"Producers and consumers of literary and artistic works make use of these provisions as bargaining points in their original contracts of purchase and sale. It is believed that such use goes far beyond what should be expected from a normal reliance of property owners upon the law to defend them against unauthorized uses of their property.

Sees Changes Since 1909

"The committee is firmly of the opinion that to eliminate the statutory minimum of $250 for infringement without proof of damage is to eliminate the chief factor in the use of the law for bargaining, sometimes for coercive purposes, between producers and consumers of copyrighted works. Moreover, since 1909, when the present law was enacted, the methods of using copyrighted works have developed with amazing rapidity. For the law to attempt to fix a specified sum as minimum damages in view of the growth of this usage would seem wholly unreasonable."

The increase in the maximum, the committee contended, "seems proper in view of the vast increase in recent years in the value of copyrightable material. So many palpable injustices have arisen from the present law that courts have acquired a dislike for handling such cases and have come to feel that the law is wrong. It is believed that with the enactment of this provision of the bill the courts will realize that the statute lays a foundation under which they can do justice and that they may be relied upon to utilize their full powers and abilities to such end."

Because of the delay in moving the legislation, the effective date of the amendments has been advanced from July 1, as originally contemplated, to Nov. 1 next.

Keough explained the beginnings of the company and how it was gradually expanded until at the time it went into receivership it had 501 subsidiary and affiliated companies. Twenty-five per cent of the company's distribution, he said, is through Paramount's own theatres.

Wiseman was questioned regarding representation on the Paramount directorate of partners and relatives of partners of Kuhn, Loeb, as well as profits which that banking organization made through the handling of Paramount issues.

The hearing today was confined to showing the erection of the vast film structure as a preliminary to inquiring into the reorganization operations.

had desired for some time. He is expected to spend most of the summer on the coast. Rothacker, former producer, will probably be assigned to the studio as a home office representative, although definite duties or a title have not yet been designated so far as could be learned.

Otterson is reported anxious to familiarize himself with studio problems and needs at the earliest date possible, and to that end is endeavoring to make his first visit to the studio as president of Paramount within the next two weeks. Following his studio survey, Otterson is expected to decide on final details of new contracts being prepared for Henry Herzbrun, studio general manager, and Ernst Lubitsch, studio managing director. These contracts may be signed during Otterson's coast visit, as the Paramount board, which next meets on June 27, will have had an opportunity then to pass on all phases of the new pacts except those to be settled during Otterson's studio visit.

Efforts to reach Otterson yesterday for comment on the reports were unsuccessful, but it was stated that he was endeavoring to arrange a general press conference for either tomorrow or Friday.

Lubitsch and Herzbrun left by train yesterday on their return trip to the coast. They were acompanied by Cecil B. DeMille.

Ask Goldstein Approval

A petition asking approval for the adjustment of a $127,500 theatre mortgage claim filed against Paramount by Samuel and Nathan Goldstein, Massachusetts operators, was submitted to Special Master John E. Joyce yesterday by attorneys for the Paramount trustees. A hearing on the petition was set for June 24.

The mortgage claim is based on a release of the Goldsteins from liability at the time Paramount acquired the Rivoli, Chicopee, Mass. It provides for allowance of the $127,500 claim at $55,000 and the assignment of the claim in that amount to the reorganized G-B Theatres Corp., a Paramount New England subsidiary, which agrees in turn to reduce the mortgage $27,500.

Pass 2 Subsidiary Claims

A claim of $59,224 filed against Paramount by Coast Theatres Corp., a wholly owned California subsidiary, is recommended for allowance in full by Special Master John E. Joyce in a report submitted to the Federal district court yesterday. The claim represented the balance owed the subsidiary by Paramount prior to the latter's receivership.

Another report by Joyce recommended the allowance of a claim filed by John G. Paine at $29,300. The claim was filed against Paramount by Paine as agent for the owners of copyrighted music. Paine represented the Music Publishers' Protective Ass'n.

Pierpoint, branch manager in Cristobal, Canal Zone, also a convention visitor, sails for England on the Laconia tomorrow with Mrs. Pierpoint and their son, in continuation of a three months' leave of absence.

Strike Spreads to Seven Mexico Spots

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—The strike of the Cinematographic Employes' Union has spread to seven neighborhood houses. It is predicted that unless exhibitors yield to the union's demands that dismissed workers be reinstated the strike will extend to practically every house here this week. The government is trying to conciliate the dispute.

It is estimated the strike has already cost affected exhibitors more than $20,000.

Operators to Head Fox Theatre Units

Operating heads of the various National Theatres' subsidiaries will be made president of the circuits they supervise. Rick Ricketson, handling the Rocky Mountain district, will be top man in Fox Intermountain, while Elmer C. Rhoden will head the Fox Midwest group.

Conferences between the two operating heads and Spyros Skouras for five-year contracts have started. Ricketson and Rhoden will be here for another week or so before returning west. Arch Bowles, in charge of the San Francisco division for F.W.C., is all set on his pact.

Hess Given Second Verdict for Libel

Shipler, editor-in-chief, for libel. The jury assessed $10,000 as punitive damages and $200 as actual damages. Louis Nizer represented Hess, while Arthur B. King of Bing, Buhler & Miller tried the case for the defendants.

Admitted into the evidence was a judgment rendered a few weeks ago by another jury in favor of Hess against P. S. Harrison of Harrison's Reports. The judge directed the jury to take the previous verdict into consideration.

King argued that the Churchman had innocently copied an article from Harrison's Reports; that Hess had already won a $5,200 verdict for the same libel and that no verdict ought to be given him for an innocent error.

Max D. Steuer, Frederick Wood, Richard Dwight, David L. Podell and Ex-Ambassador Gerard testified for Hess.

Zanuck, Goetz Here To Talk on Product

Darryl Zanuck. Reports have it the company will produce from 10 to 12.

Zanuck arrived from the coast yesterday with William Goetz, his assistant and general manager of 20th Century. Harry Goetz, president of Reliance, was grounded in Kansas City yesterday en route from Hollywood to New York. He left for St. Louis by train in the hopes of getting a plane there.

Zanuck and Goetz plan to remain here 10 days before heading west again.

Fox Wins Contract Verdict in Mineola

Fox yesterday won a $245 decision against Mady Chrystamos of the Mineola, Mineola, L. I., for breach of contract. The defendant admitted he had not lifted all pictures contracted for. Louis Nizer was attorney for the exchange.

United Artists' breach of contract complaint against Fleischman & Hirsch of the Casino, Richmond Hill, L. I., was postponed indefinitely to give both parties time to work out a settlement. The Fox grievance against the Rivoli, Hoboken, was officially marked off the calendar as settled.

Pathe Loan Pledge Influenced Casey

withdraw his application for the appointment of a receiver, Martin E. King, Casey's attorney, said yesterday.

King stated that Pathe attorneys had advised State Supreme Court Justice Edward A. Dore that the Du Pont stock, regarded as one of Pathe's most valuable assets, was pledged as security for the $2,000,000 loan recently made from Bankers Trust Co. and a provision of the loan permits the bank to declare the notes due and payable in the event of the appointment of a receiver for Pathe. In such an eventuality, King said, the Du Pont stock could be liquidated by the bank.

On Monday King withdrew his motion for the appointment of a receiver for Pathe but asked for a preference on the trial calendar for suits against officers and directors of the company asking accountings.

When asked to comment on King's explanation of the withdrawal of his application for a receiver, a Pathe representative said, "Our statement that the appointment of a receiver could result in the Bankers Trust loan being declared due and payable was not news to the plaintiff or King."

Penn. Open Sunday Passed in Senate

by the Senate last week. Concurrence in the amendment was voted. Legislative leaders say there is little if any doubt that Governor Earle will sign the bill, which is now before him.

The Senate amendment eliminated the original mandatory requirement that the proposal be voted upon in every municipal sub-division of the State at the general election next fall and substituted a plan whereby a referendum may be held when a petition signed by five per cent of the votes cast by the dominant party in a district is filed with the authorities.

When the bill came before the Senate today Senator Joseph C. Trainer of Philadelphia offered another amendment which would have made counties, instead of cities, boroughs and townships, the units in which local option might be exercised. The amendment was defeated. The Senate then adopted the bill as amended last week.

This is the final week of the legislative session.

Ontario Amusements Unite in Tax Fight

the regulations under which practically all exemptions have been wiped out, the worst blow of all being the imposing of the levy on admissions 25 cents and under. One objective of the association is to get low-priced tickets on the tax-free list once more.

The fight may continue until the fall, when a special session of the Ontario Legislature is to be called to deal with government problems. Exhibitors around the province have reported a big falling off in attendance because of the tax.

MONTREAL DAILY STAR—MARCH 4, 1935

The "Front" Show

THE campaign to wrest from _____ his monopoly on inspired cinematic cartoons in color is beginning to assume threatening proportions. Two partners, Harman and Ising, of the M. G. M. studios, are apparently the chief conspirators, and their latest volley is being fired at the Capitol, where "When the Cat's Away" evokes both laughter and applause. This is a little gem of a tinted cartoon. In the "front" show at the Capitol there is also a contribution by James Fitzpatrick, a Travel Talk called "Rainbow Canyons," the loveliest piece of color work since Fitzpatrick adopted that medium. But the main feature of this week's "front" show is the warning finger which is being pointed at the whimsical Mr _____. Watch out, _____!

Meet Hugh Harman and Rudolph Ising! Join M-G-M in a salute to their genius!

Today . . . while the nation rings with applause for their "Good Little Monkeys" . . . they're knee-deep in even greater plans for the Harman-Ising Cartoons of tomorrow! Comedy for Miss Rogers

In addition to the three co-starring musicals with Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers will star in a straight comedy, "In Person," to be directed by William Seiter from a Samuel Hopkins Adams story, with Pandro S. Berman supervising. There may be other Rogers' solo-starring films, it was stated.

Two of the outstanding pictures of the year, Depinet stated, will be "The Return of Peter Grimm," from David Belasco's stage hit, with Lionel Barrymore starring, and "Mr. Grant," a biographical drama based on the life of the Civil War leader.

John Ford is also scheduled to direct "The Plough and the Stars," Sean O'Casey's Irish drama. James Gleason will be seen in two unnamed features.

Eight Radio Producers Listed

CHICAGO, June 18.—In discussing the RKO Radio studio production setup before the convention today Ned E. Depinet described it as "a distinguished group of picture-wise producers and thorough showmen."

Pandro S. Berman, Merian C. Cooper of Pioneer Pictures, Edward Kaufman, Kenneth Macgowan, Lee Marcus, Zion Meyers, Cliff Reid and Robert F. Sisk were named as the men who will produce the product.

Berman was given credit for some of the company's "greatest hits"—"Roberta," "The Little Minister," "Morning Glory" and others. Cooper's record during the past two years was described as "memorable." He has two Technicolor features scheduled for the new list.

Kaufman, on the lot for the past two years as a writer, gets his first assignment as a producer on "Husk," from a story by Thomas Walsh. Macgowan has been promoted from the headship of the story department to an associate producership. He worked on "Becky Sharp" and will supervise "The Return of Peter Grimm," starring Lionel Barrymore. Marcus has worked on comedy shorts and Wheeler and Woolsey features for a long period.

Meyers has been an assistant to Berman on the larger musical features for some time. His first assignment as an associate producer was on "Old Man Rhythm." Reid has been producing for some time.

Sisk is a newcomer as an associate producer. He is former director of advertising and publicity and until recently an assistant to J. R. McDonough.

42 Stars and Featured Names

CHICAGO, June 18.—Forty-two stars and featured players are under contract to appear in the features to be produced by Radio during 1935-36, Ned E. Depinet told the sales convention at the Drake today.

Among the headliners he listed Katharine Hepburn, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Lily Pons, Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Richard Dix, James Barton, Ann Harding, Irene Dunne, William Powell, Gene Raymond, Charles Boyer, Barbara Stanwyck, Anne Shirley and Lionel Barrymore.

In support of these will be Margot Grahame, Buddy Rogers, James Gleason, Helen Mack, John Beal, Helen Broderick, Walter Abel, Helen Westley, Preston Foster, Betty Grable, Dave Chasen, Eric Blore, Erik Rhodes, Margaret Hamilton, John Wood, Rosamond Pinchot, Helen Parrish, Alan Hale, Evelyn Roe, Molly Lamond, Ray Mayer, Margaret Callahan, Willie Best, Jane Hamilton, Virginia Reid, Maxine Jennings, Hazel Forbes and Kay Sutton.

New personalities are to be introduced, too, Depinet stated.

Ten Directors Under Contract

CHICAGO, June 18.—Ten directors are under contract for the coming season's lineup, the RKO Radio convention was told today.

They are John Cromwell, George Cukor, John Ford, Philip Moeller, George Nicholls, Jr., Stephen Roberts, John Robertson, Mark Sandrich, William Seiter and George Stevens.

Cromwell, under long term contract, is regarded as one of the company's aces. He has been assigned the direction of Lily Pons' first, "Love Song." Cukor gets one of the three Katharine Hepburn vehicles, "Sylvia Scarlett." Ford will do at least two, one of which will be "The Plough and the Stars," and the other, "Mary of Scotland," starring Hepburn.

Nicholls has already completed "The Return of Peter Grimm." Roberts has been assigned to "Mr. Grant." Sandrich will continue on the Astaire-Rogers musicals.

Seiter is scheduled for "In Person," a Ginger Rogers starring comedy.

Negotiations are under way, it was stated, for other directors.

In addition to these, the shorts will be directed by Alf Goulding, Al Boasberg, Fred Guiol, Ben Holmes, Arthur Ripley, Lee Jason, Joe Fields, John Grey, Les Goodwin, Jack Townley and Eddie Moran.

Shorts Series Gains

CHICAGO, June 18.—Van Beuren's share of RKO Radio's short subject lineup will have a greater number of series with fewer subjects in each, the convention at the Drake was told today by Don Hancock, production supervisor.

Novelty and diversity will be sought, he promised, and the three-color Technicolor process will be used in the cartoons.

Hancock was making his first appearance before an RKO convention. He has held his production post for several months, however.

One of the new features will be the Bill Corum series of sports pictures, Hancock said. Corum, a well known sports writer, will write and deliver the narration on each picture and will supervise them on location. There will be seven in the series. Two are in the making, "Bugle from the Blue Grass," a horse racing subject, and "Boxing."

New titles have been selected for the Easy Aces and travel series. The former will be known as "The Easy Aces Series" and the latter will be called "The World Parade." There will be 13 of the Aces, an increase from last season's six, and there will be seven of the travel pictures, with songs and music and narration by Alois Havrilla.

In commenting on the fact that six "Dumb Bell Letters" were set on the program, Hancock said this would be the minimum with the possibility that they might be increased later.

H. L. and Stacy R. Woodward will have six in the "Struggle to Live" series, with subjects ranging from the tropics to the Arctic. The first, "Neptune's Mysteries," with octopi, has been completed.

This will make a total of 52 single reels with not more than 13 reels in any single series for the purpose of increasing the diversity of the program.

Holds Cooperation Necessary

CHICAGO, June 18.—The sales and advertising and publicity departments must be inseparable if a company is to function 100 per cent, S. Barret McCormick, advertising and publicity head of RKO Radio, told the convention today. "It is the obligation of salesmen to team with the ad men and press agents," he said.

Red Kann, editor of MOTION PICTURE DAILY, pointed out to the conventioneers that the measure of success next season will be governed by the ability of the studio to deliver box-office product.

Radio Renews Four Pacts

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—Radio has picked up options on Preston Foster, George Nicholls, Jr., Ray Mayer, and Anthony Veiller. Foster is now working in "The Last Days of Pompeii," Nicholls recently completed directing "The Return of Peter Grimm," Mayer played in "The Arizonian" and Veiller is on the writing staff.

Berlin Sings a Bit

Chicago, June 18.—Irving Berlin, who wrote the music and lyrics for "Top Hat," Radio's opener for the new season with Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, made a hit at the convention this afternoon when even his cracked falsetto voice failed to dim the obvious enthusiasm for the numbers which he sang from the picture without benefit of piano accompaniment.

"Piccolino" in particular went over big, with "Top Hat, White Tie and Tails" and "Cheek to Cheek" in second and third place.

What They're Down For

Chicago, June 18.—Stellar assignments thus far made for the RKO Radio lineup follow:

"Time" No Newsreel Competitor—Martin

CHICAGO, June 18.—John S. Martin, managing editor of Time, attempted to end speculation as to whether "March of Time" would conflict with Pathe News on the RKO Radio schedule by telling the conventioneers at the Drake today that he did not consider them competitive.

"Just as Time Magazine is in no sense competitive to the daily newspaper, so is 'March of Time' a different form of screen journalism entirely non-competetive with the long established and universally accepted newsreel.

"Now that four issues of 'March of Time' have gone over, we feel that we are ready to go places," he said. "We must follow the news, study it, and when we can see it breaking significantly, as far ahead as possible, but not always ahead, then we'll go out and get it for you and our mutual public. As the history of our time unfolds we will picture memorable parts of it as intelligently, as forcibly, as fearlessly as we know how. So far this formula looks good to us."

A special 16-page RKO issue of Time was released this afternoon to conventioneers by the producers of "March of Time." The issue contained official announcement of the reel's distribution by RKO. Ned Depinet thereby was the first film executive to grace the coveted front-page picture spot hitherto devoted to world rulers, political figures and leading lights in commerce and arts.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Spring Parade"

(Hunnia-Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—Superimposed titles in English make this Hungarian film, "Spring Parade," easily understood by American audiences who will like the Viennese music score and the gay love story of the bakeshop girl and the young corporal.

The cast, headed by Franziska Gaal, Paul Horbiger and Wolf Albach-Retty, is excellent under the light touch of Director Geza von Bolvary.

The story deals with a young corporal's irresistible urge to compose music in spite of the protests of his guardian and superior officers. When he is confined to quarters as punishment for writing a military march, his sweetheart smuggles part of his score into salt sticks which go to the luncheon tray of Kaiser Franz Josef, with the result that her aunt's pastry shop is nearly ruined before all complications are solved in one final waltz.

"Spring Parade" should be a good bet for communities in which foreign films are popular. Production Code Seal 953. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Pride of the Triple X"

(Affiliated)

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—Concerned with cattle stealing, a missing son, and other familiar western story elements, this picture seems pointed for dual bills and junior matinees.

Yancey Lane, returning to his father's ranch after an absence of 20 years, finds the ranch foreman, Rollo Dix, is head of a gang of cattle rustlers. The father, Lafe McKee, not recognizing Lane, is about to ship the cattle to market in Dix's care. Betty Jordan, his adopted daughter, and Dickie Vones, child actor, who plays her brother, instinctively distrust Dix and have confidence in Lane.

With their help, Lane rounds up the cattle rustlers, clears himself of a false charge of having robbed the mails, is reunited with McKee and eventually wins Miss Jordan. The cast all play their roles with utmost seriousness and at times give conviction to the story situations.

The production by Herman A. Wohl, and the direction by Edward Dmytryk are suitable. Photography in some of the outdoor shots is excellent, but the sound is not up to par.

No code seal. Running time, 54 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Struggle for Life"

(Majestic)

"Struggle for Life," made for Foy Prod., Ltd., of Hollywood, by Major C. Court Treatt, an Englishman, is just what its title implies. With a keen eye for dramatic effect, the film pictures the battle for existence of the Habbania Arabs of the Soudan. The incidents recorded, though at times giving the impression of having been so arranged as to heighten the excitement, seem entirely authentic.

The film teems with action and contains a number of moments that ought to thrill those who go in for pictures of this nature. A jungle fire that forces the natives to flee for their lives provides the film with a powerful dramatic finale.

While the film's chief concern is to tell of the Habbania Arabs' search for food and water and their eternal vigilance against the perils of the jungles, it does not ignore romance completely. Running through it is a love story involving two members of the tribe. Fortunately for the film, this romantic note has been kept very much subdued, though it adds much to the fascination of the picture.

This is a highly interesting film boasting of some fine photography.

No production code seal. Running time, 53 minutes. "G."

Cancel Brussels Concert

Mayer Chicago's Guest

CHICAGO, June 18.—Louis B. Mayer, eastbound from the coast, was the guest of Mayor Edward J. Kelly at the Chicago Club today along with RKO Radio executives attending the company's convention here.

Defers Decision on Trust Suit Motions

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Federal Judge George Moore late today took under advisement motions for a demurrer and a bill of particulars filed on behalf of Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO Distributing Corp., and that corporation in the Government's anti-trust case against Warners, Paramount and RKO and affiliated companies and individual officers.

Counsel were given four days in which to file necessary briefs. On the question of date for trial Judge Moore stated he would not decide that point until he has ruled on the motions argued today, but during the discussion indicated that he probably would not expect to try the case on its merits during either July or August.

Russell Hardy, special assistant attorney-general, in arguing for an early trial, stated that if it is delayed too long it will prove a useless procedure as the complainants in the case are "bleeding to death." Counsel for the defendants, including former United States Senator Reed, opposed a trial in the summer.

Hardy opposed both the demurrer and the plea for a bill of particulars, contending that the indictment was sufficient to warrant a hearing of the testimony.

Reed charged the complainants were themselves responsible for the closing of theatres in St. Louis and had endeavored to obtain a monopoly of the theatrical business here. Sam B. Jeffries, also of counsel for Warners, said that the entire matter at bar was simply a business controversy.

Col. William J. Donovan of New York argued the demurrer for the defense, while Jacob Mark Lashly of St. Louis addressed the court concerning the need for a bill of particulars, saying that he desired to prevent a "legal ambush" of the defendants when the case goes to trial.

Move for Voluntary Code in Northwest

SEATTLE, June 18.—Probability that a voluntary code will be adopted very shortly in the Pacific Northwest foreseen here this week.

Leading exhibitors, both large and small, were reluctant to be quoted because of unfamiliarity with all the details of the proposed voluntary codes. However, Hugh Bruen, president of Allied Amusements, summed up the attitude of a majority of the theatre men:

"Most of the exhibitors of the territory are anxious to see the good features of the recent codes maintained. A movement is now on foot in Seattle and the rest of the state to produce a voluntary code that will retain the clearance and zoning provisions, certain admission principles, legislation against lottery plans and 'giveaways' and other former code provisions."

RKO to Drive For Preferred Playing Time

Also to Ask Percentages On 4 in Small Towns

CHICAGO, June 19.—Driving for increased preferred playing time, the RKO sales policy for the new season will call for a guarantee against percentages on four top pictures in small towns. Terms will be based on the record of "Roberta" or "Little Women," depending upon which was bigger.

Important cities will be handled by Jules Levy and his staff, but model contracts for smaller towns specify three pictures for seven days each at 50 per cent; three at seven days each for 40 per cent; seven for seven days at 30 per cent; 10 for four days at 25 per cent; 10 for three or four days at 25 per cent, with an increasing split if the run lengthens out.

The remaining 19 pictures on the list will be on a flat rental basis.

Para. Committee Traded In Securities—Vanderlip

Attorneys to Confer on Eliminating Details

By agreement of counsel for both sides, trial of the government's anti-trust suit against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers was adjourned yesterday to Nov. 4.

The postponement was announced after attorneys in the case had gone into a huddle shortly after court convened yesterday. The decision was made, it was explained, in order to give Andrew Bennett, special assistant to the Attorney General, in charge of the government's case, and Nathan Burkan, chief counsel for Ascap, an opportunity to go over the case in detail and arrive at stipulations which will speed up the trial once it is resumed. Selznick-Joyce in Deal with Shuberts

The Shuberts have been brought into a closer relationship with the industry through a contractual arrangement with Selznick-Joyce giving the stage producers a call on plays written by playwrights under the agency's management and on the services of acting, writing and directing talent under its banner when available.

The Selznick-Joyce office stated the deal was not an indication the Shuberts would produce plays in partnership with any specific studio. It was said all play properties would be made available to any studio interested on a "bid and offered" basis.

According to the agency, all future Shubert productions will be made with an eye to their screen possibilities.

It is expected the court will hear the case as soon as the referee files his report prior to adjournment at the end of the month. On the other hand, William Minshall and Ben Schwartz, defendant's attorneys, predict the case will go over until fall.

to give or obtain remedial action even under the NRA code with its genuine administrative and enforcement powers. He reported, however, that in exhibitor contacts and correspondence had by him since his proposal to enforce trade regulations through riders attached to sales contracts had been made, there was reflected an approximately 80 per cent sentiment in favor of that proposal.

"That idea, though," Kuykendall said, "is not a new one. It has been used in the industry to regulate relations between exhibitor and distributor for years."

He added that no general organizational or industry move was contemplated to further the contract rider suggestion, as the very nature of the procedure made it a subject for individual, voluntary action on the part of exhibitor and distributor.

Kuykendall plans to leave for Memphis by plane on Saturday and will go from there to his home at Columbus, Miss., for the opening of his second theatre, the Dixie, there on June 24.

A meeting of the executive committee of M.P.T.O.A. will be called by Kuyendall within the next few weeks at some central location to advance organizational activities.

Para. Committee Traded In Securities—Vanderlip

bondholders' committee with a view to becoming its counsel. Before making any decision, he said, he conferred with the members of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who extended to him an invitation which he accepted to become chairman of a committee they were forming.

The members of the committee were picked by the banking house and submitted to him for approval, he continued, admitting under questioning that he did not disapprove any of the members nominated.

Although he had never held any Paramount securities and had no interest in the company, Vanderlip said he accepted the position as head of the committee because of his long interest in educational films and the idea that it was "something interesting to do."

Later, he stated, believing the head of such an important committee should have an interest in the company, he purchased some Paramount bonds and certificates. Some of these holdings were later disposed of, apparently at a loss when he desired money for other purposes, but the bonds he still holds show an appreciation of more than 40 points.

At the time the committee was formed, Vanderlip testified, the only member to have any Paramount holdings was Sir William Wiseman, partner in Kuhn, Loeb, who held four shares of Famous Players Canadian.

Inferring that he felt he was out of step with modern methods of financing, Vanderlip, under questioning, freely admitted that a protective committee should include actual bondholders. He explained that he was not surprised at Kuhn, Loeb's action in forming a committee, holding that all who disposed of bonds to investors had a "moral responsibility" toward their customers when the securities turned sour.

However, he added, if he were doing it over again he would insist that the committee include actual holders of the securities. Asked regarding the propriety of committee members dealing in the securities which they were seeking to protect, Vanderlip condemned it where the trades were based on inside information.

• Sir William Wiseman, who yesterday testified regarding the financing of Paramount prior to the receivership in Jan., 1933, explained that he had resigned from the committee when it became apparent that his house would be asked to draft a plan for reorganization. He declared that Kuhn, Loeb's purchases of Paramount securities while he was a member of the committee were solely for investment, and that they sold their holdings when they learned they were to take part in the reorganization.

Both Kuhn, Loeb and Wiseman, as well as two other members of the committee, were shown by commission records to have dealt in Paramount securities during their services.

President Suggests Change in Tax Rate

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Imposition of a graduated income tax on the net income of corporations, running from 10¾ to 16¾ per cent, in lieu of the present flat tax of 13¾ per cent, was asked of Congress today in a special message by President Roosevelt. Also included in the President's recommendations was the suggestion for increased rates of tax on very large personal incomes.

Substitution of a sliding scale for the present flat tax on corporations was suggested as offering relief to weaker concerns.

Sheehan Will Take a Rest After Confab

The first is "Way Down East"; the second, "Curly Top." With "The Farmer Takes a Wife" already completed, all three will be shipped to New York before Sheehan starts his vacation.

The present activity on both Fox lots totals six productions, including Sol Wurtzel's "Steamboat Bill" and "Silk Hat Kid," Sheehan's "Way Down East" and "Curly Top" and Jesse L. Lasky's "Here's to Romance" and "The Gay Deception."

A new stage is now being constructed at the Westwood plant, ostensibly to provide more room for increased activity. Indications are that no new buildings will be erected to house the Zanuck unit, provided Lasky departs in August, though officially his contract does not expire until October. Nevertheless, his productions should be completed by the time Zanuck is ready to move in.

Lasky's plans are still indefinite, with Hollywood rumor linking him with Paramount as a unit producer now that United Artists has its quota set for next season by the acquisition of David O. Selznick.

American Display in RKO Accessory Deal

exhibitor from distribution points throughout the country, General Manager Charles L. Casanave of the latter organization explained to delegates the aims and purposes of the service. It is believed that the RKO arrangement is the first of a series embracing all major distributors.

Concentrating on the single objective of enabling the exhibitor to sell his programs more profitably to his public, American Display offers an array of 40 special advertising and exploitation items available on every picture produced. Manufactured in quantity, this material, designed and executed by a staff schooled in the exhibitor's selling problem, becomes available to exhibitors at approximately half the cost it would represent if prepared individually. Augmenting standard accessories offered by distributing companies, the American Display service is calculated to place the small theatre on an equal footing with the major circuit house in the character, quality and effectiveness of its box-office approach to its clientele.

Casanave pointed out that, far from discouraging exhibitor initiative and individuality, the activity of American Display representatives in the field, alert to successful individual campaigns and equipped to forward them quickly to headquarters for immediate distribution to other exhibitors, will give added value to original exploitation effort.

STAN JACQUES, Cincinnati branch chief, threatens to break off his diet what with the Drake feeding the boys to the king's taste. STAN came through the past year OK with that girlish figure.

Salesman RALPH KINSLER, Cincinnati, had hoped the convention would be set for Indianapolis, where he could get out on the speedway. RALPH is the BARNEY OLDFIELD of Cinci's Film Row.

BOB WOLFF, who fished off Florida this spring, still telling 'em about the big one that didn't get away.

MAX WESTEBBE, crack New York salesman, is reported to be carrying a pocket comb.

BARNEY PITKIN, branch manager; HARRY ZEITELS and BILL CANELLI were three musketeers from New Haven. Like the Yale Bulldog, they can't be held.

"Big Timber" from the Northwest! MARK CORY, with many service stripes up, brought his big three salesmen, B. R. KELLER and CLEVE ADAMS, and Office Manager S. S. MCFADDEN.

Present and accounted for is word from Branch Manager S. W. FITCH, Sioux Falls. E. J. FRACE, FRED HORN and C. N. SNYDER completed the delegation.

HARRY DIXON, big chief at Buffalo, had a colorful crew on tap—L. F. MURPHY, C. BOASBERG, J. G. CHINNELL, salesmen, and P. MAXWELL, office manager.

The veteran branch chief, R. C. PRICE, Charlotte, made it "three for Dixie," with R. F. BRANON, R. S. MITCHELL, salesmen and W. W. LAKE, office manager.

In a cable from FRANK BUCK, who is in the jungles of Malaya more than half the world away, the RKOites were assured that something new in the way of thrills and excitement awaits the fans in his new picture which is nearly completed at this time. Here is one Buck who makes no passes.

Practically everyone at the convention got a chance to show whether or not he could "take it" when a special reel of "Dumb Bell Letters," prepared especially for the occasion was shown at the morning projection. Each one came in for a share of good natured ribbing.

MARTY BARRETT couldn't get the boys up early enough to take them horseback riding, so he decided to take golf lessons from the RKO professional, CRESS SMITH.

A conversation could always be started with DON HANCOCK by mentioning the "Easy Aces" series. It's on the air when DON gets in action.

PAGE BAKER, B. M. at Memphis, has a going-to-town Dodge—trimmed here and there with red, chromium plated wheels and a fog horn that scares them.

Salesman N. J. COLQUHOUN, Memphis, gets the honors for the great unpronounceable name.

Branch Manager A. N. SCHMITZ, Milwaukee, was up for "seconds" on the strawberry shortcake, Drake style.

"MERT" DURANT, Montreal chieftain, carries an appended moniker of "Old Silver."

JOE MYERS, the only newcomer to the Canadian organization, travels the territory between Winnipeg and the Pacific Slope, so jumps are jumps with JOE.

Branch Manager "NICKY" GOLDHAMMER, Minneapolis, is the home town king of the slogan makers. "NICKY" even has a slogan for a slogan.

C. J. (FAYE) DRESSELL, Minneapolis, is the chief mechanic of the office. "Dres" is said to sport a new car every month.

The Stuart did well over the week-end with "Richelieu," but simmered down with $2,700, which is $400 down.

The Orpheum had a couple of dandies as dual bills go and the letup from vaudeville days on the last halves was not too noticeable. Truog Gets Surprise

Kansas City, June 19.—You could have knocked W. E. Truog over with one of Sally Rand's feathers when he read in Motion Picture Daily that a salary check due him since 1924 from the old Selznick Distributing Corp. was awaiting him at the office of a New York attorney.

Truog, now United Artists manager here, was employed by Selznick as Kansas City branch manager shortly prior to the company's bankruptcy. He entered his claim for two weeks' salary, totaling $270, and hadn't heard about it, he says, in 11 years.

"Escape Me" Tops Boston; Gets $14,000

BOSTON, June 19.—"Escape Me Never" enlivened a dull week here by getting $14,000, over normal by $2,000, at Keith's Memorial.

The same figures also applied to a dual bill consisting of "Public Hero No. 1" and "The Awakening of Jim Burke." "The Scoundrel" and "Alibi Ike" on a dual bill were strong in two places, the Fenway and the Paramount, going $1,000 over average in each spot.

Loew's Bijou to Switch

NEW HAVEN, June 19.—Loew's Bijou will switch from first to second run on June 23. The change was originally set for the opening of the College, but recently both houses have been first run. There is some speculation as to whether the Bijou will take over the 11-day clearance formerly held by the College.

Boston Races a Worry

BOSTON, June 19.—Pari-mutuel horse race betting has started in Greater Boston for the first time. It follows the start of dog racing by five days. It is proving heavy competition for theatres.

"Pampas" Gets $4,400, Best Gross in K.C.

KANSAS CITY, June 19.—"Under the Pampas Moon," backed by some heavy pre-showing promotion by Stanley Chambers at the Fox Uptown, made the best comparative showing for a week that fell well below par. The Fox picture grossed $4,400 against an average of $3,500.

"Eight Bells" at the Tower went $400 over a normal of $7,000. "Black Fury" at the Newman was only fair at $6,500, and "In Caliente" made a poor showing with $7,000 gross in 10 days. Manager Lawrence Lehman held over to open "The Informer" with exclusives of the Baer-Braddock bout.

Variety Club

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, June 19.—While things are slow at the Variety Club during this period of vacations, conventions, new sales season, etc., plans are now afoot for the seventh annual basket picnic and the second annual golf tournament. J. O. HOOLEY and JOE BLOWITZ are chairmen of the picnic committee and ART LEVY is chairman of the golf tournament.

These are the only real activities during summer for the actual club members, but STEVE COX keeps the club busy with several meetings each week of his blind men (Umpires).

JOHN MALONEY recovering from a severe case of blood poisoning. It all started from a carbuncle.

MALONEY just elected member of the Rotary Club. JOHN H. HARRIS represents theatres.

BERNIE ARMSTRONG and JERRY MAYHALL applying for license for new broadcasting company in Pittsburgh.

JIMMY BALMER practicing mush ball with his two boys—JACK and JIM, JR.—getting in shape for the picnic game.

J. T. MCGREEVEY reports his baby now says "Hockadarematabarlus" as plain as a grown up "proud father."

BILL BENSWANGER attends at least three banquets a week.

Continuous policy of stage shows hampering DAVE BROUDY at the Stanley where he is conductor. Holds him down to 36 holes a day. Nary a performer comes to the Stanley that DAVE doesn't challenge—for the links.

SAM PARKS, JR., of South Hills-U. S. open golf champion member of Pittsburgh Variety Club.

MIKE GALLAGHER every day at the open golf tournament.

Washington

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Because of the annual meeting of the M.P.T.O. of Virginia, the semi-monthly luncheon scheduled for June 17 was cancelled.

The to-have-been kings for a day, ARTHUR GODFREY and NAT GLASSER, will be placed on the steward list later in the season.

JOE GINS and SID LEHMAN, kings for a day at the smoker on June 24, the first formal Variety Club event in a fortnight, have invited nearly 200 exhibitors of Baltimore and Washington to be their guests that evening.

Plans for the first annual Variety Club Show Boat Cruise on July 20 are going forward under the direction of Admiral CARTER T. BARRON.

For the event, the following committees have been named:

Entertainment—GUY WONDERS, NATE STIEFEL, GENE FORD.

Publicity—FRANK LAFALCE, LOU BROWN, RAY BELL.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Make a Million"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—Capitalizing on the current interest in various redistribution of wealth plans, this one has plenty of exploitation angles and good comedy to make it count on double bills in spite of no draw names.

Charles Starrett is fired from his position as professor of economics through a complaint of Pauline Brooks, the daughter of a millionaire sponsor, because he teaches, "the wrong people have the money." Starrett is told that he will be welcomed back when he gets his million. Falling in with a gang of professional panhandlers, Starrett gets his million by public subscription, defeats scheming bankers and wins the girl after a series of improbable but very funny incidents.

James Burke is brilliant in a cast that includes George E. Stone, as a two-timing reporter; Guy Usher, Norman Houston, Monte Carter, Jimmy Aubrey, George Cleveland and John Elliott.

The direction by Lewis D. Collins is smooth. Emmett Anthony's story and Charles Logue's screen play are particularly good in comedy. No production code seal. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Stranded"

(Warners)

Crammed with rapid-fire action, romance and smiles, "Stranded" makes the most of the entertainment values offered by its story, and they are not inconsiderable. With the background provided by the new bridge being spun across San Francisco Bay, overlorded by George Brent as a construction engineer, and with the activities of the Travelers' Aid interspersed, the picture has a wide play of happenings to concern itself with.

Kay Francis, as a Travelers' Aid worker in San Francisco, makes a career of helping the stranded and homeless, which she finds no easier to give up after falling in love with Brent, who asks her to do just that before becoming his wife. Their viewpoints on her work lead to an estrangement which is repaired only after Miss Francis has aided in winning back the loyalty of the bridge workers to Brent after labor agitators have imperiled Brent's job and the success of the bridge construction.

The story is thin on credibility in some sequences, but what it sacrifices in the way of realities is more than made up for in punchy action, heart interest, and fast moving incident. Miss Francis fits smoothly into her role. Brent gives a facile performance and a good supporting cast rounds out a picture that offers plenty of exploitation opportunities. Frank Borzage's direction is unerring with this material. Running time, 64 minutes. "G."

"Men Without Names"

(Paramount)

Coming as late as it does in the cycle, Paramount's contribution to the "G-Men" series is not without merit. It has all the ingredients which make for an entertaining main dish on any film menu. Albert Lewis produced and Ralph Murphy directed. Fred MacMurray, Madge Evans and Leslie Fenton are the three topnotchers in the cast and their work is capital. Lending admirable support are Herbert Rawlinson, head of the Department of Justice; David Holt, Lynn Overman, Elizabeth Paterson, Grant Mitchell and Dean Jagger. Dale Van Every wrote the original.

Following a bank stickup in Brooklyn, Rawlinson assigns MacMurray to his first important task of running down the gang. A few $5 bills of the stolen serial numbers show up in Delafield, Kan., where MacMurray is sent. He stops at a boarding house where he gets his first clue and also his first chance to formally meet the heroine, Miss Evans, who works for the local newspaper and has her doubts about him.

Mitchell, the town's bank president, is brought into the mess by his brother, one of the gangsters involved. He is given the job of disposing of the "hot coin." Keeping steady contact with the Kansas City office

Short Subjects

"Roaring West"

(Universal)

Buck Jones is the star in this serial, something that will give the kids plenty to shout about. The first three chapters, running about 20 minutes each, are packed with excitement every foot of the way. The story has to do with the efforts of a group of no-good fellows to get possession of a map belonging to Jones which contains the location of a piece of gold-bearing land. This serial has been beautifully photographed. Supporting Jones are Muriel Evans, about whom the hero is "that way," Walter Miller, Frank McGlynn, Sr., Harlan Knight and William Desmond, among others. Ray Taylor directed. Production Code Seals on the three initial installments are numbered 796, 797 and 798. "G."

"Along Flirtation Walk"

(Vitaphone)

Another in the appealing series of Leon Schlessinger animations. The color tones are attractive and musical effects deserving of applause. The story concerns the big egg laying contest of the season with the losing team coming up from yonder and carrying off the laurels.

It's worth a spot on any program. Code Seal No. 0661. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Ski Scrapers"

(Educational-Fox)

Panoramic beauty sweeps through every foot of this Treasure Chest Prod. It shows a group of ski-ers in action in Norwegian mountains. Various effective angles have been caught by the photographer. Plus the interesting narrative by Edward Thorgersen, this short is unlimited in its appeal. Production Code Seal 0416. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"What's the Idea?"

(Vitaphone)

Lew Pollack, the composer, in a review of some of his recent hits, which by this time are pretty well dated. He plays the piano while a number of performers sing and dance. Behind the motive for listening to the songs is the idea to sell them to a film producer. Mildly entertaining. Code Seal No. 0254. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Town Hall Follies"

(Universal)

Oswald is transported back to the gay nineties. We see him as an usher at a theatre who, forgetting that the villain on the stage is just playacting. rushes to the rescue of the heroine. The villain runs for it, while Oswald and the gal go into a clinch. Entertaining. Production Code Seal No. 785. Running time, 7 2/3 mins. "G."

"All for One"

(Educational-Fox)

Sylvia Froos sings two numbers in this subject, one with Warren Hull, who falls for her at the first introduction and has a problem on his hands in trying to shoo off four other contenders for the Hull title. It's fair.

ITO of Mississippi Not At Allied Meet

JACKSON, MISS., June 19.—A resolution protesting against publicity concerning the representation of Mississippi exhibitors at the recent Allied States national convention at Atlanta, believed to have been authored by Allied, was adopted by the I. T. O. of Miss. at its meeting here this week.

The resolution set forth that no member of the organization, the only exhibitor unit in the state, attended the Allied session. The resolution was followed by another endorsing Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, who is a resident of the state.

Get Change of Venue

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 19.—Movietone News and Fox Film Corp. were granted a change of venue to New York City in Supreme Court here today in the $100,000 damage suit brought against them by William Stewart Smith, head of the International Flight Corp., as an aftermath of the wrecking of a Sikorsky amphibian in an effort to transfer films of the assassination of King Alexander of Jugoslavia from the liner Washington at sea while the plane was in flight. The plaintiff charges the loss of the plane ruined a contemplated flight to Moscow. manner in which much of the evidence has been introduced, and with little prospect of a change in tactics indicated.

With stipulations agreed upon, counsel felt, many witnesses can be relieved of testifying and the testimony of others can be shortened.

Burkan asked for postponement of the trial until fall when the case was called before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard 10 days ago, but when government counsel applied to Washington for consent to an adjournment it was refused and the trial was begun. An adjournment would have had to be taken July 1 in any event as Judge Goddard is scheduled for a new assignment on that date which will occupy him during the following three months.

Again "Anchors Aweigh"

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—There is still another title change on Warners' Annapolis picture which has been called "Anchors Aweigh," "Classmates" and "Dress Parade." It seems that Columbia has the rights to "Dress Parade," so the film is again shooting as "Anchors Aweigh." One more change is expected.

and Washington, MacMurray finally learns of the gang's hideout. Just as the government men are about to close in on the spot Mitchell, fearful of his life, shirks at the thought of returning to the gang's headquarters, sends Holt in with the brief case. Fenton grabs the kid and uses him for protection, but gets his just the same.

The last reel is replete with action. There is never any doubt that MacMurray and Miss Evans will merge at the end.

"Men on Wings"

(Amkino)

This Soviet film, produced by Moscow Kino-Combinat, probably comes closer to being popular entertainment for American audiences than most of the product that has recently found its way here from Russia. Dealing with airplanes and airmen, it touches on a theme familiar to American filmgoers. Those who thrill to the sound of a plane motor will most likely get a kick out of "Men on Wings."

What propaganda there is in this production is almost negligible. The film, a tribute to the air service of the new Russia, reveals life in a Soviet flying school. The story mixes drama with humor and packs some exciting action.

The film contains a romance of a sort in which the principals are E. K. Melnikova and I. I. Koval-Samborsky. The latter, an air squadron commander, is grounded when his disregard for orders causes a crash in which he is injured. The rest of the film details his efforts to regain permission to fly, with the girl, a student at the school, aiding him.

There are English subtitles. The roles are well-enacted. J. Reisman directed. No production code seal. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"No More Ladies," tomorrow morning's opener at the Capitol, was previewed by wire from Hollywood on June 3.

"Hour," Show Pittsburgh's Bet, $11,000

PITTSBURGH, June 19.—In the case of the two leaders last week, stage shows were generally credited by the managements with boosting grosses. An all-radio revue, including Mary Small and Phil Cook, along with the better known network amateur winners, bolstered "One Hour Late" at the Alvin to $11,000, while Benny Davis and his "Star-Dust" revue helped "Oil for the Lamps of China" collect $18,000 at the Stanley.

The straight picture houses, however, did not fare so well. At the Penn, "Public Hero No. 1" got only around $8,000, while "Stolen Harmony" at the Warner fizzled out to $3,000. Things weren't much better at the Fulton, where "Vagabond Lady," brought in at the last minute when "Women Must Dress" was yanked after two days, did about $2,700.

Total first run grosses were $42,700. Average is $46,500.

BETTER THAN A COOLING PLANT

N. Y. TIMES—"The sort of gay and lively comedy that seems singularly suited for exhibition at this time of the year... Frank Butler, who wrote the story, deserves a few hot-weather cheers for converting the plot into a frothy, bubbling and sparkling farce. The tale is told swiftly and amusingly and seemed to find deserved favor with yesterday's Roxy audiences . . ."

Openings Gain Over Closings In Many Spots

New Houses Numerous; Racing Causes Worry

Openings continue to outrun closings in many sections in spite of the increasing competition of outdoor sports as summer advances. This is especially true in New England, and is also marked in some parts of the south.

There has been no letup in incorporations of new firms. Vancouver and northwestern points in the United States are getting new houses.

The principal dark spot on the theatre horizon at the moment seems to be an increase in horse and dog racing with pari-mutuel betting.

Kuhn, Loeb Para. Profit On Market Was $334,995

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Profits of $334,995 were made by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. through trading in Paramount securities during the period Sir William Wiseman, a partner in the banking firm, was serving as a member of the Kuhn, Loeb selected bondholders' protective committee headed by Frank A. Vanderlip, former head of the National City Bank, it was revealed today at the Securities and Exchange Commission hearing on the Paramount reorganization.

Under insistent questioning by Commission counsel as to the ethical aspects of trades by committee members in the securities of the company which they were trying to protect, Wiseman protested that were it not for the "high moral" attitude of Kuhn, Loeb the company could have made $1,000,000.

Expect Fall Trial Of St. Louis Cases

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—An early ruling on whether or not the government must supply a bill of particulars in the anti-trust action against Warners, RKO, Paramount and several individuals connected with these companies is expected, but chances for a trial of the charges before next fall are regarded as remote.

Before taking the bill of particulars request under advisement Judge George Moore allowed four days for the filing of briefs and indicated he would hand down an early decision.

During the course of the argument he intimated that he would not depart from the custom of the court, which is to avoid lengthy trials during July and August.

Conference Set Upon Ohio Playdate Trial

CINCINNATI, June 20.—Paxton & Seasongood, local attorneys for RKO Distributing Corp. in the action against the state to test the validity of the law banning designated playdates, have a tentative appointment with Judge Charles H. Moorman, of the U. S. District Court for June 29 to determine whether the case can be heard by that court and when.

The papers specify that three U. S. District judges shall preside. This is impossible at present because of injuries sustained by Judges Nevin and Hough of the Cincinnati and Columbus courts, respectively, in a recent automobile accident. An effort, therefore, is being made to transfer the case to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, although that docket is crowded, which may delay proceedings for quite some time.

Meanwhile, it is understood that defendants have agreed to take no action in trying to enforce the law until final determination of the case.

The law becomes effective July 6, although it was declared unconstitutional by Attorney General John W. Bricker after the bill had passed both branches of the legislature, "because it would interfere with the rights and property of copyright owners under the Federal laws and would be an unwarranted interference with the rights of private contract of the owners of film."

F. L. Newman Injured

SEATTLE, June 20.—Frank L. Newman, Sr., head of Evergreen State theatres (F. W. C.) in this territory, was painfully but not seriously injured here this week in an automobile accident.

The mishap occurred as Newman was driving over the Naches Pass in eastern Washington. After receiving first aid treatment en route, he proceeded back to local headquarters where he is now recuperating.

It was also represented that unless NRA was given sole control of agreements there would be little or nothing for it to do outside of the compilation of statistics.

Wis. Arbitration Moves Start

MILWAUKEE, June 20. — The I.E.P.A. has named a committee to contact the Fox and Warner circuits here for the purpose of working out some plan of local government in cooperation with the exchanges. It is hoped to be able to draft an arbitration board which would function to iron out problems of zoning and clearance and other grievances.

Reports are also current that the Film Board of Trade, which has been inactive during the operation of the code boards, will be revived. It is doubtful, however, whether anything definite along this line will be accomplished for another month or more.

closings in spite of heavy competition from horse pari-mutuels, dance resorts, beaches and other seasonal attractions in this vacation spot. The Casino at Hampton Beach, N. H., goes into lights under the banner of John J. Flynn of Lawrence, Mass. The Barn, in Hampton, N. H., opened June 15.

Dallas Sale Is Approved

DALLAS, June 20.—Sale at auction of the Melba, downtown first run, and reorganization plans for the property, which has been in Federal receivership, have been approved by Judge William H. Atwell in Federal Court. Karl Hoblitzelle, who has a lease on the property, will manage both the theatre and the office building.

The sale was made to a committee representing bondholders, who bid $141,000. It was the only bid. John Erhard, special commissioner, said the property was worth more, but due to present conditions the price was the best he expected. He explained that Hoblitzelle had bought up many of the bonds and leased the property because of its "nuisance value."

Ohio Houses Open, Close

CANTON, O., June 20.—Two houses have closed, another will go dark next month and three have been opened in this territory.

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—Jack Menard and Mrs. Menard have taken over the Arrow from James Randall and will continue it as a last run grind house. They also operate the Showshop and the Burbank at Burbank.

P. G. Camerson, former Dallas exhibitor, has acquired the subsequent run Metro from E. L. Thompson, who has returned to Portland, Ore.

Edward Manson has been named manager of the Rosemary at Ocean Park by F.W.C. The house has been dark for several months.

Cincy Orpheum Is Closed

CINCINNATI, June 20.—The Orpheum, 2,100-seat independent neighborhood house located opposite the RKO Paramount, has closed, and future plans are understood to be indefinite. The house has been operated by M. Chester Martin, part owner, since reopening last fall. It previously was an RKO operation, the circuit having given up the lease about a year ago.

new company, Schenck said this is not so.

"There are just three of us: S. R. Kent, who is president, myself as chairman of the board and Darryl Zanuck, who is vice-president." What part William Goetz and Joe Moskowitz will play in Fox-20th Century has not yet been decided, he said.

Schenck confirmed the three-picture deals with Elisabeth Bergner and Paul Czinner, who will produce the films in London. He also added that the theatre deal with Oscar Deutsch and C. J. Donada had fallen through.

The reception committee at the dock included Nicholas M. and Mrs. Schenck, Al Lichtman, Zanuck, Sid Grauman, Charles and Joe Moskowitz; Harry, William and Ben Goetz; William Phillips, Col. Harry Wardell; George Cohen of Loeb, Walker & Loeb; Bert S. Nayfack, Schenck's personal attorney; Arthur Stebbins, Arthur W. Kelly, Harry D. Buckley and A. C. Blumenthal.

There were many other film people on the same liner. Laudy Lawrence, head of M-G-M activities in Europe, said he planned to spend just a week here on business. Silverstone declared conditions in England are "very fine." Kay Francis rushed off the pier in a hurry and intends to depart for the coast today. Hester Deane, who made tests in London for G.B., Korda and Czinner, but turned down offers to try her luck in Hollywood, was also on board. She said she is from New York and is the most photographed brunette in the world.

Kay Kamen Also Aboard

Jack Kirkland, writer, and Kay Kamen, general manager of Walt Disney Enterprises, who said he left on May 11 and the trip was really a honeymoon, were other arrivals. Kamen added that Walt and Roy Disney and their wives were recently given a reception on their 10th wedding anniversaries. He said he made no changes abroad and closed no deals. Walt Disney plans to return about Aug. 1.

E. B. (Ted) Curtis, sales manager of the government motion picture division, returned from three weeks in England, France and Germany. He said business was booming in the first country, but was not so good in the other two. Curtis asserted the main purpose of his trip was to contact the foreign offices. He left for Rochester last night and is due back in New York Monday, planning to go to the coast next month.

Sam W. Smith of British Lion Films stated he brought over six films which he planned to sell here and in Canada. He intends to buy about 12 pictures for English distribution during his several weeks here. Marquis Henry de la Falaise said he had returned from Paris, where he exhibited "Kliou" to the French government and the International Big Game Hunters' Ass'n. He said that it is the first animal picture made completely in Technicolor and that a deal was on with Paramount to handle distribution. The marquis plans to make another expedition, probably to the Orient, in a few months, for another all-color film. He plans to leave either today or tomorrow.

U. A. to Have 24 Features, Says Lichtman

tures, and a final picture to be delivered by 20th Century.

In addition to these, Lichtman said U. A. would be in the market, as always, for exceptional pictures from outside producers. Miss Pickford, he said, is now in negotiation with a producer who must first work out a settlement of a contract he holds with another company. Separate negotiations are being conducted by U. A., he said, with another prominent producer whom Lichtman said he was unable to name at this time. Selznick, although delivering four pictures for next season, has been given a contract calling for 10 pictures during a two-and-one-half-year period.

Lichtman said that no change in the company's sales policy was contemplated. He added that U. A. "could have had 100 pictures" for next season, but that the choice was either to maintain the company's established policies and standards or revising the organization completely in order to handle 50 or more pictures a year.

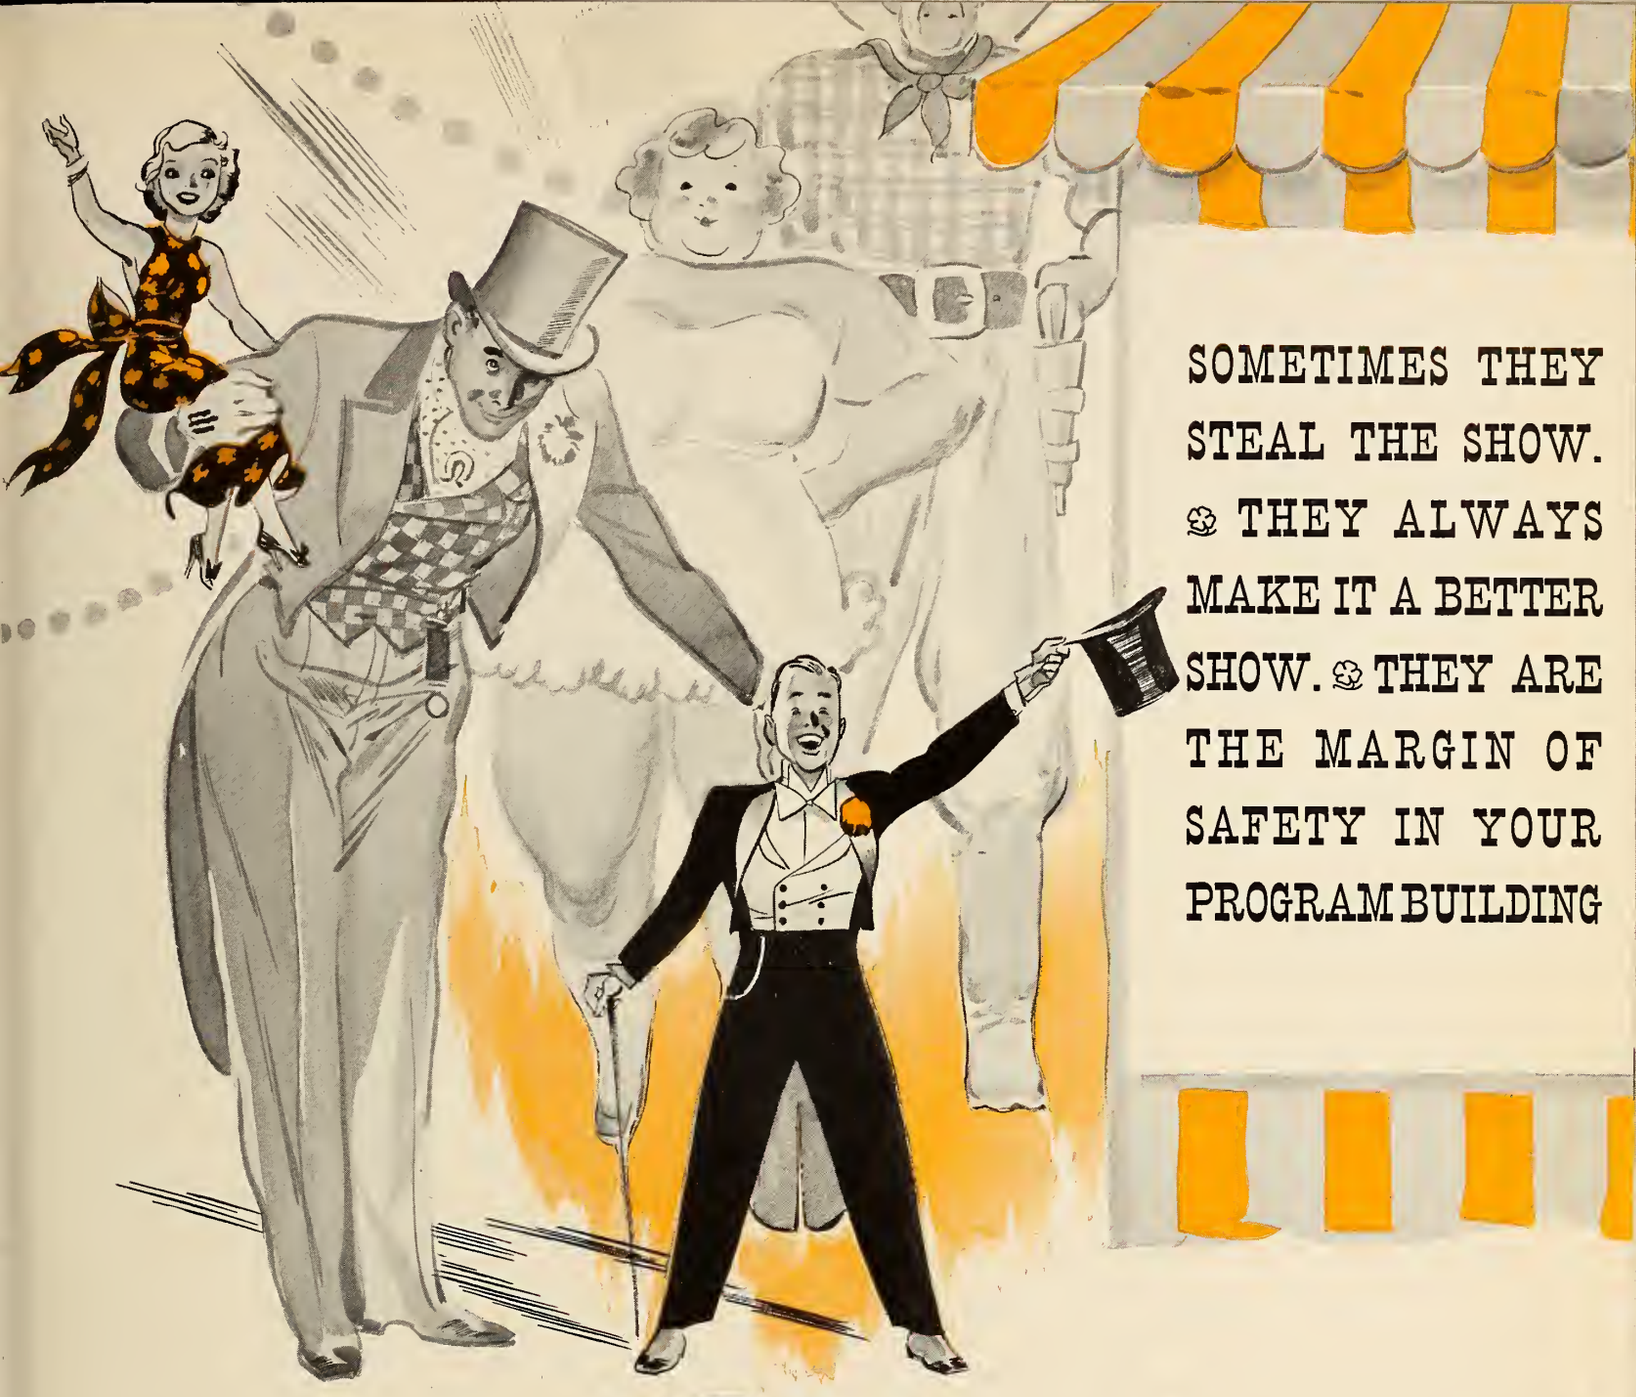
Appointments to fill vacancies created by the executive realignment in the company are in prospect, Lichtman said, but added that no outsiders would be brought into the company.

U. A.'s sales convention in Los Angeles will run for the entire week of July 8 to 13, Lichtman said.

Lichtman Pact for 5 Years

Al Lichtman's new contract as president of United Artists is for five years. The pact is up for ratification by the U. A. board at a meeting today.

The board will also pass upon David Selznick's contract, under which he is to make 10 pictures for U. A. within a two and one-half-year period.



The board is also scheduled to ratify the purchase of Joseph M. Schenck's stock holdings in United Artists, which will complete the severance of Schenck's interest in the company. Ratification by the board of the purchase by U. A. of the Art Cinema stock is also scheduled.

The U. A. stockholders' meeting, which was scheduled to be held here June 25, will be held in Los Angeles, July 1, instead.

Bernhard Hits Move For Phila. Doubles

Warners will have nothing to do with the proposed opening of double feature houses in Philadelphia, asserts Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner theatres. His statement is prompted by a report that Arthur Siegel, stepson of Albert L. Warner and his partner are to open two dual houses in Philadelphia.

"If this gossip is true," says Bernhard, "I want to say emphatically that these men have no relation whatsoever with our theatre setup. I am unalterably opposed to the introduction of such a policy in Philadelphia and we will regard them as unfair competition."

RKO Leaders Head East as Meet Ends

Inc.; Ned E. Depinet, president of RKO Distributing Corp.; Jules Levy, general sales manager of RKO Distributing; Phil Reisman, vice-president of RKO Export Corp.; Barret McCormick, advertising and publicity director; Howard S. Benedict, in charge of the studio publicity department, and members of the foreign contingent, who will sail for their posts June 29.

With few exceptions all the delegates were on their way home today. Fred S. Gulbranson returns to his Panama post via the Pacific Coast. Reginald Armour, India, and Douglas Lotherington, Australia, also go via San Francisco.

Lily Pons, who appeared at the closing session of the convention yesterday, has left for the coast with her mother, Madame Marie Pons; Alberti De Garostiga, her vocal teacher, and Margheriti Tivindelli.

The sales organization was still enthused today over McDonough's announcement that the company has developed the "acme of manpower" and within the next month will have a dozen of the new season's lineup in work.

Kahane predicted that the company's flexible production policy would permit the company to be on the alert to acquire new and timely stories and the best talent available at the time of production. Major L. E. Thompson, head of RKO Theatres, said that the proved assets in stars, stories and production personnel insure the future of the company and guarantee the 1935-36 season.

RKO Foreign Trade Gains

CHICAGO, June 20.—RKO's foreign business is in good shape, conventioneers were told by the overseas contingent at the closing session of the sales convention Wednesday. Phil Reisman, vice-president of RKO Export Corp., introduced them.

E. D. Leishman, managing director in the United Kingdom, reported continued healthy improvement. Harry W. Leasim, general sales manager of Radio Pictures International with headquarters in Paris, declared that "Roberta" promises to do better than "The Gay Divorcee" on the continent. It is now in its third week in Paris. "Divorcee" ran 13. He said that RKO had played a "phenomenal 26 pictures" in Paris last year, "a number no other American company accomplished."

Ralph Hanbury, general manager of Radio Pictures, Ltd., described conditions in England and pointed out that England has only 4,500 wired houses against 14,500 for the United States.

Reginald Armour, managing director of RKO's India branch, said that despite difficult conditions the company was forging steadily ahead. Douglas Lotherington, general sales manager for Australia and New Zealand, asserted that the promise he made the previous year's convention of a 25 per cent increase in business had been bettered. The increase was 30 per cent.

Fred S. Gulbranson, manager of the Panama exchange, detailed the taxation and transportation problems of the 12 countries under his jurisdiction, but said that in spite of these sales had increased 22 per cent over last year. Luis Lezama, manager of the Mexican exchange, urged more action and less dialogue.

Jacobo Gluckmann, New York representative of Via Commercial Radiolux S. A., RKO distributor in the Argentine, Uruguay and Chile, said he had made a personal bet last November with Argentine distributors that he would match hit for hit with his competitors. So far he has one picture to spare, he declared.

Reisman translated the speech of Charles LeLong, manager of Compagnie Radio Cinema Paris, and quoted him as saying that RKO's association with RCA had been of great value in France.

Fall of the Belgian franc had enabled him to increase rentals and playing time in that country by 35 per cent to 40 per cent, declared Max Bosman, partner in Bosmon, Bourland of Belgium. Star names mean something in Rumania, declared Nicholas Cahasis.

Because there are only 300 theatres in Holland it is imperative to concentrate on spectacular features for that market, said Joost Smit, part owner of Remancos Film Bedrijf. Carl Wallman, sales representative in Scandinavian countries, received a hand when he said he had sold his possibilities 100 per cent.

Kuhn, Loeb Para. Profit On Market Was $334,995

kept in ignorance of their activities for more than 18 months, counsel for the commission today laid before Wiseman a complete record of Kuhn, Loeb purchases and sales of Paramount securities and requested an exposition of his ethical philosophy.

Wiseman attempted to explain that the trades, which he insisted yesterday were purchases purely for investment, the bonds being sold when it became apparent Kuhn, Loeb would be called upon to draft a reorganization plan, were for the purpose of maintaining an "orderly" market and not for speculation.

Although questions of commission counsel indicated the banking house was getting detailed information from the trustees and employed a corps of experts to analyze Paramount securities, Wiseman denied using "inside" information and insisted there was no significance in the firm's trading activities. The simultaneous purchases and sales shown by the record were designed, he said, "to prevent an artificial market" and stabilize Paramount security prices, although he admitted an improper appearance could be attached.

"The inside information was that the situation was very bad," he said. "I was one of the few people who had confidence in the old management."

Is Questioned on Ethics

Taking the witness into the field of ethics which was explored with Vanderlip yesterday, counsel for the commission secured Wiseman's acknowledgment that protective committees should be independent and not dominated by either bankers or mandominated by either bankers or management. He argued, however, that committees "composed of responsible people" would be impossible if the bankers were barred and that from the "practical point of view" no group could have dominated the Vanderlip committee despite the fact three of its five members were bankers.

Admitting Morris Ernst, who was a member of the committee, had protested his serving on the body, Wiseman declared Ernst had offered no adequate reason why he should resign, asserting if the bondholders did not think him a proper member they did not have to deposit their securities with the Vanderlip group.

Explaining his personal activities in Paramount securities, Wiseman testified they covered less than two weeks and ended when his holdings were turned over to Kuhn, Loeb and the firm started wholesale operations.

Wiseman explained he had never previously held any financial interest in Paramount, but bought the securities because "in spite of the apparently mad situation of the company, I felt the great danger had passed. I said at every meeting bankers should advise clients not to sell. I estimated the bonds would be worth $80 to $90 after reorganization."

New York financial experts present expressed surprise when Harold A. Fortington, chairman of the executive committee of the revamped Paramount, testified that the group he represented held only about $9,000,000 worth of the company's indebtedness of some $55,000,000, privately stating that it had generally been believed the group represented a much larger interest.

Fortington asserted the various interests he represented had sought him out and that there was no discussion of contract or remuneration for his services. Counsel for the commission, however, flashed a memorandum prepared long before he got into the picture, which Fortington admitted he had drawn and which contained a number of charges against the company, including the following:

Bad Management Is Charged

Mismanagement, it being alleged excessive salaries and bonuses were paid to a favored group of officials and that several officers received "grotesque" bonuses in stock and that excessive salaries were the general practice. The president and one or two vice-presidents, he said, received salaries which had "no relation to what they should be."

Improper distribution of several million dollars to common stockholders out of capital.

Wrongful disbursement of millions in the repurchase of stock.

Assets wrongfully hypothecated with bankers as collateral, this being in connection with the production corporation.

Large sums wasted in purchasing real estate at unjustly high prices.

Padding of payrolls with unnecessary employes and relatives.

The witness also charged collusion between the management and bankers and alleged that they had designated "paid" committees and arranged with the courts for the bankruptcy. He explained that by "paid" committees he referred to the Vanderlip bond and Holmes stockholders' committees, and declared he had been invited in 1932 to become a member of the protective committee for the Paramount Broadway Corp. with intimations that he would be paid.

If the plan works out, it is possible the exemption from admission tax may be returned to its pre-depression figure of $3.

Ticket Tax Revenue Up

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Improvement in theatrical conditions is disclosed by figures made public today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, placing admission tax collections in May at $1,343,876, as against $1,157,970 in April and $1,164,598 in May of last year.

Penn. Senate Passes 4% Ticket Tax Bill

tax on admissions to theatres and other places of amusement in the State. The House must concur in the amendments made in the Senate to the original measure before it can be sent out to Gov. Earle for his signature. Concurrence is practically assured before final adjournment of the session tomorrow.

The proposed act is estimated to yield $5,500,000 in taxes in the next two years. The original plan to tax amusement 10 per cent of their gross earnings has been abandoned. Adoption of the four per cent bill will increase to $100,000,000 for the biennium the total new revenue embodied in bills thus far approved by both branches of the Legislature.

Roach to Make More Full Feature Films

turned out a feature comedy only occasionally. His first film under the new plan will be "The Honesty Racket," written and directed by himself.

New talent will be signed by Roach to take care of the necessity for larger casts.

"While in no sense are we abandoning the short picture," he said, "it is our feeling that the length of a comedy should be determined by the footage necessary to tell the story. Too much choppiness and condensation have often killed a potentially good subject. It is our plan to overcome restrictions of length by making pictures from two reels to feature size, thus providing sufficient product for our present market and satisfying theatre requests in the matter of comedy features."

Concentrate on Westerns

KANSAS CITY, June 20.—Consolidated Film Distributors is changing its policy, effective with the new season, to the exclusive handling of westerns and actions, according to W. P. Humston, secretary-treasurer.

"Westerns have been coming back strongly the past two years, and this demand, instead of growing less, is growing stronger," commented Humston.

Looking 'Em Over

"Sans Famille"

(DuWorld)

In "Sans Famille" ("Without Family") intelligent treatment makes an old story seem almost fresh. Here again is the tale of the long-lost child who is returned to his mother in the end. But it is told with such fidelity to detail, so much warmth of feeling that it stamps itself as fine entertainment for those who know their French. As the film is without English subtitles, American audiences may not esteem it as highly.

At the death of Robert Lynen's father his uncle has the youth kidnapped in the hope of succeeding to the title. The abandoned child is taken in by a French peasant family. Later he is saved from an orphanage by a wandering performer. When the latter dies the boy takes up the wandering life alone until he meets his real mother.

The waif is played by Lynen in highly sensitive manner. His performance helps the film tremendously. He is surrounded by a fine cast including Vanni-Marcoux, Dorville, Madeleine Guitty, Bérengère, and another youngster named Serge Grave. The photography captures some beautiful scenes of the French countryside.

Andre Mouezy Eon directed this Pierre Braunberger production. No production code seal. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Adventurous Knights"

(Ajax)

Exhibitors will probably have adventurous nights and days if they play this picture. The kids will probably like it, but not so with adults, for this is the type film that will cause audiences to express their opinions audibly.

If Director C. Edward Roberts was aiming at puerile audiences, then he hit his mark. The camera work of Robert Cline is fair, but there appears to have been inserted too many stock shots.

The yarn concerns an American-raised boy taken back to a Balkan country to ascend the throne. His early training and democratic ideas don't fit in well with his new surroundings. All the usual plots and counter-plots to keep him from being crowned are brought into play and these all help the hero, David Sharpe, to display his athletic prowess. All ends well, however, and Sharpe is crowned king and takes Gertrude Messinger, his true love, for his queen. Others in the cast are Mary Kornman and Mickey Daniels.

Production Code Seal No. 552. Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

"Speed Devils"

(J. H. Hoffberg)

Produced and directed by Joseph Henabery, this independent romantic adventure is designed for neighborhood trade where duals are the order of the day.

The story has Russell Hardee and Paul Kelly, two auto racers, vying for Marguerite Churchill, a local news sleuth busy uncovering the designs of local politicians. Maimed in one of the big races, the two pals go into the auto repair business. Everything goes along swell until the politicians try to influence Hardee. Kelly doesn't go for their plan.

Although she has been going around with Hardee, Miss Churchill falls hard for his partner. Kelly and the girl are framed by the politicians in an effort to split the partners. It works out as planned. Later when the plot is unraveled, Kelly is declared the winner for Miss Churchill's honors with Hardee a good loser.

The individuals convicted were John A. Bolles, Frank E. Nemee, Henry A. Tupper and Arthur Waddingham. They were accused of issuing false prospectuses, falsifying their books and misrepresenting securities offered for sale by agents of the companies.

The defendants were permanently enjoined from dealing in securities in this State.

Carr States Mascot Will Lose Identity

HOLLYWOOD, June 20.—Following completion of Mascot's five-picture commitment the firm will lose its trade name in becoming part of Republic with Nat Levine as vice-president and producing under the Republic banner, it was said tonight by Trem Carr of Republic at the windup of his company's regional here. Other independents allied with Republic will also lose their trade identities, Carr asserted.

This statement somewhat conflicts with Levine's announcement on his arrival here, which read: "Our merger with Republic doesn't mean this organization in any way will lose its individuality."

Levine could not be reached for comment last night.

Bank Night Actions Started in Midwest

KANSAS CITY, June 20.—Emmett Thurman, general counsel of Affiliated Enterprises, Inc., Denver; Claude Ezell, general sales manager, and Ray Coffin of Affiliated Distributors, Inc., Des Moines, have started three copyright and trademark infringement actions against exhibitors in the western Missouri and Kansas territory, according to R. W. McEwan, bank night distributor in this area.

S. P. Halpern, Minneapolis attorney, retained recently by Affiliated Enterprises to act as general counsel for such action nationally, will work with local attorneys.

Can't Show "Shower"

ALBANY, June 20.—A license to exhibit "Spring Shower," an Hungarian production, in New York State was denied today by the State Department of Education, which held the film "makes a mockery of religion, the administration of justice and the action of respectable society generally."

Campi's Texas Records Sent To Capital

Pressure Reported Used To Get Transfer

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 23. — Campi records relating to certain film controversies in Texas are understood now to be in the possession of the Department of Justice as a result of a very strongly worded letter sent by the department a few days ago to John C. Flinn, Code Authority secretary, in New York.

While neither department officials nor film men are willing to talk about the situation, the understanding is that the department was in communication with Flinn some days ago with respect to the records, which members of Code Authority were reluctant to surrender. The letter which the department is said finally to have written is reported card men are to be put back on a five-day week starting Monday.

The four-day week has been a bone of contention in the New York union since the order was put into effect, and with restoration of the extra working day harmony and peace are expected. Local 306 has 1,800 members and between 250 and 300 are out of work. Another means of taking care of the unemployed will be devised, it is stated.

Although the meeting at the Statler was expected to last five days, the sessions have been extended three extra days, until Monday, so that all accumulated business can be cleared. George E. Browne, president of the I.A.T.S.E., is acting as chairman of the conclave.

Letters were sent out Saturday by Local 306 to the entire membership announcing the international decision at St. Louis to revert to a five-day week.

Mayor LaGuardia has appointed Frank Tichenor, editor of Outlook, as his representative to bring the 42nd St. picketing situation to an end. Within the last three weeks 125 Local 306 men have been arrested.

On Friday Judge Jonah J. Goldstein dismissed 16 pickets in the West Side Court. The men were arrested for creating disorder, but this could not be substantiated. Theatres being picketed are the Liberty and Times Square.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

CAMPI meets today here in New York. Big and important on its scheduled program is the troublesome issue of a voluntary code for this business with the odds already stacked against any action looking toward recommendations for its adoption. Thus, there crystalizes a curious situation. Much substantial and clear-thinking opinion is for a code, voluntarily conceived and operated. But the case of having their cake with no desire to eat it is neatly blocked by advice of counsel. The lawyers are afraid. . . .

They are afraid because of the anti-trust laws which they view as too great a problem to hurdle. It is their analysis that formulation and functioning of a voluntary code will make its signatories themselves responsible in the event conspiracy suits are launched. These suits are anticipated. One authority who knows the ins and outs of this industry and much about the brain processes which are part of it refuses to waiver in his prediction that a deluge of legal actions is about to descend upon the heads of major producers and distributors, with or without code. This being at all true, the reluctance on the part of lawyers to recommend a move along lines of voluntary codification, carrying with it the perils they foresee, becomes understandable and at once regrettable. . . .

The day when no control except through legalistic redress prevailed would mark a deplorable return to archaic methods. Voluntary arbitration may furnish the answer; many there are who believe so. Perhaps the Film Board system, in its old, or in revised form, may turn the trick; Charlie Pettijohn is sure of it, which we are not. Sentiment in the field is decidedly mixed, some viewpoints arguing strongly for a voluntary method of solving difficulties, others preferring the wide open era of some years back when might, which is buying power in this industry, ruled dictatorially and ruthlessly from its throne on high. Those who subscribe to the latter theory, it might be remarked, are remiss in their newspaper reading. Apparently they have not yet learned from developments in Washington that they can no longer grind objects of their disfavor into dust without paying for that privilege. Iron are among the heels which are losing their popularity. . . .

QUOTATION marks of interest, the words coming from the lips of John E. Otterson, Paramount's new president:

> "And no move (referring to production) is to be made without Mr. Zukor's approval, for we want the benefit of his long experience and sound judgment."

Certainly this clearly implies who is to be Paramount's general production overseer.

On the kind of an administration which will be his, Otterson, in a message to the company's sales force:

> "I am proud of my Paramount association. I am retaining no connection whatsoever with the telephone industry and I come here a Paramount man, free of mind and committed to no previous understandings. I am free to judge every situation on its merits, unprejudiced for or against any individual and bound by no political policies. I expect to make no hasty decisions about anything. I shall just try to do my job, fairly judging every man and every department on their merits. I am a believer in what is known as executive management. By that I mean the placing of a man in a position of responsibility and expecting him to handle it alone, without interference, to the best of his ability. I want to feel that every man in the organization is my associate rather than my subordinate."

The swing—and one that bespeaks better things to come in the industry—which was skyrocketed into full bloom by Grace Moore in "One Night of Love," now embraces practically all major companies. The Lily Pons deal with Radio, for instance, merely starts with "Love Song" and runs for two years beyond at the rate of one picture a year. Paramount has Gladys Swarthout, Helen Jepson and Jan Kiepura; 20th Century, Lawrence Tibbett; Fox, Nino Martini and Titto Ruffo; M-G-M, Nelson Eddy and Miss Moore (for one); Warners, Marion Talley. Revived every now and then is the report Maria Jeritza has been signed. If she has, the producer is still hiding behind the news. . . .

Missouri, Kansas Portables Gaining

KANSAS CITY, June 23.—A number of portable circuits, sometimes designated "road" shows, are being operated in the small Kansas and Western Missouri towns, and are on the increase. Practically all of them operate one night stands, and specialize in free merchants' shows.

Some film men feel the portable operators are obstacles to the permanent opening of dark towns; others that they are only occupying the picture until business justifies permanent openings. Some towns probably would not otherwise ever have shows. When business justifies, some of the portable operators probably will become exhibitors.

Among those who have purchased portables recently are Irene Arndt, who will operate in Netawaka, Goff and two or three other Kansas towns, and Raymond F. Lett and Kyle T. Graham, who will operate at the CCC Camp at Excelsior Springs, Mo., and at Liberty, Kearney and two or three other Western Missouri towns.

One exchange here, Consolidated Film Distributors, is serving more than 11 of these circuits. Among them are Lee S. Allen, Browning, Mo., who roadshows Chula, Green City, Meadville, Osgood, Lavonia, and Purdin in Northern Missouri.

Carl Bohanon handles Perry, Lyndon, Hoyt, and Emmett, Kans., from Topeka.

From Newton, Kans., Farris Oxford serves a group of six Kansas towns, and from Wichita supplies another group of five.

H. A. Parker serves six from Clarkdale, Mo., and six from Gower, Mo. H. L. Butterfield handles six in Missouri from Osborn. Beginning at Drexel, Mo., Floyd Hill has six. S. A. Myers has five towns he serves from Rockville, Mo. Bob Egender serves five from Kearney, Mo. Glen Vessey, at Clayton, Kans., serves six.

Wisconsin Theatres Gain; Jobs Increase

MILWAUKEE, June 23.—There's good news for local exhibitors in the report of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission, which declares that the number of employed workers here has reached the highest level in years and the relief load is becoming lighter.

According to the commission's reports, April employment in manufacturing industries in Milwaukee was 93.1 per cent of normal, figured on a 1925-'27 base of 100. This compared with an index position of 97 in the corresponding month of 1929.

The commission's figures show that 465 of Milwaukee's manufacturing plants increased their employment from January, 1934, to the end of March, 1935, by 9,684 persons. A preliminary report indicates a greater increase for April, with 397 of the reporting plants showing a rise of 345 in the number employed during that month.

The improvement is further reflected in construction of two new theatres, the first in several years, as well as remodeling and renovation to a number of neighborhood houses. Of the new houses, both neighborhood theatres, the Time is slated for early opening, while the Sherman is expected to be ready some time in September.

Throttle Pushing

by H.E.N.

DETROIT—Well, I have been out of circulation for the past few weeks due to a very momentous occasion, namely, the building and equipping of a field office car trailer for Quigley Publications. We are indebted to the builders of the "Roll-A-Home" coaches for their many suggestions, along with R. J. Mork, manager of the Twin City Scenic Co. branch here; George McArthur of the McArthur Theatre Supply Co.; Herman H. Hunt, manager of National Theatre Supply Co., and George Schutz and Ray Gallo of Better Theatres. We won't go into lengthy details about the trailer now, but if you see something which looks like the M-G-M "Leo, the Lion" ballyhoo, pull up in front of your marquee some night, you will know it's I.

Sam Ackerman, who favors spot booking and doesn't pull his punches in talking about same, told us he will remodel his Eastside this summer. New marquee with all the modern trimmings. Al, Sam's son, is still doing the heavy work around his dad's theatre, and Teddy, Sam's dog, has gone in training so that when his boss goes to Florida next winter he can lick that Chattanooga hound that pretty nearly ruined a perfect vacation for Teddy last winter.

George McArthur, president of the McArthur Theatre Supply Co., is busy these days teaching his new daughter, Cherie, the fundamentals of the theatrical business. This little lady, who is now eight weeks old, comes down twice a week, in the last word in perambulators, accompanied by her charming mother. Mac has been passing around some real good cigars. Business is very good.

Harold C. Robinson, owner of the Film Truck Service, is down at his office early each morning, in the Film Building, as he is now holding down two jobs. Besides being the head of a large film trucking service, Harold is under-sheriff for the second largest county in the country—namely, Wayne. William Pasanen is managing the office of the truck service under Robinson's direction. Lee Paris of Hopkinsville, Ky., continues as secretary. Herb Fowser and Herb Rumler, former Detroit exhibitors, are also working in the sheriff's office.

Charley Komer, directing genius of the Royal Oak, Whittier, the Redford and Colony, told us about a new air conditioning plant installed in the Royal Oak. They are using an artesian well drilled adjacent to the theatre, which gives water at a temperature of 52 when circulated through the theatre. A great many theatres, here in Detroit, are putting in this system. Irving Goldberg is managing the Royal Oak; Harry Komer, the Whittier; Adolph Goldberg at the Redford and Dave Wilson has the Colony.

Tom Moule, a big leaguer in Detroit's exhibitor circles, is now operating one of his own. Tom has taken over the Plaza and has remodeled it. The front has been redecorated with Burriss chrome metal frames and looks like a million dollars. Business is good and getting better.

Herman H. Hunt, local manager of the National Theatre Supply Co. and formerly in the supply business at St. Louis, Memphis, New Orleans and Atlanta, has returned from the Methodist Hospital at Indianapolis, where a plaster cast, which he has been carrying around with him for the past 20 weeks, was removed. Herman says his arm will be as good as new again after he learns to use it. It was an auto accident. Fred Boyd, Arkansas traveler, is handling city sales with Monroe Carmichael doing the state work. Clarence Williamson, assistant manager, and W. P. Dawson are handling service.

Ernie Forbes has started up a new supply and equipment exchange, called Theatre Equipment Co., and has recently installed complete equipment in the Norglow, Detroit. This supply company are distributors for the Teco blower for smaller theatres in the medium price range.

Max Krim is busy playing polo at Beverly Hills and Pacific Palisades in California, and is stopping, while there, at the Riviera Country Club, meeting the stars in person, as it were. Roy Campbell is managing the Park; Max Krim, the Laskey; Morris Stramer, the Granada; Earl Krum, the Kramer; Ben Washnancy, the Sun, and Joe Kessler, the Buchanan.

More Mailbag

Editor, MOTION PICTURE DAILY:

Having just read the vicious, purely personal, attack on me, by Ali Baba in your "personally pure" column, I come to the conclusion that this gagger must be the "Ali Baba with the Forty Wives," (please don't change the subject)—I know, I mean Ali Baba with his Forty Thieves.

Ali can't be an exhibitor, because exhibitors stick apart and hang together, whether on the fringe of Hollywood or on the rim of a volcano.

Sure I carp. We exhibitors got what we got, by carping. Look at Lightman, Steffes, Kuykendall and Skouras! Carpers all, but not a piker among 'em.

We exhibitors rose to our present pinochle despite Ali Babas. Sure, it "toochus" a long time. We had "tzooras" with Skouras.

I'm trying to pigeon-hole Ali. He don't talk like an exhibitor—so he must be a sales manager, whose press agent, thinks up the place-cards for him, I think. Maybe Ali's a booker—so why does he need forty Jessie Jimmies to help him.

Maybe Ali's just a lousy basketball player.

On third thought, Ali must be a Nazi. Why else should he sign himself "Yours for the sweet and gentile."

For my part, I'm happy you print his cryptic cracks. Even your paper should have pathos.

Sure, run his ga-ga. Be as fair and square as you can. As fair as a "Red" Kann can—to him.

Remember Ali started this Winchell-Bernie hazenfeffer. Let him keep it up. Today, I only own one theatre—but after Ali gets through with me, I'll have a circuit.

My deepest wish is that Ali, with all his Babas, should be my competition. My face would be my fortune, out of the red.

So please give Ali Bey, some primary facts about life. And I ask you, is my space read in Abbysinnia or Gagylvannia?

Yours for more sallies from all kinds of alleys,

(Signed MOX SHABBUS, (who promises Ga-ga a job as "stand in" for Drekula anytime, or shall I send him a hand-painted "teppeleh.") to have been little less than a subpoena and indicated that the Government would not hesitate to resort to formal action if necessary.

The department is understood to be interested in the film situation in a number of exchange territories, and it is reported that the studies now being made may later lead to the filing of cases similar to that brought several months ago in St. Louis.

Last Tuesday John C. Flinn denied Washington had asked him for the Texas records. He could not be reached Saturday.

Myers Advises Lime Men to Adopt Code

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 23.—The adoption of a voluntary industry code under the President's new recovery legislation to preserve the advantages gained under the NRA code was urged upon members of the lime industry by Abram F. Myers, counsel to the National Lime Ass'n and general counsel of Allied States Exhibitors' Ass'n. Myers is one of two attorneys named by the lime industry trade board to draft its voluntary code.

Pointing out the temporary nature of the Administration's new recovery legislation and emphasizing the need for immediate action, Myers said:

"You must carry on now or all the benefits you have gained will be lost. The government is no longer a wet nurse. You are on your own from now on. You are on trial. You must demonstrate that you have the character to curb your own cupidity to the extent necessary to make a success of this undertaking (a voluntary industry code). You must cease calling for the 'cops' and police your own industry. If you again call on the government it will move in and stay, and you will have something very much worse than you have ever had in the past."

Myers and Allied States are advocates of the Pettengill bill which would move the government in on the film industry. They were also among the leading opponents of the film code.

PARAMOUNT IN STORIES

It is a well-known fact that Paramount possesses the largest library of motion picture properties of any company in the industry. Some of these great properties from which Paramount will produce pictures during the coming year are as follows:

"ANYTHING GOES"—The No. 1 musical comedy of the year. 260 performances to date and still S.R.O. Cole Porter's score, with such songs as "You're the Top" and "I Get A Kick Out of You", is the sensation of the nation.

"SO RED THE ROSE"—The No. 1 best-selling novel of 1934. Over 100,000 copies sold to date. Over 1,000,000 readers. Publicized by newspapers, magazines, and word-of-mouth to additional millions.

"NATIONAL VELVET"—The No. 1 best-selling novel of 1935. The "Book of the Month" for May with advance sale of 50,000. Every company in the business tried to buy this great story of the famous Grand National Race.

"CARMEN"—The No. 1 opera. For many years the most popular operatic attraction on the boards. Bizet's flaming and tempestuous "Carmen" should make a musical entertainment of gigantic box-office proportions.

VICTOR HERBERT OPERETTAS—The No. 1 operettas. Paramount, in possessing these great properties, owns romances that all the world wants to see—music that all the world loves.

"ROSE OF THE RANCHO"—The No. 1 David Belasco stage hit. So many requests have been made to turn this famous Belasco stage hit into a motion picture that Paramount now produces it as the first "big outdoor musical."

"PETER IBBETSON"—The No. 1 classic. Read by millions as Du Maurier's novel. Seen by millions as the celebrated stage play. Heard by thousands more as Deems Taylor's magnificent opera. This is sure to be a big hit.

"THE LIGHT THAT FAILED"—Rudyard Kipling's No. 1 writing achievement in pathos. A novel of world-wide fame—a dramatic love story of universal heart appeal. A No. 1 property from which to make a No. 1 picture.

"THE CRUSADES"—The No. 1 historical romance . . . from Harold Lamb's famous books . . . the magnificent adventures of Richard, the Lion-Hearted . . . set against the spectacular background of the world's first great war.

"CASE vs. MRS. AMES"—The No. 1 magazine story of 1934. The 5,000,000 people who read this story in Collier's last year found it so exciting they could scarcely wait a week for the next installment.

ZANE GREY NOVELS—The No. 1 Western fiction of all time. These popular novels are the favorite stories of millions the world over. For years they have made the best "Westerns."

"HOPALONG CASSIDY"—The No. 2 Western fiction. Clarence Mulford's famous and exciting novels have sold in excess of 3,000,000 and have delighted more than 20,000,000 readers.

Curley Hits College For War Film Stand

BOSTON, June 23.—Charging the viewing of a film depicting war-like maneuvers had been banned by college authorities, Gov. James M. Curley has criticized Williams College officials for an alleged pacifist attitude. Recently Calvin King, manager of the Walden, Williamstown, Mass., which depends on student patronage, was threatened by Williams students with a boycott if he continued to show a "March of Time" issue containing Army Day scenes. King removed the scenes.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Going Highbrow"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.—A pleasing comedy melodrama featuring Guy Kibbee and ZaSu Pitts as the society-struck Kansans who come into a fortune when their broker sells mining stock instead of buying some as ordered by Kibbee.

The nouveau riche go abroad and buy some paintings which nets them publicity on their return. Kibbee is not strong for the idea of breaking into the "400," but his kittenish wife persuades him to change his mind.

Edward Everett Horton, a promoter, becomes the manager of the Kansas farmers. Kibbee arranges with June Martel, a former vaudevillian and now a waitress, to pose as his daughter so that they can stage a party for her debut in society. She falls in love with Ross Alexander, Horton's partner, but just as the match is nearing its climax the girl's husband shows up after three years and almost crimps the affair. Horton is about to compromise Gordon Westcott into taking $10,000 for a divorce when he discovers the villain has another wife. That clinches the deal for the lovers. The performances generallly are good.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 66 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Thirty-Nine Steps"

(Gaumont British)

LONDON, June 14.—This has the speed, suspense and imagination in detail characteristic of a director with an American sense of box-office values and the humorous values, emphasized, nicely balance the melodrama.

It's a spy story, opening with a mysterious girl seeking the protection, during a riot in a music hall, of a young Canadian. She tells him she is in danger of her life from a gang trying to get details of a new aeroplane engine, a secret of the British Government. Later, staggering wounded into his room, she dies before she can do more than show him a map of Scotland, with a small village marked.

Hannay makes for Scotland, but the police are after him for murder and board the train. He pretends to make love to Pamela, a girl travelling along, but she denounces him. He gets out of the moving train and swarms down a bridge and reaches the Highlands only to encounter Professor Jordan, the chief of the enemy gang. Follow a series of rapid escapes, police pursuits and finally Hannay's capture after he is recognized by Pamela and handed over to "detectives" who are really members of the gang.

Realizing Pamela to be a danger, they handcuff her to Hannay. In a mountain mist the couple make a getaway and, still manacled, spend the night together in a country hotel. This situation is handled with tact and a sense of fun. In the morning the girl, who has wriggled out of her handcuff, learns Hannay is not a murderer. Allies, they make a dash for London, where with the London Palladium as background, comes the exposure of the gang's plans, which have been to teach "Mr. Memory," a stage act of the "human encyclopaedia" variety the formula of the British invention so that it can be taken out of England without being committed to paper. Hannay tricks the performer into reciting it from the stage; the "professor," from a box, shoots his accomplice but is captured.

The selling angles are Robert Donat's debonair performance, the speed of the pursuit scenes, the attractiveness of Scottish backgrounds and the effective climax. Madaleine Carroll's role is definitely secondary but she plays the comedy, especially, excellently. Comparatively small parts are played by such good players as Godfrey Tearle, Helen Haye, Frank Cellier, Peggy Ashcroft and John Laurie.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Amateur Night"

(Educational-Terry-Toons-Fox)

Frank Moser and Paul Terry have turned out an amusing animation with the various animals of the farm giving interpretations of Ed Wynn, Rudy Vallee, Stepin Fetchit and the Quintuplets. The music is inviting. All together, it's a swell number. Production Code Seal 0505. Running time, 6 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction"

(Universal)

No. 10 of the series. An American town run by women, a girl shoemaker, a wishing well, a fellow who captures alligators bare-handed, a woman who operates a tugboat, these and a number of other realities that run counter to the usual order of things are pictured here. Highly worthwhile. No production code seal. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Time Out"

(Educational-Fox)

Routine Tom Howard and George Shelton stuff and in all probability will get by with radio followers of the two. Most of the time is spent by Howard and Shelton dealing out a deck full of gags which don't seem to click. The two principals are on a cruise and both try to make Marie Alvarez, the captain's wife, who has a habit of walking in her sleep at the sound of a bell. It's no go.

The idea is ragged with age and as for the gags, the creaky cedar chest has been pilfered again. Production Code Seal 0445. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Mary's Little Lamb"

(Celebrity)

Here is a modernized version of the nursery rhyme, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," done in color and in an entertaining and interesting manner. It should do well anywhere.

The old rhyme has been changed but little in the story here. The lamb follows Mary to school and when the children start reciting, singing and dancing it joins in, much to the consternation of the teacher. Its antics should produce many laughs.

Highly recommended. Production Code Seal No. 803. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

'The Chinese Nightingale'

(Harmon-Ising-M-G-M)

"The Chinese Nightingale," Harmon-Ising color cartoon, tells the familiar tale of the Chinese emperor who turned his attention to the canned song of a mechanical bird, breaking the heart of the nightingale who returned when the toy bird was broken to soothe the sick monarch with its faithful song.

Technically, this short is superb, but it falls a little short of the former brilliant Harmon-Ising offerings, due to the fact that most cartoons have greatest appeal when creatures of pure fantasy are used rather than drawings of human beings. It suffers only by comparison with other films of this unit, and deserves special billing.

Cincinnati Keith Cuts

CINCINNATI, June 23.—Keith's has shaved five cents from the matinee price, which now is 30 cents.

British KRS Keeping Tabs Upon Booking

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, June 14.—The Kinematograph Renters' Society will in future, in the case of any change in the booking arrangements of any theatre, make detailed enquiries to ascertain whether the new proprietor books for any other theatres. Full details of the exact nature of the investment made by a new theatre proprietor may also be demanded.

The step is seen as a further move in the society's campaign against "booking circuits," in which so big a success was recently scored at the expense of G.B.

A scrutiny of all existing booking arrangements is a possible further step. "Booking managements" which were accepted before the G.B. row may now come under ban, it is thought.

Leeds exhibitors have instructed their representative on the General Purposes Committee of the C.E.A. to vote for the complete abolition of the clause in the Films Act imposing a 20 per cent exhibition quota. The quality of many British films registered under the act is such, it was declared, that theatres will have to show 20 per cent of British films with only 10 per cent of usable material. The committee is considering the whole situation with a view to representations to the government. It is believed they will blame quickie production by American companies for the exhibitors' troubles and recommend to the General Council agitation for the imposition of a quality test. * * *

C.E.A. General Council will discuss the effects of the new carbon duties at its next meeting, at which it will have before it a suggestion that the exhibitors' association cooperate with importers in a campaign for revision. Recent legislation raised the original 33 1/3 per cent duties to a prohibitive figure, but there was an undertaking that British manufacturers would not increase prices.

In the meantime, the secretary of the C.E.A. has issued an official warning to members not to sign a petition form, circulated by a firm of carbon importers, in which the phrase occurs: "We are still compelled to use an inferior carbon." Legal action by British carbon makers against signatories is threatened.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 23. — "Our papers, instead of wanting less, want more from Hollywood, even though some of it is acknowledged hokum," commented PAUL MILLER, news editor of the Associated Press to 40 members of Variety Club.

"For that reason we have to maintain a large bureau at Los Angeles. Three men and one woman on styles devote their entire time to covering Hollywood. Their activities are coordinated with persons in New York who cover films from that end. We now have to have a regular daily feature from Hollywood with a weekly review."

Asked to tell the difference between publicity and news, MILLER commented that "even if what comes out of Hollywood is hokum it still is good because people want to read it."

Mexico Has 19 Film Producers on Lists

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—Mexico producers numbered 19 companies on June 1, all in the Federal District. Only one of these has American backing. This company is partially backed by local American residents. It is the Cia. Impulsadora de Peliculas, S. A., the president of which is Paul H. Bush, an automobile dealer.

These companies have two regularly equipped studios to serve them. Most of the pictures made in this country by Mexican interests are handled at the National M. P. Production Co. studios. A smaller studio is operated by George Stahl.

Virginia Fees Up; Censor Cuts Down

RICHMOND, June 23.—State censorship revenues show a substantial gain this year, according to Edward S. Reid, director. The total of films has increased, he says, and at the same time the quality has improved, so that fewer cuts have been necessary.

Receipts are expected to exceed $15,000. In the past they have ranged from $10,000 to $12,000.

Within the past six months three films have been rejected in toto. One was a feature and two were shorts. There were 112 deletions in 57 films, about half the total for the previous year.

Incorporators are Roy R. Bair, A. C. Zaring, Harry Markus, Frank Sanders and Metzger.

Opinions Vary In Frisco on Code Prospect

Some Oppose a Voluntary Pact as Valueless

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Exhibitors here are split over the issue of establishing a voluntary code for the industry.

While spokesman for the major exhibitors favor establishment of such a code, representatives of independents appear to be either on the fence or else in favor of abolishing all codes, voluntary or compulsory. Still others among the independents feel that a voluntary code is possible if some method is adopted which would prevent reversion to litigation. Court suits frequently followed decisions under the NRA code.

Typically representative of this attitude is the following telegram sent by

Australia's Quota Stirs British Move

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, June 12.—The Film Producers Group of the Federation of British Industries is taking emergency action regarding the New South Wales Quota Act, the full terms of which became available by the last mail.

In a circular letter to its film members the F. B. I. draws attention to the grave danger arising from the fact that, while Australian films rank as British for quota purposes in U. K., British films in Australia are classified on the same basis as American and other imported subjects, and need Australian made films as cover.

The danger in this situation for the British industry is that American producers might make cheap films in Ausunder an operating deal and four others, the Uptown, Yorktown, Midtown and Costello to RKO under a long term arrangement. The Costello, incidentally, was named after Maurice Costello of silent film fame.

Interested in producing, Ochs was one of the pioneer producers at Fort Lee. He also made "Road to London" in London. In addition to this he acted as business manager for Theda Bara and Bryant Washburn in their heyday. For two years he was president of M.P. Exhibitors' League of the City of New York and later served two terms as head of National Exhibitors' League of America. He fought exhibitor combines for years.

Builder of the Piccadilly, Ochs operated the Broadway house for a number of years and then sold it to Warners. The house is now known as the Warner and marked the inception of the Warner circuit. He was one of the founders of the M. P. Club and retained his membership at the time of his death. He was also a 32nd degree Mason and an Elk.

Ochs recently lost 40 pounds as a result of dieting and was feeling well until the time of the Film Daily golf tournament at the Purchase Country Club. After a hearty breakfast, he started on the morning round and collapsed shortly after. He refused to be taken to a hospital. The following day, Ochs was ordered to York Hospital for an appendicitis operation. He progressed satisfactorily until Tuesday when he began to sink and his family was called to the bedside.

Pallbearers will include Nathan Burkan, Irving Chidnoff, Sam E. Morris, William Jacobs, Laurence Bolognino, Tom Wiley, William and Harry Brandt, Joe Brandt, Sam Stern, Emil Jensen, Arnold Van Leer, Ed Davidow and several of his close friends.

Opinions Vary In Frisco on Code Prospect

four San Francisco independents to John C. Flinn, executive secretary of Campi:

"We believe opportunity exists to set up tribunals in exchange centers through cooperation of distributors and exhibitors for purpose of settling controversies within the industry, if such tribunals, by mutual consent with distributors and exhibitors, are cloaked with sufficient authority and local autonomy. The process of self-regulation should continue to be advanced by some method to avoid reverting to the old methods of lawsuits and vicious practices."

The telegram was signed by Morgan A. Walsh, Aaron Goldberg, H. V. Harvey and George Nasser.

While A. M. Bowles, head of F. W. C. in this region, was unavailable for a statement, it is known that this group has retained code of wages and hours.

Cliff Work, in charge of the RKO interests and manager of the Golden Gate, says: "We have received instructions from our New York office to adhere to regulations governing hours, wages and other working contions which existed under the code. I am in favor of a voluntary code, but will be guided of course by instructions from our home office."

Herman Cohen, manager of the United Artists Theatre, takes this position:

Must Control "Chiselers"

"I believe a voluntary code is possible if there is established some way to control the 10 per cent of chiselers. Ninety per cent of exhibitors and distributors are willing to co-operate. Our problem is to take care of that minority. This is the problem on which we should concentrate."

Robert A. McNeil, head of Golden Gate State Theatres, is on the fence. He says:

"I haven't arrived at a decision yet. Whether a voluntary code is possible or practicable requires a lot of consideration. In the meantime we are maintaining the conditions pertaining to hours and minimum compensation as provided by the NRA code."

Hal Neides, manager of the Orpheum, and in charge of the F.-M. interests, comes out flatfootedly for a voluntary code. Says Neides:

"The code was highly laudable, as it sought to maintain fair trade practices. I believe we should maintain substantially the same code through a system of self-regulation. When we announced on our screen that we would maintain NRA minimum wages and hours and that we would continue to subscribe to NRA principles, despite the absence of code, the announcement evoked terrific applause. This has convinced us that the general public is back of the principle of a voluntary NRA code."

Henry Goldenberg, manager of the Fox, said:

"Yes, I am in favor of a code voluntarily maintained by the industry provided that such a code will truly represent the interests of the independent exhibitor as well as the big butter-and-egg men of the industry."

James Nasser of Nasser Brothers said he was in favor of code regulation of the industry as a principle.

Sam Levin, who operates the Coliseum and Alexandria, neighborhood houses, cannot foresee at this time whether a code, voluntary or compulsory, is at all practical. "I am inclined to the belief that a code for the industry which is workable, fair and equitable to every faction is impractical," Levin said. "It was difficult enough to get a small element to adhere to a compulsory code, backed by Federal sponsorship. How much more difficult will it be to obtain voluntary adhesion to such a code. Those who elect to engage in unfair trade practices are seldom deterred by codes or agreements. This is a problem, however, which requires a great deal of study and a courageous facing of facts."

Several exhibitors interviewed by MOTION PICTURE DAILY came out unequivocally against any kind of a code, but requested that their names be withheld from publication. Others who took the opposite viewpoint also declined to be quoted.

cation for the appointment of a receiver for Pathe was denied on the ground that no cause for such an appointment had been shown by the plaintiff. The court ruled, however, that Casey might ask for a preference on the trial calendar for his mismanagement charges. Martin E. King, counsel for Casey, said this action would not be taken until fall. If the motion for a preference is denied, it may require another year before the case is reached for trial.

Casey's application for a receiver for Pathe was withdrawn early this week, but the court, apparently, ignored the withdrawal in making its ruling yesterday that no cause for the appointment of a receiver had been shown.

RKO Trustees Fight Rockefeller Claims

Master Thomas D. Thacher, will be contested by the RKO trustee, it was learned yesterday.

The claim was based on construction costs of the two Radio City theatres which, according to the leases made with RKO, were to be liquidated in the event of a permanent receiver being appointed for RKO. Thacher's report recommends the allowance of the claim at $9,600,000, less two months' rent paid on the theatres by RKO and withdrawals by Rockefeller Center from a special fund set up to provide for deficiencies in rents on the theatres. Rockefeller Center retains ownership of the houses even after the adjudication of the claim.

Decision to contest the allowance of the claim in the amount recommended by Thacher was made recently by Irving Trust Co., trustee in reorganization for RKO, and arguing briefs are now being prepared by Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard, counsel for the trustee. It is believed likely that other claims recommended for allowance by Thacher will also be contested by the trustee.

RKO Shifts Theatre Setup in Columbus

With acquisition of the Grand, Columbus, from Duesenberg Bros., RKO is shuffling its first and second run houses in that city. The Grand is being modernized and will be ready for opening Labor Day. Formerly a second run, the new policy under RKO operation will be first run. The Majestic, now a first run, will become a second run, while the Palace will be continued on its present policy of first showings.

John O'Connor, buyer for RKO, and Max Fellerman, booker, returned yesterday from Columbus after looking over the local situation.

The coast meeting will elect directors and at the subsequent meeting of the directors Lichtman will be formally elected president and his contract will be ratified, it was said.

studio executives at the parleys, of their requirements with particular emphasis placed on the dialogue equation, stressed their need for stories with a more pronounced international flavor and cheered on the convention floor when they were assured the 1935-36 Radio program would stress action.

In England, the British subsidiary will release the domestic 48 plus 15 English-made features under the Films Act which is now in its 20 per cent, or highest, bracket. The product will come from four units, Stafford Prod., Embassy Prod., G.S. Enterprises, headed by A. George Smith, and Joseph Ermolieff, Russian with a German production record behind him. Hollywood talent will be used for these attractions to bring within easier reach the objective which will dominate the British enterprise: 50 per cent of the planned 15 for American distribution.

E. D. Leishman, chairman of Radio Pictures, Ltd., and managing director of Radio Pictures International, stated the negative cost of each will run between £30,000 and £40,000. Interesting was a plan he evolved to ascertain the reaction of the British exhibitor as to types. A questionnaire forwarded to all English theatre operators brought these results in this order:

1.—Musicals.
2.—Comedy-dramas.
3.—Dramas.
4.—Shockers.

The British program, therefore, will be governed accordingly.

Hanbury Is Satisfied

Ralph Hanbury, general sales manager in England, expressed his satisfaction over conferences with studio officials in Chicago and declared the production department is now conscious of the scope of the international market.

Of conditions in England, he stated theatre business had sloughed in April, but had regained its stride in May. The theatre spree which currently characterizes the English industry to him represents an ultimate danger in overbuilding and, therefore, in overseating. Excess and unused funds in the treasuries of insurance companies and building societies are the principal sources of new financing today, he added.

Harry W. Leasim, general sales manager of Radio Pictures International, Ltd., and managing director of Radio Pictures, S. A., of France, finds the greatest obstacle to the normal progress of American distribution abroad is the successful effort of many European governments to halt the flight of capital from their respective countries. "After the sale is made, the job then begins of getting the funds out of the given country into headquarters," he said. "This, of course, is a worry which all companies are experiencing."

Asked about the status of native producing industries and whether or not the growth of national production is not further hampering American sales on the Continent, Leasim gave it as his opinion the quality of the film determined the issue. Recognizing that to hear talkers in their own language was a natural reaction of Continental publics, he expressed himself as seeing any gain from reasons of nationalistic pride as one which is giving away to the greater appeal of American stars and the technical excellence of Hollywood manufacture.

European production is gaining, he added. Czechoslovakia will make from 30 to 40 this year; Austria, Hungary and Poland will each contribute to the total in their native tongue, although Leasim was not prepared to chalk up a definite number from these three sources; Sweden, he marked down for a total identical with Czecho's and credited French studios with an anticipated 100 to 120 for 1935.

Similar to the divisional managerial system which prevails in the American selling scheme, Leasim has a staff of three. Michael Havas handles Germany, Austria, Hungary, Czecho, Poland and Jugoslavia. Carl Wallman represents Radio International in Scandinavia and the Border States; Joseph Biondo, with headquarters in Rome, looks after Italy and the Balkans. Michael Gerassy is Leasim's assistant in Paris.

Joost Smit, director of N. V. Remaco's Filmbedryf, Radio's distributor in Holland and in the Dutch East Indies, stated there are 200 theatres in Holland, all of them wired. The Dutch East Indies have 400, practically all of them wired. Business in Holland is not too good, he added, giving as his reason a too low scale in theatre admissions. The average is one guilder, which currently is 60 cents, American. Smit believes an immediate increase of 25 per cent is necessary and a step which Dutch exhibitors can absorb without difficulty.

Plans 12 Dutch Features

"Loet Barnstyn plans 12 features in Dutch. Twenty to 24 loom from all sources very shortly now," he remarked. "I see no curtailment facing American product because of the growth of the home industry because Hollywood product definitely has the edge in point of facilities and production excellence."

American exhibitors may be interested in learning that the theatremen and distributors in Holland are banded tightly together in the Netherlandsche Bioscoop Bond, a trade association which has a pleasant habit of cutting of film service on a Tuesday if films played as recently as a previous Friday are not paid for. Smit thinks it is a good idea from both the angle of the exhibitor and the distributor.

At the same time, he said he appreciated the fact that talkers in Dutch, at the outset at least, will have a marked appeal to Hollanders. Therefore, two of the features to be made for Radio in England also will be made in Dutch. Smit, aside from his film association with Radio, operates what is reputed to be the largest advertising agency in Holland, with a companion company in India.

Max Bosman is the Radio agent handling Belgium, Luxembourg and Belgian colonies. He makes his headquarters in Brussels and is also interested in the widely known Roxy theatre in Amsterdam, which is operated by A. Tuschinsky. "If pictures had less dialogue, the need for superimposed titles would correspondingly decrease. We have to use Flemish and French titles now. In many instances they fill enough of the screen to reach into the faces of the players. Obviously, such a state of affairs can hardly be described as satisfactory," he said.

Like Smit, Bosman thinks Belgian admission scales are geared too low. Ranging from one to seven Belgian francs in average, he believes the range should start at five and end at 15. Of the 1,000 theatres in Belgium, Bosman computed 600 are wired. Pierre Le Long, whose company handles Radio in France, favors the dramatic picture, although, like the other of Radio's foreign contingent, has had pronounced success with outstanding musicals. They, however, are best with a Continental background, in his opinion. He plans two French originals this year, will "dub" eight of Radio's 48 and confine his activities on the others to the French regulations which limit American talkers in their original versions to 15 theatres. Five are in Paris and the others in the provinces. "Dubbed" versions, on the other hand, are submitted to no restrictions and may play in as many houses as can be sold. The "dubbing," however, has to be done on French soil. Of his country's 2,700 houses, Le Long estimates 2,000 are equipped for sound.

Favors Sophisticated Films

Wallman, Radio's sales overseer in Scandinavia and the Border States, is for the sophisticated type of picture, provided dialogue is reduced to its minimum. In Sweden, as elsewhere, 40 features will be made this year as against an average of 10 three years ago. Censor regulations are severe, he reports, it being impossible to show a gun firing a shot, the shot itself or bodies falling as a result of the shot. A custom levy of $2.50 per reel levied on all prints, to his mind, is the most severe of any country in the world.

Eighty-six of Sweden's 600 houses are in Stockholm, Wallman added. Norway has 300, all owned and operated by the government with a national board sitting in final judgment on what may or may not be imported into that country. Superimposed titles prevail generally. In the instance of Sweden, he declared, "dubbing" failed because the public refused to go for it.

"Lives of a Bengal Lancer" was a big draw in Roumania, Nikolas Cazazis of Arta Films, stated. He is for musicals, and drama provided they have paucity of dialogue. Two hundred and fifty houses of Roumania's 400 are wired at this time.

The foreign contingent will remain in New York for about another week, most of them sailing for their respective cities on the Majestic June 29. Leishman and Leasim may stay over for a couple of additional weeks.

Acquit "U" Cameraman

HAVANA, June 21.—Abelardo Domingo Rios, Universal Newsreel cameraman, has been acquitted on a charge of espionage by an urgency court. He was arrested after the showing of films depicting the execution of a Cuban by a firing squad on May 8. His acquittal followed proof that he had permission to make the picture from military authorities.

Domingo was arrested May 24 along with George Naylor, American in charge of the local office. Naylor was released 60 hours later.

The NVA sanitarium at Saranac Lake, long a haven for tubercular members of show business, faces extinction unless a deficit ranging, in estimate, from $90,000 to $140,000 is met.

An appeal directed to the presidents of the major film and theatre companies is expected to be issued shortly, probably on the basis of a loan to be paid off by the NVA over a period of years.

Kansas City, June 24.—Joe E. Brown gave the local reporters an earful on his way east. He admitted sheepishly that he had played in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

"I guess the bard's words have been spoken better," he said, "but never bigger or louder.

"We were a hot troupe of Shakespearians—me from baseball, Cagney from the chorus and Hugh Herbert from the old burlesque. We got together and decided we'd have to follow Herbert's classic traditions. I think Shakespeare would like the way we played it, and I'm sure the Minsky brothers would."

Enforcement Via Voluntary Code Viewed as a Handicap

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—Enforcement, judging from comments of exhibitors here, is the hump over which the voluntary code bill now in Congress cannot get. Lack of enforcement of the lately deceased code is viewed locally as its weak point and is given as the reason they were not particularly sorry to see it killed by exhibitors, most of whom approved the purpose and idea behind it.

Enforcement was the cocklebur under the old Film Boards of Trade and later under the arbitration setup under which exhibitors here operated for

The first exhibitor is for the code, lock, stock and barrel. He says he's always been a believer in the NRA and thinks a code is the best thing for business.

The Atlas Corp., large investment organization, is reliably reported to have abandoned the survey of RKO which it has been making over the past few months with a view to developing a plan of reorganization for the company. The ending of the financial study is assumed to mean that Atlas will not propose an RKO reorganization plan, at least not at this time.

Atlas, which figured prominently in the reorganization of Paramount Publix, did not make a complete survey of RKO's corporate assets, but concentrated primarily on the current financial position of the company in the

No Restrictions in Sight for Cleveland

CLEVELAND, June 24.—With the local single feature agreement expiring July 8, no plan for a uniform policy has been adopted, although substitute plans have been in the making for the past three months. It looks as if exhibitors of the Greater Cleveland area will fail to get together this season.

Unless something definite develops within the next week or so, it appears certain that Cleveland will be wide open with cash nights, duals, premiums and all the other things that were eliminated last year by the ironclad policy prohibiting any of them. Within the past few weeks there has been a general tendency to cut admission prices in the smaller subsequent runs. About twenty houses which previously charged 20c cut to 15c and most of the houses in the Maurice Kaplan circuit cut from 15 to 10c. Distribution of ten and five-cent passes has been recorded since the passing of the code.

Czechoslovaks Move For Loans of Props

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Czechoslovakian producers have been requested by the Ministry of Commerce to cooperate with other branches of Czechoslovak industry by using high-class products wherever possible as film properties in the making of sound pictures in order to advertise Czechoslovak merchandise, reports Commercial Attache Sam E. Woods, in Prague, to the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Under the proposed arrangement, the domestic producers would lend to film companies free of charge furniture, glass fixtures, etc. To date the studios have refrained from purchasing expensive studio properties in order to keep down production costs.

Paris Ponders Over Fate of Big Houses

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, June 24.—There is much speculation among the trade here as to the reason behind the closing of the Empire Cinema-Music Hall and the Moulin Rouge, ace houses of the local Pathe-Natan Circuit. Undoubtedly much of the discussion is fostered by the knowledge that Pathe-Natan is awaiting reorganization.

The Empire Cinema-Music Hall, 3,000-seat house, where pictures and vaudeville were co-featured, has been under Pathe-Natan for the past year, while the Moulin Rouge, 2,200 seats, turned to pictures in 1929 with the waning of Mistinguett's star and was taken over by the circuit a year later.

Every Third Film in Italy Must Be Local

WASHINGTON, June 24.—All Italian theatres must now show at least one domestic for every three foreign pictures under a law passed by the Council of Ministers on May 4, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from C. Matthews, clerk to the commercial attache at Rome. That ratio earlier was applicable only to first and second runs in cities of more than 50,000.

Also changed are rental terms. Italian films may not be rented at a lower figure than those asked for foreign pictures of the same footage and importance. It is no longer permitted to conclude a contract in which both foreign and Italian films are included.

Report Atlas Has Given Up Survey of RKO

light of secured and guaranteed indebtedness, it is understood. The study left RKO's real estate holdings and obligations untouched, as well as other phases of the company's activities, some knowledge of which would be indispensable to the formation of a reorganization plan.

Market activity in RKO securities which continued for several weeks during the survey and which was commonly attributed to Atlas investment activities, subsided recently. Moreover, the disclosure that Atlas had offered Pathe exchange only 17 cents on the dollar for the $1,696,000 of RKO notes held by the latter, and recently permitted the notes to go to Time magazine at 20, has been accepted in financial circles as further evidence of a waning interest in RKO by Atlas.

Additional studies of RKO's current position with a view to developing reorganization plans, which were in progress concurrently with that being made by Atlas, are continuing, however. These include a survey by Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, and Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaeckel & Brown, on behalf of bondholders, and another by the Seligman & Speyer banking firms, both of whom have RKO investments.

Atlas, it is reported, may re-enter the RKO scene at a later date, possibly as a large security holder in connection with any plan that may be proposed from any creditor source.

Fox Met Claims Get Ruling to Aid Vote

W. Mack yesterday in order to permit the claimants to vote on the Joseph M. Schenck-Fox Theatres' plan of reorganization for Fox Met on Thursday.

The claims were tentatively allowed in the amounts in which they were filed and will be contested by the Fox Met trustee before being finally allowed by the court. The largest single claim in this group is that of Fox Theatres for $5,776,577, which is expected to be reduced appreciably prior to its final allowance. Two-thirds of these general creditors' claims must approve the Schenck reorganization plan before it can be declared effective. With Fox Theatres as a proponent of the plan this requirement is regarded as certain to be met.

There are approximately $12,500,000 of gold notes and debentures outstanding, of which two-thirds must also favor the plan. The Fox Met bondholders' committee, representing approximately 89 per cent of these, has declared itself in favor of the plan.

NVA Seeking Loan to Save Its Sanitarium at Saranac

Pennsylvania's 4% Ticket Tax Signed

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The four per cent tax on admissions to theatres and other places of amusement has been signed by Governor Earle. It is effective July 22. The measure, which was signed after the House concurred in minor Senate amendments, is designed to raise $5,500,000 in two years for unemployment relief.

The law also requires exhibitors to take out a permit at the cost of $1 a year. A permit must be renewed every Dec. 31. The law is effective for two years from the date of enactment.

A fine of not less than $100 or more than $300 plus costs, or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both, can be imposed for violation of the law.

Free passes are taxed at the established price of admittance and boxes or seats permanently held by patrons are taxed "on the established price for which a similar box or seat is sold for each performance."

Each theatre must submit on or before the 10th of each month a report under oath or affirmation of the amount of tax collected during the preceding month. A two per cent discount is granted "if the tax is paid on time."

Milwaukee Moving For Municipal NRA

MILWAUKEE, June 24.—Exhibitors are studying the proposed enactment of a municipal NRA. Max Raskin, city attorney, has been directed by the judiciary and federal aid committees of the Common Council to draft an ordinance embodying NRA principles.

Raskin declared that such an ordinance could be framed to require all firms getting licenses from the city to observe minimum wage, maximum hour and other working standards for their employes.

Should cities adopt ordinance of this kind, and states follow up with their own recovery codes, then these combined with the Federal stop-gap NRA would virtually take the place of the original NRA voided by the U. S. Supreme Court, Raskin declared.

Compliance with the local NRA would be made a condition for obtaining any of such licenses under the proposed ordinance, Raskin said. Since theatres are subject to a local license, it is believed they would be included under the proposed ordinance.

Peculiarly enough, the two opening week low grosses are held by one company, British and Dominions Pictures.

At the same time, the Harris-Alvin, which in the past has played films and stage shows, will try duals with "Black Sheep" and "Charlie Chan in Egypt." play in various houses, while the Strand, Standard Theatres' only local house, is slated to open with bank nights on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Incidentally the house has reverted to a first run double feature policy with changes on Saturdays and Wednesdays; admissions 15 cents to 6 P. M. and 25 cents thereafter.

Fox's Riviera, neighborhood house, has gone in for nickel matinees, playing twin features, serial, cartoon and newsreel with a paddle pop thrown in for the kiddies. Reports have it, also, that the pictures shown at these matinees include major company product.

Faced with this setup, it is doubtful whether the Milwaukee county members of the I. E. P. A. will take any action on elimating double features despite the four to one vote favoring single bills recently chalked up in the poll taken by the association in 44 of its houses here. Theatre patrons turned in about 50,000 votes in the poll.

Unity Plea Is Made To Men in Ohio ITO

COLUMBUS, June 24.—A plea for closer cooperation among members, financially and otherwise, is being made by the Ohio I.T.O. to combat impending legislation which would restore the 12 per cent admission tax, which was suspended for one year Jan 1, when the present sales tax went into effect. If the old rate is restored, it will apply to all admissions, without exemptions, the bulletin states. Ten-cent admissions were exempt previously.

An accompanying bulletin calls attention to the fact that box-office stimulators now can be resumed since the recent Supreme Court decision on the NRA, but advises members to adhere to exhibition and avoid "unnatural" stimulation of business.

Virginia Taxation Outlook Brightens

RICHMOND, June 24.—The taxation outlook for theatres is regarded as much brighter as a result of assurances received at the M. P. T. O. convention at Roanoke, according to Morton G. Thalhimer, president.

Assurances were received from Carlisle H. Morrissett, state tax commissioner, that he would oppose any general sales tax. Gov. George C. Peery also is opposed to such a tax and has eliminated from his program a proposal for a 10 per cent admission tax.

Ohio Curious About New Education Head

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Speculation is rife as to who will be the next state director of education, ex-officio head of the censor board. The term of Dr. Beverly O. Skinner expires July 16, and consensus of opinion is that he will not be reappointed. Several candidates have been mentioned, but Gov. Davey has not committed himself.

Thomas Wall to Newton

BOSTON, June 24.—Thomas Wall, manager of the Allston, in Allston, has been named manager of the Paramount, Newton, where he has replaced the late John Snider, who died recently.

Edward Welch, assistant manager of the Capitol, has gone to the Allston, and J. Concannon has succeeded him at the Capitol.

Looking 'Em Over

"Criez-le Sur les Toits"

(Paramount)

Roi Cooper Megrue's play, "It Pays to Advertise," which previously has served as material for Hollywood producers, now makes its appearance in French under the title "Criez-le Sur les Toits" ("Shout It from the Rooftops"). French-speaking people will get considerable enjoyment out of the film, which has been turned out at Paramount's Joinville plant in first-rate fashion. It is a highly spirited production with bright settings, clever acting and fine photography.

The picture in its French form has been given some musical trimmings that add to the entertainment value.

The film, in a way a satire on advertising, tells of the efforts of two young men to launch a soap business. One of the duo is the playboy son of a soap baron (Saint-Granier) who has won the disfavor of his father. Soon, through high-pressure advertising and publicity methods, the name of their soap is on everybody's lips. The one trouble is that they haven't the money to manufacture it. When they finally land a big order, Saint-Granier and his chief rival bid to buy out the firm. Saint-Granier proves the higher bidder and takes his son back into the fold.

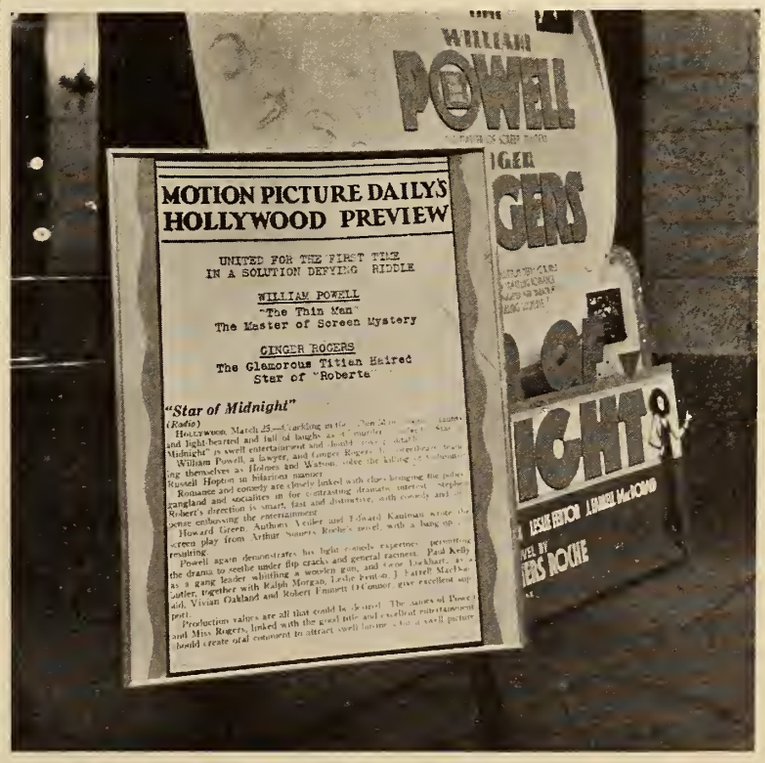
Uses Tractor Generator



LINCOLN, June 24.—Among flood reports of unusual happenings here was the work of Fred Glass, Fox manager in McCook, Neb., right in the heart of the worst damage done by the Republican River. He hooked a tractor to his generator and ran his show to a packed house.

Kansas City Goes for "No More Ladies"

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—The bright spot in what would otherwise have been a dull week was "No More Ladies," Loew's Midland offering, which soared to $18,500 and was held. That's $7,000 over average.

The Tower managed to do an average $7,000 with "Alias Mary Dow," while the Baer-Braddock fight pictures and excellent reviews failed to hold "The Informer" up to average at the Mainstreet.

The question of revivals was hardly answered conclusively by the Newman's experience with "The Virginian." The picture did pretty well with a $6,500, but it is probably still true that some of those who ask for return engagements of big pictures forget to remember, or have something else to do that week.

The Uptown could do little with "Daring Young Man," in spite of Stanley Chambers' valiant efforts. At only $2,400 for the week the Saturday night amateur talent jubilee helped.

Total first run business was $20,400. Average is $36,000.

"Doubting Thomas" was $500 up on a take of $5,500 at the Criterion. This is low in comparison with the usual Will Rogers' business here. "Shadow of Doubt," with a stage show at the Liberty, failed to make a big impression with a take of $1,800 in four days, and "Catherine the Great," in for three days, was weak at $600.

Total first run business was $15,900. Average is $13,500.

"Ladies" Hits $20,000, Big In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—There was an encouraging spurt in business here last week and in one case, that of the Penn, the takings were greater than they have been at any time since the first of the year. At this house, "No More Ladies" took $20,000 and won a second week, the first time this has happened there.

At the Fulton the Baer-Braddock fight picture, rather than "The Werewolf of London," received the credit for an excellent $6,000, while at the Warner, Elisabeth Bergner was the big magnet and her "Escape Me Never" turned in a fine $5,300.

The Alvin hit rock bottom with "The Devil Is A Woman," pulling it after two days to less than $1,000 and bringing back "David Copperfield" for four days. The picture had already played all of the subsequent runs. At the Stanley "Break of Hearts" couldn't better a weak $5,500.

Enforcement Via Voluntary Code Viewed as a Handicap

two or three years prior to the NRA. Then as now, exhibitors admitted need of something with teeth in it, but it was enforcement by stoppage of film service that caused them to grind their teeth.

Most independents believe they can get along without any code or arbitration setup, providing contracts are enforced and the circuits are restrained properly by anti-trust laws.

Clarence A. Schultz, executive vice-president of Commonwealth Amusement Corp., with 16 houses, expresses the majority of exhibitors' reaction when he says: "So far as competitive practices are concerned, under the code just lost we couldn't get relief from unfair competitive situations for, in some cases, as long as a year. How could we possibly get enforcement under a voluntary code?"

Schultz also is in agreement with most exhibitors here when he says: "We shall endeavor to pay salaries and keep hours at the level they were under the code."

"The voluntary code would be a good thing," believes John Stapel, operator of the Paramount, Rockport, Mo., and president of KMTA. "It will at least continue a good idea and keep the machinery for its practice setup. I think it will make for fairer competition. Without it exhibitors will forget there ever was a code. With it, they will be reminded there is such a thing as fair trade practices."

Sees It Hard to Enforce

Mrs. Abe Baier, of the Lindbergh, has nothing against the voluntary code, but "experience of exhibitors here was that it couldn't be enforced. Most exhibitors are used to code wage and hour provisions, and will continue to go along on that basis.

"It is my belief that if distributors enforced their contracts, exhibitors policed the situation so they did, and the anti-trust laws, relaxed under the NRA, were enforced, we would get along nicely.

"Whatever setup is worked out, the chief problem will be one of enforcement.

"Exhibitors who give away something certainly should be put back the same time they are for double billing. Otherwise those, like myself, who don't give away anything, are penalized. Exhibitors were agreeable to do this, but Fox introduced gift stamps about that time and the plan fell through."

"Why have a code or arbitration boards when we have court?" questioned J. W. Cotter, operator of the Bijou. "With buying power circuits can secure protection over an independent house showing at the same price. Distributors sell pigs in pokes, and, good or bad, we're compelled to run them. If a code contained relief from either of these situations, I'd be for it. In the case of producers, we need 25 per cent elimination, which would automatically bring about better pictures and better business. In the case of circuits, clearance ought to be on admission prices.

"So I have reached the conclusion that every fellow ought to be allowed to run his business as he sees fit. The more wide open it is, the better off the independent would be, because then he can use his wits to protect himself."

aways in any form, shape or manner. I have just returned from a cross-country tour by automobile. At all the places I stopped I found the NRA had done great things, not only in the film business, but in other industries as well.

"I am also opposed to dual bills. I don't think two big features should be shown on one program. However, where there are two weak sisters and neither has any particular drawing power, then it is all right to double up."

Schine's views are negative. He holds there is no need for a code and that it is a waste of effort, time and money.

Schine pointed out that when the code boards were first set up, he had tried to get a post on one of four boards—Albany, Buffalo, Cincinnati and Cleveland—without success. After hearing several cases, Schine said he was happy he was not sitting.

"The code is for fellows constantly in trouble. These exhibitors should be driven out of the business," he asserted. He suggested that one way distributors can handle them is to insist on deposits when a contract is made.

New Theatres Are Rising in Many Places

Things are beginning to look up in the theatre business if reports of new construction, remodellings and reopenings coming in from every section of the country are to be taken as a criterion. Some of the latest announcements to indicate that happier days are ahead for the exhibitor follow.

Shifts in N. E. Gaining

BOSTON, June 24. — Changes in policy, openings and transfers, are gaining in volume in this territory.

For the first time in 19 years the Bowdoin Square has dropped vaudeville. The RKO Boston quit it recently, and it is reported Loew's Orpheum will do likewise. The Howard Athenaeum and the Park are due to close for the summer. When these developments occur the Metropolitan will have the only stage fare left.

J. W. Bridgham will open a summer house at Wolfboro, N. H., soon. Ramsdell Brothers are expected to close the Orpheum at Malden for the summer, instead of the Lyric.

Martin Weinstein has taken over the Savoy at Northfield, Va., from E. D. McMann.

Wrestling one night a week and films the other six is the plan for the reopened Waldron's Casino.

The Drive-In Theatre project originally scheduled for Hingham has been shifted to Quincy.

Plans are under discussion for building a new house at East Hampton, Conn. The only theatre there recently became a business structure.

The Assembly Hall at Harrisville, R. I., has been opened for films by J Roland Hague.

RKO Remodels Cincy Spot

CINCINNATI, June 24.—Improvements to the RKO Shubert will cost $97,000, according to estimates of C. G. Nelson, RKO division engineer. The lower floor will be replaced with a new one having a steeper incline. A new air-conditioning system will be installed, as will also a central steam-heating plant with automatic stokers to serve the Shubert, Capitol and Cox, all in the same block.

The interior will be redecorated, and a vertical Neon sign erected above the marquee. Work will be completed for reopening Aug. 23.

The Shubert, originally devoted to legitimate attractions, was acquired by RKO under a long term lease and reopened with stage shows and pictures last fall. It closed a week ago.

The Cox, a sister house, now dark, was included in the lease.

Remodel for K. C. House

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—Stanley Schwartz, for five years owner and operator of the Tivoli, which he sold last August to W. D. Fulton, has formed the Valley Theatre Co., a corporation, and is remodeling a building at 708 Minnesota Avenue, downtown Kansas City, Kan., for a second run house.

Approximately $20,000 is to be spent. The house is tentatively named the State. Of this amount, $12,000 will go for remodeling, the remainder for equipment. Opening is expected about July 25.

The corporation will acquire other houses later on.

Want to Open K. C. House

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—Negotiations under way with local representatives of the Butler Estate of St. Louis may lead to reopening of the 1,800-seat Missouri. At one time one of the leading legitimate houses in the city and for a number of years under the Shubert banner, the Missouri has been closed since 1928. It is understood about $15,000 will be spent on improvements to put the house in shape for low-priced subsequent runs.

Expands in Mississippi

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—G. Carey, owner of several theatres in Paris, Ark., has entered the Mississippi territory, and has under construction two houses bearing the name of the New Theatre, one at Ackerman and the other at Corsiaca. He expects to open several others.

To Build at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, June 24.—Hollywood Theatres, Inc., will build a $25,000 suburban house on West Broadway. Work will commence immediately.

Meanwhile alterations to the old Vancouver, formerly the Orpheum, are nearing completion. Sound equipment is now being installed.

Rush Oklahoma Theatre

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 24.—The new $50,000 Plaza being constructed by Standard Theatres, Inc., will be finished about July 10, George Henger, city manager, says.

The Plaza has been under consideration for about eight weeks. It will operate on a subsequent run policy.

To Build at Waynesville

WAYNESVILLE, N. C., June 24.—James Massie, owner of the Haywood, plans another house here. It will be started within 30 days, he says, will cost $40,000, and be ready for occupancy in the fall. It will seat 700.

Remodel in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, June 24.—The Avenue local neighborhood house managed by Casmir Goderski, has been closed for remodeling and will reopen about Aug. 1 as the Aragon. The house will be razed except for three walls and the roof.

Daly Takes Lowell House

HARTFORD, June 24.—Michael Daly, owner of the Daly here and the Rialto, New Britain, has extended his operations to the Royal, Lowell, Mass., which he will remodel and open Labor Day.

Rebuild at Valley Falls

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—George Fulton, whose Royal at Valley Falls, Kan., burned some time ago, plans to open the house he is now building there sometime early in September.

Remodel at Rockingham

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., June 24.—Work is progressing on the remodeling of the Richmond. When completed the theatre will have a seating capacity of about 900.

Camdenton to Get House

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—Camdenton, Mo., the town "manufactured" by the Union Electric Power Co. of St. Louis when it built Bagnell Dam —and put Linn Creek under water— will have a new theatre early in September. The Palace, seating approximately 250, will be opened about that time by S. F. Wilson.

Open at Jefferson City

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—Dubinsky Brothers have opened the New Capitol at Jefferson City, Mo., with a 25c-35c policy. The Miller, which it replaces, and over which the Dubinskys had lease trouble, closed June 4.

Arnold Gould, two years Dubinsky manager at Jefferson City, will continue in that capacity. The Gem is the other Dubinsky house there.

The New Capitol, seating 1,236, was designed by Robert Boller, Kansas City architect.

Renovate N. O. House

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—The St. Maurice, independent house, is spending about $2,500 on repairs. It is owned and operated by Mortimor & Shields, who recently leased the Bell.

64% of Bonds of Para. Properties In LOS ANGELES, June 24.—The plan for reorganization of Paramount Properties has met with favorable reactions thus far, having almost reached the necessary percentage total with deposits to date of 64 per cent of the company's outstanding $2,750,000 six per cent first mortgage bonds, according to a statement by B. P. Lester, company representative.

The success of the plan seems assured before July 8, when a hearing for the confirmation of the reorganization will be held before Judge Paul J. McCormick in U. S. District Court here, as a deposit of only 66 2/3 per cent is necessary under section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act to have the plan become effective. Such action upon confirmation would be binding upon all bond holders and the company would be reorganized in accordance with the terms of the plan.

Gardel Is Killed in Colombia Air Crash

CALI, Colombia, June 24. — Carlos Gardel, Argentine actor, singer and tango dancer, who made a series of pictures in Spanish for the South American market under Paramount contract, was one of 10 persons killed today when the plane in which he was a passenger crashed head-on with another near Medallin. The performer was on his way from Bogota, the capital city of Colombia, to Cali, where he was to have filled a stage engagement tonight.

His last screen role was in "The Big Broadcast of 1935," Paramount picture not yet released. Surviving Gardel, who was a bachelor, is his mother, who resides in Toulouse.

RKO Told to Rate Apollo As First Run

M. & S. Awarded $45,000 By the Arbitrators

RKO is directed to operate the Apollo as a neighborhood first run, to play day and date with either the Academy of Music or the Jefferson, and to pay a total of $45,000 damages to the former Meyer & Schneider circuit, under an arbitration award handed down yesterday following lengthy hearings on the breach of lease charges involving the Apollo and Hollywood, East Side houses leased by RKO from M. & S.

The arbitrators' award is viewed as a "complete victory" by the lessors, and by RKO as "further complicating an already confused situation." While

No Changes in Loews' Duties When They Leave Directorate

Nicholas M. Schenck informed Motion Picture Daily yesterday that decision of Arthur and David Loew to resign their directorships in the company bearing their family name will in no wise affect their active duties with Loew's, Inc. Arthur is in charge of foreign sales for M-G-M and David is an executive in the film booking department of the parent and theatre company.

David yesterday explained the step was determined upon in order to relieve him and his brother the responsibilities which go with directors' posts. He also covered the ground included in Schenck's statement that no change in point of active duty is contemplated. Arthur also is first vice-president of Loew's, Inc., and a director of M-G-M. David is a director, as well, in the latter corporation.

There was no indication of the attitude of the Loew board which will meet July 3 to act on the double resignations which will then be before it for action.

Predict That Ascap Case Will Be Pushed in Autumn

The government suit against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers will be prosecuted "vigorously" when trial is resumed in Federal district court here Nov. 4, it was stated by an official source yesterday in reply to reports that the Ascap prosecution would be abandoned by the government.

The Department of Justice and the Attorney General's office regard the government's case against Ascap as "a very strong one," it was said. "Powerful evidence" against Ascap is in the government's possession and the belief that it would be bad strategy to bring out this evidence just prior to an adjournment of the trial for the summer, induced the government to seek the adjournment last week rather than wait until July 1, it was said. If the government disclosed what it regards as its most telling evidence at this time, it was pointed out, Ascap would have the three months of the summer adjournment in which to prepare its defense and counter testimony.

The reports that the government

Jay Means and others in Kansas City say it would be impossible to enforce a voluntary setup. They agree, however that some form of arbitration is needed.

British CEA Urges Slashes in Rentals

CARDIFF, WALES, June 25.—The general council of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Assn. at a conference here today passed a resolution urging a general reduction in rentals with a top limit of 40 per cent on percentage pictures.

It also decided to instruct the rules committee to frame amendments to the association's regulations to permit action against members who do not abide by resolutions. This means expulsion.

Rentals, it was insisted, are going beyond exhibitors' ability to pay.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

SPECULATION in large doses prevails over the resignation of Arthur and Dave Loew as directors of the company which bears their family name. Arthur is cruising on the blue waters of Lake Champlain; Dave says the reason ties in with a joint desire to relieve themselves of the responsibilities which couple with directors' jobs. Somewhat understandable straw in the wind: Arthur's once-expressed ambition to drop films for Wall Street brokerage. Somewhat conflicting straw in the same breeze: Dave's close association with Nick Schenck. Reminder of another day: That previous occasion, several years old now, when Arthur resigned from Loew's directorship and vice-presidency alike, only to be brought back into the fold by inside conferencing. Possibility: That the Loew directorate may refuse to accept the defections when it meets on July 3. . . .

To those theatre operators who wonder why Hollywood does some of the things it does, there is the tale to be told about "The Informer," a grand production effort, rich in drama and bite, but admittedly tough to sell to the average American audience. The picture cost about $250,000 to make. Radio's foreign legion, now sprawled throughout half dozen New York hotels, is excited about it for its territories. So excited, in fact, that expectancies on world gross run as high as $750,000. This merely emphasizes again the observation that pictures today are made with at least one eye on overseas possibilities, for this industry never had more need to understand how truly international its scope must be. Unless foreign revenue is safeguarded and increased, the rental level in the domestic market will rise to a peak which would make current prices anaemic by comparison. . . .

Week-end fun: The place was Nick Schenck's at Great Neck. The guests included Joe Schenck, Louis B. Mayer, Darryl F. Zanuck, A. C. Blumenthal, Sid Grauman and Ben Goetz.

To Grauman: "Sid, why don't you enter the agency business?"

Zanuck: "Sure, Sid. The first thing to do is go over to Metro and make Gable and Crawford dissatisfied. When you've done that, get in touch and I'll sign them for 20th Century."

Mayer: "That's swell. You're making great progress, Sid. You've only been in the agency business two minutes and already you're barred off the Metro lot." . . .

Latest contribution to the cause of word quibbling comes from Hollywood and Nat Levine. "Our (Mascot) merger with Republic does not mean in any way that this organization will lose its individuality. We are convinced that together we will move forward to the front ranks of the industry." Mascot may not lose whatever individuality it may possess, but definitely does it lose its name when the current season washes out. . . .

If there should be those among you who are curious about the paramount facts as they concern "Watty" Rothacker, here they are: Rothacker is friend, advisor and counsellor to John Edward Otterson who may be expected to take no steps, make no decisions on Paramount production without turning to the Chicagoan for his opinion. . . .

A big one—story and deal around the corner. Not the elusive corner where prosperity supposedly is lurking, however, but much closer. It has to do with a change in ownership of a large company.

You're wrong. This has nothing to do with RKO. . . .

British Lion Talks Of Doubling Output

British Lion may double its new season production schedule if expansion plans for the company in which N. L. Nathanson and Lord Beaverbrook figure are consummated, Sam W. Smith, managing director of the company, who is here on a business visit, said yesterday. Under the plans, Nathanson might spend a definite part of the year in London.

The arrangements in prospect, however, would not be concluded until Smith's return to London in about 10 days or two weeks. The company is enlarging its studios now and, if the expansion plans are carried out, will be prepared to produce about 20 features next season, some of which will be designed for the American market in particular, Smith said.

Negotiations for British Lion distribution of Republic product in England are under way now between Smith and Norton Ritchey, Republic foreign sales director. Ritchey said yesterday that distribution proposals from other British companies were also under consideration.

Discuss Exchanges' Sales Levy Status

Conferences to determine whether or not film exchanges here are subject to the city sales tax will be inaugurated in the near future with the city comptroller, it was decided recently at a meeting of the M. P. P. D. A. legal committee. If no agreement can be reached, the issue will be tested legally in state court, it was said.

Distributors contend that the exchanges can not be subjected to the city sales tax as film is leased to theatres and not sold.

Big Crowd Expected At Lichtman Lunch

A record crowd is expected to attend the Ampa luncheon Thursday at the M. P. Club in honor of Al Lichtman, soon to be elected head of U. A. The committee promises many surprises in the form of entertainment with many Broadway personalities and stars in attendance.

Prominent figures in the industry who have already made reservations include: H. J. Yates, Felix Feist, Jack Cohn, W. Ray Johnston, James R. Grainger, George Schaefer, Neil Agnew, Arthur Lee, John C. Flinn, Jules E. Brulatour, Herman Robbins, Harry Thomas, Ned E. Depinet, Jules Levy, Phil Reisman, James Loughborough of the Federal Housing Administration, E. C. Grainger, C. E. McCarthy, C. C. 30 at $2 per unit for a unit of an additional ¼ share of common and 1/5 share of new second preferred of $10 per share par value.

If security holders do not wish to exercise their subscription rights they may obtain a subscription warrant which will be transferable, the letter states, and will be valid until Aug. 30. These warrants may be sold if the anticipated market for them materializes.

Percy H. Johnston, chairman of the Chemical Bank & Trust Co., and a member of the Paramount board, testified at a Federal court hearing on the Paramount reorganization plan last December that he believed there would be a market for the subscription warrants. The question of whether or not the warrants would have market value was disputed during the hearings on the plan.

Italians Keep Fees; Relax Import Rules

ROME, June 25.—The Italian government had decided to continue the 25,000 lire dubbing fee on all imported films, it was learned here recently. As in the past, all dubbing must be done in Italy. In addition to the dubbing fee, a censorship tax has been levied on all imported pictures. In the past this tax was included in the dubbing fee.

The rules governing the importation of films had been up for discussion for some time in government circles, it was also revealed, and after heated discussions it has been decided to divide the year into quarters and to permit importing companies to bring in the same number of pictures per quarter as they did in the entire year of 1934.

Jerseymen Will Act On Pooling Tuesday

Definite action on the plan to pool New Jersey theatres into one large independent circuit will be taken at a special meeting next Tuesday. About 15 exhibitors from across the Hudson met yesterday with Leon Rosenblatt at the Lincoln to discuss the plan. Some were in favor and others asked for more time until they consulted Sidney Samuelson, president of Allied and the New Jersey unit.

New York independents are slated to confer today at the Astor on a similar plan. Milton C. Weisman is supposed to have prepared a plan for the I. T. O. A. men interested.

However, the consensus of opinion in independent circuit quarters is that neither of the plans will go through.

branch here on Monday under the new name of Republic, Bellman will be general manager of the combined office.

The deal whereby Bellman's Philadelphia exchange was to be merged with Gluckman's Quaker City office fell through recently when Nat Levine, head of Mascot, became a factor in the Republic setup. John Golder, who controls the financial interest in the Hollywood Philadelphia unit, was all set to join the Republic national system when it was finally decided to bring in Mrs. Anthony Luchese's Gold Medal exchange.

Levine is understood to have insisted on inclusion of Gold Medal. The Mascot head is also understood to have said that the only way he could liquidate outstanding indebtedness presumably incurred by Gold Medal was by bringing it into the deal.

Golder and his brother Ben, an attorney, have been making numerous trips in an effort to settle the Hollywood dispute. Bellman's Albany, Buffalo and Washington branches are not included in the Republic setup for the time being.

Papers were signed yesterday on the Hollywood-Majestic deal. Nathan Burkan represented Gluckman and Louis Nizer acted for Bellman. Gluckman continues as supervisor of Republic in the local area. Tony Luchese passed away some months ago and his wife has been operating the Gold Medal exchange since then.

Midwest Ideas At Odds Over Code Outlook

tributor, exhibitor and employes. Tersely that sums up the consensus of views in these parts of big and small exhibitors and others in the business. They feel that some of the provisions of the NRA the industry can well do without, but there are others of the old rules and regulations that should be retained and universally obeyed, they contend.

Fred Wehrenberg, president of the M.P.T.O. unit is strong for a voluntary code with provisions for an arbitration board to settle within the industry those disputes that will always bob up.

"So far as it is possible the provisions of the old code should be retained," he said. "Generally speaking the wages and working conditions of the code in so far as they relate to the service staff—such as ushers, cashiers, ticket takers, janitors, etc., should be retained without change. We here in St. Louis feel that we have been paying rather high wages to our organized workers, such as the projectionists. At present we have negotiations under way for the usual summer reduction in pay of the projectionists. Union leaders have countered by expressing the belief that their wages should be increased. However, I believe we can get together as we have in the past.

Favors 20% Cancellation

"I am especially strong for a 20 per cent cancellation clause under a voluntary code. There should also be some machinery to prevent unfair trade practices, such as bank nights, two-for-ones, transportation refunds and other things that lead to cutthroat competition.

"There should be some voluntary board to function along the same lines as the grievance and clearance and zoning boards under the NRA code to iron out differences that may arise and to enforce picture contracts, etc."

The response that Wehrenberg has received from a questionnaire he sent out several days ago concerning the advisability of setting up an exhibitor-exchange arbitration board have indicated that practically all exhibitors in this section feel something of the kind should be worked out. They are not in favor of a board of the type of the old Film Board of Trade, but are strong for a 50-50 arrangement that will assure a fair hearing to anyone—exhibitor or distributor—who feels that he has a just grievance.

"Code No Good," Says Means

KANSAS CITY, June 25.—"The code was no good when backed by Federal power; I don't see how it could be any good on a voluntary basis," comments Jay Means, operator of the Oak Park and Bagdad, and president of the I. T. O.

"The 10 per cent chiseling fringe can control any voluntary setup of this kind." he says.

"So far as arbitration is concerned, any fairly constituted board with final authority and with power to enforce its decisions would be okay in the settlement of differences between exhibitors and distributors, but I don't want any more of this kangaroo court stuff."

"The voluntary code, in my opinion, could not be enforced," believes Barney Joffee, manager of the Tower, only first run independent in Kansas City.

"However, exhibitors and distributors will always have disputes, and some form of arbitration is essential."

Myers Sees Way Clear

BOSTON, June 25.—The way is clear for substitute code boards, but independents must be equitably represented or Allied will not be interested, Abram F. Myers, general counsel of the exhibitor organization, told a meeting of independent exhibitors here today.

Myers said there must be no domination by producer-owned circuits, urging exhibitors to fight for the Pettengill anti-block booking bill and to aid in spiking allegedly false propaganda being issued by producers.

Tax Will Close "U" Reel to Ohio Events

CINCINNATI, June 25.—In retaliation for the bill passed by the General Assembly raising the censorship fee from $1 to $3 for each 1,000-foot reel no more newsreel shots will be made of events occurring in Ohio, according to a telegram from the Universal home office in New York received today by Ralph Lembeck, local cameraman for the company.

It is expected this action will raise a protest from Ohio exhibitors which will force abandonment of the levy entirely on newsreels. Newsreels, which had been exempt from censorship, were recently reinstated by Attorney General John W. Bricker.

Bookers here predict the tax will reduce the number of prints for Ohio showings, thus retarding distribution.

Newman Is Back in L. A.

Auto Giveaway Now Big Denver Battle

DENVER, June 25.—The battle of auto giveaways between theatre groups has broken out again in Denver. Harry Huffman has given away 58 Fords, starting as an every-other-week affair, but later every week. He uses his eight theatres with a phone and loudspeaker hookup. Before the code came in Huffman had as competitors in the auto giveaway 13 other houses, which gave one car a week. Later they stopped, and Huffman has had the field to himself for many months.

Seven houses, controlled by four companies, have started a weekly Plymouth giveaway. They include a first run, the Denham; two Fox houses, the Mayan and the Webber; two Publix houses, the Federal and the Rex; and two owned by a local company, the Ogden and Hiawatha.

Rockefeller Gift to Aid Film Collection

Through a gift from the Rockefeller Foundation, said to be in the neighborhood of $100,000, the Museum of Modern Art has founded a film library and has started collection of films ranging far back into the early silent days.

The library will be in charge of John Abbott, husband of Iris Barry, the museum's librarian. Abbott plans to hold screenings of the old films as well as new and experimental ones as often as possible. He also plans to tour the country, screening old-timers like "The Birth of a Nation," "The New York Hat" with Mary Pickford and Lionel Barrymore and "Blind Husbands" which Eric von Stroheim made in 1919.

Besides the Rockefeller Foundation, it is reported that John Hay Whitney, president of Pioneer, is interested in the new library.

Texas Circuit Heads, Indies Against Code

Federal government, couldn't stop duals, giveaways, lotteries, etc., a voluntary code couldn't," he says. "Interstate is not interested in any voluntary code or any system of arbitration."

Col. Cole is just as emphatic. "The provisions of any voluntary code would be dictated by the dominant interests," he says, "and therefore would be contrary to the interests of small exhibitors."

The old arbitration system, he said, degenerated into a scheme for monopolizing playing time and for enforcing contracts against the small man.

Don Douglas, executive of the R. & R. Circuit and former secretary of the Film Board of Trade and code boards, can see little use for a voluntary code. Small exhibitors throughout the state are prone to place their reliance in court actions.

Since the code was abandoned giveaways and other box-office stimulants have spread. Interstate has gone in for screeno, bank nights, cash nights and other stunts in spite of the fact that O'Donnell says he is opposed to them. He says the circuit will continue their use until some general agreement is reached to stop them. Only three operators here are relying solely upon pictures for their patronage.

Alleged infringements on bank nights have brought former Judge Emmett Thurmon back here from Denver and he is making a tour of the territory for the purpose of checking up.

Fox to End Spanish Production on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—With completion of "The Rose of France," last of eight scheduled for this season, Fox will wind up its Spanish production department here.

John Stone, who has been in charge of the Spanish pictures in addition to handling a number of domestic films, will concentrate on the latter type of pictures during 1935-36 under the new company name Fox-20th Century.

Fox Foreign Personnel Shifts

Changes in the foreign personnel of Fox have John Lindsay, formerly sales manager of the Spanish office, promoted to head of the Venezuela exchange. E. F. Lomba, who has been in charge of the Venezuela office, takes over Lindsay's former post.

Ernest Koenig, until recently managing director of the Warner French branch, has joined Fox as assistant to Robert Harley, managing director in Paris.

RKO Told to Rate Apollo As First Run

RKO attorneys said yesterday that they were undecided on what course to take as a result of the decision, they indicated that they would first ask the arbitrators to "clarify" their findings and, if the result was unsatisfactory, they might go to the state supreme court in an effort to obtain a "modification" of the award. They declared that the arbitrators, in directing that the Apollo be operated as a neighborhood first run, were imposing an order that could not be met by RKO without product concessions from Skouras, operators of the Academy of Music.

In addition to operating the Apollo as a neighborhood first run, or day and date with either the Academy of Music or the Jefferson, RKO was directed to designate the house as an RKO or Keith theatre and to exploit, publicize and advertise it the same as any other RKO first run. The arbitrators also directed that the Hollywood be operated as a second run following the Apollo or as a neighborhood first run. Another alternative given RKO by the arbitrators would permit it to operate the Hollywood as a subsequent run on giving 30 days' notice to the lessors of such an intent. In this event the lessors would be permitted to terminate the lease on the first of the month after receiving notice.

$25,000 of Total to Apollo

The damages are designated in the amounts of $25,000 to the Apollo and $20,000 to the Hollywood. The arbitrators were Robert McC. Marsh, George W. Retz and Maurice Deiches. They granted leave to open or modify the awards only in case of a "substantial change of circumstances during the term of the leases" on the two houses.

Max D. Steuer and Bernard Fliashnick were counsel for M. & S. Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood represented RKO. The arbitration hearings opened last February and after numerous postponements were concluded early this month. The cost of the arbitration, which under the theatres' leases is to be shared equally by RKO and M. & S., is said to have exceeded $50,000. M. & S. contended that the leases were breached by the operating policies maintained by RKO to the detriment of the earning powers of the theatres, and that financial damages resulted. It was contended at the hearings that RKO failed to play the same product at the Apollo on the same basis as in its other first runs because of an agreement entered into by Loew's and RKO last year under which Loew's relinquished to the latter Fox and Universal product, which solved a picture supply problem for RKO. The Apollo and Hollywood compete with Loew's Delancey and Avenue B.

Roxy Suit on Sept. 9

Hearings before Sol Stroock, referee, on the suit of the Chicago Title & Trust Co. to recover $1,000,000 from William Fox for alleged defaults in redemption of Roxy Theatre stock, will be resumed Sept. 9 and will probably be concluded by Oct. 1, it was said yesterday by attorneys engaged in the case. The hearings were begun about a month ago and adjourned last Friday for the summer.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hardrock Harrigan"

(Lesser-Fox)

Hollywood, June 25.—George O'Brien, teamed with Fred Kohler a la McLaglen-Lowe, scores in this departure from his usual outdoor roles. The pair is tough construction bosses on the Boulder Dam job, friendly enemies of long standing, staunch adherents of the hard rock code—if you lick your superior, you get his job.

Kohler outranks O'Brien on the job. From the start a clash between O'Brien and Kohler is inevitable. On the date set for the match O'Brien is buried in a cavein and Kohler, at great personal risk, digs him out. Before the fisticuffs a doctor informs O'Brien about Kohler's heart ailment and tells him the tussle may prove fatal. O'Brien, refusing to fight, is branded a coward, but is cleared when Kohler learns the truth.

Irene Hervey serves well as the love interest, although the picture centers upon men and the impressive Boulder Dam background.

The production is one of Sol Lesser's best and the photography of the great engineering effort by Frank Good is a pictorial delight. David Howard turns in a first rate directorial job from a workmanlike screen play by Raymond Schrock and Dan Jarrett. A musical arrangement by Hugo Riesenfeld is effective. The picture should please all steady O'Brien fans and add many new ones.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Her Song of Love"

(Realart)

This British film, a Butcher production, has an attractive musical content to which the recording seemingly fails to do full justice. It is unfortunate that at times the sound is not of the best because the lyrical interludes are the chief asset of the picture. For the rest it is a sad love tale of familiar timber with an old-fashioned air about it and acted with little imagination in several of its roles. The film makes a strong play for the sentimental with no great success.

Old-timers may be attracted by Vesta Victoria's singing of "Waiting at the Church," a tune she made famous in her hey-day. Younger people should derive some satisfaction from the singing of Jean Adrienne and Derek Oldham, D'Oyly Carte Opera Co. tenor, who have the leading roles.

The story is inspired by Gounod's "Ave Maria," which is one of the compositions sung by Oldham. He and Miss Adrienne are betrothed as children in Italy. Grown up, they are both students at the same conservatory. The girl falls in love with a pal of Oldham's, Ronald Ward, son of the head of a British gramophone firm, who is engaged to an English girl. When Oldham realizes how much Miss Adrienne and Ward love each other he bows out. To smoothen things out further for the lovers, Ward's fiancee consents to give him up.

Harry Hughes directed. No production code seal. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

Daff Says Building Gains in Australia

Theatre building is on the increase throughout Australia, with most of it being undertaken by independent operators, Alfred Daff, Universal branch manager at Melbourne, who is here on a visit to the home office, said yesterday.

Daff related that during the past two years independently operated theatres in the Melbourne area increased from five to 27. Approximately 10 of these represent new construction, he said. Daff reported that with Australia practically clear of the depression at this time, admissions had been maintained throughout the slump at an established 25-cent minimum, which applied in subsequents as well as first runs. He said the minimum admission policy was made successful through provisions agreed to by exhibitor organizations and then embodied in film contracts. Enforcement of the provisions is left to the exhibitor organizations, he said.

Daff, working under Herc McIntyre, Universal managing director for Australia, supervises a territory which includes Tasmania as well as Melbourne. He leaves for Hollywood Friday for a two weeks' studio visit.

would abandon the suit during the summer were linked with word that Andrew W. Bennett, who has been in charge of the case for the Attorney General, was leaving government practice to join a private law firm.

It is understood that Bennett has had an offer of this kind, but has made no decision on it yet. However, if he accepts it would have no effect on the continuation of the case by the government, it was stated.

Reports also had it that radio broadcasters and exhibitor leaders, said to be dissatisfied with the government's conduct of the case in its first stages, were preparing to reinstate the long-pending anti-trust suit of the Pennsylvania broadcasters against Ascap and have it prosecuted in preference to the government case next fall. Newton D. Baker's law firm is counsel for the broadcasters in this case and exhibitors were said to be prepared to join in the prosecution of it, with George Z. Medalie as their attorney. These reports were emphatically denied in responsible quarters insofar as they concerned the continuation next fall of the government's case. The possibility that such action might be taken in the event the government was unsuccessful in its case, however, was admitted.

See Possible British First National Plan

Idea Comes Up at C. E. A. Convention in Wales

CARDIFF, Wales, June 26.—The possibility of a British First National along lines pursued by that original company in America entered the deliberations of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n. summer conference here today.

It developed following a paper titled "The Future of the Films Act," authored and delivered by Simon Rowson, in which he stressed what he envisioned as a steadily dwindling number of major American producers and declared that but for the Films Act and the British production indus-

Group Named To Study New Industry Code

Voluntary Setup Aim of Former Campi Men

In an effort to retain the satisfactory features of the code, former Campi members and alternates have formed a voluntary industry committee to study the possibility of setting up an all-industry body to act as a clearing house for industry problems.

Code Authority members are of the unanimous opinion that certain features of the code should be maintained, but, having been stripped of their power by the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision, they cannot act with authority.

On the committee are J. Robert Rubin, temporary chairman; Austin C. Keough, Nathan Yamins, Ed Kuy-

New Tax Hits Only on High Profit Scales

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The effect of the new tax program upon industry will depend entirely upon whether the individual companies are in the black and to what extent.

The new sliding scale of taxes on corporate income will become fully effective only as conditions improve, since the higher rates are imposed upon the higher net incomes.

As proposed to the Senate Finance Committee yesterday, corporations with net incomes of less than $2,000

Cohen, who is with Loeb, Walker & Loeb, came on from the coast to represent 20th Century on the deal, while Bert Nayfack, local attorney, is representing Schenck.

Sentiment in Cleveland Veers to Voluntary Code

CLEVELAND, June 26.—Responsible exhibitor opinion here leans toward some form of voluntary substitute for code operation. Several leaders are for an arbitration board with powers greater than the old Film Boards of Trade so that all problems up to and including contracts can be handled.

The fly in the ointment is their fear that the proposal will not be adopted unanimously, thereby nullifying enforcement.

"I am heartily in favor of a voluntary code," says M. B. Horwitz, "but I do not think it possible because we can't get 100 per cent of exhibitors to agree. I do not think it would be

Seek Registration Of St. Louis Stock

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Application for registration on the St. Louis Stock Exchange of 21,245 shares of class A and 29,499 shares of class B stock, all issued, has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission by the St. Louis Amusement Co., a subsidiary of Skouras Bros. Enterprises, which owns 53 per cent of the stock, and of Warners, owners of 42 per cent.

The company, according to the application, owns seven operating and eight non-operating theatres and airdromes and operates 10 leased houses. It has as subsidiaries the Uptown Theatre Co., of which it owns 51.2 per cent; Shaw Theatre Co., 50.4 per cent, and Westport Theatre Co., 51.11 per cent.

The only holders of 10 per cent or more of any class of securities are Warners with 8,839 shares, or 41.6 per cent, of class A, and 15,060 shares, or 51.8 per cent, of class B, and Nelson Cunliff, trustee for Skouras, with 12,421 shares, or 68.48 per cent, of class A and 13,928 shares, or 47.21 per cent, of class B.

The only officers to receive salaries are Cunliff, president, $5,200 per year; Leo J. Hill, vice-president, $7,436, and G. L. Wiegand, secretary-treasurer, $4,246.32. Officers and directors of the company own in their own names one share of class B stock each.

The balance sheet of the company for the fiscal year ended Aug. 25 last, showed income of $1,036,413.25, net expenses of $949,048.63, depreciation and interest of $108,093.87 and a deficit of $20,729.25.

Fox-Clifton Cases Up for Arbitration

Two complaints against the Strand, Clifton, N. J., by Fox are scheduled for voluntary arbitration at the New York Film Board tomorrow. Reuben Pashman is operator of the house involved. One of the complaints has to do with an "N. G." check and another with breach of contract.

There is a possibility the claims will be settled before hearing. According to regulations, Pashman was to have appointed his two arbitrators five days after receiving notice of the hearing. He has failed to do this and, according to the rules, the complainant has the right to delegate the third and fourth arbitrators in addition to the first two.

Louis Nizer will represent Fox if the case goes on.

Group Named To Study New Industry Code

kendall, Charles L. O'Reilly, Leslie E. Thompson, Harold S. Bareford, W. C. Michel, Edward Golden and Jack Cohn. John C. Flinn will act as secretary and Tyree Dillard will be counsel.

Keough, Bareford, O'Reilly, Yamins and Dillard have been named to study the legal angles of the proposed code. This group will make a report July 8. As soon as Price, Waterhouse has completed its audit of finances, Campi will meet to act on disposition of remaining assets.

Flinn has received many telegrams and letters from exhibitor leaders recommending ideas for a setup along lines of Code Authority. Reactions of various exhibitors who have expressed their views on a voluntary code in Motion Picture Daily are being clipped for the committee file.

Two important Supreme Court decisions must be studied by the legal committee before any action can be taken. The first decision was handed down by Judge Thatcher about three years ago. In it he declared compulsory arbitration was illegal. The second verdict was handed down several months ago in the Binderup case in Omaha when clearance and zoning was declared in restraint of trade.

As soon as the committee evolves a plan for setting up an industry medium which would come within the anti-trust laws, it will be submitted to exhibitors and distributors for their reactions.

Voluntary arbitration in New York continues at a steady pace. It's the first territory which has resumed the idea. While there are on an average of five or more cases scheduled every week, most of the respondents settle the claims before hearings. Louis Nizer, secretary of the New York Film Board, started the new proceedings.

The setup at the local board calls for the designation by each disputant of two arbitrators who must be named five days after receiving notice of the hearing. In the event either party fails to designate alternates, the other side has the arbitrary right to choose the other two men. Before the hearings go on each side stipulates in writing it will agree to the decision to be rendered by the board.

Hollywood, June 26.—Janet Gaynor has been ordered to rest for six or eight weeks due to a concussion of the brain she sustained in an accident last week. Sentiment in Cleveland Veers to Voluntary Code possible to enforce it unless there is some legal compulsion.

"I have my doubts as to what affiliated exhibitors would consent to in a code which would include clearance and zoning.

"It may be possible to establish an arbitration board provided such a board is composed of an equal number of independent and affiliated exhibitors and one absolutely impartial member. Nothing would please me more, and I am sure fair minded exhibitors will welcome arbitration with one independent exhibitor, one distributor and one impartial member, differing from the old arbitration boards, in that the new setup would arbitrate all matters pertaining to and leading up to contracts."

Maurice Kaplan, owner of six subsequent runs, disagreed with this view. He said he might favor an arbitration board composed of paid members from outside the industry. Judge Joseph Ackerman, impartial member of the defunct grievance board, said he would favor a voluntary code if unanimous agreement could be obtained.

Meyer Fischer would like to see a voluntary code, but does not consider it possible. Exhibitors seem to prefer to fight each other, he said.

"I would like a voluntary code that could function like the old Film Boards of Trade and the arbitration boards," he said. "These were satisfactory. Through these boards such problems as overbuying and overpricing were adjusted. As between going before a law court or before a board composed of members of our own industry in order to get a fair decision, it is better to have a voluntary code and control the industry from within, rather than to throw it wide open."

Benefits derived from the NRA code outnumbered the hardships, asserts W. N. Skirboll, operator of the Cameo here, and of the Rivoli and Palace, Toledo. Skirboll opposes boards of arbitration. He wants a workable and enforceable film code and gives the opinion that it must be national in scope.

Myer Fine and John Urbansky of Associated Theatres agree that "an equitable code is the best thing for the picture business," with a strict adherence to exhibition and ending of duals, two-for-ones, bank nights and giveaways.

"If a code that is fair to the small exhibitor can be worked out, and all decisions on fair trade practices by a local board be made final, I favor a voluntary code," says Morris Berkowitz, who operates a group of neighborhood houses with Oscar Stotter and Sandor Klinger.

Missouri May Coin Slugs for Sale Tax

Kansas City, June 26.—State-made aluminum slugs will probably be used for the payment of fractional amounts on the new sales tax. The plan was originally suggested by the K.M.T.A. and was discussed in detail on Monday at Jefferson City by representative exhibitors from all parts of the state and State Auditor Forrest Smith.

The same system may be applied to all businesses. The tokens would be distributed to banks by the state in denominations as low as one mill.

Among the Kansas City and western Missouri representatives present were John Stapel, president of the K.M.T.A.; R. R. Biechele, secretary; L. J. McCarthy, representing Fox Midwest, Clarence J. Schultz of Commonwealth Amusement Co. and Jay Means, I.T.O. head. The St. Louis group was headed by Fred Wehrenberg, president of the M. P. T. O. unit.

the court is expected to give its final approval to the reorganization at the conclusion of the hearings.

The plan provides for the delivery of Fox Met's 84 theatre leaseholds and fee properties to United Artists Theatre Circuit, headed by Schenck. Skouras and Randforce will continue to operate the houses. Keith-Albee-Orpheum, RKO theatre subsidiary, will have a 10 per cent stock participation in the enterprise.

New Tax Hits Only on High Profit Scales

would pay a tax of 10 per cent, while incomes between $15,000 and $40,000 would pay 13 per cent. Thus all corporations with a net income of less than $40,000 would pay less than the present rate of 13¾ per cent.

Rates above the present level would apply against corporations with larger incomes and would run up to 17½ per cent on companies netting more than $20,000,000.

As regards individuals in the industry, they would continue to pay the same taxes as at present on incomes not exceeding $1,000,000. Those with an income exceeding $1,000,000 would be heavily taxed, however, the proposed rate running as high as 80 per cent on incomes in excess of $10,000,000.

Inheritances also would be more heavily taxed, the new rates running from four per cent on inheritances of $300,000 to 75 per cent on those in excess of $10,000,000.

Without change, the Senate today passed the resolution continuing the emergency nuisance taxes, including the reduced exemption of 40 cents on admissions.

The measure now goes to a conference committee for a compromise of the only difference between the House and Senate, that of the period for which the taxes shall be continued, the House having voted two years and the Senate one year.

The action of the Senate in immediately disposing of the resolution, to which it was originally planned to add the new "wealth" levies sought by the President, indicates acceptance by Congressional leaders of the impossibility of putting the latter program through this week. It is anticipated that several weeks will be required to dispose of the new corporation, income and inheritance taxes if they are to be enacted into law this session.

Fla. Walkathon Bill Upheld

Jacksonville, June 26.—The law, passed recently prohibiting walkathons and like endurance contests, had its day in Federal court here, before three judges and came out victorious.

The law was attacked by promoters of a walkathon at Daytona Beach. They contended that, as there was no such word as walkathon in the dictionary, a law prohibiting a walkathon could not be legal. The judges, however, agreed that the name was in common use, and the meaning well known, and put their official okay on the act.

Not Enforcing Ascap Tax

New Orleans, June 26.—Efforts to force Ascap out of Louisiana by means of a $5,000 annual tax in each parish seem to be falling through. Alex and Henry Schulman are said to be continuing their refusal to pay Ascap license fees until the organization can show tax receipts, but others are signing contracts, it is said.

The state is making no effort to enforce the new law and Ascap is threatening Federal prosecutions, it is said, where copyrights are disregarded.

See Possible British First National Plan

try which it created it would have been easy for three or four American executives to meet in a back parlor in Wall St. and determine a "squeeze" policy for England where the Sherman anti-trust laws are not operative.

He characterized the law as the "exhibitors' defense act" and cautioned them to beware "how you play with your defense." It was Rowson's viewpoint that the blind booking clauses are being scrupulously observed, but that the advance booking clauses are being continuously breached and demonstrated to be unenforceable. The quota had "triumphantly" realized its aim which was to establish British production and fill the gap created by the "striking" decline in foreign, including American, production and had prevented the growth of "fantastic" rentals based on monopoly, Rowson added.

He expressed it as his idea that 25 per cent of British films were low in quality because insufficient money was spent on them and suggested as a remedy a compulsory clause in the statute placing minimum negative costs of quota pictures at £10,000 or £12,000. It is impossible to contemplate the demise of the law which expires in 1938, continued Rowson, since the industry thereby created relies on a protective government policy. He did suggest amendments maintaining a ban on blind booking, a legalization of advance booking, maintenance of the peak quota levy at 20 per cent, a clause setting the minimum negative cost for the first two years of the extended law at a lower level than would prevail for the remainder of the life of the bill and abolition of the stipulation which now sets forth the scenario writer must be British.

Backs First National Idea

His paper led into the discussion of the possibility and advisability of a British First National. Rowson supported the proposal of the floor but pointed out any such scheme would have to be modified to meet the requirements of English law. He said, however, he regarded such a step as a logical development in the near future. Again touching upon the status of the quota, Rowson urged the conference to take a determined stand on reduced percentages as well as to strike out for a quality clause written into the Films Act in order to eliminate the "pound-a-foot-quickie."

British exhibitors assembled here saw a first public demonstration of full-scale television on a theatre screen. The Baird process was the one used. The demonstration suggested a great improvement was essential before television became a commercial proposition for theatres. Magnification destroyed detail and impaired definition.

Captain A. G. D. West, lecturer, frankly advised the delegates there was nothing to worry about insofar as television was concerned for four or five years. In his paper, "Television and the Cinema," West gave it as his opinion that the best results currently were obtained by telecine-scanning which uses film as an intermediary in all transmissions. The operating cost of £12 per hour is saved on repeat performances, he added.

He said it was now possible to transmit television via cable, thereby making it feasible to supply programs to a circuit of theatres through the one operation. It was his prediction also that London theatres will be using regular television items within two years and provincial theatres within three or four, getting the service from local television stations.

On Thursday, the Right Hon. E. E. Shortt, K.C., president of the British Board of Film Censors, will discuss "Problems in Censorship" and Thomas Ormiston, M.P., "Cinema Costs and Hire." In the afternoon, H. V. Davis will discuss the future of the small, independent theatre in a paper called "Little Man, What Now?"

A trade exhibit this year is an important feature of the conference. Formally opened by the Lord Mayor on Tuesday at Whitehall Rooms and Prince's Rooms, the display is as comprehensible as in former years. Civic receptions, golf, trips to West Country beauty spots and two night showings of "The Clairvoyant" and "Look Up and Laugh" are among the incidental amenities of the conference which concludes with a dance at the Angel Hotel Friday evening.

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—The Academy Research Council's survey of the acoustic and soundproofing characteristics of all types of set and construction materials gets under way Monday with a meeting of the newly appointed sub-committee. It was to have started today but heavy production at the studios forced its postponement. The new committee consists of the following construction department heads: H. V. Barry, Radio; Oscar Brodine, U. A.; Art Fields, Columbia; Fred Gabourie, M-G-M; Lewis Geib, Warners; Archie L. Hall, Universal; Joseph Stofel, Fox, and Gordon S. Mitchell, manager of the Research Council.

Empire Films Holds Toronto Convention

TORONTO, June 26.—Empire Films will hold a six-day convention at the Royal York starting tomorrow. Oscar Hanson, general sales head, will conduct the sessions. About 12 representatives from Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg, St. John and Montreal will attend in addition to a number of sales executives from New York.

Tomorrow will be Education Day. Jack Skirball, sales manager of Educational, and Harvey Day will outline the company's product. On Friday Arthur Dent, general manager of B. I. Ray Johnston, Norton Ritchey and Edward Golden will represent the company's home office, while Herman Gluckman of the New York Exchange and Herman Rifkin of Boston will also be present. Herbert J. Yates also is expected.

Sunday will be given over to social activities, while on Monday and Tuesday individual meetings will be held on sales policies.

An exhibitor luncheon is planned for Saturday. Sam Smith of British Lion will attend the session. N. L. Nathanson, who is financially interested in British Lion, is in England.

Hanson was in New York yesterday conferring with Yates on contracts for product. He left for Toronto last night to open today's session. Empire handles all of the product mentioned above.

KMTA Meet Favors MPTOA Affiliation

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 26.—The K.M.T.A. voted to affiliate with the M.P.T.O.A. at the first session of its meeting here today. A motion to leave the choice of an organization up to the directors was overridden. However, a motion that the group reconsider its choice tomorrow was voted.

Thomas Edwards of the Ozark, Eldon; Frank Cassil of the Rialto, St. Joseph, and A. J. Simmons of the Plaza, Lamar, were named as a committee to write a resolution approving the proposed plan of the state auditor to collect fractional amounts on the Missouri sales tax by means of metal tokens.

A group liability insurance plan to cut the cost to exhibitors was presented by President John Stapel. The exhibitors were warned against operating without such coverage.

Representative Frank H. McFarland of Kansas said a sales tax will probably be passed by the legislature of his state at a special session in September to raise funds to carry out the President's social security plan in the state.

FWC-Hamrick Pool Deal Is Completed

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—Charles A. Buckley, Fox West Coast legal head, returned from Portland today, having completed final legal negotiations in the Hamrick pooling deal. The group will come under the jurisdiction of Evergreen Theatres, F.W.C. subsidiary.

will accompany Otterson to Chicago for the meeting. Leon Netter, film buyer, and M. A. Gowthorpe, theatre financial officer, may also attend. Others expected at the meeting are John and Barney Balaban of B. & K., George Trendle and Walter Immerman of Detroit; E. V. Richards of New Orleans, Karl Hoblitzelle of Dallas and Ed Lucas of Lucas & Jenkins circuit.

Before his departure Otterson is expected to confirm the borrowing of H. M. Wilcox, Erpi vice president, for a general survey of Paramount operations. Wilcox will be given an indefinite leave of absence by Erpi.

Watterson R. Rothacker, new Otterson aide at Paramount, left for the coast yesterday where he will take up his duties as studio contact for the home office. Rothacker will establish temporary headquarters at the General Service Studio, when he arrives next Monday after a stop-over in Chicago. He will remain on the coast all summer and may return here about Sept. 1 to begin a European vacation.

O.K.'s Publix Enterprises Report

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey approved the final report of the trustee of Publix Enterprises yesterday, which permits the payment of a final dividend to the creditors of the former Paramount theatre holding company. Orders asking for the discharge of the trustee in bankruptcy, Irving Trust Co., and concluding the company's affairs will be entered within the next two weeks by Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn.

Hecht-MacArthur May Do 3

Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur may make three instead of two for Paramount under the terms of a new contract, terms of which have not yet been settled. Under the deal now in negotiation, the contract will call for two features with an option on a third.

Julie Hayden's contract has been turned over to Paramount by Hecht and MacArthur. She is now on the coast working in a Paramount film.

Terms of the Hecht and MacArthur pact are not expected to be completed for several weeks.

Mass. Leases Up to Court

BOSTON, June 26.—Olympia Theatres' receivers will acquire Paramount leaseholds in Lynn, Haverhill and Newton and John Deery will acquire five leaseholds in Salem under a proposal worked out with Paramount which will be submitted to the Federal court here on Thursday for approval.

The proposal releases Paramount from lease obligations in Salem. If the deal is approved by the court, Charles Goldreyer, former New York independent operator, who now operates the subsequent run Rialto in Salem, may operate the houses for Deery in that city, it was reported.

Indications here are that a petition for reorganization of Olympia may be filed within the next 10 days or two weeks in Federal courts at Boston and New York.

'CHINA SEAS' CINCH HIT; THRILLING ENTERTAINMENT

Gable, Harlow And Garnett The Tops

"CHINA SEAS"

(MGM)

Associate Producer.....Albert Lewin
Direction .....Tay Garnett
Novel .....Crosbie Garstin
Screen Play: Jules Furthman, James Kevin McGuinness.
Photography .....Ray June

Cast: Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Wallace Beery, Lewis Stone, Rosalind Russell, Dudley Digges, C. Aubrey Smith, Robert Benchley, William Henry, Live deMaigret, Lilian Bond, Edward Brophy, Soo Young, Carol Ann Beery, Akim Tamiroff, Ivan Lebedeff.

"China Seas" is one of the best straight movies produced in many a day. It has everything that any audience could want and is chock full of the stuff that shoved the picture business to the top of all amusement enterprises.

Any picture that offers the combined talents of Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Wallace Beery is destined for great box-office success, but place these three in a story that has all the thrills, chills and entertaining values of "China Seas," and you have an important picture and one that will bring out the old fans and create a lot of new ones.

Jules Furthman and James K. McGuinness have taken what was an idea by Crosbie Garstin and shaped it into a story with at least a half dozen plots, all taking place on a boat sailing the China seas, mastered by Clark Gable. On this boat are passengers from all walks of life, with entirely different destinations, plus a cargo of gold that is the bait for Wallace Beery and his conniving pirates. During the voyage you are treated to a typhoon, a great drunk by Robert Benchley, and Harlow's greatest characterization as a lady of easy virtue in love with Gable.

The yarn is packed with suspense and moves at lightning speed, with the main characters backed by as fine a cast as has ever been thrown together for any one picture, all under the masterful direction of Tay Garnett. There is never a dull moment in the picture, nor is there a moment for the audience to relax, for if it's not sitting on the edge of its seat thrilled by the plot's intrigue, it is laughing at the antics of Benchley and others or enraptured by the romance indulged in by Harlow in her winning battle for Gable.

Clark Gable plays the captain of the ship with ease and assurance that will win him many new admirers (as though he needed any new fans). The captain is a natural for Gable, a kindly fellow who hides his warm heart with gruffness. It is a grand piece of casting.

Jean Harlow takes another step forward as a dramatic actress. It is unquestionably the finest portrayal she has ever given, one that offers a wide emotional range.

Wallace Beery is swell as the undercover leader of the pirates. His work is minus any of his usual mannerisms and he plays a straight menace. Lewis Stone, too, has a greater opportunity than has fallen to his lot for some time. Rosalind Russell is again impressive. She is going far. Robert Benchley does the best drunk the screen has ever seen.

Among the others of the perfect cast, there are particularly outstanding moments by William Henry, an up and coming juvenile, Dudley Digges, C. Aubrey Smith, Akim Tamiroff, Lilian Bond, Ivan Lebedeff and Edward Brophy.

Production is ace high in every department, and the photography of Ray June tops even his usual high standard. Several of his shots, the lighting on the bridge for instance, should be framed. The storm sequence is a technical wonder. Herbert Stothart's musical score also deserves your attention.

"China Seas" is sure to ring a merry tune on every cash register. It has everything.

And watch for the Preview of "ANNA KARENINA." Soon!

Court to Approve U. A. Stock Sale

expected to be signed and filed in court by Monday. No stockholders or creditors of Art Cinema opposed the sale today.

Several days ago U. A. approved of the block, as well as of another block of 1,000 shares owned by Joseph M. Schenck. The same price is to be paid for his holdings.

Control of the corporation upon retirement of the 2,000 shares will rest with Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and Samuel Goldwyn, each of whom owns 1,000 shares.

Art Cinema is a dissolved corporation. William Jasie, Dennis F. O'Brien, general counsel, and William Phillips, treasurer of U. A., were appointed trustees last October by Chancery Court. The trustees sought permission to sell the stock in a petition filed here two weeks ago. The petition stated they had received an offer in behalf of U. A. from Nathan Burkan, counsel for Miss Pickford, Chaplin and Goldwyn. It provided, however, that the Elton Corp., controlled by Fairbanks, have the right to purchase the stock at the same price if desired.

run, or day and date with either the Academy of Music or Jefferson.

The arbitration award, it was said, is subject either to vacating or confirmation by the court before it can be enforced. RKO is prepared to carry the case to the appellate division if the application to the lower court is unsuccessful, it was said. Contesting of the award will be made on the grounds that it is regarded by RKO as too severe and not in accordance with the evidence in the case. RKO's principal objection is directed at the damages awarded. Compliance with other parts of the arbitrators' decree would not be difficult if slight modifications could be obtained, it was said.

Refuse Texas Injunction

DALLAS, June 26.—U. S. District Court Judge William H. Atwell has refused an injunction sought by Fuller, a Palestine, Tex., exhibitor to prevent R. & R. Theatres and major distributors from carrying out an alleged conspiracy to prevent him from getting product.

The court ruled no proof of conspiracy had been shown, although it admitted sympathy with Fuller.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Broadway Gondolier"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—Dick Powell again demonstrates his magnetic talent and showmanship as a taxi driver tenor scaling the walls of a radio studio aided by a broken-down opera star (Adolphe Menjou) to become a singing sensation on a cheese hour.

As a stowaway Powell pursues Joan Blondell, secretary of Station Master Grant Mitchell. In Venice as a trilling gondolier Powell is discovered by Louise Fazenda, the widowed owner of Fliegenham cheese. Returned to America amid fanfare and publicity, and hailed as an Italian gondolier, Powell is unmasked, over the air tells the audience the truth, and becomes a sensation, marrying Miss Blondell before the mike as Miss Fazenda glows, having put romance in cheese. The tenor sings the Roquefort theme song.

Gay and hilarious, tuneful and showy, the film propels its idea with crisp freshness, the lilt of romance and laughter. While its plot details slacken the tempo in spots, this vivid, versatile production gives Powell plenty of chance to sing, love and clown. The production swings from Broadway to Venice lagoons and behind the mike of a radio station.

William Gargan, George Barbier and Hobart Cavanaugh support well. Ted Fio-Rito and his band and stooges entertain, and the Four Mills Brothers in a number with Powell are show-stoppers. Miss Fazenda's comedy as a lovesick widow is priceless.

Lloyd Bacon's direction embosses all values for audience reaction. The Warren and Dubin songs, particularly "I'm a Woman Hater," will be hummed. Sam Bischoff produced.

Powell's name in a smart comedy romance with novel backgrounds, should keep this hot and bankable at the box-office.

Production Code Seal No. 935. Running time, 95 minutes. "G."

"Lady Tubs"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—Rollicking farce, well played and directed, provides many laughs in this picture. Alice Brady, railroad camp cook, inherits a fortune from an English peer she befriended. Under the tutelage of Alan Mowbray she crashes the fashionable Long Island hunting set to match her niece, Anita Louise, with Douglass Montgomery. When nearly exposed as a phoney Miss Brady finds her hosts are of humble origin themselves and even planning a crooked financial deal. At a hunt dinner she receives the brush for catching the fox and all the plot angles are untangled for laughs as the lovers are united.

The smart screen play by Barry Trivers from the Homer Croy novel and Alan Crosland's direction keep things moving merrily. Hedda Hopper, Lumsden Hare and June Clayworth stand out in support, although the brunt of the picture is carried by Miss Brady and Mowbray.

The picture is Stanley Bergerman's curtain effort for the company and the production is a credit to him. An average entertainment, it should please along with a serious subject.

Production Code Seal No. 974. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

Peggy Libbee to Marry

U. S. Jury Bans 'Ecstasy'

A U. S. District Court jury yesterday found the Czecho-Slovakian film, "Ecstasy," to be obscene and unsuitable for exhibition. The verdict will be appealed to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals within the next 20 days, according to Henry Pearlman, attorney for Samuel Cummins, who bought two negatives for distribution in this country. The government initiated the action against Cummins to confiscate the negatives and destroy them.

The film was exhibited to the jury on Wednesday and it constituted the only exhibit introduced in the case.

CEA Adopts Resolution As Convention Ends

CARDIFF, Wales, June 27.—A drive on distributors to reduce percentage terms, the feature of the summer conference of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n. which closed its business sessions here tonight, is in the offing. Among steps taken was adoption of a strong resolution calling on American distributors to adhere to the letter of a promise made in 1931 to look after and to safeguard the interests of the small exhibitor. That pledge was to hold percentage pictures to 25 per cent, but with 50 per cent as top

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Continuance of the present 40 per cent exemption from the admission tax for two years was provided today when House and Senate conferees agreed on that period for the life of the resolution continuing the nuisance levies. The measure was immediately sent to the White House for the President's signature.

By rushing the resolution through, Congress saved the Government revenues which would have been lost had there been any delay, the taxes involved being scheduled to expire automatically on June 30.

Industry's Leaders Turn Out to Honor Al Lichtman

By J. M. JERAULD

It was one of those kind of crowds that United Artists likes to sell on a percentage basis. Al Lichtman admitted it after he had gulped a few times and partly mastered more emotion than he cared to display in public as he stood before an M. P. Club microphone yesterday.

It was something more than an Ampa tribute to a successful executive; it was an industry turnout with a half hundred or more late comers crowded in the corridors outside the dining room.

Charles C. Pettijohn epitomized the spirit of the gathering with blunt emphasis when he said: "Al Lichtman would rather be ribbed than flattered."

Lichtman seemed relieved by the break in a series of eulogies. Then

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IN person, or by communication, with the personal touch much in the preponderance, the industry in New York, which is like saying headquarters, went to town yesterday for Al Lichtman. The Motion Picture Club was jammed probably as never before and with an overflow that reached into the corridors and clustered around the elevators to hear what a formidable cluster of marquee names had to say about the president-designate of United Artists. . . .

In these days of banker penetration into the administrative end of the industry, the party for Al impressed as one of those "home town boy makes good" affairs. For Lichtman is part and parcel of this industry in which he has been an active figure, not always as important as now of course, for approximately twenty-five years. If congratulations are to be handed out, our inclination is to felicitate Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and Sam Goldwyn on the perspicacity which determined them to follow Joe Schenck with Lichtman. . . .

They've made no mistake. Lichtman has pronounced personal and business popularity. For years, he has been getting prices for product, good and bad, which frequently cause exhibitors to damn him and just as frequently to come back for more of the same treatment. His record on top price sales, computed over a period of seasons, is untouched by any other sales manager in the business. With Schenck allied to Fox, a United Artists without Lichtman, if that had been the producer-owners' decision, would have been a very sad company indeed. Pickford, Fairbanks, Chaplin and Goldwyn need Al far more than Lichtman needs them. . . .

Of the many complimentary things said about him yesterday, one of the nicest came from Sidney R. Kent, who failed to attend only because of detail in connection with formal signaturing of the 20th Century deal. As an added, if not a new commentary, on the self-effacement which is constantly his, Kent's message was typical:

"Please extend my greetings to Al Lichtman and tell him how sorry I am that I cannot be there. I feel that I owe Al a great deal. He was my original teacher and whatever I learned of distribution I got from him. If the pupil has been anything of a credit to the teacher, then I know that Al will be satisfied."

Pointing up an ironic circumstance, neatly and completely told by Martin Quigley in the current issue of Motion Picture Herald:

"Several months ago rumors were broadcast in the trade relative to profit-making operations of insiders connected somehow with the estate of the Paramount company, then in bankruptcy, growing out of speculation in the company bonds.

"Last week in a Federal commission hearing in Washington, it developed that certain bankers and brokers formed a bondholders' 'protective' committee, the members of which acquired ownership of bonds only after the formation of the committee and, presumably, after they had acquired inside information on the real worth and the probable future market value of the bonds.

"Here, then, is another item to be added to the already long list of instances of banks and brokers approaching the motion picture industry in a patronizing and superior manner and, immediately that the first chance presents itself, proceeding to display a brand of ethics that makes the attitude of their approach appear decidedly counterfeit."

Issuing no formal statement but commenting on the reports, very closely held, that Erpi would become autonomous, E. S. Bloom, recently elected president of that company succeeding John E. Otterson, denies—and categorically, mind you—that (1) there has been any sale and (2) that any is contemplated. The report, wending its way into Times Square from the once busy canyons of Wall Street, insisted Western Electric would dispose of Erpi to independent and new management, perhaps a la Graybar Electric, once W. E.-owned but now by its employes on a participating basis. Reason for the move presumably gyrates around a well-laid plan of A. T. and T. to get itself in shape for the Federal probe into its activities. . . .

Why, really, did Arthur and Dave Loew resign their directorships in Loew? You can hear almost anything you like if you care to listen, but there is republished now a very significant line from this selfsame space on Wednesday:

Dave says the reason ties in with a joint desire to relieve themselves of the responsibilities which couple with directors' jobs.

From this point on, the unraveling is yours. The answer lurks in those twenty-one words, but you'll have to look hard and dig deeply for it. . . .

Tax Damage Gains On Ontario Houses

the Strand, Hamilton, reported that the theatre recently registered a low record for a day's patronage in 16 years of operation.

Manager George Dunbar of the Kenilworth, Hamilton, said plans had been abandoned for remodeling the theatre this summer at an estimated cost of $25,000 because of decreased business due to the tax. Another Hamilton theatre called off a $2,000 decorating job for the same reason and labor unions are up in arms over the loss of employment.

Mayor P. J. Nolan of Ottawa is responsible for the statement that one exhibitor in the Canadian capital announced that he was absorbing the new tax out of regular admission returns and then reduced the wages of his employes.

Exhibitors in the border cities of Niagara Falls and Windsor have found that regular patrons are crossing over to neighboring cities in the United States for their film fare in order to escape the amusements tax which amounts to 25 per cent of low-priced admissions.

Local 306 contends the trouble is not an argument between unions, but between unions and exhibitors. The I.A.T.S.E. affiliate claims that both Allied and Empire are company unions.

No pickets have been arrested within the last few days on 42nd St., indicating that the situation is under control. More than 125 of the Local 306 sandwich men have been arrested and released.

As soon as Harland Holmden, who is supervising the local union under the international's jurisdiction, returns from St. Louis where the general executive board of I.A.T.S.E. affiliates has been meeting for the past 10 days, a session of the membership will be called to act upon the two per cent assessment voted at the St. Louis conclave.

Fox Met Plan Given Court's Full Sanction

movers" in the Fox Met reorganization, had been unsuccessful despite repeated efforts to bring them before the committee for questioning. Levy said that if the court deferred its ruling on the plan for one week the Sabath committee believed it could complete its investigation within that time and bring its findings before the court for consideration.

Judge Mack held that it was his belief that the Sabath committee had been designated to investigate reorganizations in order to recommend to Congress the enactment of appropriate legislation to correct reorganization abuses. He refused to grant the delay in the confirmation of the plan on the grounds that the court had already conducted an exhaustive investigation of the reorganization plan before it and that a new delay might prove injurious to Fox Met creditors. He pointed out that there were grand juries and other agencies empowered to act at any time on evidence of improprieties in the Fox Met reorganization, if such evidence were uncovered by the Sabath committee.

Board Nominees Are Listed

Judge Mack, however, declared that if any improprieties were shown to have been committed by any of those proposed for membership on the new Fox Met board he would act on the right reserved for him in the reorganization plan to veto any member of the board. The proposed board membership is Schenck, Herbert B. Swope, William P. Phillips, Samuel S. Allan, Milton C. Weisman, and William Rhinelander Stewart. The court's action in denying further delay in the confirmation of the plan was influenced considerably by the large amount of creditor assents received for the plan. Holders of more than $10,900,000 of the $12,500,000 of Fox Met notes outstanding, or 87½ per cent, approved the plan, and more than $6,300,000 of the $7,735,000 of general creditors, or 81 per cent, approved the plan. Only 66 2/3 per cent of each class of creditors is required.

It was disclosed at the hearing that after disbursements to Fox Met noteholders provided for in the plan out of cash on hand there would be approximately $425,000 remaining, which will be applied to a dividend for unsecured creditors after deduction of reorganization expenses. The dividend is expected to be approximately five per cent, with lawyers' fees and other reorganization costs amounting to about $150,000 to $200,000.

A hearing date for approval of final steps in the reorganization was set for July 5. Judge Mack leaves for a European vacation shortly thereafter and will be away until Oct. 1. During his absence Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey will preside.

English Move to Get Cut in Percentages

when the gross exceeded a previously determined figure. The C. E. A. attitude is that, while some distributors have consistently adhered to their promises, others have just as consistently ignored it. United Artists was specifically mentioned as one company which allegedly had walked out on its word.

To handle the general situation, there were several suggestions. One included a three months' booking embargo on those distributors who refused to stand by the agreement of four years ago.

The rental problem, which is looming more and more importantly in British exhibition circles, was picked up from another angle by Thomas Ormiston, M. P., who read a paper titled "Cinema Costs and Hire" at today's session. Pre-war theatres, he declared, had earned 15 per cent on their capital investments because rentals then ran only from 20 to 25 per cent of the receipts. He said the only chance for a survival of the small man was to persuade distributors to hold their prices to 20 per cent for the average programmer with an absolute top of 33 1-3 per cent on specials. Smaller theatres should be permitted to band together in booking combinations without incurring the displeasure of the Kinematograph Renters' Society of which all distributors are members, Ormiston held.

Presents Exhibition Statistics

Interesting statistics on the English exhibition business were divulged in "Little Man, What Now?", a paper read by H. V. Davis. Sixty-nine per cent of the 4,287 theatres are small houses with an average seating capacity of 660 while jointly their seats run to 51 per cent of the nation's total, he said. In 1,250 theatres, the average weekly gross is $250 or less. He too, charged the 1931 agreement with the K.R.S. on the percentage limitation governing deals with smaller theatres had not been respected by many distributors.

Ormiston, as a remedy, urged that C.E.A. pressure be brought to bear on distributors individually to adopt their own association's agreement on percentage terms covering the little man. He also made the point that specials should not be used to force bad pictures.

"The British Board of Film Censors today is looked upon as the mother of censorship, and censors from all parts of the world without exception affirm the system in this country as the best that could be devised," declared the Right Hon. E. E. Shortt, K.C., president of the board.

Referring to the one-time flow of undesirable films from America, he added he was convinced there was no sinister move behind them as he said some had imagined but that they merely represented a passing phase of life which Hollywood had recorded. He did, however, deprecate the increase of horror films and said licensing authorities were disturbed about their frequency.

He also criticized the new type of American films showing punitive Federal methods. "In a new variation, the whole gangster gamut is as prominently displayed as of yore. I trust we shall not have a recrudescence of these subjects. Their influence is unwholesome," he concluded.

The Camera Was Candid

The old and the new shake hands. Joseph M. Schenck, former president of United Artists, wishing Al Lichtman, president-designate, well. The profile between them belongs to Martin Quigley, while on the left is a glimpse, just that, of Darryl F. Zanuck. Photographed at the Ampa luncheon for Lichtman at the M. P. Club yesterday.

Industry's Leaders Turn Out to Honor Al Lichtman

an uncomfortable look returned to his face as Pettijohn went on:

"Some men can get to the top on their own fighting efforts, but to stay there they need the affection and support of the rank and file of their fellow-workers"—and he turned toward the guest of honor—"and I want to say to you, Al, that you have that as few men have."

The lineup on the dais was a roster of industry figures: Joseph M. Schenck, Earle W. Hammons, Darryl F. Zanuck, H. M. Goetz, Maury Silverstone, Martin Quigley, Jack Alicoate, Jack Cohn, Louis Nizer, Nate Spingold, Arthur Dent, E. C. Grainger, Pettijohn, Abe Montague, Harry Thomas, Arthur Lee, Arthur Stebbins, Bill Goetz, Bill German, Phil Reisman, Bruce Gallup and James Loughborough of the Federal Housing Administration. Others were scattered through the crowd.

The speeches might have lasted all day if somebody hadn't originated the idea of blowing a whistle when these called upon had a half minute to go on a three-minute limit. A gong cut them short 30 seconds later. No gongs were sounded for Bob Howard, colored radio singer, or for Armida and Mary Osborne, singers.

Hammons said Lichtman had told him shorts were the best part of a program, so he made his talk well inside the whistle limit. Zanuck got the whistle, but was inside the gong.

Zanuck gave Lichtman credit for "great leadership and valuable assistance" in making 20th Century a success, and told the new United Artists president with some feeling that he "would miss him."

"I think I express what is in the hearts of everyone of us," said Quigley, "when I tell you, Al, that we have a high regard and affection for you. I know that you are a top line executive and that you will always be a top line executive."

Schenck's talk was a blend of quiet humor and deep seriousness. "I've known Al Lichtman for 20 years," he said. "He has all the elements needed for success in this business. He's a good gambler; he likes the girls, and he knows how to get the money from exhibitors.

"While I was president of United Artists he did my work and his, too, and now I know he will do the work of both of us without me as well as he did with me. There is a spot in this industry for United Artists, and he will see that the company fills it successfully."

Arthur Dent praised Lichtman as a man who had proved that British pictures could be sold profitably in this country along with American pictures. He was just getting into another phase of his talk when the whistle blew. He smiled and finished his sentence, and was just starting to say: "I want to tell you a story—" when the gong sounded. Dent gave up. It was a technical knockout. Dash it all!

Alicoate got up to introduce the next speaker. "I want to tell you a story," he began. The whistle and gong sounded simultaneously. He looked down and discovered his brother, Charles, had done it. "All right, you mugg," he flashed. Then he introduced Nizer who praised Lichtman for his good nature under stress, his philosophy and adherence to ideals, and his balanced judgment.

"You take the presidency of United Artists with the best wishes of all these united friends of yours," he said.

Lichtman began by saying that when he came in the heavy attendance made him feel it might be a protest meeting because of the selection of the club's team in the last Film Daily golf tournament. His efforts to speak lightly masked an obvious emotion. During his talk he expressed his gratitude to Schenck for having "given me an opportunity when I needed it, when a lot of people in this industry were ready to count me out."

"My work with him (Schenck) has been a labor of love," he went on.

Lichtman said that unlike some historic partings in the industry the parting of United Artists and 20th Century had been most friendly. He said 20th Century wanted to expand on a scale that did not fit with the U. A. policy of selling a limited number of pictures on their individual merits.

At the close of the speechmaking the assemblage stood for a half minute in silent tribute to Lee A. Ochs.

It was announced that John E. Otterson would be the guest of honor at the first fall Ampa meeting on Sept. 15.

a deficiency of $2,526 and a fraud penalty of $1,263 imposed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on his 1930 return.

Wayburn claimed a deduction of some $22,000 for which he had no records. Much of the entertaining was done at his home, and the board, unable to secure any separation of entertainment and household expenses, compromised by allowing him $12,000 and tacking the rest on his income.

Two other items were involved in the case, one of $6,400 and the other of $3,762, which Wayburn accepted as income because he could not prove otherwise.

The board dismissed the charge of fraud, declaring that his faults were those of omission and that the commissioner had not proven any desire or attempt to evade tax.

six large neighborhood houses is seen in the calling off of a sympathy strike against a circuit controlling eight theatres under a truce between the Cinematographic Employes' Union and employers.

The Federal board of conciliation and arbitration is trying to bring peace between the union and the operators of the six closed houses. It is estimated that up to June 25 the strike, called to enforce demands for increased salaries and reinstatement of 25 doormen allegedly dismissed without justification, although the employers give poor business as the reason for the dismissals, cost the theatre operators upward of $25,000.

"If Code Authority is to be made up equally of buyers and sellers, yes," said Frank Lydon, also a former member of the clearance and zoning board. "Otherwise I am opposed to a voluntary code. I believe a voluntary code should be along the lines proposed by Allied. There should be some place to go to straighten out difficulties."

Lydon operates the Hamilton in Dorchester.

"We should have a voluntary code," declared William McLaughlin, operator of the Stoneham at Stoneham, "but there should be balanced power in the code board setups."

Don Martin, operator of the Park, was another who said he was opposed to any code.

Some of those questioned wanted some form of regulation guaranteeing cancellations, but had no interest in any other phase of industry control.

Court Demands Bond For Impounded Film

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Warners today won a point in a copyright infringement suit when the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that a lower court could not impound a film unless the plaintiff posted a bond adequate to pay the defendant in case he should lose the case.

The decision was on an appeal brought by Warners in a suit by M. P. Echevarria, who charged that Warners used his story, "Milias Pilias," as the basis of an old silent picture, "Across the Pacific," starrng Monte Blue.

"In Caliente"

(First National)

Fun in Mexico is the idea here. Never strong in story content, "In Caliente" is a pleasant enough, if undistinguished, melange of merry goings on and love under a tropical moon. It is a typical Warner musical which is to say it has tinkling music, a long array of good-looking chorines, sumptuous settings, a colorful background and Edward Everett Horton, who stands out in a comedy role which gives the attraction virtually all of its many laughs.

In it you get Pat O'Brien as a likable, but harum-scarum, hard-drinking magazine publisher whose love life precipitates him rapidly into one scrape after another. It appears to be Horton's job to get him out of New York in order to get him away from Glenda Farrell. They go to Caliente.

There O'Brien meets and falls with a thud for Dolores Del Rio, who is photographed in a manner most adequately and correctly described as breath-taking. Horton gets himself mixed up, as usual, and employs Miss Del Rio to distract O'Brien's thoughts from Miss Farrell, blondes and New York. Dolores goes through with it when she learns it was O'Brien who put her on a critical hot spot at her last dancing engagement in the big town. It straightens out and O'Brien gets his Del Rio.

"The Lady in Red," already frequently sung and played over the radio, is a lavish and well-handled number with Wini Shaw doing the warbling. "Muchacha," the second big production number, also clicks, although the song lyrics are rather juvenile.

A highlight is a crackerjack dance number by the De Marcos.

Lloyd Bacon directed in workmanlike manner. His cast, all good, included Leo Carrillo, Phil Regan, William Davidson, Harry Holman, Herman Bing (funny in a bit), Olive Jones and Judy Canova.

Production Code Seal No. 729. Running time, 84 minutes. "G."

Plans Are Set for Jamaica Production

H. William Fitelson of the law firm of Fitelson and Mayer has completed plans for the formation of a British producing company to be located in Jamaica and it is expected these plans will be accepted shortly by Audley Morais and H. G. DeLisser, who are behind the project.

Both Morais and DeLisser are native Jamaicans, the former owning all of the theatres on the island and the latter a well known author and newspaper publisher, all of whose papers are in Jamaica.

No name has been picked for the company as yet and it is expected the capitalization of the new organization will be about $1,000,000.

Present plans call for the construction of studios on the island and the first picture, on which work is expected to start shortly, will be "The White Witch," from the novel of the same name by DeLisser. American and British actors and actresses will be engaged, and deals are under way now for the picture to be handled both here and in England by the same company.

Para. Board Meets; No Statement Made

Paramount yesterday declined to issue any statement following meetings of the board and executive committee.

Among the business which was on schedule for the meetings was consideration of John E. Otterson's five-year contract as president of Paramount at $100,000 per year. The board was also slated to act on the nomination of R. E. Anderson, treasurer of Erpi, for the post of financial vice president of Paramount.

KMTA Names Board To Hear Grievances

complaints filed by organization members. The action was taken at the suggestion of Frank Cassil of St. Joseph.

The grievance board will sift for facts any grievance case brought before it and pressure will be brought to bear through the organization on those found to be responsible for situations arising out of unfair trade practices. At the suggestion of C. A. Schultz of Commonwealth Theatres all exhibitors will be apprised of the board's findings in every case.

Exhibitors at the meeting were enthusiastic about the plan. One said it would increase the membership of the organization 100 per cent immediately. Another said it would do much to clear "the fog of suspicion and mutual distrust" between exhibitors and distributors.

John Stapel was reelected president of the organization at the meeting. R. R. Biechele was reelected secretary-treasurer, and E. B. Danielson was elected vice-president for the Kansas unit. Thomas Edwards was elected chairman of the board and A. J. Simmons, a board member for Missouri. Kansas directors are Danielson, Homer Strowig, E. O. Briles, C. L. McVey and Biechele. Other Missouri directors are Cassil, Stapel, Edwards and Simmons.

On reconsideration of a move for the organization's affiliation with a national exhibitor organization, the meeting today voted an alliance with M. P. T. O. A. No heat developed during a discussion of advertising in films, exhibitors present regarding the matter as of no moment even though instances of some shorts and newsreels which contained advertising matter were cited.

Promotion of giveaways was not brought before the meeting because of the exhibitor attitude that the subject was a matter for individual or local decision. A plan of district meetings for the K. M. T. A. is to be worked out by the directors to stimulate interest in the organization and, in particular, to handle legislative matters.

Contract Let For New Coast Radio Station

Will Adjoin RKO Studio; Aylesworth's Idea

Plans for a broadcasting station in the center of production, promised by M. H. Aylesworth almost two years ago, began to crystallize yesterday with the awarding of a contract to Herbert J. Yates, president of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., to build it on a lot adjacent to the Radio plant in Hollywood.

The move ties in directly with Aylesworth's oft-expressed ideas about the potentialities of a working arrangement between the industry and radio. He has felt for some time that the industry would do well to shake off what appears to be its inherent

"No More Ladies" $47,000 1st Week

"No More Ladies" garnered a nice $47,000 at the Capitol during its first week and will approximate about $35,000 for its second stanza. The second week of "Becky Sharp" ended with $67,750 at the Music Hall. This is about $18,000 off from the first week's take.

The Roxy, with "Charlie Chan in Egypt," grossed a profitable $25,000, and the Palace, with "Goin' to Town," was weak at $8,000. The Paramount wound up the second week of "The Glass Key" with $16,000, showing a profit for the house. "Paris in Spring" follows "Men Without Names," now current. "Accent on Youth" goes in July 12 for what is expected to be a four-week run.

The plan for the Hollywood broadcasting center has been broached by the NBC president several times. The contract let to Yates, therefore, marks the inception of the first definite step toward consummation of an idea which apparently Aylesworth has had in mind since he first announced his intention in Hollywood about two years ago.

The new studio will center in the one plant the activities of NBC. From it, radio stars engaged for pictures will do their broadcasting. From it, as well, film stars will conduct their programs in what Aylesworth yesterday repeated he hoped would be a definite coalition between radio and films.

The construction job is scheduled to be completed Oct. 1.

The Italian films are somewhat popular in New York and New Jersey. This is the French-made picture with English sub-titles. "Pech-Marie," the all-German talker with Jenny Jugo, has had one local showing.

Anthony Ricci, who was with Fox for a number of years as New Jersey salesman before he joined the local Hollywood exchange, is back with Fox at the local branch handling the foreign films in Greater New York. He has already closed a number of deals for Italian and Spanish subjects.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Mad Love"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—Peter Lorre's first American role as a surgeon vacillating between irresistible impulses to harm and heal reveals him as potentially a big box-office bet. The rather heavy, horror plot, however, is based on a premise fantastic enough to fascinate but not convince.

Frances Drake, star of a theatre specializing in horror plays, is the object of Lorre's psychopathic passion, although she is the bride of Colin Clive, concert pianist. Clive's hands are crushed in an accident. Miss Drake banishes her repulsion for Lorre and begs his aid. Lorre grafts the hands of a guillotined knife thrower on Clive. The hands retain the murderous impulse to fling knives as Lorre's power of suggestion traps Clive into the conviction of insanity.

The impact of the first part of the film is terrific due to the superb acting, direction, photography and eerie incident. May Beatty is outstanding as a tipsy slattern. Sarah Haden scores as a loyal maid. Miss Drake, Clive, Edward Brophy as the knife thrower and Ted Healy as a comic reporter are all excellent.

Henry Kolker, Isabel Jewell, Keye Luke, Murray Kinnell and Rollo Lloyd support well. Production by John W. Considine, Jr., is handsome. Karl Freund's direction is brilliant, but arty. Guy Endore adapted with the screen play by P. J. Wolfson and John L. Balderston. Chester Lyon's photography enhances the macabre mood.

The film will undoubtedly be trimmed. Audiences liking horror should go for this with Lorre sticking in the memory for the future. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 82 minutes. "A."

"Accent on Youth"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—Sophistication keynotes this comedy-drama of love between a middle-aged playwright and his youthful secretary.

Herbert Marshall, successful and debonair, suddenly discovers Sylvia Sidney loves him. Her love expressed on the eve of his departure abroad is the exact situation he needs for a play. Abandoning plans for the foreign jaunt with Astrid Allwyn, he produces the play and casts Miss Sidney in the lead. About to marry her when the show closes, he finds Phillip Reed, juvenile in his play, also loves her. Stepping aside graciously he encourages marriage between the pair. After a honeymoon highlighted by Reed's fondness for athletics, Miss Sidney decides life with him is too strenuous and returns to Marshall.

Claude Binyon's and Herbert Field's screen play develops the picture as delightfully as Samson Raphaelson's stage original of the same title.

Marshall gives charm to his character and arouses constant audience sympathy. Miss Sidney makes her part believable. Direction by Wesley Ruggles extracts the most from the situations and dialogue. Douglas McLean's production is first rate.

In support, Ernest Cossart as a butler and Holmes Herbert as an actor are particularly good.

The picture should please nicely as adult entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 861. Running time, 83 minutes. "A."

"The Man on the Flying Trapeze"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—W. C. Fields, that grand comic, plays an applejack-swigging memory expert henpecked by his wife and in-laws.

Burglars in the cellar discover his private stock. Fields joins them in a tipsy serenade and ends in the hoosegow.

To get away from the office for the big wrestling match Fields announces his mother-in-law's purely fictitious death. The rest of the film details his struggle with the family, cops, flat tires and other grim circumstances conspiring to detain him from the match. No love story is evident.

Mary Brian, Kathleen Howard, Grady Sutton, Lucien Littlefield, Vera Lewis, Oscar Apfel, David Clyde, Tammany Young, Walter Brennan, Arthur Aylesworth and "Man Mountain" Dean support. The story, by Charles Bogle (Fields himself) and Sam Hardy, has been directed by Clyde Bruckman as a William LeBaron production. The picture is not always a happy one in point of entertainment content except when Fields is on the screen.

Production Code Seal No. 945. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

United Theatres' 18 neighborhood houses, also was silent.

Henry Lazarus was voluble, however. He said: "It was a godsend that the NRA code was found unconstitutional. This code, controlled by the big interests, was right up their alley. Without molestation from the government, they went right along, getting stronger and stronger.

"In my opinion the farther the independent theatre owner stays away from codes, the better off he will be. Experience proves that what we need is teeth in the Sherman anti-trust law."

Wanger Will Finish Three in Two Weeks

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—Walter Wanger will have the last three pictures on his current schedule for Paramount release finished within two weeks.

Aubrey Scotto finished shooting "Smart Girl" on a 14-day schedule, and now is cutting preparatory to a preview early next week. The release date is set tentatively for July 26. Raoul Walsh is cutting "Every Night at Eight," which will be released about Aug. 9. "Shanghai," featuring Loretta Young and Charles Boyer, is ready for release about July 19.

Wanger still is dickering over the terms of his new schedule of six for Paramount release. If he signs with Paramount, he will work at General Service Studios, and will take Jack Daily of the Paramount advertising department with him to head his own press department.

It is understood that if Paramount does not meet his terms, Wanger will move to United Artists and produce for Mary Pickford.

Looking 'Em Over

"She"

(Radio)

An impressive mixture of horror-thriller, mystery story and spectacle has been compounded of H. Rider Haggard's story. It is staged on a magnificent scale.

The story proceeds at a measured pace for about three quarters of its course and then builds to a startling climax when Randolph Scott saves Helen Mack from death in a mystic ceremony.

The picture is a triumph of set construction. The impossible begins to seem real after a time. Scott, who resembles an ancestor who had lived 500 years before, goes off into the Arctic with Nigel Bruce looking for a mysterious volcanic fire that insures immortality. They get the help of a Siberian hermit and his daughter (Helen Mack). The first spectacle comes when they start an ice avalanche that uncovers an entrance into a vast cave heated by volcanic gases.

After a fantastic attack by unclad natives they are ushered into the palace of Helen Gahagan, who has tested the fire of immortality and has ruled for 500 years. She mistakes Scott for his ancestor and thinks he is her lover returned. She is jealous of Miss Mack, of course, and almost accomplishes her purpose of having her sacrificed.

In the big escape scene Scott, Miss Mack and Bruce leap across a chasm that makes spectators squirm in their seats. Women utter mild screams when the pursuers begin to fall.

It ought to be box-office, with the same basic appeal that "King Kong" had. Merian C. Cooper, who produced "Kong," also produced this one.

Production Code Seal 985. Running time, 102 minutes. "G."

Cut 30 from Studio Correspondent List

HOLLYWOOD, June 28.—Thirty names were stricken from the studio press correspondent list by publicity executives at a meeting in the Hays office. This reduces the total from 280 to 250.

Those eliminated were judged on their degree of activity, importance of publication and circulation which, as announced previously, must exceed 25,000. The committee also decided to withhold all stills showing outer rims of sets, thus destroying illusion. Stills showing equipment on sets were okayed.

Action against Modern Screen for printing stories regarded as detrimental was withheld following receipt of a letter from the editor, Mary Burgman, promising future cooperation.

Cincy Praises "Sharp"

CINCINNATI, June 28.—Critics were lavish in their praise of "Becky Sharp" at the RKO Palace, the dailies devoting columns of space to the color effects.

The picture is doing a nice business, and building. It will be held a second week, the first holdover at this house for the past two or three years.

Flint's Auditorium Is Put on Tax Roll

FLINT, MICH., June 28.—Exhibitors here won another skirmish in the battle with the I. M. A., an association composed of automotive workers, when they succeeded in having the auditorium placed on the tax rolls for a personal property assessment of $50,000. Heretofore, the building has been tax free, being listed as a charitable organization.

The I. M. A. case became a city issue when theatre men appealed from the Board of Review decision, because the I. M. A. staged a walkathon in the large auditorium, where the association has given film shows—which have been a thorn in the side of local exhibitors for years.

Reid Albee Gains

LARCHMONT, N. Y., June 28.—Reid Albee, who is successfully fighting a serious streptococci condition, is still seriously ill. Since his return from Chicago about a week ago, his general condition has responded to medical treatment. While his complete recovery is viewed by his doctors as assured, it will be some time before his health is again normal.

Here's How to Film a Ban

Jacobs and a deal was negotiated for the film rights. Contracts were signed Thursday afternoon and late that night a deal was entered into with Loew's.

Because of the racial question, Loew's is not showing the films in its southern theatres. Because of censorship problem in Ohio, Loew had to submit a print which showed up there despite the Federal law against out-of-state shipments to the censor board before it could be exhibited in Columbus and Cleveland.

The showing of the fight films in Loew houses locally is regarded as a clean beat over RKO which, up to this fight, has been exhibiting pictures of all the big fistic contests exclusively.
